What Parents Fear.

Many persons—especially parents—object to many quack nostrums as likely to engender or encourage a love for strong drink. They are right. Better die of disease than of drunkenness. The use of Parker's Tonic does not involve this danger. It not only builds up the system, curing all ailments of the stomach, liver and kidneys, but it stimulates without intoxicating and absolutely cures the appetite for liquor.

—The Scotchman who tumbled off a bicycle says that in the future he intends to "let wheel enough alone."

Charles A. Roberts, of East Wilson, N. Y., had thirteen scrofulous ulcers on his face and neck. Hood's Sarsaparilla cured them.

The evidence in the cases of Second Mate Rauscher and Boatswain Koelpin of the American ship I. F. Chapman, who were arrested at Birkenhead, England, recently, on a charge of having murdered a Russian seaman named Jansen, shows that the defendants daily struck and kicked the deceased; that one cold morning they lashed him to the topsail sheets for two hours, with his hands tied in front of him; that he moaned piteously to be cut down, and that next morning he was insensible and soon died.

Read what Samuel G. Stiness, Supt. of Pawtucket Gas Co., Pawtucket, R. I., under date of Dec. 18, 1884, says:—"I have used Dr. Seth Arnold's Cough Killer for several years and consider it the best as a positive cure for a cold, and possessing all the merit claimed for it."

A year ago Pleasant Anderson was acquitted of the murder of Chris McAllister at Blakesburg, Iowa, although circumstantial evidence was against him. On the night of Dec. 29th he was taken from his home by masked men, carried to the scene of McAllister's murder, and hanged to a tree, protesting his innocence to the last.

The New Year.

Silent and white
Thro' the dim night
Now fast, now slow,
Marking the pace
Like shooted ghosts,
Holding the woods
In much finer goods
Than ever were spun by mortal skill
And bleached on the sunny side of the hill.
Fringes were wove by weavers, whose
The warp is mist and the woof is air;
The world is dressed like a bride in white,
Although the poor old year died last night.

Drop not a tear
On the cold bier
Whose corpse is here.
His work is done,
And battles won,
And he will be Named with the free
Through future time
For deeds sublime.
We welcome here
The new-born year.
The snow that falls
From the gray walls
Of the black clouds
Is not for shrouds
For the dead flat,
Or the years dead;
'Tis the white fleece,
Emblem of peace,
Set down to cheer
The soft young year.
So ring the soft
Sweet bells aloft,
Of the good time.
Ring loud and clear
For this New Year.

JOHN HENRY'S NEW YEAR.

John Henry was a boy of not more than five years of age. He lived in a dark, alley, over which he sometimes saw the blue sky on the dull clouds, but oftener only dingy coal smoke. His mother was a hard worker but she took pretty good care of him. They lived alone in a single room. When she could she took him with her, but it frequently happened that he was left alone in the room all day with his dinner set out for him on the table. On such occasions he would watch the little clock patiently, and when the short hand began to near a certain figure he knew that he had not much longer to wait and he would press his nose against the window pane and watch each shadowy figure as it passed.

The day before the New Year seemed longer than usual. In the first place, his dinner was scanty and he was hungry when his mother set it out for him on the little tin plate. As she stopped to bid him good-by he noticed tears in her eyes, and though he said nothing at the time, he began to wonder as the day wore on what it all meant. The hands on the clock never moved so slow before. He ate his insufficient meal earlier than usual, and wished there was another one. Then he thought of the great stores down-town and the windows filled with beautiful things, and wondered if there was no way in which he could get into them. The markets and groceries in particular rose up before him in his vision like veritable heavens.

His mind dwelt on what he had seen only a few weeks ago when he was down-town with his mother—how nearly every one they met was carrying home huge bundles, and that his mother told him they contained turkeys for the Thanksgiving dinners of the rich. Only a few days ago nearly every one he had seen passing along the streets was loaded down with large packages which he was told contained Christmas presents of toys and other playthings for children. John Henry did not so much care for these as he did for something to eat. The pangs of hunger were superior to the desire for amusement and his mind reverted to turkeys. He thought he would know a turkey if he saw one. Then he began to wonder and think as he never had before. In some of the long and bitter days and nights that he had passed with his mother he remembered that in her prayers and instruction she had told him that the great God had said "Ask and ye shall receive." She had asked many times and he had seen no return. He never had asked because he had not seen anybody to ask, and he wondered how his mother could expect to get the things she asked for when she only talked into vacancy. Alas, that the whispered prayers of millions, answered maybe in ways that they know not of, should from older lips than this provoke similar marvelling.

There was only one thing to be done, he thought, and that he proceeded to do. It was disobedience, but he believed that his mother when she returned hungry and tired would forgive him. It was plain to his mind that she had not gone about things in the right way. Bundling himself up in a well-worn shawl, for he had no overcoat, he ran down the alley, the frosty air making his little frame quake, and gaining the brilliantly lighted street he stood along peering into windows until he came to a market. With his mother's words ringing in his ears and with a faith sublime in its simplicity he raised the latch with difficulty and walking straight to the big man behind the block said:

"Will you please give me a turkey?"

"Got any money?"

"No, sir."

"Who is it for?"

"For me and mother."

"Get out of this, you little devil!" and the man made a motion as if to chase him. The boy retreated toward the door and pressed on. In a dozen places he repeated his query, and as he grew colder and his teeth began to chatter he made up his mind that perhaps after all his mother knew best. Maybe she had tried all these places and met with no better success than he. He would have turned back, but he saw one great market ahead, larger, handsomer, and more brilliantly lighted than any he had yet seen. There were beautiful carriages and horses with liveried drivers in front of it, and through the frosted windows he could see many fine ladies and gentleman and some richly dressed children.

Everybody turned as the queer little fellow entered, and when his blue lips parted to ask the oft-used question everybody heard it.

"Have you any money?" was the reply, but in a kinder tone.

Once more the answer came "No," and then, with an effort, "I have asked everywhere, and if I don't get it now I'm going home."

The market man looked at him curiously, wondering what to make of him. Was it a child's freak or was he the crafty emissary of an older good-for-nothing—a wolf in sheep's clothing?

One of the gentlemen who had been an interested listener stooped down and felt of the lad, withdrawing his hand quickly and saying:

"God bless the child. He's all of a tremor and he is not half clothed. Who do you want a turkey for? Come here and get warm."

"Mother and me wants it," came in a piping voice. "We ain't got any, and mother's at work, and I thought maybe I'd get one if I asked for it."

"So you shall. So you shall," said the man. "Give me the biggest bird you've got, Tom, right away, and I'll take it home with this child at once."

The turkey that was made ready looked bigger than John Henry, and when the three were in the carriage the coachman drove rapidly down-town. It was a great day for John Henry. He answered his companion's questions as best he could, but he kept a close watch on the streets and alleys. Finally the buildings began to look familiar, and he at last broke out with—

"Here it is! Here it is! Please stop him and I'll run home."

The gentleman stopped the carriage; got out and helped the boy down the dreary alley to his cheerless room. The fire in the cook stove had burned low and the room was dark. The man lighted the lamp which his little companion gave him and was evidently pleased to witness the tidy though barren aspect of the place. John Henry's mother had not returned, which fact pleased him, but not the visitor.

"You may tell your mother that some of my folks will be here in a day or two, my boy. I will not wait any longer now. You and your mother eat the turkey and have a feast. There are others where that came from."

When his companion had gone the child turned down the lamp and blew it out and resumed his place at the window. Once or twice he thought he heard his mother's footsteps, but they died away on the pavement. He was hungry and cold and impatient. A dozen times he moved his chair up to the little clock and felt of the hands. It was getting late—later than usual for his mother to be out, and he began to feel a choking sensation. What if she should not come? Of what use would be a big uncooked turkey to a small boy shivering with the exposure he had undergone and weak from hunger?

Just as he had about made up his mind that she had been lost and would never come back the door opened, and a dark figure entered.

"Oh, mamma! mother! I'm glad you've come. I'm hungry and cold."

"Yes; my child, we are both hungry and cold, but I am helpless. I waited for the money to-day a long time, but didn't get it and then I had to walk two miles to borrow a little. We will have something to eat pretty soon."

When the lamp was lighted the mother stirred the fire and sat down to warm herself, holding the child in her lap with an embrace so tight that he struggled once or twice to free himself, while hot tears rolled down her sunken cheeks. In after years if he remembers that hour he will know what that long, lingering pressure meant, the silence that was more eloquent than words.

Not a word had been said about his adventure or the turkey. The great bird had been carefully stowed away in the closet and the boy looked toward the closed door frequently as if expecting to see the fowl walk out and say something. How would he explain?

Presently he said: "We have got a turkey."

"No, we cannot have a turkey, Johnny," was the reply, "but we will have something else right away. I will go out now and get it."

"But I say we've got one now," said John Henry, jumping down from her lap. "It's here in the closet," and he threw the door open, standing at one side, his eyes sparkling with pride and pleasure.

"Why, where did this come from? How did you get it? Who brought it here?"

Her questions came with such rapidity and seriousness that the boy began to be afraid.

"I just asked for it, mother, as you ask for things when you kneel with me; only I went to the stores where they kept them and asked and asked and asked ever so many times, until finally I found a man who gave it to me and brought it here. I was awful cold and I was afraid I'd get lost, but the man brought me home and said his folks would be here to-morrow or next day. What are you crying about? Oh, I'm sorry I did it. I won't any more."

The mother learned from him little by little the whole story of his adventure, the rough words, the gruff refusals, the bitter suspicions, and the long walk in the freezing night air, and alternately kissed and hugged him, laughed and cried.

"What could have put it into your head to be a beggar? My child, it was begging to do that, and we have never begged before."

He said nothing for a minute and then answered: "You taught me to pray and have said that if we would ask we would receive. I did ask and God kept his word."

At night when the child was asleep the mother stood by his side and stroking his hair tenderly said in a voice scarcely audible: "If, then, God so clothe the grass which is to-day in the field, and to-morrow is cast into the oven, how much more will he clothe you, O ye of little faith!"

The kind man was as good as his word. His wife and daughters called the next morning bringing with them, warm clothing and some wines and other dainties, besides toys for John Henry, who could scarcely believe his eyes as he joyously saw them unwrapped and placed before him. The New Year for him was full of joy and happiness, and his mother's heart was gladdened by the promise of remunerative work for the future. Thus happily ended John Henry's New Years' adventure.

HAPPY NEW YEAR.

Standing upon the threshold of the new year, in addition to our promise to our readers that the paper we shall send them in '85 shall receive our best efforts in their behalf, we wish them a HAPPY NEW YEAR.

We bid good bye to our old friend of '84, which has been lively with its political contests and its many incidents of public interest, and look at our new relation with hopeful anticipations. We shall make no rash promises or impractical resolves, but shall endeavor to extend to our patrons acceptable results of our labors. Some of our readers have been daily visited by us for many years, while others later have sought our acquantance, and have been content to enjoy our calls and our endeavors to cater for their information.

Then too there is the goodly number who read, often with liberal criticism, just as if they paid anything toward the support of the paper,—the class who look over the paper in the stores, reading-rooms, hotels, or in the houses of their more liberal neighbors. These are always the hardest class of readers to please; not that the editor endeavors to please such persons, but as non-subscribers they owe no debt of loyalty to the paper they read, and they seek to become square for the reading they pilfer by liberal abuse of the papers from which they extract their daily newspaper nourishment. Still, this body of non-supporting adherents, like the inevitable bummer who accompanies the army on its march, must be fed and cared for; but it is for the cheery volunteer who comes in at New Year's and readily renews his subscription, and extends a word of cordial commendation, that we labor day and night. It is for the subscriber who does not hesitate to affirm that he "cannot do without the paper," like the man over in York county, who essayed the experiment of stopping the Gazette and taking a paper published somewhere in Maine. "At the end of the first week," said he, "things looked pretty glum in our house, and I used to go down to the store evenings to keep out of the way. The girls, too,—they missed the paper awfully, and how they did complain. The second week things had come to such a pass that I made up my mind to come to town and renew my subscription, and see if we can have peace in the family." Since then our Maine friend has been a constant reader and a prompt subscriber, and happiness has been seen in his home.

We shall endeavor to merit the hearty support of our patrons in the future, and in this our annual greeting to our readers, we renew our wishes for that contented and happy existence toward the attainment of which so much is achieved by the constant perusal of the papers with which we shall continue to supply them.

Exhibition of Inventions.

At the International Exhibition to be held in London this year, American inventions will occupy a prominent place, wherein is ample scope for the display of American ingenuity. At the New Orleans Exposition the exhibit made is one that must assure every one that American genius is far from deterioration.

Those gifted minds that have made important improvements in mechanical appliances, or the utilization of natural products, often fail to secure the due result of their sagacity by neglecting to procure a patent thereon.

The patent laws of the United States, though the most liberal of any in the world, require a person conversant with their many details to advise on the patentability of an article, the registry of a trade-mark or design, or the renewal of a patent.

In every department of this business, from his long familiarity and eminent success, we are pleased to-day (as for many years past) to recommend to all inventors Mr. R. H. Eddy, of No. 76 State street, Boston, as one who can and will attend to their cases in the most thorough and speedy manner, either in the United States or in foreign counties.

Statue to a Pantheist.

Pope Leo XIII is indignant over the proposal to erect in Rome a splendid bronze statue of Giordano Bruno, the Italian philosopher and the father of Pantheism, who, after being imprisoned in Rome for two years, was burned as a heretic in 1600. He was revered as a martyr by atheists all over the world, and a committee has just been formed in the University of Rome to raise the proposed monument to his memory. A site has already been secured in the Piazza Campo Diflori, and the subscriptions in Rome amount to 10,000 lire. Charles Bradlaugh, the English free-thinker, has issued an appeal to atheists throughout Great Britain to subscribe to the cost of the statue. The proposal, however, to honor the great Pantheist in the very citadel of the Roman Catholic church, has horrified his Holiness, and he expressed himself with unusual vehemence in a speech which he made at the Vatican one day last week upon the subject.

Secretary McCulloch thinks the whiskey men ought, in consideration of the importance of this great industry (?) to have another year in which to pay their taxes on whiskey in bond. He is inclined to be more liberal than was his predecessor in this respect. This decision, if adhered to, will deprive the government of $20,000,000 of revenue during the next five months, but as we are soon to have an administration which will not, if we may judge from the policy of its friends in Congress, wish to see any money expended for public purposes such as building up the navy and in like outlays, it will perhaps be just as well to encourage the "Bourbons" in their production.

The state of Alabama has a total male population of voting age of 259,884, of whom no fewer than 120,858 cannot write. Mississippi has 238,532 male inhabitants of voting age, and 111,541 of them cannot write. Of 294,470 males in North Carolina, of voting age, 124,702 are illiterate. One third of Virginia's voters cannot write. Almost one half of Georgia's voters cannot write. One third of the voters of Florida and Tennessee cannot write. These are startling facts, and in view of them and of the danger to our institutions if the voter of the future is an ignorant voter, it is of essential importance to the welfare of the nation that the Blair educational bill be passed by Congress, and the sooner the better.

The December number of the Bay State Monthly" contains a sketch of Daniel Lothrop, of the well known publishing house of D. Lothrop & Co. in Boston. Mr. Lothrop is a native of Rochester, in this state, and the steel-engraved likeness reminds us of his brother, Ex-Mayor Lothrop of Dover. The Lothrops are made of good stuff, and Mr. McClintock, the editor of the monthly, gives a very interesting sketch of the ancestry and the career of the head of the great Boston publishing house. There is also a description of Prof. Tourgee's New England Conservatory of Music in Franklin square, Boston, accompanied by several illustrations; and a sketch of Saugus, with a map, a paper on the Bartholdi Colossus, and other interesting matter, are also to be found in the number. Published by J. N. McClintock & Co., 31 Milk street, Boston; terms, $3.00 per year.

Sedgwick L. Plummer died at the almshouse in Gardiner, Me., on the night of December 27th. Deceased was a graduate of Harvard college and the Dane law school some forty years ago or more, and married a daughter of Gen. Edwards of Cambridge. Settling near Boston he engaged in the practice of law, and was elected a member of the Massachusetts legislature. A few years later he removed to Gardiner, where his wife shortly after died, leaving him with two sons. For a while he was editor of the Gardiner Transcript. Several years later his father died and left him a property of $50,000, mostly in real estate. As soon as he came in possession of his inheritance he commenced leading an intemperate life, and in course of time he had squandered every cent and become a vagabond. About two years ago he was taken to the poor farm.

Schooner E. B. Nickerson of Boothbay, Me., arrived at Gloucester, Mass., Dec. 29th, from Monhegan, with 175,000 frozen herring. This is the first receipt of frozen herring at Gloucester this season, and the first ever received from that locality. They are being sold to the Georges fleet for bait at $1.50 per hundred.

Naval Intelligence.

Commander George Dewey will be given command of the United States steamship Pensocola when she is ready for sea, probably in a couple of months. The Pensacola is to be the flagship of the South Atlantic squadron which will be under the command of Commodore Franklin. Commander Dewey was ordered to the new dispatch-boat Dolphin when she was finished, but as yet he has seen little sea service in her. It is understood that Commander Bowman H. McCalla, the assistant to the chief of the bureau of navigation, is to command the Dolphin.

It is said that the investigation into the death of Naval Cadet Strong will lead to some sensational developments concerning the practice of hazing at the naval academy.

Lieutenant C. C. Cornwell has been detached from the Powhatan, and placed on waiting orders.

Commander H. C. Taylor has been detached from special duty as naval aid to the mayor of New York and ordered to special duty at the New York navy yard.

Paymaster Carmody, U. S. N., has been elected secretary and treasurer of the Jeannette memorial fund, vice Lieut. J. H. Moore, who has been ordered to duty on the U. S. S. Marion, which is soon to sail for China. The fund now amounts to $2652.

This evening, at the Portsmouth skating rink, there will be general skating from seven o'clock to nine; from nine to ten an exhibition of fancy skating by W. E. Livesay and Carrie A. Gilmore, and bicycle riding by D. J. Canary, champion of America. Of the recent performance of these noted professionals in New Haven a paper of that city said:

"At nine Carrie Gilmore made her appearance dressed in a very handsome satin dress, cut low in the neck and reaching just to the tops of her shoes. For fifteen minutes she went through numerous difficult movements on the rollers, and won the applause of those present. At the finish she was loudly encored. Prof. Livesey next appeared, and gave an exhibition such has not been seen in New Haven since he last appeared here two years ago. He received his share of the well-merited applause, and was loudly encored at the finish. Prof. Dan Canary, who is well-known here, then appeared and gave an exhibition of fancy bicycle riding. Round after round of applause greeted him as he performed his wonderful evolutions and movements on his wheel. His riding was perfection, and the verdict of those who witnessed his performance as he rode on one wheel with handle bars removed, spun round and round, rode backwards and forwards, was that he was the finest in the world. Professor Canary wore his elegant medal which he won against Tufts in Springfield, last February, for the championship of the United States. Altogether the exhibitions were the best that have ever been given in this city."

The president of the Rockingham Bicycle club of this city, who recently witnessed several exhibitions by Prof. Canary, informs us that the champion has improved wonderfully since his last exhibition in Portsmouth, and that a rare opportunity is to be afforded at the rink to-night to see the finest exhibition of gymnastic skill and grace by a young man who was admitted by the English champion racers who visited this country last season, to excel any exhibitor on either side of the Atlantic.

Skating at the rink in the afternoon, with music.

The brig Eugenie, Munroe master, arrived at this port on the 30th ult. from Turk's island, West Indies, with salt to E. F. Sise & Co.; also the schooner Adeliza, Frisbee master, from Port Johnson, N. J., with 304 tons of coal to the same firm. The schooner Ella Frances, Torrey master, arrived on the same day from Elizabethport with coal to O. F. Philbrick & Co.

The Biddeford Times remarks that "James F. Hardy, a man thirty years old, is wanted at Abington, Mass., on a charge of polygamy. Hardy has been manager of the Goodwin house, at York, for the past three years. His so-called second wife is only seventeen years old."

Schooner Caroline Knight, Hinkley master, from Rockland for Boston, in attempting to leave the lower harbor on the 30th ult. ran on the rocks, and was hauled off by the tug Clara Batemen. The schooner had sprung a leak, but the timely aid rendered by the tug prevented her cargo of lime from catching fire.

The New Year's eve ball of Kearsarge S. F. E. Co., in the Vaughan street skating rink, was largely attended and a grand success. Previous to the commencement of the dancing a concert was given by the Salem brass band, Ralph L. Reinewald leader.

The Young People's Association of the North church held a sociable and supper at the chapel on Middle street, Wednesday evening.

Owing to the failure of Congress to appropriate money for the continuance of operations at the navy yards, the steamer Emerald is hauled up at her berth across the river. The steamer Mystic, Capt. Trefethen, will be the medium of transportation between this city and the navy yard for the present—fare five cents each way.

The Christmas festival of the Episcopal Sunday schools, at the Portsmouth skating rink on the evening of the 30th ult., was attended by an estimated gathering of eight hundred persons, of whom over two hundred were Sunday school scholars. Refreshments were served, and dancing was enjoyed until a late hour.

The striking coopers of the Portsmouth Brewing Co. have returned to work.

At the annual meeting of the State Agricultural society held in Manchester on Dec. 31st, Warren Brown of Hampton Falls was re-elected president, Aaron Young of this city secretary, Charles H. Hayes of this city a member of the board of directors, and Andrew H. Young of Dover one of the two auditors. The treasurer's report show a balance of $485.28.

A case of interest to "Tontine" policy holders, brought by Sylvester P. Pierce of Syracuse, N. Y., against the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States was heard in Boston this week. Pierce has a policy, now in force, payable at his death; there is a "Tontine" ten-year term therein which has expired; he wants his promised profits; the company refuse to account with him and only offer him a sum down, without explanation, which he believes to be altogether too small. The bill prays for an account of Tontine business since 1873 and for general relief, and claims that the company is a trustee of the plaintiff's funds in its hands. The company filed a demurrer, claiming want of equity; that the bill ought to be dismissed. The bill and demurrer were argued on December 26th, and the court has now overruled the demurrer. J. P. Treadwell, formerly of this city, was counsel for the plaintiff.

The Use of Poison.

The report of Prof. Edward S. Wood, published by the Massachusetts board of health, on the use of arsenic in the coloring matter of articles in everyday use, should have the effect of stimulating the legislature into passing the restrictive legislation which the facts show is most urgently demanded. A few years ago the public was informed that certain hues of green wall paper were obtained by the liberal use of this poisonous material, and, as a result of this information, wall paper of these particular shades was looked upon with some suspicion, and manufacturers found it advisable to cease making it. But from Prof. Wood's statement it would appear that the use of arsenic is not now confined to green papers, but it is found in wall papers of every hue, and what is even more serious, beside wall paper, the same poisonous matter is extensively used in the manufacture of colored textile fabrics, toys, confectionery, candies, colored books, theatre tickets, playing cards, and innumerable other articles which enter into daily use. When ones considers that from two to three grains of arsenic are sufficient to cause the death of an adult, the danger to which young children are exposed by the use of nursery wall paper, as it is called, which contains from five to six grains to the square yard, or of the so-called glazed or plated paper frequently used in kinder-garden schools, which contains from twenty to fifty-five grains of arsenic in the square yard, becomes painfully obvious. Undoubtedly, numerous deaths occur in the course of the year which are attributed to a variety of causes, but which have their true origin in the effect upon health produced by the unconscious inhalation or consumption of this poisonous matter. In almost all of the European countries, stringent regulations have been adopted to prevent the use of these poisonous colors, but in this country no such wise precautions have been thought necessary, although innumerable instances of sickness and death must be traceable to this cause. The members of the coming Massachusetts legislature would perform a great public service if they were to carefully read Prof. Wood's paper, which is an official document, and, from the information thus obtained, take the steps necessary to prevent the further existence of this great evil.

Mrs. Tim Capons, of Barrington, whom her husband alleged eloped with a neighbor and returned soon after to Barrington, has been reconciled to her husband, and they re-commenced living together Christmas day. It is rumored the reported divorce suits and action by the injured husband, etc., will be abandoned.

The inspectors of the Maine state prison have made up their annual report. The financial condition of the prison is satisfactory.

The Modern Language association in its annual meeting in New York discussed the question of substituting modern for ancient languages in colleges.

It has just leaked out that Miss Kate Klapp, daughter of Mr. Daniel Klapp, a wealthy citizen of Reading, Pa., worth about $150,000, has been married to Francis Newman, alias Frank Hardman, an ex-convict of Berks county prison, where he served a five-years term for highway robbery. After serving his time he left Reading and was not heard from until a few weeks ago. Since his release he has lead a straightforward life.

Quick Relief!

When a man has suffered from Rheumatism only a little while, and is relieved from his pain, he is happy and delighted. But suppose he has Suffered for more than a third of a century.

Alvin Grim, of Vale, Iowa, writes: "ATHLOPHOROS has helped me much. The pain in my limbs is all gone, but some lameness is left yet, and well there might be, as for I have been troubled for thirty-five years with Rheumatism."

Mrs. A. B. Baker, of Chicago,

Had rheumatic pains in her back for fifteen years, and Mr. Baker had been the victim of Rheumatism until his head was drawn down over his left shoulder. Mr. Baker writes:

"Half a bottle of ATHLOPHOROS made me as good as new. My wife has taken the other half, and has not complained of her back since. She says her backache was so free from pain and ache as it has been since she has taken the ATHLOPHOROS."

There are many people who think that because they have suffered so long, and have tried so many medicines in vain, they must "suffer on their three score years." But you see what ATHLOPHOROS has done.

However Old your Case;
However Severe your Pains;
However Great your Disappointments,

Try Athlophoros

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.

A scientific observer claims that the flatness of the earth at the polo brings the polar ocean thirteen miles nearer than any other portion of the globe to the central ball of fire, upon which he believes the earth to be built. It is now an open secret in English official circles that the Agamemnon, double-screw armor-plated turret ship, is to all intents and purposes utterly useless. The rudder has been contrived so as to work only in dead water, and the result is that it is practically impossible to steer the costly monster, and when she starts it is a matter of profound uncertainty what direction she may take. In all probability it will be found necessary to convert the ship into a single screw, at a cost of $100,000.

That Dirty Dandruff.

Dandruff is dirty and disagreeable in every way. It soils the clothing continually, and is accompanied by a hardly less annoying sensation of itching. The scalp is diseased. There is nothing in the world so thoroughly adapted to this trouble as Parker's Hair Balsam. It cleanses and heals the scalp, stops the falling hair and restores its original softness, gloss and color. Is not oily, highly perfumed, an elegant dressing. Very economical, as only a small occasional application keeps the hair in perfect condition.

Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, after his sermon in Plymouth church, Brooklyn, Dec. 28th, defended his course in the recent political campaign, and said that if there was a majority in the church, or a strong minority, who no longer wanted him, he would go. If the great majority wished him to stay, he would die with them and nothing would drive him away.

Every day adds to the great amount of evidence as to the curative powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Letters are continually being received from all sections of the country, telling of benefits derived from this great medicine. It is unequalled for general debility, and as a blood purifier, expelling every trace of scrofula or other impurity. Now is the time to take it. Made by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by druggists.

In Hinsdale, Mass., early Sunday morning, an attempt was made to blow up the office of the Plunket woollen company. A sock containing the explosive was put under the building, but no one knows how it was set off. The force of the explosion spent itself laterally, rather than vertically, and the building was but slightly damaged; the floor was torn a little. No one is suspected of attempting the mischief, but it is said some employes have a grudge against superintendent Sundenhoff. Sundenhoff was shot at recently while walking on the railroad track. There is much excitement and fear lest another attempt be made.

Humors.

By its great and thorough blood purifying properties, Wetherell's Sarsaparilla cures all humors, from the worst scrofula to a common blotch, pimple or eruption. Mercurial diseases, mineral poisons and their effects are eradicated and vigorous health and a sound constitution established. Erysipelas, salt rheum, fever sores, scaly or rough skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood are conquered by this powerful purifying and invigorating medicine. Sold by all dealers.

A THRILLING STORY.

As Told by a Merchant in Troy, N. Y.—A Surgical Operation Avoided—How a Father, Wife and Daughter Escaped an Awful Doom.

Of the hundreds of accounts of remarkable cures wrought by DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, none have appeared so purely astonishing as the following. The persons mentioned are among the most highly respected in the city of Troy, and the story as told by the father will prove interesting to all our readers.—ED.

TROY, N.Y.

Dr. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:

DEAR SIR: My daughter was afflicted with a severe growth of Fungus. To remove it we had resorted to almost every remedy and consulted the most prominent surgeons and physicians. Dr. ——, of Troy, said that a surgical operation would be necessary, but fearing fatal results hesitated. Some of the physicians claimed that it was caused by one thing and some by another. The Fungus was prominent and disfigured her looks. Having heard of Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY working so thoroughly on the blood I determined to try it, to see if this medicine could do what doctors had failed to do and surgeons had hardly dared to undertake. I can say in truth that the result of the trial was the complete cure of my daughter of this dreadful malady. Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY alone effected it. We used nothing else, for other things had completely failed. My daughter today enjoys vigorous health and to Favorite Remedy alone is the credit due. My wife also was very poor in health, due to some liver difficulty with which she had suffered a long time until she became very much reduced in flesh. A trial of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy has resulted in the complete restoration of her health, which she had not enjoyed for years. She had gained in flesh and strength, and thus secured perfect health, and this is DUE ENTIRELY TO DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY. As for myself, being engaged in the grocery and commission business, which makes it necessary for me to test the quality of different articles, like butter, etc., my sense of taste and my stomach were seriously injured. Everything seemed to nauseate me, and fearful of dyspepsia in its most severe form, I tried DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY. The first bottle afforded immediate relief, and from that day to this I can say that the Favorite Remedy has restored me to perfect health. These are facts which I claim prove that Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is the best medicine in the world for those afflicted with the above difficulties. If any one in the city of Troy doubts the truth of these statements let him come to me and I will prove them. I have recommended Favorite Remedy to hundreds and with the same good results.

Yours, etc., WILLIAM WINDSOR.

The following Letters were published in The Christian at Work, the leading religious paper of New York, some months since. That they attracted great attention is proved by the following editorial notice which soon after appeared in that paper:—

"The publisher of The Christian at Work has been asked if the letters published in this paper, by Dr. I. H. Schenck, of Philadelphia, were genuine. In reply he says, that his representative has seen the originals of every letter at the office of Dr. Schenck, in Philadelphia."

MESSRS. J. H. SCHENCK & SON, Philadelphia.

Gentlemen:—I have concluded that it is my duty to write you in regard to the great benefit I have received by the use of Dr. Schenck's medicines. One and a-half years ago I was very sick with what my friends and myself believed to be Consumption of the Lungs. The disease began with a heavy cold, its worst symptom being a dry, hacking cough, which was almost continuous night and day. Soon after this I began raising a thick yellow matter. Being exposed to all kinds of weather, by working at my trade, I caught additional cold and grew worse, until I was obliged to give up all work. I at this time had terrible pains in my lungs, and was soon attacked with severe night-sweats. I tried all the cough remedies advertised, I believe, before I heard of your remedies. They were first brought to my notice by reading your book on "Consumption and its Cure."

I used all your medicines; that is, the Mandrake Pills, Seaweed Tonic and Pulmonic Syrup. I felt their beneficial effects from the first. They gave me strength and they gave me appetite, and in a very short time my cough was looser, and soon after disappeared altogether. I began to gain flesh, too, and in the course of two months from beginning their use, I was very near well. I am now entirely well, and, believe me, very thankful that I found your medicines and took them in time to save my life. I shall be pleased to have any one call on me in regard to my case.

CURED OF CONSUMPTION.

PHILADELPHIA, July 16, 1882.

DR. J. H. SCHENCK.

Dear Sir:—I have been very sick, and was told by several of the best physicians of this city that I had Consumption, and could live but a short time. I was advised by a friend to consult you, which I did. Under your treatment I improved rapidly, and am now enjoying perfect health. I expected to die, my symptoms being all very bad; had hemorrhages, night-sweats, and a hacking cough. I believe your treatment saved my life. Please accept my sincere thanks for all you have done for me. Shall recommend your remedies whenever I meet any one afflicted as I was.

I remain ever gratefully and respectfully,
ANNIE W. RITTENHOUSE,
948 Kurtz Street, Philadelphia.

FROM MR. HARLEY P. HOPKINS, PROVIDENCE, R. I.

He is Cured of Consumption by Dr. Schenck's Medicines, after being given up to die by some of the best Physicians of the City.

DR. J. H. SCHENCK.

Dear Sir:—I have been cured of what three of the best physicians of this city told me was Consumption of the Lungs, by the use of your medicines. I was first attacked with the disease in October, 1880, and although I was from that time continually under the care of a physician, I grew more and worse, until at last I was confined to my bed. I can hardly say that I was first attacked with the disease in 1880, for my lungs had been weak for many years previous to this, and I would quite often have severe pain in my breast, if I took the least cold or exerted myself too much in any way. I grew worse, my cough became very bad; I had night-sweats so severe that my bed, through the night, would be as wet as though water had been thrown over me. I was continually raising blood and large quantities of offensive matter from my lungs, and at last had all the well-known symptoms of Consumption in its last stages.

At the request of my family, my physician called in two other doctors of this city, and they, after an examination, agreed that my case was hopeless. They informed my wife that I had better be told that I could not live, and my time would be very short, for arranging my worldly affairs. They also said that no medicine would be of any use to me. The next day my friend, Mr. H. I. Leith, hearing of my condition, sent me a bottle of your Pulmonic Syrup, thinking it might relieve my cough, and make my sleep more easy. I began using it, never even hoping that it would cure me, but finding great relief from its use. When the first bottle was gone I sent and got more, and I continued it until I had used seven or eight bottles. All this time I was in bed and was so weak that I had to be lifted. This was not a difficult task for the doctors, as I only weighed about ninety pounds. As I have said, I commenced the use of the medicine with no thought of its curing me, but after taking the eighth bottle I would sometimes feel a little hungry, a thing I had not before done for many months. I omitted to mention that after taking four or five bottles of the Pulmonic Syrup, I also began taking the Seaweed Tonic, and I also took some of the Mandrake Pills.

It is needless for me to give you an account of all my feelings during my recovery. Of course it was slow, but it was also sure. I gradually gained strength, the character of what I raised from my lungs was changed—not being so offensive—and at last I was able to get up and walk about my room. From this time my recovery was rapid. I gained flesh fast and soon went out doors, and now I am entirely well. Many of my acquaintances who saw me when I was so low, I weigh one hundred and sixty-two pounds, appetite good, and I can truly say that I never felt better in my life. I consider your medicines as wonderful in their effects. They have saved my life, and I feel so thankful to you that I am anxious that all who are suffering with lung troubles should know how good they are. Of course I can give a better account of my case by telling of it than in writing, and if any who read this are interested, they are welcome to call on me at my residence.

Yours truly,
HARLEY P. HOPKINS,

MR. HARLEY P. HOPKINS, who writes the foregoing letter to Dr. Schenck, of Philadelphia, is an old resident of Providence. I have known him well for the last fifteen years, and I can assure the public that all he has written in regard to his sickness and recovery is strictly true. He was considered a Consumptive, in the last stages of the disease, by his physician and friends, and I believe that his recovery is entirely due to the use of Dr. Schenck's medicines.

DR. J. H. SCHENCK, Philadelphia, Pa.

Dear Sir:—I was taken sick in the Fall of 1869, but managed to keep up and at my business for two years. Finally I had to cease work altogether for over a year. I had a hacking cough all the time, and when the weather was damp I could scarcely get my breath. Hearing of your medicines, I determined to give them a trial. I used the Pulmonic Syrup, Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills for some time, until they cured me, and since then have had good health all the time, my lungs being apparently sound. I believe that I had Consumption. I have great faith in your medicines, and would urge all who are suffering with lung complaints to use them. Yours truly,

At Fifty-One.

Jesting is over with me forever;
Life is too sober at fifty-one;
No longer I worship the witty and clever;
Things that amused me I loathe and shun.
I have come to the summit and now begun
To sink to the vale on the other side;
There's a damp in the air, there's a gloom on the sun,
Whose waning the vapors of Orcus hide.

Fall away from the track as we downward bie,
To their several homes; they are not in sight;
But I hear the bells as they bid good-by!
How lonely I feel as I get more nigh
To my destined inn, a dismal place!
Shut from all glimpse of the goodly sky,
And the sunshine of every friendly face.

Yet what is to dread? There's a Master there
Full of pity to welcome the weary guest,
Who will bind the footsore, and have good care
Of every poor soul that seeks his rest.
I tremble to go to him unconfessed,
I bear him no letters from priest or pope,
But I carry a passport within my breast,
Of his own sure word and a deathless hope.

—Thomas William Parsons.

THE WRONG MAN.

We were sitting under the shadow of a laburnum, Letty and I, in the garden of the old school. Never again shall we sit thus in the pleasant garden, for to-morrow we leave Constitution House and school-girl life for ever.

I am glad, yet half-regretful, for my school days have been happy enough on the whole, and I like all the girls, though Letty is my especial friend.

Letty is poor, and I am rich, and they say I have all the beauty, too; for she is small and pale, and I am tall and well-developed for my age.

My hair is lovely, I must own; but it is my chief attraction, and makes people think I am better-looking than I am in reality; for without that rich adornment, my face would look ordinary enough, I am sure.

Letty is coming home with me to stay a little while. I should like her to be with me always; but she knows that my mother has a companion already, so that I cannot persuade her to remain with me in that capacity.

Well, if I can manage it, her visit shall be a long one. Poor Letty! how pale she is, and how slight and fragile her girlish figure. I am better fitted to do battle with the world than she is, and I have everything and she has nothing.

There is only one crumpled leaf in my bed of roses. My father and mother expect me to marry a man I have never seen in my life. Still, I am so accustomed to the idea, that it does not strike me as anything terrible. Men and women must marry, and all I know of love is gleaned from surreptitious novel reading.

Lovers seem to be very uncomfortable people in my opinion, and I hope I shall never feel as they are supposed to feel. I am not like Letty, who always cries over the sentimental part of a story, and falls in love with the hero of every novel she reads.

"You will see the gentleman you are to marry, to-morrow," Letty says suddenly, as we sit under the laburnum.

"Yes," I say, with a smile. "I wonder what he will think of me, Letty."

"What can he think, but that you are the most beautiful girl in the world?" returns my enthusiastic little friend. "I am wondering what you will think of him, Gertrude? I hope he is nice."

"I have heard that he is handsome," I return, rather absently; "but you know, whatever he is like, I shall have to marry him. My father and my mother have arranged it all."

"Poor Gertrude!" and Letty began to cry, like the little goose she is.

"What are you crying for?" I ask, with a smile. "Why, Letty, I shall be the envy of all the women when I marry Reginald Dacre."

"But will you be happy, dear?" and Letty lifts her dark eyes to my face.

"Happy—of course I shall be happy." I say, almost impatiently; "I shall have everything to make me so. Of course, people can always be miserable if they choose to brood over imaginary woes like that girl we read about the other day."

Letty says no more, and presently a bell rings, and we go in to tea, and sit for the last time at the large, well-spread table.

When the meal is over, the girls gather round me and express their regrets at my departure; but very few of them take the trouble to tell Letty they are sorry, and the omission makes her feel a little bit unhappy.

She is sensitive. If I were in her place, I should not feel the slight so keenly as she does.

Letty and I go to bed very early, for we are to rise at five the next morning, and I fall asleep directly my head touches the pillow. But Letty has been awake all night, she tells me, as we dress ourselves for our journey.

"One would think it was you that was going to meet your fate," I say lightly.

Letty looks at her little white face in the mirror and sighs.

I ask her why, and she answers that she is sighing because no one will ever love her as she wants to be loved.

Her words make me laugh—they are spoken with such a lugubrious air. Poor Letty! I think she ought to eschew novels for the future.

My mother comes to take her away. She is a handsome woman still, in spite of having such a big daughter, of whom, by the way, I fancy she is slightly ashamed—I mean in respect to our relationship.

She is very kind to Letty, and my little friend quite expands in the genial atmosphere of my mother's presence.

Mamma has the happy knack of putting people at their ease.

"Thank you, mamma," I whisper as we enter the carriage.

"For what, my dear?" she asks in surprise.

"For being so kind to my friend."

"Any one would be kind to her, mamma says warmly; "she has such pleasant ways, and is such a pretty child."

Pretty! Letty pretty! I stare at my mother in astonishment; but she really means it. Well, it is the first time that anyone has ever called Letty pretty.

When we are in the train I catch myself looking at her speculatively. She has rather nice eyes, and the little pale face is a perfect oval. Still, one could rcely call her pretty—interesting, y-like, perhaps, but scarcely pretty.

We are not allowed to remain in undisturbed possession of our first-class compartment long, for just as the train moves out of the next station, a gentleman jumps in at the risk of breaking his neck.

I am nearest the window, and as he sits down opposite me, he gives me a quick glance of admiration.

One can see by his dress that he is a clergyman; but he is not a bit like the curate of St. Ann's, our old rector at home, who, by the way, must be seventy at least.

What girl does not like to be admired—no matter if the eyes that gaze at her are handsome or otherwise? But my vis-a-vis happens to have the brightest eyes I have ever seen, and they tell me as plainly as eyes can, that I have made a favorable impression on their owner.

He does not stare obtrusively, and yet I feel embarrassed, and color. How stupid it is, and especially in me, for I have always prided myself on my self-possession. If it were Letty, now, it would be excusable, for she changes color on the slightest provocation; but I, Gertrude Helmsley, ought to know better.

He makes some remark to mamma about the weather, who, glancing at his clerical dress, responds graciously; and they gradually drift into quiet and animated conversation, while I listen in silence, and Letty turns over the pages of a magazine.

When we reach our station, to our surprise the stranger gathers up his books and papers and alights also. He lifts his hat to mamma, and gives me another admiring glance as he walks away.

DANIEL LITTLEFIELD.

He put it in Writing.

A gentleman writes that one of the daughters of Mr. Wm. Owens, 28 Langdale Road, Peckham, London, England, had been ill for years with rheumatism and has tried numerous remedies without effect. She finally used St. Jacobs Oil and was entirely cured.

The Maine railroad commissioners in their annual report speak of a very general improvement in nearly all of the railroads in the state during the year.

Thousands say so, DR. GRAVES' HEART REGULATOR will give relief, all forms of heart disease, nervousness and sleeplessness yield to its use. $1.00 per bottle. Free pamphlet of F. E. Ingalls, Cambridge, Mass.

In the cellar of an old house in Cambridge, Maryland, has been found the correspondence of Washington and Hamilton with William Vans Murray, American minister to the Netherlands, showing Washington's opposition to La Fayette's asking America his adopted country, and to Jefferson's aspirations to be president.

Athlophoros cures rheumatism and neuralgia in defiance of climate. It is equally a specific North, South, East or West. Every section furnishes testimony to its efficacy.

California sends hers through Rev. J. E. Reed, Los Angeles. "Words cannot tell how glad I am that I found Athlophoros. One bottle cured me of neuralgia, from which I had been a long sufferer."

Texas responds through David Haldeman, Yorktown. "My neighbor, who has been down with rheumatism for three years, has found freedom from pain by using Athlophoros. Send me your terms. I want to introduce it."

Kentucky sends word through Rev. C. D. Diggs, Trenton. "My wife has suffered with rheumatism for three years. Athlophoros acted on her like a charm. She now goes about everywhere and is sound as a dollar. May the Lord help you to introduce it in this part of the country."

The Virginias are heard from. J. A. Warnick, Petersburg, writes, "Bro. R. C. Wright was down in bed with rheumatism. Before he took an entire bottle of Athlophoros, he sat up. When asked by his wife if he did not wish to lie down again, he said, "Get out of the way, I am going to walk!" He now goes all over the farm."

The chilly east sends greeting. "Have been a great sufferer from both rheumatism and neuralgia. My sense of relief after taking one bottle of Athlophoros can be best described by saying that, knowing what I do now, I would not have complained if the cost had been $50." Mrs. J. Nelson Jordan, Ellsworth, Maine.

The North West responds. "Your Athlophoros has astonished me. Two bottles have cured me of a terrible attack of inflammatory rheumatism. It was the best investment I ever made." Geo. A. Crandale, Second and Walnut Sts., Des Moines, Iowa.

So every middle and extreme region responds through numberless testimonials. Athlophoros cures rheumatism and neuralgia, climate to the contrary, notwithstanding.

Mary Shea, an old beggar, of Hamilton, Ont., has been sent to the hospital. She wandered about the streets for years begging, and was thought to be very poor. A search revealed the fact that she had in her possession some $2000 worth of bonds, deposit receipts, etc. A deed of the house she lived in was also found carefully stowed away.

Bourbon whiskey is a necessity in every household. A really reliable brand may be found in the "G. O. Taylor Old Bourbon," bottled by Messrs. C. H. Graves & Sons, of Boston, and to be obtained in bottles only, bearing their signature over each cork, from leading grocers and druggists everywhere.

Last Year's Business.

The Boston Globe on Jan. 1st published a special edition, giving a general summary of the business of Boston and other New England cities during the past year. From the mass of matter published the following facts and figures are gleaned: Except in some few branches profits have been smaller and the volume of business less than in 1883. The retail dry goods trade has, however, never been more prosperous than it was in 1884. The building trade has been in good condition. In Boston 1438 buildings have been erected at a cost of $7,500,000, an unprecedented record. There was paid out in dividends in Boston during the year $67,305,800, a sum far above the average of years since 1878, excepting 1883. In cotton goods, about the same amount of business has been done in 1884 as in 1883, at a smaller profit. The eight broad gauge railroads running into the city have made a gain in net income over 1883 of $218,073. In breadstuffs, there has been a marked improvement during the year. The iron business has been dull. Deposits in savings banks in Massachusetts have increased over $10,000,000 during the year. Most of the manufacturing cities of Massachusetts report a very fair business during the year, as compared with 1883, although the profits have been smaller. Maine, New Hampshire and Rhode Island cities have done a much better business than was anticipated at the beginning of the year. Interviews with several hundred leading merchants and manufacturers show them to be in a very hopeful, confident state of mind and they are almost unanimous in predicting good paying business for 1885.

The Liberty Bell on an Excursion.

It has been determined to send the Liberty bell from Philadelphia to New Orleans on January 25th. It will go on a special train over the Pennsylvania railroad. The bell itself is to go in a special car, open at the sides so that it can be seen along the route. In one end of this car is a small compartment, which will be occupied by three Philadelphia policemen who will go to protect it and remain by it by turns night and day until it is returned. Attached to the train will be other cars for the special junketing committee of the city government that is to accompany the bell. A pilot engine will run ahead of the train to insure its safety. The trip will be by way of Louisville. This will be the second time the bell has left Philadelphia. The other time was when, in 1777, the British were expected to occupy the city, and it was removed to Bethlehem, Pa., for safety.

Chinese Enterprise.

Tom Sing, a Chinaman of New York, is in jail on charges of being the leader of a gang of Chinese desperadoes and robbers, and of having murdered a Chinese laundryman some months ago while robbing him. After his arrest he was visited in his cell by a pretty German girl, who said she was married to Tom Sing last September; and Tom Sing told her to go to the Brooklyn navy yard and ask Chief Engineer Melville to come and bail him, and he wanted her to lie to Melville by saying that he was innocent, which message the police warned her not to deliver. Tom Sing was the steward of the Jeannette expedition, and was one of the few men who with Melville escaped from the Arctic snows. The proof of his guilt is conclusive.

Collector Howard asked permission to have trenches dug on State and Pleasant streets, to improve the sewerage of the custom house. Voted that the same be granted, under the supervision of the street commissioner.

The application of Dennis Trefethen and others, for two street lights on Gates street, at the corners of Washington and Manning streets, was referred to committee on street lights, with power.

On motion of Ald. Cook it was voted that the city surrender its claim against the property of Mr. Joseph Neal on receipt of $39.43.

Bills amounting to $3,876.62 were ordered paid.

Several bills against departments for which the appropriations had been exhausted, were laid over until the next meeting.

The bill of Marcellus Bufford, for services as acting city treasurer, $80, was laid over until the next meeting.

The bill of Silas Philbrick, for a granite watering trough at city farm, was referred to the chairman of the committee on city lands and buildings.

On motion of Ald. Coffin, James McCarty was appointed a supernumerary watchman.

Adjourned for two weeks.

THE RINK ENTERTAINMENT.

The Portsmouth skating rink was thronged on Thursday evening, the special attractions being the roller-skating of Carrie A. Gilmore and W. E. Livesay, and the bicycle performance of D. J. Canary. From seven o'clock to nine the skating floor was well filled with local lovers of skating, and then it was cleared to give the professionals a chance. The skating of Livesay and his girl-wife was very graceful and pleasing, and Canary's bicycle riding was astonishing; and the large audience gave close attention and liberal applause.

JONATHAN TOWLE WALKER.

Mr. Jonathan Towle Walker, of Rye, whose death has been announced, was born in that town Sept. 26th, 1804, and passed away Dec. 29th, 1884.

On the 4th of January, 1821, he went to Lynn, Mass., as an apprentice to the carpenter's trade with Emery Moulton, and served until he was twenty-one years of age, Sept. 26th, 1825. In October of that year he went to Boston, and worked at stair-building until April, 1826, when he went to Georgetown, D. C., and was there employed by Libby & Marden, house carpenters, until June 1829, when he returned to his native town. In July, 1829, he commenced business in Rye as a carpenter, and continued to do more or less building, etc., until within twenty years; he also made coffins for nearly all who died in the town during this period, and acted as undertaker at a great many funerals.

He married, in 1831, Miss Mary E. Brown. Three sons were born to them, of whom two survive; he also leaves a sister and one grandchild. His wife died in 1858, and he never remarried.

Mr. Walker at different times held various offices in the town; was a member of the board of selectmen in 1835 and '36, and again in 1843 and '44; was town clerk in 1841 and '42, and filled various minor town offices. He held the office of justice of the peace from 1856, and was postmaster for thirty-two years, his first term being from 1841 to '45, a second term from 1849 to '53, and then from 1861 to the time of his death. He was a member of the Congregational church from 1839 to his decease, and for many years was prominent and active in church affairs.

In politics Mr. Walker was a whig as long as that party was in existence, and after that was a staunch republican for the rest of his life. His popularity among his neighbors and townsmen was shown by his repeated elections to office, Rye having always been strongly democratic ever since the inception of that party. As postmaster he was very accommodating, and he was courteous and obliging in all his relations, official or social, and no suspicion was ever hinted against his integrity in any position. He was very widely known among the summer visitors, and had the respect and esteem of all. For several years previous to his death he was a great sufferer, but bore his trials patiently and without complaint, and retained his mental faculties to the last, finally passing away peacefully as a child dropping to sleep.

The New Year was welcomed in by the Christ church chimes.

The watch meeting in the Methodist church on New Year's eve was quite largely attended, and of much interest to the participants; especially interesting were the remarks of Rev. J. D. Waldron, of the Pearl street church. It is announced that an old-fashioned "four days meeting" is shortly to be held in the Methodist church.

The New Year's eve ball of Kearsarge fire engine company, in the Portsmouth skating rink, was a great success, being attended by 1400 to 1500 persons, largely spectators, of course. The concert by the Salem brass band, Reinewald leader, from eight o'clock to nine, was one of the best ever given in the city. There were nearly a hundred couples in the grand march, but there was room for them on the spacious floor. The rink was neatly dressed with flags and bunting.

There was a pound party at the Old Ladies' Home on Wednesday, Dec. 31st, which was attended by many of the friends of that excellent charitable institution.

Arrangements have been made by some of the young men of the city for an entertainment at Congress hall on Thursday evening, Jan. 8th, consisting of vocal and instrumental music, followed by dancing. It is proposed to make it one of the most fashionable entertainments of the season.

Several ladies in Concord received on New Year's day, a custom which seems quite in favor at the capital this year, though it seems to have been honored in the breach rather than in the observance in Portsmouth.

It is reported that notwithstanding the order of Secretary Chandler about the discharging of employes from the navy yards, the sailmakers at this yard will keep on at work, they being paid out of the appropriation for new steel cruisers; also that the bosses in the department of construction will be retained, and paid out of the same appropriation. No "voluntary" work will be accepted, but the officers' quarters will continue to be heated, the watchmen will patrol the yard as usual, and the clerks, writers and store hands will be on guard, patiently awaiting the passage of the naval appropriation bill.

Mr. Henry D Soule, of W. W. Brown Camp, Sons of Veterans, of Manchester, will install the officers of Henry L. Richard's Camp of this city on Tuesday evening; the installation will take place in G. A. R. hall, and the public will be admitted. These exercises will be followed by a New Year's apron-and-necktie party in Congress hall.

Mr. A. S. Carmen, of Exeter, assumed the superintendency of the Portsmouth Machine Works on Thursday, the 1st inst., vice Mr. Nathan Whalley, resigned.

The little steamer Luke Hoyt arrived at this port on Thursday forenoon from Newburyport, in tow of a tug, and was made fast at Union wharf. She has been purchased by Mr. Symonds of Boston, proprietor of the dredging flotilla which has been engaged in government work on the branches of the Piscataqua for several summers past, and will be used in connection with further dredging operations.

The schooner Golden Gate, Capt. Amee, arrived at Broughton's wharf on Thursday, from Boston. She left Boston at eleven o'clock A. M. on Wednesday, and arrived in the lower harbor at 7:30 Wednesday evening.

A freight train which passed through this city Thursday forenoon, bound west, was headed by a Boston & Maine locomotive, the Ipswich; and on a platform car near the engine was a huge slab of granite from the quarry at Biddeford, which the engineer said weighed about thirty tons. It was too large to lie flat on the car, and was propped up several feet in the air at one side; it appeared to be about thirteen feet wide, sixteen feet long and eighteen inches in thickness.

The following vessels were built in the Kennebunk collection district the past year, all of them being constructed at Kennebunkport: Schooners "Mattie T. Dyer," built by Geo. Christenson, 103.48 tons; "Ella M. Doughty," by Geo. Christenson, 71.35 tons; "Molly Adams," by Geo. Christenson, 117.26 tons; "B. C. French," by David Clark, 920.29 tons; "Mystery," by George Christenson, 123.59 tons; "P. G. Thompson," by David Clark, 162.77 tons; six vessels in all, with a total registered tonnage of 1498.73. Geo. Christenson has a vessel of 100 tons on the stocks, for Portland parties; and David Clark has a steamer of 350 tons under way, also for Portland parties, who will employ her in mackerel seining the coming season, with a crew of fifty men.

The schooner Ella Frances, Torrey master, which sailed Jan. 1st for Rockland, Me., previous to her departure took on board the spars and rigging saved from the schooner Eastern Belle, recently burned through swinging ashore on Clark's island in the lower harbor, by which her cargo of lime was set on fire.

At the meeting of the governor and council of Maine at Augusta on Dec. 31st, the petition of several hundred citizens of Kittery, Eliot and York for the commutation of Oscar E. Blaney's sentence from death to imprisonment for life, was referred to the next council. Consequently Blaney's fate will not be determined for some time to come.

Quick Relief!

When a man has suffered from Rheumatism only a little while, and is relieved from his pain, he is happy and delighted. But suppose he has Suffered for more than a third of a century.

Alvin Grim, of Vale, Iowa, writes: "ATHLOPHOROS has helped mamuch. The pain in my limbs is all gone, but some lameness is left yet, and well there might be, for I have been troubled for thirty-five years with Rheumatism."

Mrs. A. B. Baker, of Chicago,

Had rheumatic pains in her back for fifteen years,

and Mr. Baker had been the victim of Rheumatism until his head was drawn down over his left shoulder. Mr. Baker writes:

"Half a bottle of ATHLOPHOROS made me as good as new. My wife has taken of the other half, and has not complained of her back since. She says her back now is as free from pain and aches as it has been since she has taken the ATHLOPHOROS."

There are many people who think that because they have suffered so long, and have tried so many medicines in vain, they must "suffer on their three score years." But you see what ATHLOPHOROS has done.

However Old your Case;
However Severe your Pains;
However Great your Disappointments,

Try Athlophoros

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.

The Greencastle (Pa.) Press relates how one poor little mouse brought dismay into a happy household: A lady in Coseytown discovered a mouse in the family flour barrel. She summoned her husband and told him to get the gun, call the dog and station himself near the scene of the onslaught. Getting up on a high chair she commenced punching the flour barrel with a pole. The poor mouse soon made its appearance and started across the floor, the dog immediately in pursuit. In the excitement the man fired the gun, killing the dog, and the lady fainted and fell off the chair. The man, thinking she was dead, and fearing arrest for murder, cleared out and has not been heard of since. The mouse escaped.

Dr. Sketchley, who has charge of the ostrich farm at Anabeim, was plucking one of the things one day. When they pluck them a stocking is kept on the head to blind the bird. While he cannot see he is quiet, but if his blinkers get uncovered then he "goes for" the plucker. The doctor moved his arm so as to disturb the stocking, and instantly he saw what was done and went head first out of the pen, not caring for any more plumes just then. As he tumbled head first over the fence the bird—he was a jack one, of course—let fly a kick which, striking a fence board, made toothpicks of a whole panel length. The mule's occupation as a kicker is gone in this country since the ostrich came.—Los Angeles Express.

Miss Kate Smulsey, of Fort Plain, the famous faster, whose case has attracted the attention of the whole scientific world, and who is claimed to have abstained from food nearly three hundred days, is to all appearances as hearty as ever. The ruddy glow of her face and comparatively plump form, that so thoroughly puzzled those who examined her some time ago, remain the same, and are sadly out of keeping with the assertions of her mother and others, who stoutly aver that not a mouthful of food has passed the faster's lips in over six months. "It is impossible for her to eat," Mrs. Smulsey says, "and none of us can tell what has kept here alive." Dr. Zoller, her physician, states it was all a mystery to him. He can give no explanation of the case, and does not know how her life has been sustained so long The young lady does not sleep more than one hour out of twenty-four, and is extremely restless when awake. Many continue to maintain that the whole thing is a hoax, and it certainly does look as though Miss Smulsey has some mode of obtaining food, and it is possible that she does so without the knowledge of her attendants.—Amsterdam (N. Y.) Sentinel.

The Governor of North Carolina said to the Governor of South Carolina: "Sir, the best remedy in the world is Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup" and the latter seconded the assertion.

A cocking main took place near Flushing, L. I., Tuesday night, Dec. 30th, between Long Island and New Jersey birds, for $1000 a side and $100 on each battle. Eight battles were fought, New Jersey winning five and the main. It is estimated that over $20,000 changed hands on the results.

The Engineer

Of the Wakefield, Mass., Rattan Works, C. N. Young, says: In all cases of biliousness accompanied with those terrible sick headaches, I have found no other medicine that seems to take hold and do the good that your Sulphur Bitters does. It is the best family medicine made.

The Railway Age says the total of new main line track added during the year has been a little under 4000 miles. This is about 3000 miles less than that in 1883, and about 7600 miles less than the total reached in the wonderful year 1882.

Catarrh

Is a very prevalent and exceedingly disagreeable disease, liable, if neglected, to develop into serious consumption. Being a constitutional disease, it requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, acting through the blood, reaches every part of the system, effecting a radical and permanent cure of catarrh in even its most severe forms. Made only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

At Augusta, Me., Dec. 30th, John S. Baker, Mrs. Tuck's murderer, was sentenced to the state prison for life. Harry Burns, for shooting Policeman Lishness, was given seven years in the state prison. A motion for a new trial was filed in the case of Charles Morgan Wallace.

Humors.

By its great and thorough blood purifying properties, Wetherell's Sarsaparilla cures all humors, from the worst scrofula to a common blotch, pimple or eruption. Mercurial diseases, mineral poisons and their effects are eradicated and vigorous health and a sound constitution established. Erysipelas, salt rheum, fever sores, scaly or rough skin, in short, all diseases causad by bad blood are conquered by this powerful purifying and invigorating medicine. Sold by all dealers.

A THRILLING STORY.

As Told by a Merchant in Troy, N. Y.—A Surgical Operation Avoided—How a Father, Wife and Daughter Escaped an Awful Doom.

Of the hundreds of accounts of remarkable cures wrought by DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, none have appeared so purely astonishing as the following. The persons mentioned are among the most highly respected in the city of Troy, and the story as told by the father will prove interesting to all our readers.—ED.

TROY, N. Y.

Dr. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:

DEAR SIR: My daughter was afflicted with a severe growth of Fungus. To remove it we had resorted to almost every remedy and consulted the most prominent surgeons and physicians. Dr. ——, of Troy, said that a surgical operation would be necessary, but fearing fatal results I hesitated. Some of the physicians claimed that it was caused by one thing and some by another. The Fungus was prominent and disfigured her looks. Having heard of Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY working so thoroughly on the blood I determined to try it, to see if this medicine could do what doctors had failed to do and surgeons had hardly dared to undertake. I can say in truth that the result of th s trial was the complete cure of my daughter of this dreadful malady. Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY alone effected it. We used nothing else, for other things had completely failed. My daughter today enjoys vigorous health and to Favorite Remedy alone is the credit due. My wife also was very poor in health, due to some liver difficulty with which she had suffered a long time until she became very much reduced in flesh. A trial of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy has resulted in the complete restoration of her health, which she had not enjoyed for years. She had gained in flesh and strength, and thus secured perfect health, and this is DUE ENTIRELY TO DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY. As for myself, being engaged in the grocery and commission business, which makes it necessary for me to test the quality of different articles, like butter, etc., my sense of taste and my stomach were seriously injured. Everything seemed to nauseate me, and fearful of dyspepsia in its most severe form, I tried DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY. The first bottle afforded immediate relief, and from that day to this I can say that Favorite Remedy has restored me to perfect health. These are facts which I claim prove that Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is the best medicine in the world for those afflicted with the above difficulties. If any one in the city of Troy doubts the truth of these statements let him come to me and I will prove them. I have recommended Favorite Remedy to hundreds and with the same good results.

Yours, etc., WILLIAM WINDSOR.

GETTING RICH BY LUCK.

The Use of Dangling Over a Gully—A Miner Who Pocketed $100,000, and Didn't Break His Neck Either.

The headquarters of most of the working miners who come to New York is said to be at a small hotel, where a gold and black sign outside contains the legend, "Miners' Arms," and a very large one above the bar reads:

"Owing to parties having been swindled by confidence men our patrons are strictly cautioned not to lend money or become intimate with strangers."

"No drinks sold Sundays" is in very small letters below the large sign. Most of the patrons of the house seem to be from Cornwall and Scotland. They stop here when they first land in America.

After a day or two employed in getting his bearings and a knowledge of the currency, the new miner takes a train for the West. Frequently nothing is heard from him for years, but sooner or later a brawny fellow with his chest thrown out and his head up, dressed in a thick flannel shirt, a broad-brimmed hat, and corduroy trousers, will elbow his way through the crowd of new arrivals, and, stopping before the bar, will express his delight at meeting an old acquaintance in language not to be mistaken. He is at once invited to nominate his poison, and usually says that he takes it straight.

That is what Charles Tregoning said when he reached the bar, after six years in Nevada and the Black Hills. Having quenched his thirst he brought a gold brick out of the recesses of his clothes and passed it over to the clerk, who weighed it, and then counted out £180 in Bank of England notes. This, with a much larger pile of American greenbacks, was placed in the hotel safe. To a tenderfoot near by Tregoning said:

"I have been six years in the mountains. Sometimes I worked in the quartz mines, sometimes I twisted a brake on the narrow-gauge railroad, sometimes I washed the dirt along the river. I could usually get enough to eat, but not always; and sometimes I struck it rich. It is all luck."

"No doubt about that."

"Not a bit. When I was in the Gunnison district three years ago there was a fellow who was prospecting along a gulch where the ground sloped off as steep as the roof of a country cottage for fifty feet, and then there was a clear drop of I don't know how much more, to a brook that tumbled along over the rocks. Well, he was about dead broke, and was stumbling along not caring much what became of him, till he stepped on a round stone that sent him rolling down toward the gully at a rate that made him tear up the soil in handfuls to save himself.

"It was no use. Over he went, but to his great astonishment he landed safe, if not sound, on a narrow ledge on the opposite side of the chasm about ten or twelve feet down. When he had pulled himself together a bit he looked around and saw that his ledge was not much good for him, for it narrowed off both up stream and down, while the water below it was at least forty feet away. After thinking awhile he concluded he could jam one end of his gun into a crevice behind him, so that the butt would hang over the chasm. To this he could have tied a rope, if he had one, which he hadn't. In place of a rope he determined to use his belt slit up into three pieces, and strips cut from his corduroy trousers.

"When he got this curious line completed it reached a little over half way to the water. He thought he could drop the rest of the way without any serious damage, and proceeded to make one end of the line fast to the butt of the gun. He was very nervous over it, and just when he thought he had it tied the coil slipped over the ledge, the weight of it brought up his hand with a jerk, and down it went.

"I reckon he thought he'd lost all his friends. Then he did just what any one else would have done. He got up very carefully and began to walk along the ledge he was on. Up-stream it soon terminated. Then he went down-stream. The ledge grew narrower until he just had a foot-hold. At the same place the gulch grew narrower. He had proceeded about fifty feet and was hoping to find his way out of the difficulty when somehow his foot slipped again, and, whirling around, he pitched out over the gulf. His hands flew out before him and struck against the rocks opposite, leaving him suspended above the gulf that was forty feet deep below. For about five minutes he was not in condition to see anything, but at the end of that time he began to look around for the third time to find means of escape. His eyes fell on the rocks opposite pretty soon, and then he forgot all about his danger. The pay-streak that was cropping out there was the biggest he'd ever seen. It was a trying moment after all. He said afterward that if he hadn't noticed that the gulch grew narrower and the ledge wider as it went down-stream, he would have just let go and dropped, leaving one of the big mines of the district to be discovered in some other way by some other man."

"Then he got out all right?"

"You bet, and sold out in a week for $100,000, and went to the States."

The tenderfoot looked around at the door, and then said, hesitatingly:

"Did that chap furnish any sworn documents to prove his story of the find?"

The clerk at that moment placed an open box of cigars on the bar with a smart slap.

"Take a smoke, boys," he said.

The miner looked reproachfully at the tenderfoot and then at the clerk, and, having lighted a cigar at the little red alcohol lamp, borrowed $5 of the clerk for spending money, and walked away. At the street door he turned around and said:

"Young man, the papers were not necessary. I was that chap myself." New York Sun.

Bob Ingersoll's Big Fee.

While ex-Senator Dorsey was here in attendance at the cattle convention he was asked one day how much he paid Bob Ingersoll for his defense in the star route trials. "Well," said he, "it was very curious how that was done. From the beginning to the end of the trial Ingersoll never asked me a dollar. One day, after I had been acquitted on the second trial, I met Ingersoll and I asked him how much I owed him. He at first declined to talk about it, saying he had no charge to make and he didn't care if he never got a cent. I asked him to walk a few squares with me, and we went to a safe deposit building. I unlocked my box, and took out a 4 per cent government bond for $100,000 and gave it to him. He put it in his pocket and we walked away, and have not referred to the subject since.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Negro Who Was No Good.

There were three or four of us in a grocery store in Macon when a tall, solemn-looking negro entered and presented a written order for $5 worth of goods.

"Did Colonel Dunlap give you this order?" sharply inquired the grocer.

The negro scratched his head and looked uneasy.

"Did he sign it for you?"

"Say, boss," slowly began the man, "has you any doubts dat Kernul Dunlap signed dat ar' order?"

"Of course I have."

"Den dat settles de case an' I doan' want no trade. If my son Julius can't do better dan dat arter practicin' fur a hull week I'ze gwine home to tell him dat he kotter dat cotton-cucumber and knock up de cotton chopper."—Detroit Free Press.

Lucky Adam.

Many absurdly sentimental things have been written of the departure of Adam and Eve from Eden. Away with such bosh. Adam and Eve had a good thing and an easy time. They didn't have to pay the furniture wagon man a cent, and Adam didn't have to knock off his regular work for a whole day in order to help move. He didn't have to notify the postoffice to send all the letters to No. 7988. He had no trouble about getting the carrier to leave his daily paper at his new address. He did not swear off the roof of his new house in trying to find his hair brush, forgetting that it had been packed in the bottom of a barrel that had been overlooked in the moving and had not arrived with the other things. He had no misgivings about putting up the stove, and there were no carpets for him to put down after all the furniture had been moved in. All was lovely outside of Eden, with nothing for Adam to do but stir the ground for a little garden truck. Happy, lucky Adam.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Many persons—especially parents—object to many quack nostrums as likely to engender or encourage a love for strong drink. They are right. Better die of disease than of drunkenness. THE WRONG MAN.

"Why, Gertrude," says mamma, "I believe he is the new curate. I am glad of it, for indeed I have never had the pleasure of meeting a more agreeable young man. Ah, here are your papa and Mr. Dacre," she adds quickly, and in another moment I am shaking hands with my future husband.

I didn't like him. It is foolish to let such a feeling take possession of me; but the instant our eyes meet, I feel that it will be impossible for Reginald Dacre to make me happy. We could never agree.

He is fair, and I hate fair men. He is big and stout, and I admire above everything, a man with a slight figure.

Besides, his voice is so rough, and when he laughs, people look round in surprise.

There is no restraint about him, no lavish attention to the convenances of life.

And this is the husband my parents have chosen for me.

"Isn't he splendid!" says Letty timidly, when our long drive from the railway station is over, and we are comfortably seated in the room we are to share together during her stay.

"Who, the curate?" I ask abruptly, and then color to the eyes. "What in the world have I been thinking about?"

"The curate," repeats Letty, "the curate, Gertrude? He is a very pleasant young man. I dare say; but no one would think of comparing him with Mr. Dacre."

"I suppose not!" rather drily. "So you admire Mr. Dacre, Letty?"

"He is very nice," returns Letty, and she sighs. "You are a lucky girl, Gertrude, to have such a home, such parents, and such prospects."

"Oh, my dear!" I say lightly, "I thought you pitied me. Do you remember how you cried over me yesterday?"

"I was a fool," Letty cries energetically. "Since I have seen Mr Dacre, I have come to the conclusion that you will be very happy."

"And since I have seen Mr. Dacre, I have come to the conclusion that I shall be very, very miserable." This is what I feel inclined to say; but I don't say it, because I know that such a confession would make my little friend feel unhappy.

A week glides away. The more I see of Reginald Dacre, the less I like him. Not that he is a bad man, or an ill-natured one; but there is no affinity between us. I am sure he feels this himself, for he seems far happier in Letty's society than in mine.

Poor Reginald! He is almost as much afraid of me as he is of George Gardiner, the new curate. I cannot help laughing to myself when I see them together, for loud, outspoken Reginald grows quite nervous and awkward in Mr. Gardiner's presence.

He likes the parson better in the pulpit than he does out of it, he tells Letty.

My little friend would shed more tears over me than she ever did over her novels if she could know of the trouble I am in, for, alas! before we have been at Drimlea a month, I know that I have fallen in love with the wrong man.

Does she guess, I wonder—that she looks so grave at times? Is it possible that I am wearing my heart on my sleeve? I hope not, for I would not have any one know the truth for the world.

Mamma has told George of the family compact, and he never speaks to me of love. Never? Well, his eyes say a great deal, but his voice is silent. He is master of his tongue, if his truant glances betray him.

A more honorable man than George Gardiner never lived.

One night, as I lay awake, thinking of my unhappy attachment, I hear Letty sobbing convulsively. The childish grief startles me; I take her in my arms, and beg her to tell me what is the matter, kissing the pure, tear-stained face with sisterly affection.

But she will not tell me the cause of her grief, and a sudden thought strikes me—are these tears for her friend?

"Letty," I say, calmly, "there is nothing to cry about; we cannot have everything in the world exactly to suit our wishes, my darling."

"I know that," returns Letty, meekly. "Oh, Gertrude! you must let me go away, and, when I am no longer here, he will see how far better you are than a silly little creature like me, and learn to forget that there was ever such a person as Letty Ward. Yes Yes! When I am gone you will be happy."

What on earth is the child talking about? Has she taken leave of her senses? I hold her trembling little figure more tightly and say, in soothing tones:

"I don't understand you, dear. Why should you go away?"

"You think I ought to stay?" she asks, looking at me in the moonlight with her large, wistful eyes. "Gertrude, do you know what you are saying? You are the best friend I ever had, and I would die rather than stay here and ruin your happiness forever!"

I am beginning to understand what she means now, and a feeling of unutterable relief takes possession of me. Reginald Dacre has fallen in love with my friend.

"Letty," I say, cheerfully, "I have a secret to tell you, and when you hear it, I think you will dry those foolish little eyes, before your tears have washed all their beauty away."

It is easy enough to tell Letty my story, but more difficult to explain matters to mamma, who at first is deeply offended with Reginald, Letty, and myself for disappointing her, and upsetting all her plans. But after a time she comes down and acknowledges that it is all for the best. How can she help saying so, when she sees how happy Reginald and Letty are together.

And so I am not made miserable for life through falling in love with the wrong man, for my mother and father are very fond of their only daughter; and when they find my heart is set upon it, they give their consent to my marriage with George, and I am now the very happiest woman in the world.

Mr. George F. Evans, of Louisville, Ky., the assistant to President Jonas H. French of the Louisville, Evansville & St. Louis Air line, has received official notification that the road had been placed in the hands of a receiver. Mr. Evans has been appointed to assume the trust. President French lives in Boston, and the active management has been almost exclusively delegated to the assistant president, Mr. Evans. The immediate cause of the appointment of a receiver was a heavy outstanding construction debt. Disparaging rumors involving the air line property recently excited the creditors, who demanded prompt relief.

With the first number in January "Littell's Living Age" begins its one hundred and sixty-fourth volume. The ablest minds of the time are more than ever finding expression in foreign periodical literature, and the best of this literature is presented by the Living Age with a satisfactory completeness nowhere else attempted. The value to its readers of this standard magazine is therefore constantly increasing. The first weekly number of the new year has the following table of contents: English Songs, Ancient and Modern, Nineteenth Century; The Liberal Movement in English Literature, National Review; The Home Life of a Court Lady, Temple Bar; Wurzburg and Vienna, Contempory Review; Borroughdale of Borroughdale, Macmillan; At Any Cost, Sunday Magazine; Style and Miss Austen, Macmillan; The Archbishop of Dublin, London Times; etc., with the usual amount of choice poetry. This, the first number of the new volume, is a good one with which to begin a subscription. For fifty-two numbers of sixty-four large pages each (or more than 3,300 pages a year) the subscription price ($8) is low; while for $10.50 the publishers offer to send any one of the American $4.00 monthlies or weeklies with "The Living Age" for a year, both postpaid. Littell & Co., Boston, are the publishers.

In a Hopeless Minority.

A few years ago Mike McGloin found himself delayed one Sunday in a country town in middle Georgia, where a big revival meeting was in progress. Mike had a supply of fluid rations in his satchel, and by nightfall was quite liberal in his state of feelings. Hearing the shouting and singing in the church, Mike went down there to observe the proceedings. He was forced to find a seat near the front row of benches, usually reserved for "the mourners." The meeting was growing interesting, and the preacher grew fervent. Soon he called out:

"All of you who want to go to heaven, please stand up!"

Every one in the church stood up except Mike, who didn't comprehend that he was a part of the "everybody" addressed.

The preacher and the congregation stared at Mike very hard, and the former saw a chance to administer a rebuke, and when the people were again seated, he called:

"Now all of you who want to go to hell, stand up!"

He stared at Mike; and Mike, dimly catching on to the formalities of the affair, stood up in view of the whole crowd. Seeing nobody standing but himself and the preacher, Mike solemnly waved his hand at the latter and said:

"Well, (hic) parson, it 'pears that you'n me is (hic) in er hopeless minority, don't it?"

The meeting was adjourned by the horrified preacher, amid the suppressed laughter of the crowd, and Mike was helped to lodgings by the town marshal. —Exchange.

—A woman who had a bad fall on an icy spot on the sidewalk stood by the place till she had seen several men go down, and then walked off, apparently satisfied. Their expressions of intense interest were apparently balm to her bruises, and compensated for what she could not say for herself.

—The Boston Post charges western journalism with always alluding to death as "the grim monarch." That is not true. Within a week the Detroit Post has seen two references in which he was stamped as "the insidious monster with the clammy hand."

—"Thank you, sir," said the polite stranger, as he picked himself up from the sidewalk whither he had been thrown by tripping over Slimboy's cane; "thank you; now I know what you carry that thing for, and why you carry it in that way. Thank you, sir; my curiosity is gratified at last."

—In a Michigan perjury trial it came out that the prisoner had uplifted his left hand instead of the right in making oath to the lie, supposing that thereby he exculpated himself from legal responsibility.

—The Belfast Age says that Bath, Me., is a lovely place to be married in. The local paper gives from half to a whole column account of the wedding, a list of the presents, even to the pickle jars, butter knives and nut picks, and the names of all the donors.

—"So, you have finally made up your mind you won't have me?" he asked. "Yes, firmly," she replied. "I suppose you take me for a fool for proposing to you so often." "No, sir; I don't take you for a fool. I wouldn't have you for a gift."

The colored people of the city held their annual Emancipation ball in Franklin hall this year, on Thursday evening last; it was largely attended, and the amusement was kept up until a late hour. Among the white citizens present during the evening were Mayor Page and several other members of the city government, and Ex-Mayor Sise, during whose administration these balls were inaugurated.

The funeral services of the late Jonathan T. Walker, of Rye, were held in the Congregational church in that town on the 31st ult., Rev. Mr Boynton, pastor of the church, officiating, assisted by Rev. Mr. Phillips of the Christian church, both paying eloquent tribute to the usefulness and integrity of the deceased. The hymns sung by the choir were singularly appropriate, and so feelingly rendered as to bring unaccustomed tears to many eyes. The church was filled with relatives and friends desirous of paying the last public tribute of respect to one who left his descendants the priceless heritage of an unblemished name.

The entertainment by Marshall P. Wilder, the renowned humorist, Mrs. Nellie Brown-Mitchell, soprano, two violinists and a pianist, at Music hall in aid of the Pearl street church, will be given next Monday evening, Jan. 5th. The proceeds will go toward paying off the church debt. The cause is a good one, and our exchanges endorse the entertainment as excellent.

The schooner Golden Gate, which arrived from Boston on Thursday, will haul up for the winter at Kittery. The schooner Estella, which arrived from Boston on Friday, will haul up at one of the north-end wharves.

Seventeen men employed at the Eastern railroad machine shop in Portland have been discharged by order of General Manager Furber.

Representative "Tom" Reed, of the first Congressional district of Maine, has his opinion of Cleveland's civil-service reform letter. Asked what he thought it, he said: "Well, I like it. It gives assurance that all the sneaks of our party will be cared for, and all the honest men bounced."

This is the way a York county correspondent of the Sun talks about some of the government jobs which Mr. Geo. William Curtis' "very hungry and very thirsty" friends are preparing to feast upon: "At Saco, whose only foreign business is a few schooner loads of truck each year from the British provinces, there are three useless offices, for which the natives are making a wild rush. They are the collectorship, $250 and fees; deputy, $450; and inspector, $730. The York custom house pays the incumbent $260 and fees, and pays the government next to nothing. Mr. E. C. Moody, a modest and retiring democrat of the old-fashioned sort, would take this place if urged to do so."

There is to be a masquerade party in Trefethen's hall Kittery, on Tuesday evening, the 6th inst.

—"Off on a spree, Wiswall?" said a college professor, as he met on the cars a student noted for his dissipated habits. "So am I," was the quick response.

A New Serial Story,

By F. C. BAYLOR,

IS COMMENCED IN THIS NUMBER.

Several chapters of MARY AGNES TINCKER'S charming story, Aurora, with a frontispiece, also appear, together with other Short Stories, Poems, and Articles of interest upon Current Topics.

PROSPECTUS FOR 1885.

Among the chief periodicals of the country, LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE has acquired the distinctive reputation of being "eminently readable." Arrangements have been made for many contributions of special interest during the coming year. Among these particular attention is invited to a serial story entitled "ON THIS SIDE," by F. C. Baylor, author of "The Perfect Treasure" (commenced in the January number) in which the experiences of an English baronet and his friends during a tour through the United States are related with a mirth-provoking humor, a knowledge and appreciation of national characteristics, and a perfect fairness of tone and freedom from caricature that cannot fail to secure critical approval and wide popularity. Miss Tincker's beautiful novel, "Aurora," will be completed in the summer, and will be followed by several stories in two or more parts, including "The Lady Lawyer's First Client," by the author of "A Later-Day Saint."

Sketches of Italian Life, by Mrs. Launt Thompson, an account of the Pioneers of Tennessee, by "Edmund Kirke," a narrative of the experiences of a Steerage Passenger to and from Liverpool, by Thomas Wharton, an article on Queen Anne, or Free Classic Architecture, by George C. Mason, Jr., and a Comedy for private theatricals, by James Payn, will be published in early numbers, together with the usual variety of short stories and articles of general interest by popular writers.

A Bangor man has prepared a bill to be introduced in the Maine legislature providing for legal voters casting their ballots by proxy. It is thought that already in some places there is quite enough of this kind of voting.

—Don't squeeze any small, square and suspicious-looking envelope that happens to come in your wife's mail. It will probably contain her new bonnet.

—A tramp will take a dead cat under his arm and go to the front door, ring the bell and ask for salt. The lady will curiously ask what he intends to do with the cat. With a tear in his eye he will say he has had nothing to eat for a week and intended to eat it, and "can't eat it without salt." Then the poor woman will give him some salt, for she is too old to be taken in by such a dodge as that.

The Centre of the World's Observation.

The eyes of the world are upon the Industrial Exposition in the full tide of success in the Crescent City. It was inaugurated on Dec. 16th, with an Extraordinary Grand Drawing of the famous Louisiana State Lottery, which, by its strict integrity in its management, (on behalf of the noble Charity Hospital there) is not the least attraction to visitors. M. A. Dauphin, New Orleans, La., will give any information about the 176th Monthly Drawing, on Tues ay, January 13th, 1885. Be advised in time, therefore.

WOLF'S COMET.

Its History Told by A Professor of Haverford College Observatory.

Wolf's comet, discovered in Germany, a few weeks ago, now a teleseopic object near the zenith in the evening, is shown to have been an elliptic orbit, and to make a complete revolution once every six years. It is therefore, a new member of the Jupiter group of comets, a group which reach out from the sun about as far as Jupiter's orbit, at their greatest distance, and then approach much earer.

There is a distinct relation existing between the time of a body's revolution and its distance. This was discovered by Kepler and is thus stated: The squares of the times of revolution of planets or comets are proportioned to the cubes of their mean distances from the sun. Now, Jupiter, moves in an orbit nearly circular, and requires about twelve years to go around. The comet moves in a flattened ellipse, and needs six years. The times of revolution are then as one to two. If we apply Kepler's law, we will have as one square is to two squares, so is the cube of the comet's distance to the cube of Jupiter's distance. This makes Jupiter's mean distance about one and a half that of the comet's. But the sun lies in the center of Jupiter's orbit, and near one end of the comet's, hence we see that the orbits are not very far distant from each other, at the outer end of the comet's path. There are eight or ten other comets of which the same may be said. It is hardly likely that this is accident, and a very plausible cause has been assigned which may be outlined as follows:

Could we trace Wolf's comet back through its past history we should probably see it yielding to the impulse of our sun's attraction while yet far beyond the bounds of the solar system, and rushing in upon us. Its momentum previously obtained, we know not how or where, prevents it from moving directly towards the sun, but if let free to itself it would approach it closely with ever increasing velocity, swing around and fly off in an endless curve, into unknown space, never again approaching our sun. But in its course through our system, it has passed a little in front of Jupiter. The great mass of the planet exercises an attractive influence on the mass of the little comet, puts a brake on it, and considerably checks its velocity. Not now having a momentum to carry it far away from the sun it yields to its great attraction, and continues a fixed member of our system, at each revolution receding to the point where Jupiter had first checked its velocity. This is the theory of the existence of all these comets with their aphelia lying all around Jupiter's orbit. The planet has picked up the wanderers one by one, and claimed them to us. How many times Wolf's comet has been going around before discovery is not easily known. But having now been found and its orbit computed it can be readily followed, unless, like some others of its kind, it chooses to break itself into fragments and disappear from sight.—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Triumph of A Photographer.

Americans have been for years past acquiring a very brilliant reputation abroad. And now comes to the front at Brooklyn, Mr. T. R. French, who has managed to do what nobody could do before—photograph the human larynx when in motion. Dr. Lenox Brown, of London, has obtained some photographs of a professional singer's larynx while in the act of singing. He made even a photograph of the chords when they were producing falsetto notes. But he succeeded in doing it only in this particular case, in which the singer, possessing an unusual unirritable throat did his best to help him in his experiments. Mr. French, on the other hand, managed by use of a pistol camera and a magnifying glass, to obtain photographs of all kinds of throats—healthy as well as in firm, irritable as well as unirritable working as well as at rest. The great point was to catch the impression as quickly as possible, and, by means of his pistol camera, he managed to snap impressions of deep inspirations as well as expirations, of contralto, soprano, and all kinds of deep and high notes. He obtained even impressions of the posterior nares, so difficult of access in a living being.—Philadelphia Press.

A Negro Who Was No Good.

There were three or four of us in a grocery store in Macon when a tall, solemn-looking negro entered and presented a written order for $5 worth of goods.

"Did Colonel Dunlap give you this order?" sharply inquired the grocer.

The negro scratched his head and looked uneasy.

"Did he sign it for you?"

"Say, boss," slowly began the man, "has you any doubts dat Kernul Dunlap signed dat ar' order?"

"Of course I have."

"Den dat settles de case an' I doan' want no trade. If my son Julius can't do better dan dat arter practicin' fur a hull week I'ze gwine home to tell him dat he better drap educashun and pick up de cotton chopper."—Detroit Free Press.

Rachel and Ristori.

One day Rachel took it into her head to transfer the histrionic duel between herself and her Italian rival from the field of tragedy to that of comedy, from the stage into real life, by playing the part of Celimene on the man who had made Ristori a marchioness. Fortunately for herself she confided this eminently feminine design to a friend who knew more about love than she did, and who dissuaded her from her purpose by these words: "Take care what you are about. You are the most admirable tragedienne on the stage, not off it. You are by no means a tragical person. Mme Ristori is a tragedienne in real life and she is also physically a very powerful woman. Look at her neck, it is as vigorous as that of an antique statue, and compare your elegant, slender neck with it. Beware! If the Italian woman perceives what you are up to, you will find that she is not a Venetian for no purpose. She would be apt to wring your lovely little neck."—Paris Letter to New Orleans Picayune.

THE BEAUTY OF POMPEII.

Revelations of Architectural Magnificence in the Long-Buried City.

New objects of interest are continually revealed in this exhumed city of the ancient Romans. In two recently excavated houses the paintings on the wall are as fresh as if just put on, and the halls are rich with decorations. Some of the marble tables are still standing; the fountains in the atrium and perisyle, with their pretty little statues and mosaics, look as if they might begin to play at any moment; the kitchen hearths, built like ranges, seem ready for their pots and kettles; a few flower-pots are still set in the gardens; in the store-rooms are some oil jars and wine jars; it is as if one might begin housekeeping to-morrow and invite one's friends to dinner the day after.

One thing is difficult to conceive without seeing it, and that is the gorgeousness of the interiors of the private houses. The colors are now faded; the columns are broken; the mosaics of the floor are generally nearly destroyed; the fountains do not play; the flower-beds are destitute of flowers; yet, even as it is, one is continually amazed by the brilliant effect of the interior vistas. In one house the view from a triclinum across two courts, both surrounded by gayly decorated Corinthian columns standing before walls painted from top to bottom in a variety of colors, is dazzling to the eyes. The old Pompeiians lived in a rainbow atmosphere.

Another striking thing is the absolute cleanliness. You say that the dirt has all been taken away by the Italian government. That is true, but it is quite evident that in the old times it never was there. Our modern houses were never made to be clean, as were the Pompeiian residences. The walls, the floors, every corner of their homes were finished with the most admirable workmanship. In their rooms no plaster ever fell, for it was of such excellent material and so well put on that it soon became like marble. They had no wooden walls, no cracks where dust could penetrate. Water for cleansing was found in every part of the house, and ran off through perfect drains. All the tables and bedsteads were of marble or bronze; even the well-curbs and the borders of the flower-beds were of hewn stone. Hygiene must have came naturally to the old Pompeiian; he evidently had no chance to get a typhodial attack; the only case of diseases he could not provide against were the eruptive, and one of these carried him off at last.

The excavations are going on steadily, and are admirably managed. It is a delight to see one room after another revealed to the light of day. The authorities are now beginning to replace the charred timbers of the roofs with new ones. In this way some second-story balconies are kept in place, instead of being allowed to fall down as formerly. Over some of the most richly decorated houses the roofs are restored exactly as they were, with tiles made after the ancient patterns. * *

You would be astonished at the size of some of the Pompeiian houses, and of the rooms and spaces they inclose. They look small because they are empty, but when you measure them you find them very spacious. Houses of thirty and forty rooms in the first story are not uncommon. The great space was the atrium, often thirty-five to forty feet long, having an opening for light in the centre of the roof, and just under this a marble-lined basin, raised above the floor, into which the rain fell, and on the margin of which were placed bronzes and vases. Out of this opened bed-rooms, and at the end a reception room and dining-rooms. Beyond these was a peristyle, or court, surrounded by from eight to twenty columns, thus making a broad corridor running all around. Some of the peristyles were eighty or one hundred feet square, with a great variety of rooms opening into them. Beyond the peristyle was the garden, sometimes 150 feet square, or more, with all sorts of arrangements for plants and fountains. A good many of the elaborate niche-shaped fountains are still perfect. The street entrances to some of the houses are ten to fifteen feet in width, and had quadruple or four-leaved doors. In fact, so spacious are these dwellings on the ground floor that it is generally believed that the upper-story rooms were rented out. * * * * * *

The floors of the first and second stories were of cement, in which patterns of mosaic or tesselated work were laid. Many of these floors are uninjured. * * * The houses were admirably planned to save space, and the decorations, mural and otherwise, were far beyond our conceptions of the art of ornamentation. The workmanship, especially the plaster and stucco, was much better than can be produced by our modern craftsmen.

In examining Pompeii it is necessary to remember that it was a small provincial city, hearing about the same relation to Rome that Auburn or Utica does to New York. This increases our wonder in walking through its well-paved streets, or its richly adorned houses, or in studying the thousand and thousands of art objects in terra-cotta, bronze, silver, gold, alabaster, marble, and glass which have been discovered with even its walls—within less than half the city excavated.—Mechanical News.

The common impression that Australia has no great rivers is an error. The Darling is navigable for 2,345 miles, placing it third in rank among the rivers of the world, estimated by their navigable length, and considerably above the Nile, navigable for 1,500 miles; the Danube, navigable for 1,700 miles; the Rhine, 600, and the Thames, navigable for only 188 miles.

W. F. Devosset and Nathan Pass engaged in a street duel at Rockwood, Tennessee, Jan. 1st. They had a difficulty the day previous, and each swore vengeance. When the men met on the street they began firing at each other with shot guns. Devosset received one charge in the face and another in the arm, and Pass was shot in the forehead and neck.

The Weakness of King Cotton.

The most significant fact of the cotton exposition, says the New Orelans Picayune, is that it is a complete exposure of the weakness of the industrial king that has so long commanded the allegiance of the Southern States. It is certainly anything but a cotton exposition. The southern states in particular have almost ignored the fleecy monarch, and the stranger examining these displays would scarcely imagine that the commonwealths from which they come had been for generations little more than a vast cotton field. They do not see, as many of them doubtless expected, vast piles of cotton bales and great hampers filled with the fleecy staple. They look in vain for cotton exhibits. They see but little more of it in the Mississippi display than in that of Dakota.

A Genuine Cold Wave.

On Friday, Jan. 2d, Minnesota was engaged in cooling off, the temperature at Stillwater and Minnedosa being fifty below zero, with the wind blowing forty miles an hour at the latter place; at Bismarck it was forty-five below, at Moorhead forty-eight, at Huron forty-four, at Duluth and St. Vincent forty, and in the warm parts of the state fifteen below. At Winnipeg it was fifty-five below.

Disastrous Wreck.

The details of a terrible marine disaster were related to the Norwegian consul at Philadelphia on Friday, Jan. 2d, by two survivors of the crew of the Norwegian barque Lena, which went to pieces off Hog Island, Va., on Sunday, Dec. 28th. The captain, Albert Matenson of Arendal, Norway, whence the barque sailed, had lost his bearings in the dense fog which had hung over the sea for days, and was considerably out of his course. On Sunday afternoon, Dec. 27th, the fog lifted and the weather cleared. It was during the mate's watch, about four o'clock, when the vessel suddenly shook from stem to stern, and those on board knew in an instant that she had stranded.

The wind was blowing a gale, and the sea was running very high. In a moment the Lena was well up on the bar which she had struck, and the waves were beating over her with a wild fury which threatened her destruction. The weather was bitterly cold, and there was a coating of ice on decks and rigging which made the movements aboard exceedingly perilous. An effort, however, was made to launch the boats. The effort was a disastrous failure. Each was in turn broken to splinters by the raging sea, and the crew were then left without any means of escape. They clung to the vessel, however, as best they could, in the hope that the sea would subside and that something might transpire which would insure their safety.

After twenty-four hours of this wretched experience, during which they were nearly frozen, their hands and feet benumbed and frost-bitten, the barque under the force of a heavy sea suddenly went to pieces. Every person on board was precipitated into the waves, and with the exception of the two men who reached Philadelphia it is supposed that all were drowned. These two survivors, Anders Isaken and Peter Tonnesen, were fortunate enough to seize some planks from the wreck, on which they were carried ashore. They saved nothing besides their lives, however, and were compelled to borrow from the station agent at Bird's Nest station, Va., sufficient to pay their way to Philadelphia. The body of Capt. Matensen, who was thirty years old and leaves a widow in Norway, and that of Carlissen, the sailmaker, were washed up and buried on the beach of Hog island. None of the other bodies have been recovered. Theodore Jorgensen was the mate and there were seven seamen, of whom five are missing and doubtless lost, making the loss of life eight in all.

A Midnight Duel.

A special to the New York World from Albany, Ga., gives particulars of a remarkable duel on horseback in Colquit county of that state, in which one of the contestents was shot dead and another mortally wounded. There had been a grand reception at the residence of a Mr. Lake, at which the leading families of the county were represented. About midnight several persons were mounting their horses for the purpose of returning to their homes. Among the number were Homer and Elijah Carter and two Chastain brothers. As they rode by, Wright Weekly, who was in the act of mounting, cursed at them, and threatened to follow them up and "shoot it out." Putting spurs to their horses, the young men challenged him to follow. In an instant Weekly was upon his horse, and fired a pistol shot after the party as he pursued them. The four men immediately returned fire, and a regular duel on horseback began in the dark, the location of the combatants being marked by pistol flashes. Weekly's brother rode up to him, and grasping the reins of his bridle begged him to give up the fight. Just at that moment a bullet sped through Wright's brain, and his horse, turning, bore its dead rider back to the door of the house from which the guests had been watching the deadly conflict. The Carter party rode off, one of them, it is said, being mortally wounded. This tragedy grew out of one equally as bloody some years ago. Alfred Carter, a brother of those who took part in this encounter, was assassinated by Richard Baron as he was returning home one dark night. Alfred Carter's widow subsequently married Wright Weekly, much against the will of her late husband's brothers, Elijah and Homer; they have frequently attempted to draw the lady's second husband into ambush, and have at last succeeded in making her a second time a widow by murder.

—"You horrid thing!" said Miss Jaggs to Miss Minnie Jaggs, when they had sought their room; "you actually ate that biscuit after Uncle Horace had reached it to you on his own fork!" "Well, what of it?" "What of it? I should say what of it! The idea of touching anything that anybody else's fork had been in!" "It doesn't make any difference in Uncle Horace's case." "Why not?" "Because he never puts his fork in his mouth."

—Eight young girls, in white satin and carrying calla lilies, acted as pall-bearers at the funeral of Miss M. A. Tewes, daughter of a well known citizen of Baltimore. They did so in obedience to the dying request of the deceased girl. A brother of Miss Tewes celebrated requiem mass, and another brother acted as sub-deacon, both being Catholic priests. Miss Tewes was a leader of society in the part of the city where she lived.

Ringworm Humor and Salt-Rheum.

RAYNHAM, MASS., Aug. 12, 1878.
C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gentlemen— * * * I have had ringworm humor and salt-rheum so badly that my body was covered with raw sores; so, also, my head and face. I have had any quantity of doctors in the last seven years, and none of them could cure me. One day my mother was in the city of Taunton, and found one of your cook books, and in reading it I found many people testifying to cures from the use of your Sarsaparilla and Olive Ointment. I felt forced to try it, although I had seen many things advertised that never did me any good. I have now taken two small bottles and one large one of Sarsaparilla, and used three boxes of Ointment. I now call myself cured. Nothing can be seen of the humor but the dim outlines of the sores. I shall take two more bottles, and then the cure will be complete.
I am gratefully yours,
EDGAR F. WHITMAN.

Biliousness, Sick Headache.

PITTSFIELD, MASS.
MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gents—Please send me by express two bottles Hood's Sarsaparilla and a few Cook Books for distribution. Your preparation has worked wonders in the case of my wife, who has been troubled with sick headache and biliousness for years. She only took one-half teaspoonful at a dose, and has not been so well for five years as now. She found that within a week after taking it she felt very much better, and is now entirely free from those severe headaches. She has not taken any of any account since last spring, and what little she had is lent to do some others some good, and we must have it in the house.
Yours truly,
HOMER B. NASH.

"THERE WAS SOUND OF REVELRY BY NIGHT."

It was on New Year's evening, in the upper Franklin hall, where the polished floor shone with refulgent brightness eclipsed only by the complexions of Afric's fair daughters, when the chief magistrate led a blushing belle through the mazes of the merrie dance with which emancipation was appropriately celebrated. Suddenly, as the prompter called "Swing your pardners," a crash was heard.

"Great Cæsar fell.
O, what a fall was there, my countrymen!"

The alderman from the brewery ward exclaimed "The mayor has the floor!" but the remainder of the remark was last as it floated away in an Eddy in response to the call "All chasse," in which the entire terpsichorean force joined.

This evening, at Music hall, the grand entertainment in aid of the Pearl street church mortgage-lifting fund will be given, by Mr. Marshall P. It will be a first-class entertainment, without a doubt.

Sagamore Lodge, Knights of Honor, has elected the following officers: Dictator, Charles M. Anthony; asst. dictator, John E. Roberts; reporter, George E. Mudge; financial reporter, William Y. Evans; secretary and treasurer, Geo. E. Hodgdon.

Col. Bob Ingersoll will lecture in Music hall at an early date.

The schooner Georgie Hogan, owned by D. C. Hutchins, Burleigh Hutchins and John Fletcher of Cape Porpoise, Me., was bought last week by parties from this city, for $1800. She started from Cape Porpoise for this port on Wednesday, 31st ult.

Those who went to the south pond on Saturday—and many did go—expecting to enjoy an hour or two of good skating, were very much disappointed to find that the water had been let off from the pond, which broke up the ice so as to spoil the skating until after another thaw and another freeze.

Mr. Editor: Why cannot the public library be opened more frequently in the day time, say three afternoons in each week, so that persons living at a distance can more easily enjoy the privileges of the library? At present the people do not receive the equivalent for the outlay made for the library. SUBURBAN.

The Rockingham Masonic Mutual Relief Association, at a meeting held Friday evening, Jan. 2d, elected officers as follows: President, Charles M. Anthony; vice president, Wm. P. Walker; treasurer, Wm. H. Sise; secretary, John H. Cheever; medical examiner, John W. Parsons.

Three men who, it is alleged, entered Huntingdon's clothing store and Mason's hardware store at Norway, Me., on Wednesday night of last week, and who give the names of Thomas Burns of Portsmouth, N. H., Phillip Harrington of Gorham, N. H., and William Ross of Montreal, P. Q., were arrested on the midnight train from Lewiston to Brunswick and taken to Norway, on Friday. Conductor Cobb rendered assistance, as they fought desperately. Most of the stolen goods were recovered.

On the afternoon of the 1st inst. a party of hunters found in the woods near the village of Savannah, N. Y., a draft on a New York bank, a receipt for a registered letter, a package of bank checks, and a pocketknife covered with blood and hair. In a thicket near at hand was found a business suit of clothes, cut with a knife and drenched with blood. Search was continued, and a few feet away was found what appeared to be a shallow grave, covered over by stones and brush. When a few inches of earth had been removed from the grave the nude body of a man was found. He had evidently been dead about two weeks. The dead man was about forty years old. The back of the skull was crushed in, while his neck was severely cut. On the chest and trunk there were ten deep stabs, while the legs and arms were cut and bruised in numerous places. Other mutilations were found. No one was able to recognize the body.

Many imitators, but no equal, has Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

Spain continued to be shaken by earthquakes all last week, in spots, and the loss of life was terrible. Towns and villages were destroyed, and the suffering is terrible.

Right to the point

The Rev. J. E. Searles, of New York, is one of the most widely-known and highly esteemed of Methodist ministers.

Mr. Searles says: "I am impressed that it is a duty I owe to those afflicted with Rheumatism and Neuralgia, to say that a remedy has been discovered that is indeed a marvelous success. My son was greatly afflicted with Rheumatism, and suffered so severely that at times he was obliged to leave his pulpit and locked into his arm to get relief. While in this condition he discovered a remedy which effected immediate relief, and a permanent cure. He has since further testified to many others with the same result. I have also furnished it to a number of persons suffering with Rheumatism, and the result has been immediate relief and a permanent cure. Address, Lyon's Block, Rev. Wm. F. Corbit, pastor of the Bethesda M. E. Church, New Haven, Conn., who was suffering greatly with this terrible disease. I will give you his own words as written by my son, wishing him to publish the fact for the benefit of others suffering with the same disease.

What Mr. Corbit Says:

"New Haven, July 24, 1883.

"Mr. Searles: Dear Sir:—I wish to say for the benefit of all who are suffering with Inflammatory Rheumatism, that your medicine is infallible. I suffered for two months the most excruciating torture; lost 25 pounds of flesh, and was not out of my house for a month; I heard of your remedy, and was almost instantly relieved by it. If there is a specific for diseases of any kind, yours must certainly be for Inflammatory Rheumatism in its severest form.

"Yours most respectfully, WM. F. CORBIT, "Pastor Orange St. M. E. Church, New Haven, Conn."

Such is ATHLOPHOROS—a thorough and efficient cure for the worst cases of Rheumatism and Neuralgia.

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from our address.

Heine's Folk-Lore.

From an article by Emma Lazarus, entitled, "The Poet Heine," in the December Century, we quote the following: "Heine made peculiarly his own the rich and lovely realm of German tradition and folk-lore; he was undisputed master over the elves, kobolds, undines and fairies, the willis, wizards, enchantresses, and dwarfs that people the woods and springs of his fatherland. He created anew the Lorelei of the Rhine and the Venus of the Wartburg; he was the lover and beloved of all the exquisite creatures that inhabit the groves and water-ways, and in many a poem he has described how the nymphs or the mermaids come forth at twilight from their secret haunts to caress and entice the melancholy poet. Even in his own day he was accepted as a folk-singer, and his rhymes found their way to the heart of the people and the lips of the peasantry, side by side with the bird-like refrains of the mediæval minstrels. No surer proof than this could be offered of his thorough identification with the Teutonic spirit and genius. But it was the graft of a foreign tree that gave him his rich and spicy aroma, his glowing color, his flavor of the Orient. He was a seed sprung from the golden branch that flourished in Hebrew-Spain between the years 1000 and 1200. Whoever looks into the poetry of the mediæval Spanish Jews will see that Heine, the modern, cynical German-Parisian, owns a place among those devout and ardent mystics who preceded him by fully eight centuries."

The naval academy at Annapolis is either a necessary or useful institution, or it is not. If it is not, it should be abandoned; if it is, it should not only be maintained, but there should be no apprehension that it will at any time be embarrassed by want of proper funds. The democratic house of representatives refused to pass the bill appropriating money for the present needs of the establishment. This seems to us to be poor economy. Of course, the academy is to be kept up. The dropping out therefore in the meantime of some of the professors, and discharging those necessary to keep the academy in running condition, is simply so much waste. Not only this, but it puts all concerned, or who may be hereafter engaged in whatever capacity, in doubt as to whether their tenure of place is sufficiently insured to be worth accepting. In a word, this is mere boy's play on the part of the house, and no sensible democrat will give it any credit therefor. Evidently Mr. Cleveland will have a pretty tough party to manage, or to be managed by. It is not at all surprising that the most sanguine are more than doubtful as to the outcome of his civil service policy, even assuming it to be what he professes it is.

When others are suffering, drop a word of kindness and sympathy. If they are suffering from a cold, give them Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup; a few doses of this valuable remedy will afford instant relief, and a twenty-five cent bottle will cure the worst cough.

Otto Hines, belonging to the United States ship Wabash, at Charlestown navy yard, in attempting to get off a moving train at South Lawrence, Mass., Friday, was thrown violently to the ground, badly injured, and was taken to the Boston city hospital in an unconscious condition.

All Broken Down.

Is it not sad to see so many young men every day of whom this can be said? Young man, take my advice. Stop all indiscretions which you have practised, keep good hours, retire early, and build up your shattered system by using Sulphur Bitters, which will cure you.—Old Physician.

A Marlboro, Mass., shoemaker is getting up a pair of shoes for Rev. J. W. Freeman, a negro minister of Charlotte, N. C. The size of the parson's foot is not known, but that of the shoe is 34 1-2, and by actual measurement the inside pattern is nineteen inches long and eight inches in width. The parson is six feet ten inches tall, and weighs 410 pounds.

Tens of Thousand Colds

Lead to consumption, fevers, settled coughs, asthma, bronchitis, and croup, whooping cough, &c. Immediate relief by Dr. Seth Arnold's Cough Killer.

A despatch from Thomaston, Me., says: Mrs. Susan Hart, a domestic in the family of A. P. Gould, left the house on the night of November 1st with a man who was found in Mrs. Hart's room with her, and has not since been heard from. A body was discovered at Hilt's point, on Georges river, supposed to be hers, on the night of Dec. 31st. Mrs. Hart belonged in Cushing, and has two children there with her parents.

Chronic catarrh.—I have suffered for years from chronic catarrh. Six weeks ago I was induced to try Ely's Cream Balm. Relief was instantaneous, and continued use has resulted in an almost comple cure.—S. M. Greene, Book-keeper, Steamboat Co., Catskill, N. Y.

Was afflicted with catarrh and cold in the head. I tried many remedies without any beneficial effects, at last I used Ely's Cream Balm, which effectually cured me.—W. H. I. Hillard, Dentist, Bordentown, N. J

At the dance given by the Tarratine club in Bangor, Me., New Year's night, Hon. Hannibal Hamlin, ex-governor, senator, vice president and minister to Spain, was one of the friskiest leg-shakers on the floor. A THRILLING STORY.

As Told by a Merchant in Troy, N. Y.—A Surgical Operation Avoided—How a Father, Wife and Daughter Escaped an Awful Doom.

Of the hundreds of accounts of remarkable cures wrought by DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, none have appeared so purely astonishing as the following. The persons mentioned are among the most highly respected in the city of Troy, and the story as told by the father will prove interesting to all our readers.—ED.

TROY, N. Y.

Dr. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:

DEAR SIR: My daughter was afflicted with a severe growth of Fungus. To remove it we had resorted to almost every remedy and consulted the most prominent surgeons and physicians. Dr. ——, of Troy, said that a surgical operation would be necessary, but fearing fatal results I hesitated. Some of the physicians claimed that it was caused by one thing and some by another. The Fungus was prominent and disfigured her looks. Having heard of Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY working so thoroughly on the blood I determined to try it, to see if this medicine could do what doctors had failed to do and surgeons had hurrily decided to undertake. I can say in truth that the result of this trial was the complete cure of my daughter of this dreadful malady. Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY alone effected it. We used nothing else, for other things had completely failed. My daughter is now enjoying vigorous health and to Favorite Remedy alone is the credit due. My wife also was very poor in health, due to some liver difficulty with which she had suffered a long time until she became very much reduced in flesh. A trial of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy has resulted in the complete restoration of her health, which she had not enjoyed for years. She had gained in flesh and strength, and thus secured perfect health, and this is DUE ENTIRELY TO DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY. As for myself, being engaged in the grocery and commission business, which makes it necessary for me to test the quality of different articles, like butter, etc., my sense of taste and my stomach were seriously injured. Everything seemed to nauseate me, and fearful of dyspepsia in its most severe form, I tried DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY. The first bottle afforded immediate relief, and from that day to this I can say that Favorite Remedy has restored me to perfect health. These are facts which I claim prove that Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is the best medicine in the world for those afflicted with the above difficulties. If any one in the city of Troy doubts the truth of these statements let him come to me and I will prove them. I have recommended Favorite Remedy to hundreds and with the same good results.

Yours, etc., WILLIAM WINDSOR.

TO FORETELL WEATHER.

Signs Which Careful Observers May Rely Upon.

A communication to the Southern Planter deals with the subject of weather prognostics. Few intelligent people can have any sympathy with the so-called prophets who oracularly announce phenomena, giving dates, occasionally making lucky hits, but as often firing their random shots altogether wide of mark. That there is, however, something in weather philosophy, intelligent persons will be quite ready to concede, and they will be in accord with the view of the writer when he recommends the habit of observation of natural phenomena, which has been long practiced, its results being handed down to us in the homely weather proverbs with which all are familiar. There is good ground for belief that observations of this kind will prove useful, the more so as modern science enables us to give the reasons, unknown to our forefathers, for many phenomena, and thereby to determine the value of indications, by the association of causes with effect, instead of following blindly the perhaps erroneous observation of others. An apt illustration of this is furnished in the article under notice. Persons really intelligent and not uninformed have maintained that the direction of the milky way changes and imitates the course of the wind, when, as every child to-day knows, this film of white crossing the sky is resolvable by the microscope into myriads of stars, whose position is, of course, independent of terrestrial currents. How this deeply-rooted idea originated is a mystery, since it could not have come from observation. Careful and intelligent study in the field of weather phenomena would undoubtedly establish many facts, while it would dispel a great many errors and false inferences; the knowledge gained would be beside of practical interest and benefit to the observer and to the community, provided the observations were recorded. On this ground the writer's views well deserve commendation. He says:

If one could read the signs, each day foretells the next; to-day is the progenitor of to-morrow. When the atmosphere is telescopic and distant objects stand out unusually clear and distinct, a storm is near. We are on the crest of the wave, and the depression follows quick. It sometimes happens that clouds are not so indicative of a storm as their total absence. In this state of the atmosphere the stars unusually numerous and bright at night, which is also a bad omen. It appears that the transparency of the air is prodigiously increased when a certain quantity of water is uniformly diffused through it. Mountaineers predict a change of weather when, the air being calm, the Alps covered with perpetual snow, seem on a sudden to be nearer the observer, and their outlines are marked with great distinction on the azure sky. This same condition of the atmosphere renders distinct sounds more audible.

There is one redness in the east in the morning that means storm; another that indicates wind. The first is broad, deep and angry; the clouds look like an immense bed of burning coals; the second is softer and more vapory. At the point where the sun is going to rise, and in a few minutes in advance of his coming, there rises straight upward a rosy column, like a shaft of dyed vapor, blending with and yet separated from the clouds, and the base of which presently comes to glow like the sun himself. The day that follows is pretty sure to be windy.

It is uncertain to what extent birds and animals can foretell the weather. When swallows are seen hawking very high, it is a good indication, because the insects upon which they feed venture up there only in the most auspicious weather.

People live in the country all their lives without making one accurate observation about nature. The good observer of nature holds his eye long and firmly to the point, and finally gets the facts, not only because he has patience, but because his eye is sharp and his inference swift. There are many assertions, the result of hasty and incomplete observation, such as, for instance, that the way the milky way points at night indicates the direction of the wind the next day; also, that every new moon indicates either a dry or a wet month. There are many other stories about the moon, too numerous to mention. Again, when a farmer kills his hogs in the Fall, if the pork is very hard and solid he predicts a severe Winter; if soft and loose, the opposite, overlooking the fact that the kind of food and the temperature of the Fall make the pork hard or soft. Numerous other instances could be cited to prove that the would-be shrewd farmer does not interpret nature in the right way, and that his conclusions, being hasty and incomplete, are wrong; and until he studies nature understandingly, using a little common sense, so long will he be more or less under the ban of superstition and ignorance.

How He Fixed It.

A young gentleman in this city made a call at a certain house the other evening, and was hospitably entertained. During the evening he said some very foolish things, the recollection of which troubled him considerably. How to get out of the mess gave him a great deal of concern, and he applied to a bosom friend, a young man, for advice.

"I'll fix that for you all right," said the friend. "You keep cool, and I'll fix it."

The next day the indiscreet youth meet his friend, and asked him to report progress.

"It's all right as a trivet, old feller. I went up to the house last night and fixed it all up. I told the folks never to mind you, for you were drunk."

And now there is a coolness between those two young men which is likely to continue.—Merchant Traveler.

A Norwich woman wanted to dispose of a cat and kittens with chloroform the other day, and tried to give them a little laudanum in their milk first, to make them easy to handle. But the old cat refused to drink the doctored milk, cuffed the kittens away from it, and then covered up the saucer with a mat. The cats still live.

—A well known citizen of Androscoggin county, Me., has a wife who vowed she never would be weighed. The gentleman finally succeeded by a clever trick. He drove his team containing himself and wife on an Auburn man's hay scales, and talked business with the man, while a clerk, who had been instructed, weighed the team. Then he drove to Lewiston, left his wife, who had not seen through the transaction, returned, and had the team weighed again. He then performed a little problem in subtraction, and obtained a remainder of about 225 pounds.

What will Surely Do It.

One's hair begins to fail out from many causes. The important question is: What is sure to make it grow in again? According to testimony of thousands, Parker's Hair Balsam will do it. It quickly covers bald spots, restores the original color when the hair is gray or faded, eradicates dandruff, and causes the scalp to feel cool and well. It is not a dye, not greasy, highly perfumed, safe. Never disappoints those who require a nice, reliable dressing.

—"You may not believe me, gentlemen," said a weather-beaten tramp, approaching a crowd of brokers near the stock exchange, "but I lost a round sum of money on Wall street not so many years ago." The hat was passed around, and the tramp put away $1.75 in quarters. "How much was this round sum of money that you lost?" was asked. "It was a penny. I dropped it down a coal hole."

DANIEL LITTLEFIELD.

GOV. SEWARD'S VALET.

Now a Barber, but Once the Associate of Prominent Men.

There is a colored barber, writes Frank Carpenter, working at a chair nearest the window in a shop on F street, not far from the Ebbitt house, whose talents and education merit a better position. He is about forty years of age, nearly six feet tall, and his features are of the Caucasian type. His negro blood is shown only in his complexion, which is a dark mahogany. As to his manners and his language, they are as good as those of any man in Washington, and his sum of information is equal to that of many a man who ranks high in official life. Since his boyhood he has been closely associated with prominent men. He went round the world with Secretary Seward as his valet, and he occupied the same position in regard to Elihu Washburne while Mr. Washburne was our minister to Paris. There is hardly a country with which he is not familiar, and he has visited the different parts of Europe more than once. When he was a boy he shaved the senators of the days of 1850, and later at the old Kirkwood house, and his razor has often caressed the shaggy chin of Sam Houston, smoothed the cheeks of Andy Johnson, and wandered gently over the faces of a score of other noted men who have since passed away. As I sat in his chair to-day I asked him a question or two about ex-Secretary Seward. He said: "My brother was Senator Seward's servant at the time he was about to start out on his travels, but as he had just been married he did not wish to go with him and he got the senator to take me in his stead. It was a pleasant trip throughout. We had our own cook and were well supplied with all of the necessaries. Mr. Seward was a gentleman and he always treated me very well. His health was not good much of the time, and this of course kept him from always being in the best of humor. Secretary Seward did not like doctors, however, and I remember an incident illustrative of this which occurred while we were stopping with Lord Napier, the governor of Madras. One morning when Mr. Seward was feeling especially bad, the doctor called at the governor's house to see one of Lord Napier's family. His lordship, hearing Mr. Seward complain of feeling ill, asked him if he would not like to see the doctor. Mr. Seward replied, "No, governor, I cannot meet a doctor to-day. I am not feeling well, and I hope the doctor will excuse me." Mr. Seward never fully recovered from Payne's assault. It shattered his nervous system, and he bore the effect of it to the day of his death.

By the way, a curious example of office-seeking was that of the servant who let in Payne that night. He afterwards applied for a position under the government, and alleged as a reason why he should have it that he had been working at Secretary Seward's at the time the assassination was attempted. He failed to get the office.

"Did not Governor Seward write a book of travels during the tour?"

"Yes, or rather his adopted daughter wrote much of it at his dictation. It was largely her enterprise, you know, and Governor Seward gave her all of the profits of its publication. It sold well and must have netted her many thousands of dollars. During his travels the governor worked a part of every day. He wrote some and read a great deal."

"Governor Seward," continued this man, "was a man of wonderful information on all subjects, and he was always willing to impart it. If I wished to know anything about a subject during my service under him I went to him and he always gave me the knowledge I desired."

"Do you think he ever got over the presidential fever?" I asked.

"No," was the reply. "He never did. He was greatly disappointed when Lincoln was nominated over him, and I think he did not give up hope of getting to the White House even during his later years. He still clung to the idea that presidential lightning might perhaps strike him. But it never did."

"Have you any idea what his foreign trip cost him?"

"I think it was over $10,000. But he could afford it. He was wealthy, and when he died he left a fortune of half a million. This was divided among his two sons and his adopted daughter. One of his sons is now a banker at Auburn. This is William. I do not know what Frederick is doing."

"You were in Paris during the Franco-Prussian war, were you not?"

"Yes, but only the latter part of it, and at the time the American legation had plenty to eat. At Minister Washburne's there was always plenty of beef and we did not dine on horses. While I was with Mr. Seward, in Canton, China, I remember going in one day to get something at a restaurant. Mr Seward and his party were along. There was a bill posted in front of the restaurant and our interpreter read this to us. It was, 'Black cat soup, fresh every day.' In the market at Canton the rats for sale are strung like herring, and you will see the bodies of dogs quartered and hung up like sheep. At Mr. Washburne's I had a pleasant service. He was very kind indeed, and I have a standing invitation to come and stay at his house when I go to Chicago."—New York Graphic.

Alaska's Valuable Forests.

Alaska forests contain enough lumber to supply the world. The forests of pine, spruce, fir, and hemlock cover every island of the archipelago and a goodly portion of the mainland. The trees are straight and tall and grow close together. The only saw-mill at present in operation is at Douglas island, and so far there has not been a

THE GAGUS STALK.

The Most Terrible and Fatal Intoxicant Yet Discovered.

"Do you know what that is?" said the captain of a bark lately returned from a cruise in the southern seas to a Call reporter who was prowling around the water-front in search of items. He held in his hand what appeared to be a gaudily painted barber's pole shrunken to the size of a policeman's club. The reporter surveyed the object curiously and admitted that he could not guess what it was.

"That," continued the skipper, taking the nondescript object from the reporter's hands and caressing it as though it was a kitten, "is a piece of gagus stalk. It came from Gauptil island, near the Molucca group. I have navigated the south seas for many years, and I never saw it growing upon any other island, and I don't think you will find any seafaring man who hails from those waters but will bear out what I say."

"But what is it?" questioned the reporter, eyeing the curiosity. "Gagus root?"

"Yes, that's as near as we sailors can get to what the natives there call it. I've heard these four-eyed scientific lubbers call it by a name a yard long, but I might as well have tried to reef a mainsail alone as to reel it around my mental windlass. Gagus is good enough for me."

"Who painted it?" went on the reporter, a suspicion creeping into his mind that the captain had ornamented it with color for the purpose of selling it to some democrat to put in his hat.

"Painted it? Why, jigger me, that's the way it grew," cried the skipper, with a laugh. "I guess you haven't seen anything like it before."

The reporter admitted that he had not, and asked the captain to dissipate at once the cloud of mystery surrounding the "gagus."

"It is a species of cactus," he explained, "and, as I said, grows only, to my knowledge, on Gauptil island. The island is a small one, but is well populated by natives of the Malay race. In the interior this plant grows wild, flourishing especially in the red rocky soil. It looks beautiful when growing, as you might judge by the bright hues with which this is spotted. The main stalk is covered with sharp, nettle-like protuberances, and a prick from one of them will cause more pain than a handful of red pepper thrown in your eyes. When young the plant consists of but one stalk, which shoots up straight to a height of four or five feet. It is a brilliant scarlet in hue. Toward winter a number of offshoots spring out until the thing looks like a broom stood upright. Green and purple specks then appear all over it. A grove of gagus shrubs is a very pretty sight. But it is the properties of the plant which distinguish it. Opium is a potent drug, but I will back the extract from the gagus stalk to effect more damage on the human system than all the opium in the world. The natives cut the plant in the early spring. After they have gathered a sufficient quantity they put it in large bowls and crush it with huge stones. A grayish sap runs out freely, and this they collect and drink after letting it ferment, which it does easily. One drink of a pint is enough for an ordinary man, but I have seen natives drink more. Within half an hour after imbibing it the drinker becomes perfectly stupid, and lies around like a log. The spell lasts a day or more, during which time the natives say they live in paradise."

"Do white men drink it?"

"I have known sailors to try it, but they never tackled it twice. Three years ago I had a man in my crew who was driven crazy by one drink."

"What effect does it have upon the natives?"

"Well, that is where the gagus displays itself. If you could see some of the terrible examples of gagus-drinking in Gauptil you would be horrified. The first effect of the liquor is to soften the bones and gradually eat them away. There are natives there, the victims of gagus, who are indeed boneless and unable to walk or use their limbs. They then begin to wither away like this stalk until they die in misery and convulsions. Immediately after death the head of the corpse becomes soft as pulp, no bones can be felt; the skull is completely eaten away. The body then begins to swell as though it were inflated with gas, and immediate burial is necessary."

"How long does it take to thus devastate a human being?" asked the reporter.

"That is according to the appetite of the victim to the stuff. Usually two years will finish the hardest man. Oh, the sufferings of the slaves to the drink are terrible."

The piece of plant was again subjected to an inspection by the reporter, and this time with some manifest interest.

"You see it is hard," said the captain, dropping it on the deck to prove his words; "and this is harmless unless, I presume, it was soaked in water and the liquor drank."—San Francisco Call.

Remarkable Historical Incident.

The following account of an alleged story of an alleged incident of the secession war is going the rounds of the press, headed "A daring confederate officer:"

First Assistant Postmaster General Crosby related a story of remarkable daring as told him by Lord Burgoyne, of England. Lord Burgoyne said:

"There is rather a singular episode connected with the last American gentleman whom I had the pleasure of meeting. In the summer of 1863, I was cruising in my yacht, the Greyhound, in the waters of the English channel and the Mediterranean. One day I ran into Cherbourg, France. The town was alive with excitement. The Confederate cruiser, Alabama, had been followed into the harbor by the United States man-of-war Kearsarge. The two hostile vessels were lying scarcely a cable's length apart. Under the neutrality law, 24 hours must elapse after the departure of one before the other would be allowed to follow. Capt. Winslow, of the Kearsarge, had sent a challenge to Capt. Semmes, of the Alabama, for a naval duel outside the harbor. Capt. Semmes was anxious to avoid a fight, but, as you remember, was eventually forced into it. That evening at the table d'hote, I sat beside a gentleman who proved to be an American. He was obviously a man of the world, refined and cultivated. After chatting pleasantly, I remarked that I had been invited to visit the Kearsarge the next day. My new found friend expressed a desire to accompany me. I consented, and together we went on board. The officers were very courteous, and apparently took great pleasure in showing us about the ship. My friend manifested the liveliest interest in everything he saw. His minute inquiries into the number of men carried, weight of armament, etc., showed an intelligent understanding of nautical matters that delighted our entertainers, and elicited from them the information desired. A few days later both vessels steamed out of the harbor, and the celebrated fight took place. My sympathies were naturally with the south, and I sailed as close to the scene of action as was comfortable with safety, to render what services I could to the crew of the Confederate cruiser. After the sinking of the Alabama, I succeeded in rescuing a score of the survivors. Among the number were Semmes and his first officer. As the latter stood before me wet and shivering from his cold bath, my eyes opened with astonishment. 'Why,' said I, 'this is Mr. —,' naming my friend of the table d'hote and fellow visitor to the Kearsarge. 'Yes,' was the laughing reply, 'and I had her boilers located so that we would have put a shot through them in another minute if she hadn't sunk as when she did!'"

If the above was an extract from a Comic History of the War, by Eli Perkins, it would do very well; but it is credited "Exchange," and unless the author is more careful when he invents history, the impression will get abroad that his naval experience was gained in steering a mule on the towpath of the raging canawl, rather than cruising in "my yacht the Greyhound." It was the yacht Deerhound, not the Greyhound, which picked up the hero of sixty chronometers and ran off with him; and the yacht was owned and sailed by a wealthy English commoner, and not by Lord Burgoyne. Had Winslow sent Semmes a challenge he would have been turned out of the service, such an act being absolutely forbidden by our naval laws. The Kearsarge did not enter Cherbourg harbor after the Alabama, as her doing so would have enabled the Alabama to escape; "Lord Burgoyne" himself says that "under the neutrality law twenty-four hours must elapse after the departure of one before the other would be allowed to follow," though he also says "a few days later both vessels steamed out of the harbor!" Semmes may have been "anxious to avoid a fight," but he sent off to Capt. Winslow, who was cruising off Cherbourg in the Kearsarge, that the Alabama would come out in three days and fight. American naval officers are such simple-minded, unsuspicious individuals that they would be very likely, if lying in a foreign port hourly expecting a "fight to a finish" with an enemy's vessel of presumed superior force, to invite a perfect stranger to examine their ship, and give him all possible particulars about the location of her boilers and magazines, weight of metal, number of men, etc. And even accepting "Lord Burgoyne's" wonderful story as all true, just where the especial "daring" of the confederate officer would come in is not apparent; according to this yarn the Kearsarge was lying in the harbor of Cherbourg, under French law, and the confederate officer, if discovered on board, would have been in no more danger than if on board a mudscow, as he could only have been put ashore. Lastly, it was a trifle odd that the Alabama should sink just a minute before she would have bored a hole in the Kearsarge's boilers, when she had been battering away for three-quarters of an hour without being able to touch them.

It is seldom that so much valuable misinformation is found crowded into so brief an item as this story of "Lord Burgoyne." We are glad he got liked in the revolutionary war.

Mr. Blaine is mad with Mr. Arthur because of the lukewarmness of the administration's members in the late presidential canvass. The president invited Mrs. Blaine to assist in the New Year's reception, with the other prominent first ladies in the land, but the lady of the plumed knight sent a curt note, which if written by one of the male sex would have amounted to "I'll see you blamed first," and putting the coxundrum to Chester, "How dare you, when you have done nothing to assist in James Gillespie's election?" Mr. Blaine backs up his spouse, and Gail Hamilton winks her off eye and says, "Let us see Mr. Arthur get elected senator this time if he can." The man from Maine, while having full faith in the political integrity of our noble New Hampshire statesman, nevertheless, when assured by the Secretary of the Navy that the Arthur crowd were all right in the campaign, says, "Billy, I am too old a bird to be caught with such chaff." And of such are the distracting cares of modern statesmanship.

It is stated that a number of armed companies of socialists are regularly drilling in Chicago, and that they number about 700 men. They are equipped with breech loading rifles and drill according to the Prussian tactics. The entire practice is contrary to the state law. In view of this fact, and owing to recent threats by some of the socialist leaders, a volunteer guard has been placed in one of the armories of the national guard.

—Morris Hoffman of Morrisania, N. Y., who couldn't name his own baby, had polls opened at his house and his neighbors were invited to do the balloting. Result—The infant will sail down the stream of life as Louis Francis Joseph.

Ringworm Humor and Salt-Rheum.
RAYNHAM, MASS., Aug. 12, 1878.
C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gentlemen— I have had ringworm humor and salt-rheum so badly that my body was covered with raw sores; so, now, my head and face. I have had many doctors in the last seven years, and none of them could cure me. One day my mother was in the city of Taunton, and found one of your cook books, and in reading it I found many people testifying to cures from the use of your Sarsaparilla and Olive Ointment. I felt forced to try it, although I had seen many things advertised that never did me any good. I have now taken two small bottles and one large one of Sarsaparilla, and used three boxes of Ointment. I now call myself cured. Nothing can be seen of the humor but the dim outlines of the sores. I shall take two more bottles, and then the cure will be complete.
I am gratefully yours,
EDGAR F. WHITMAN.
Biliousness, Sick Headache.
PITTSFIELD, MASS.
MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gents—Please send me by express two bottles HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA and a few Cook Books for distribution. Your preparation has worked wonders in the case of my wife, who has been troubled with sick headache and biliousness for years. She only took one-half teaspoonful at a dose, and has not been so well for five years as now. She found that within a week after taking it she felt very much better, and has now entirely free from those severe headaches. She has not taken any of any account since last spring, and what little she had is lent to do some others some good, and we must have it in the house.
Yours truly,

The Charlestown (Mass.) Enterprise of Jan. 3d, in a report of a highly successful concert given in the Bunker Hill Baptist church of that place on Tuesday evening of last week by Mrs. L. W. Burlen, soprano, Mrs. George W. Buntin, soprano, Mrs. C. Whitcomb, alto, Mrs. George Clayton, reader, Miss Fannie Hoyt, violinist, Mr. George Want, tenor, Mr. Fritz Schmeizer, baritone, and Mrs. A. J. Wemyss, accompanist, says: "The next in order was a violin solo by Miss Fannie Hoyt. This charming little lady executed 'Concerto en Sol, op. 76,' by Ch. de Beriot, with a piano accompaniment, in a delightful manner. It is really a pleasure to hear her. She resides in Portsmouth, N. H., and is but sixteen years of age. The wonderful skill and marked talent she displayed won merited recognition, and all who heard her efforts are firm in the belief that her future success in musical circles is assured.—The violin solo, 'Blue Bells of Scotland,' by Henry Farnier, played by Miss Hoyt, was heartily applauded, and the young lady certainly deserved it."

TRIPS DISCONTINUED.

The steamer James Sampson has ceased running between this city and Kittery Point, for the winter. The steamer was kept running all last winter, but it was at a loss, and the proprietors do not care for a similar experience this season. With the advent of warm weather the trips between this city and the Point, via Newcastle will be resumed. The steamer has hauled up in the dock at Union wharf.

SONS OF VETERANS INSTALLATION.

The officers of Henry L. Richards Camp, No. 12, Sons of Veterans, will be installed this evening in G. A. R. hall, to which the members of the Grand Army and the public in general are invited. Members of Camp Libby, of Great Falls, will be in attendance. After the installation there will be an apron-and-necktie dance in Congress hall, to which all will be welcome; tickets fifty cents.

The British schooner Maud W., from this port for Chatham, N. B., went ashore on the night of Dec. 22d on the ledges at Isle au Haut, and was abandoned by the crew. She was towed into Head harbor, with loss of her forefoot and shoe.

A dog belonging to Mr. Ayers, who lives on Hanover street, came home Monday afternoon with a piece of skin and flesh as big a dollar gone from one flank, apparently cut away with some sharp instrument. Dominion millers are again petitioning the dominion government to raise the duty on American flour from fifty cents to $1 per barrel. Notwithstanding the duty of fifty cents, 300,000 barrels of wheat flour were imported from the United States last year, over 250,000 barrels of which were imported from the United States by the maritime provinces, which are making strong protests against the duty being increased.

Police Lieutenant Mullen, of Cincinnati, has been sentenced by the United States court to twelve months in the Hamilton county jail, for the imprisonment in the Hammond street police station of a number of voters, and preventing them from voting. IN THE STATE OF NEW HAMPSHIRE.

RESPECTFULLY represents Annie E. W. Seaward, of Portsmouth, in the County of Rockingham, that she is trustee of the estate of Annie E. Right to the point

The Rev. J. E. Searles, of New York, is one of the most widely-known and highly esteemed of Methodist ministers.

Mr. Searles says: "I am impressed that it is a duty I owe to humanity, afflicted with Rheumatism, to say, in my that a remedy has been discovered that is free from the pain of rheumatism. I was greatly afflicted with Rheumatism, and suffered so severely that, at times, I was obliged to have morphine injected into his arm to get relief. This is the remedy. Effectual, discovered a remedy which effected immediate relief, and a permanent cure. Impressed to give it to Rev. Wm. F. Corbit, pastor of the Church St. M. E. Church, New Haven, Conn., who was suffering greatly with this terrible disease. I will give you his own words as written to my son, without fee, to publish the fact for the benefit of other suffering people with the same disease.

What Mr. Corbit Says:

"New Haven, July 24, 1883.

"Mr. Searles: Dear Sir—I wish to bear testimony to the benefit of all who are suffering with Inflammatory Rheumatism, that your medicine is infallible. I suffered for two months the most excruciating torture; I lost 25 pounds of flesh, and was not out of my house for a month. I heard of your remedy, and was almost instantly relieved by it. If there is a specific for diseases of any kind, young most certainly for Inflammatory Rheumatism in its severest form.

"Yours truly and respectfully, WM. F. CORBIT, "Pastor Grove St. M. E. Church, New Haven, Conn."

A man of our acquaintance—in fact he was a cousin of Colonel McKinney—drank so much chalybeate water for his health that once when in jail for stealing a cow he opened a vein in his arm and extracted enough iron from the blood to make a crowbar, with which he broke his way out of prison.

If solid silver latch keys are to be very fashionable the jewelers are to make their fortunes. Latch keys of even iron, steel and hardened brass wear out rapidly, so what is to be expected of silver? About one point in this matter we may be satisfied of. The silver latch key will not be a favorite present from wife to husband.

"You are confident that your new patent medicine will be a success, are you?" asked a friend of a manufacturing druggist. "I'm positive of it," replied the druggist. "What virtue does it possess?" inquired the friend. "O, it don't possess any medicinal virtues, you know, but it is the nastiest tasting stuff you ever heard off!"—Pittsburg Chronicle.

"Madame," said a husband to his young wife, in a little altercation which will spring up in the best regulated families, "when a man and his wife have quarreled, and each considers the other at fault, which of the two ought to advance toward a reconciliation?" "The better natured and the wiser of the two," said the wife, putting up her mouth for a kiss, which was given with an unction. "She was the conqueror.—New York Leader.

The coming holidays will be more generally observed than for many years, and we would remind our readers that a bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup will prove a most acceptable holiday present.

After Diphtheria.

Diphtheria is a terrible disease, requiring the greatest medical skill to effect a complete cure. Even when its power is broken, it clings to the patient with great persistency, and often leaves the system poisoned and prostrated. Just here Hood's Sarsaparilla does a vast amount of good, expelling impurities from the blood, giving it richness and vitality, while it renovates and strengthens the system.

An Arab tramp, lodged in the jail at White Plains, N. Y., Friday night, had on his person a money belt which contained $10,000 in English gold.

Tired and Languid Women.

How many women there are of whom these words are true: "They feel languid and tired, hardly able to bear their weight on their feet, the bloom all gone from their cheeks, irritable and cross without meaning to be, nerves all upset, worried with the children, fretted over little things, a burden to themselves, and yet with no acute disease." What a pity it is. But a few bottles of Parker's Tonic will drive all this away, and relieve the troubles peculiar to their sex.

Isaac Allen, seventy-six years of age, and a resident of Dogtown, N. J., was found Saturday frozen to death in a ditch. He had been struck with paralysis.

Loss of Flesh and Strength,

With poor appetite, and perhaps slight cough in morning, or on first lying down at night, should be looked to in time. Persons afflicted with consumption are proverbially unconscious of their real state. Most cases commence with disordered liver, leading to bad digestion and imperfect assimilation of food—hence the emaciation, or wasting of the flesh. It is a form of scrofulous disease, and is curable by the use of that greatest of all blood-cleansing, anti-bilious and invigorating compounds, known as Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery."

At Grafton, W. Va., on the night of Jan. 3d, Mrs. Mary Breck was arrested charged with having caused the wreck of the St. Louis express train near there Dec. 31st, with the loss of two lives and much destruction of property. The woman has admitted her guilt. Two weeks before, her husband was arrested by the officers of the Baltimore & Ohio road for robbing freight cars, and since then Mrs. Breck has been going about in male attire, threatening revenge on the company for the arrest; on the 31st ult. she decided to wreck a train, and with that object placed a bar of iron in a switch frog.

Stations of the United States Signal Service have been established, with the co-operation of the British Meteorological society, at New York, Baltimore and Boston for the purpose of collecting from the commanders of arriving steamers reports of storms raging this side of the forty-fifth meridian, and cabling such information to England. In this way the English people are to be warned of approaching storms a day or two in advance of their arrival. Sergeant Mayburry is in charge of the Boston office.

Butter Buyers

Everywhere are refusing to take white, lardy-looking butter except at "grease" prices. Consumers want nothing but gilt-edged butter, and buyers therefore recommend their patrons to keep a uniform color throughout the year by using the Improved Butter Color made by Wells, Richardson & Co., Burlington, Vt. It is the only color that can be relied on to never injure the butter, and to always give the perfect color. Sold by druggists and merchants.

A THRILLING STORY.

As Told by a Merchant in Troy, N. Y.—

A Surgical Operation Avoided—How a Father, Wife and Daughter Escaped an Awful Doom.

Of the hundreds of accounts of remarkable cures wrought by DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, none have appeared so purely astonishing as the following. The persons mentioned are among the most highly respected in the city of Troy, and the story as told by the father will prove interesting to all our readers.

TROY, N. Y.

Dr. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:

DEAR SIR: My daughter was afflicted with a severe growth of Fungus. To remove it we had resorted to almost every remedy and consulted the most prominent surgeons and physicians. Dr. ——, of Troy, said that a surgical operation would be necessary, but fearing fatal results I hesitated. Some of the physicians claimed that it was caused by one thing and some by another. The Fungus was prominent and disfigured her looks. Having heard of Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY working so thoroughly on the blood I determined to try it, to see if this medicine could do what doctors had failed to do and surgeons had hardly dared to undertake. I can say in truth that the result of this trial was the complete cure of my daughter of this dreadful malady. Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY alone effected it. We used nothing else, for other things had completely failed. My daughter today enjoys vigorous health and to Favorite Remedy alone is the credit due. My wife also was very poor in health, due to some liver difficulty with which she had suffered a long time until she became very much reduced in flesh. A trial of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy has resulted in the complete restoration of her health, which she had not enjoyed for years. She has gained in flesh and strength, and thus secured perfect health, and this is DUE ENTIRELY TO DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY. As for myself, being engaged in the grocery and commission business, which makes it necessary for me to test the quality of different articles, like butter, etc., my sense of taste and my stomach were seriously injured. Everything seemed to nauseate me, and fearful of dyspepsia in its most severe form, I tried DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY. The first bottle afforded immediate relief, and from that day to this I can say that Favorite Remedy has restored me to perfect health. These are facts which I claim prove that Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is the best medicine in the world for those afflicted with the above difficulties. If any one in the city of Troy doubts the truth of these statements let him come to me and I will prove them. I have recommended Favorite Remedy to hundreds and with the same good results.

Yours, etc., WILLIAM WINDSOR.

The Importance Of One Vote.

The importance of one vote is forgotten when heavy majorities roll in for the favorite candidate, but when he scrapes through or is defeated by a small and uncomfortable figure, then "the might have been" rise up to accuse and breed discomfort to one's feelings. The Jeffersonville News relates an instance where one vote elected a representative, a United States Senator, and, perhaps, annexed Texas to the United States. The News gets its information from Hon. Dan Blotcher, of Holman, Scott county, Ind. It was in 1846, when Hiam Davis was the democratic candidate for the legislature in that county. Just before the polls closed William H. English asked Mr. Blotcher if he knew any voters who had not voted. He said yes, "there was Wash Owens, but the darned beggar wouldn't come because he had no boots." Mr. English insisted that Blotcher should get Owens, so he started for him. Owens refused to come to the polls because he had no boots, but Blotcher by a deal of persuasion got Owens to start on the promise that he would lend him his boots. Accordingly, when the pair got within half a mile of Lexington, Blotcher pulled off his boots and loaned them to Owens. In those days it was universally the custom to treat voters, and Owens received his dram and 50 cents, and, leaving Blotcher standing there in the corn-field, started for the polls. He voted and then proceeded to invest the 50 cents in Jersey lightning. The consequence was that Owens got gloriously drunk and forgot all about Blotcher's boots. This was a modification of Daniel in the lion's den. It was Daniel's bare foot in the corn-field, and he at length grew lonely, and started after Owens with red vengeance in his eye. Of course it was using mild language to say that Blotcher was mad. But when the ballots were counted and Hiram Davis was found to be elected by a majority of one, then Uncle Daniel's wrath was changed to rejoicing. But this was not the only good result. In the contest for United States senator, Edward C. Hannegan was elected by one majority, and Hannegan's vote annexed Texas, bringing on the Mexican war. We doubt if ever a bootless man before or afterward exercised such an important influence over the destinies of the country. It should teach every man that his vote is important.

How He Got a Wife.

Among the arrivals at the Northwestern depot yesterday were a strange looking couple, the man wearing a buffalo-skin coat and the woman a long sack made of the same material, a dress trimmed with it, and shoes lined with it. He was perhaps forty years of age, but she did not appear to be more than twenty-five. After looking around awhile he confided in a porter and asked to be shown to a decent hotel where he could stop a few days.

"The fact is," he observed, "we are on our wedding tour, and while I'm not a bonanza man exactly I've got enough to see this town with and I'm going to do it."

After the porter had named over half a dozen hotels and made himself otherwise agreeable the traveler insisted on introducing him to his wife. When the porter was presented to Mrs. John Fellows the proud husband said:

"There now, Jennie, I told you I'd introduce you in society, but this is only a beginning."

The porter showed signs of wanting to get away, but Mr Fellows clung to him.

"You don't know how we came to be married, do you? No, I'll bet you don't. Well, now, I'll tell you. We're from Eagle City, Idaho; right from the mines you might say. I've been there a year, but Mrs. Fellows, here, came only about six months ago. I remember mighty well the day she hoofed it in, don't I, Jennie? Well I should smile. There was a gang of them, and when they came over the mountain the snow was mo'n neck deep and it was cold enough to put frost on the windows of tophet. Well, as I was saying, there were lots of fellows coming in who didn't have no business in that hard country, and one of them in this batch I felt kinder sorry for. He was a slight little chap not more'n up to my shoulders, and there was a kind of a good look about his eyes and mouth somehow. So when I saw he didn't have no grub and no dust and not much muscle and no liquor I took mercy on him and told him if he'd be my partner we'd go it together, and I would see that he got feed enough. Well, sir, he swollered that bait—hook, line and all, and we worked together three or four months. I've seen richer claims than mine, but it yielded enough to keep me from grumbling, and that's more'n most of them do. Well, as I was saying, my pardner made himself useful in a good many ways. He was a mighty good cook—the best cook I ever saw, and he wan't no slouch either with a pick and shovel. One day this fall he got kinder sick and I took care of him, and finally, when he got worse I thought I'd just go to the camp and get a doctor. He didn't want no doctor, but I got one. When the doctor came in I hung around awhile and then I went out on an errand. As I entered the cabin again the boy was crying and the doctor takes me off on one side, and, says he:

"'Your pard is a woman.'"

"'Git out,' says I.

"'It's a fact,' says he. 'She just told me so.'

"Well, that broke me up worse than a dynamite explosion. I was ashamed, and I said: 'Take her away, doc; she's your'n', but he says: 'No, sir; she's sick, and you must take care of her.'

"Then I thought it all over and I made up my mind I would. The doc and I nursed her for four weeks, and when she got so she could sit up—mind you, I'd never said a word to her yet—I says, solemn like. 'What's yer name, please?' and she looked on the floor and says: 'Jennie.' 'Good enough,' says I. 'Jennie, will you be my wife?' and she says, You bet.' That settled it. We had the parson come up the next day and we made up this here outfit for a wedding tour, and that's what we're doing now."—Chicago Herald.

If he will now add an attachment that will lie about the size of the fish caught, he will remove a load of responsibility from the shoulders of the fisherman. It is not fishing that exhausts a man.

All Broken Down.

Is it not sad to see so many young men every day of whom this can be said? Young man, take my advice. Stop all indiscretions which you have practised, keep good hours, retire early, and build up your shattered system by using Sulphur Bitters, which will cure you.—Old Physician.

Chronic catarrh.—I have suffered for years from chronic catarrh. Six weeks ago I was induced to try Ely's Cream Balm. Relief was instantaneous, and continued use has resulted in an almost comple cure.—S. M. Greene, Book-keeper, Steamboat Co., Catskill, N. Y.

Was afflicted with catarrh and cold in the head. I tried many remedies without any beneficial effects, at last I used Ely's Cream Balm, which effectually cured me.—W. H. I. Hillard, Dentist, Bordentown, N. J

Surplus of Lawyers.

Complaint of the overcrowding of the legal profession is noticeable in widely separated sections of the country. In Vermont, towns which used to raise and support solid lawyers of the old school learned in pleadings, now do not afford income enough to keep one alive. In the south, it is said that the profession of law is having dull times in many of the larger towns, while in Philadelphia, where a well-known proverb implies that a superior assortment is maintained, a large proportion of the 1,500 lawyers starve. A statistician reckons that in that city only 5 have an income of $30,000 each and upward, about 30 $10,000 each, and 100 $5,000, while 1,000 average not over $500 a year from legitimate fees.

There are two or three causes for this superabundance of lawyers. In nearly all the states the old and intricate system of pleading has been done away; it was cumbersome lumber, but it required a good deal of study to master it and so served to keep down the number of aspirants to the bar. The much simpler modern systems are more easily mastered, while the multiplication of law schools has rendered an education for the bar much more accessible. Old lawyers are not apt to think that a deterioration of the profession has resulted, but that does not follow. What was formerly a close trade-union guild or profession has been thrown open to more general entrance. Nothing has been lost by throwing aside the old pleadings, however difficult they may have been to acquire, if after acquisition they were lumber and encumbrance. The modern law student, if he chooses, can spend upon a general education the same time he would apply to them, and secure at least as much mental discipline. This ought, perhaps, to be more generally required.

On the other hand the avoidance of litigation is more generally sought than formerly. Under the modern system of codified statutes, all in one volume, men of ordinary intelligence can consult the statutes themselves; as to the common law, or that rendered by the courts, the cases ordinarily arising have now been so thoroughly adjudicated that honest counsel of fair ability ought not to lead his client astray. Moreover, there is a general disposition among more honorable members of the bar not to encourage litigation, unless it is necessary; whether this is more true than formerly it would be difficult to say.

It is certainly not a misfortune to the country that loss wealth proportionately is consumed in litigation than formerly, if such is the case. In the administration of criminal law there must be increasing expense for the maintenance of courts and public prosecutions so long as crime increases

Activity of business always gives rise to clash of interests, and makes litigation. The great mass of this is between real persons and corporations, or between corporations on both sides. —Springfield Republican.

Heat and Light and Vegetation.

Dr. Hellriegel has found that it is very important to plant-development that the time of seed-forming and the season of the greatest heat and light should be coincident. He has illustrated this by experiments in which he sowed barley, under otherwise indentical conditions, on April 21st, May 28th, June 28th, August 2nd, and September 1st; the first crop becoming ripe in 88 days, the second prematurely ripe in 87 days (the maximum heat and light happening too early in the plant's growth), the third ripening imperfectly in 150 days, the fourth in 200, and the last in 240 days. From this it appears that the productiveness of a country depends not so much on its mean temperature as on the question whether its supply of heat is received at the right time, and in England the wheat-harvest is known to be chiefly determined by the temperature during July and August. Under glass, plants are subject to a great reduction of light, which, with other unfavorable conditions of hot-houses, Dr. Hellriegel has shown to diminish very seriously the fruitfulness of plants. There is little difference, however, in the influence of different colors of light.

Snakes Sent By Mail.

"We frequently get snakes, frogs, bees and alligators by mail," said Supt. of Mails Alexander yesterday. "Of course the snakes are small. I don't know what they're sent for. The frogs, snakes, and alligators are mostly mailed from Florida. The bees are queen bees, sent in little blocks of wood with a hole bored in the center and a piece of wire netting over it. Sometimes we find packages of butter, cherries, peaches, and strawberries, bottles of oil, syrup, cologne, and all sorts of odd things, which we do not forward because it would be against the law. Butter and oils and syrup and such things are apt to spoil other mail matter. We communicate with the parties to whom the things are addressed and they tell us to send them on by express. When we do not receive any reply we send the things to the dead letter office.

"Wedding cake? Oh, yes, we get lots of it, addressed to all parts of the world, but it never goes. It is also on the catalogue of unmailable matter. Last week we sent fifteen hundred boxes of it to the dead letter office that had accummulated here in three months. I don't know what they'll do with it at Washington, but there must be enough wedding cake in the dead letter office to start a thousand first-class bakeries.—Philadelphia Times.

The Business Revival.

A despatch of Jan. 5th from Troy, N. Y., says: "The Barker Knitting mill at Cohoes started twelve sets of machinery to-day, giving employment to 200 operatives. John S. Cott & Co. resumed on full time. Leroy & Lamb, the Tivoli mill, the Riverside mills, the Troy Manufacturing company, the Munson Manufacturing company, the Star, Erie, Standard and Elk mills, and Harrock & Van Benthuysen also started their wheels to-day. With few exceptions a reduction of ten per cent in wages has been made."

From Pittsburg, Pa.: "The iron trade is beginning to show signs of reviving. Shoenbergers' old mill and nail factory started up to-day, the 5th, after a suspension of several weeks. The finishing and puddling departments of Zag & Co. have also resumed, and the bar mill will start up on Wednesday. At the Keystone Bridge company's works there was resumption in all departments, at a slight reduction in the wages of all the employes except those governed by the amalgamated scale. By these resumptions about 1500 men are given employment. The indications now are that the iron mills and furnaces of this city will not be allowed to be idle much longer, as orders are coming in more freely and stocks are very low. The Homestead Bessemer works will resume in all departments to-morrow, the 6th."

At Easton, Pa., despatch of the 5th says "the steel mill of the Bethlehem iron company, the Fernand car company near Catasaqua, and the Lehigh zinc works at South Bethlehem, resumed this morning."

Cleveland, Ohio, reported as follows: "The extensive iron works of Brown, Bonnell & Co., at Youngstown, will resume in all departments tomorrow. Five departments of the Cleveland mill started to-day."

The coke ovens, fifty in number, at the Soddy mines in Chattanooga county, Tenn., have resumed operations.

Important Decision.

The United States supreme court has decided the case of Head vs. the Amoskeag Manufacturing company, known as the overflow case, sustaining the decision of the court below. The question at issue was whether the New Hampshire flowage act of 1868 is in conflict with the provisions of the fourteenth amendment to the United States constitution. The highest court of New Hampshire held such legislation as constitutional and valid. The United States supreme court sustains this decision. The decision is one of great importance in and out of New England. It determines the constitutionality of the "mill acts" in force in most of the states, by which land is condemned to dam streams for water power. This feature of the right of eminent domain has been maintained in all the states save Vermont, Michigan, Alabama and Georgia. It was brought in question in the supreme court on the ground that it is contrary to the fourteenth amendment to the constitution, in that it deprives citizens of their property without due process of law, and under the changed methods of to-day the use of water in driving mills of private parties is not an imperative and public necessity.

The New Year's number of "Wide Awake" supplements the beautiful Christmas issue in a delightful fashion, filled as it is with holiday stories, pictures, and poems. The frontispiece, by Lungren, represents one of Boston's merriest scenes —evening skating in the Public Garden; the drawing is accompanied by a charming poem by Margaret Sidney. A crisp and merry winter story follows, "Snowy Peter," from the pen of Susan Coolidge. Another story, fine in its literary finish, is from the pen of Edward Abbott, the editor of the Literary World. The first of the promised Group of True Western Stories is given in this number; "Wag-on-Tire Camp," by Kate Foote. David Ker also has a bright travelling sketch, "A School in the Faroe Islands," and Yan Phou Lee, in his curious series, "When I was a Boy in China," describes a Chinese house. The serials move on entertainingly. The poems and their illustrations are notably fine, and the Chautauqua Readings cover a wide range of literature, history, science and art. Only $3.00 a year. D. Lothrop & Co., publishers, Boston.

Gilbert Egan of Higganum, Conn., quarrelled with Edward Stanton, New Year's night, and Stanton was worsted. Afterward he assaulted Egan from behind with a club, inflicting injuries from which Egan is dying.

The wife of M. L. Munsell of Birmingham, Ct., swallowed a large dose of rat poison on Saturday, and was saved with difficulty by the doctors. She is said to have been oppressed over the theft of a trivial sum of money by a brother.

Ex-Gov. Abner Coburn of Maine died at Skowhegan on the 4th inst., at the age of eighty-one years and ten months. He was one of the republican electors in the late presidential contest, and attended the meeting of the electoral college at Augusta, where he had a severe attack of prostration, from which he never recovered.

News has been received at Sioux City, Iowa, that the bodies of fourteen men were found between a point twenty-nine miles west of Valentine, Neb., and Garden City, Neb., seventy miles west. The bodies were found along the new railroad grade. The dead men were victims of the recent terrible blizzard, and are supposed to have been settlers.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA

Works through the blood, regulating, toning and invigorating all the functions of the body.

RAYNHAM, MASS., Aug. 12, 1878.

C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gentlemen—* * * I have had ringworm humor and salt-rheum so badly that my body was covered with raw sores; so, also, my head and face. I have had any number of doctors in the last seven years, and none of them could cure me. One day my mother was in the city of Taunton, and found one of your cook books, and in reading it I found many people testifying to cures from the use of your Sarsaparilla and Olive Ointment. I felt forced to try it, although I had seen many things advertised that never did me any good. I have now taken two small bottles and one large one of Sarsaparilla, and used three boxes of Ointment. I now call myself cured. Nothing can be seen of the humor but the dim outlines of the sores. I shall take two more bottles, and then the cure will be complete.

I am gratefully yours,
EDGAR F. WHITMAN.

Biliousness, Sick Headache.

PITTSFIELD, MASS.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gentlemen—Please send me by express two bottles HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA and a few Cook Books for distribution. Your preparation has worked wonders in the case of my wife, who has been troubled with sick headache and biliousness for years. She only took one-half teaspoonful at a dose, and has not been so well for five years as now. She found that within a week after taking it she felt very much better, and is now entirely free from those severe headaches. She has not taken any of any account since last spring, and what little she had is lent to do some others some good, and we must have it in the house.

Yours truly,
HOMER B. NASH.

SONS OF VETERANS INSTALLATION.

The newly-elected officers of Henry L. Richards Camp, S. of V., were installed at G. A. R. hall on Tuesday evening by Lieut. Com. Perkins and Capt. Soule of the state camp. Capt. Libby, of the Great Falls camp, was a visitor on the occasion. Remarks were made by M. M. Collis of Storer Post, G. A. R.; also by Geo. E. Hodgdon, Charles H. Besselievre and D. J. Vaughan, of the post.

The following officers were appointed by the newly-installed captain of the camp: Orderly Sergeant, Everett L. Marston; quartermaster sergeant, M. Crowley; sergeant of the guard, C. F. Larrabee; color sergeant, A. Locke; corporal of the guard, G. D. Boulter; chaplain, Charles Stevens; camp guard, Arthur Green; picket guard, Charles Garrity.

At the close of the exercises in G. A. R. hall the company adjourned to Congress hall, where an apron-and-necktie party was held, the affair being a brilliant one and the attendance large.

NEW SCHOONER.

Capt. Levi Downs, of the schooner Albert Woodbury, has contracted with C. & J. Hodgdon & Co. of East Boothbay, Me., for the building of a schooner to be seventy-five feet long on the keel and ninety-one feet over all, twenty-two feet ten inches beam, and eight feet four inches depth of hold; such a vessel will be something over 130 tons. She is to be built of New Hampshire pasture oak, extra heavy fastened, and have all the modern improvements—cemented along the limbers, ceiling calked, iron ballasted, etc.

Her cabin is to be finished in ash, black walnut and bird's-eye maple, and will have one stateroom, and three other berths. The forecastle will be finished in pine and black walnut, and will be roomy and convenient for both crew and cook; it will have ten berths.

She will be fitted with two seines and seine-boats, and will also carry a "pocket"—a sort of heavy net in which to dump fish out of the seines, and in which the catch will be reasonably safe from the attacks of dog-fish, which sometimes make sad havoc with the seines. She will be much the largest vessel fishing out of this port, and as handsome as a yacht.

INSTALLATION.

At a regular meeting of Damon Lodge, No. 9, K. of P., Tuesday evening, the following officers were installed by D. D. G. C. A. P. Wendell of this city:

E. F. Furbish, P. C.;
John Parkin, C. C.;
Stephen B. Yeston, V. C.;
William C. Laws, Prelate;
Gustave Feyser, M. of E.;
John K. Simpson, M. of F.;
Thornton Betton, K. of R. and S.;
William P. Pickett, M. at A.;
Daniel Webster, I. G.;
James O. Spinney, O. G.

RAILROAD NOTES.

The Boston Post says: "Mr. Lucius Tuttle, lately appointed assistant to General Manager James T. Furber of the Boston & Maine, on Saturday handed in his resignation. Upon request of Mr. Furber it was withdrawn until Monday, in hopes that Mr. Tuttle would see fit to change his mind. The resignation will take effect immediately. Mr. Tuttle has made no arrangements as to his future, but railroad men in Boston seem to think that almost any of the home roads would be willing to make a place for this genial and much liked railroad man."

The Maine Central railroad directors on Monday authorized the issue of $600,000 in twenty years six per cent gold bonds, with a sinking fund in the Portland trust company, for the payment of the floating debt.

It is stated that plans are to be prepared for a union depot of the Boston & Maine and Eastern Division railroads, to be located on Causeway street, Boston, between the present Eastern depot and the Fitchburg depot, and that the depot train house will contain eight tracks.

The Boston & Maine railroad has requested the railroad commissioners of this state to fix the maximum tariff rate for passengers at three cents per mile on the whole system.

MARITIME NOTES.

The schooner B. C. French, Kelly master, which arrived at this port on the 5th inst. from Newport News, Va., with coal to J. Albert Walker, is one of the largest schooners that ever entered the harbor; she brought 1317 tons.

The ship Dashing Wave, 1054 tons register, built at this port in 1853, now owned in Tacoma, Washington territory, went ashore at Tacoma on the 23d ult., but subsequently floated off, and though over thirty years old seemed but little harmed by her rough experience. The quality of the materials and work put into the Piscataqua-river-built ships of former days is attested by the number of them still afloat and doing good service after thirty or forty years of existence.

The schooner Nellie Grant, Dodge master, arrived at this port on Monday from Port Johnson, N. J., with 200 tons of coal to E. F. Sise & Co.

The schooner Clara E. Simpson, of this port, Hontvet master, bound from Boston for Baltimore with a cargo of salt cakes, grounded on the Squash Meadow shoal in Vineyard sound on the night of Jan. 3d, but was hauled off next morning by the steam tug Confidence, apparently unharmed, and towed into Vineyard Haven.

Mr. John B. Gough will deliver a lecture in City hall, Dover, on the 22d inst., and a special train will be run for the accomodation of residents of this city who may wish to attend.

Mr. Israel Tripp on the 1st of January retired from the employ of Jackson & Co.'s Express to private life, after thirty-six years of continuous service.

Rev. Thomas Hall, D. D., will preach in the Unitarian church on Sunday next.

The democratic "Workingmen's Club" of wards two and four in this city held the first meeting for the election of officers at the hall of the club on Market street, Monday evening, and made choice of the following: President, Samuel W. Emery; vice presidents, Robert W. Phinney and James Kent; secretary, D. W. Shea; steward, John Hayes; treasurer, M. J. Crowley.

Mr. Charles H. DeRochemont, a native of Newington, is the city marshal of Newburyport under the newly-inaugurated city government. Mr. DeRochemont has before held office in the police department of that city, and has served several terms as alderman. He is one of the crack shots of Massachusetts, and his score rarely fails to be near the top of the list, or at the head, in the shooting matches in which he takes part.

Capt. Fred Duncan, of the steamer James Sampson, will accompany his brother, Engr. Will B. Duncan, to New Orleans this winter to visit the great cotton exposition, while the steamer is hauled up.

The Boston Traveller says "The loss on the Rockingham house, Portsmouth, has been settled by every company with the exception of the London & Provincial, which declines to pay without a lawsuit."

The supreme judicial court of Maine for York county commenced its January session at Saco on Tuesday, the 6th inst.

The Prohibition Candidate for President.

Mr. John P. St. John of Kansas denies that he offered to sell out to the republicans in the late election, and in a guarded way, demands proof that he did sell out to the democrats. Mr. Clarkson, editor of the Des Moines (Iowa) Register, and a member of the national republican committee, says: "If he will authorize two persons I can name to tell what they know, and give evidence St. John knows they possess, he can have the proof blanked quick that he offered to sell himself to the republican party, and the price he asked. I would advise him to be cautious in the use of language, or he may raise the embargo before he is aware of it. The facts will come in due time to show that he is a scoundrel; give him rope enough and he will hang himself."

"Is Civilization a Failure?"

The past year shows a startling increase of high crime, in this country, which may well cause our people to ask one another if our boasted civilization is a failure. There have been 3,377 murders, against 1,494 in 1883, while only 103 of the murderers were legally hanged; sixty-four more committed suicide. One half the persons hanged were negroes. Vigilance committees and mobs executed 219 culprits, against ninety-two in 1883. The number of suicides was 1,897 against 910 in 1883. A sad commentary this upon the moral and legal influences of the land.

Grant Haskell, employed at C. A. Coffin's shoe factory at Peterboro, presented a forged order on Davis Bros., for an overcoat, bearing the firm's name. He was arrested and sent to Manchester.

A Pittsfield man who threw a hot potato at his wife, destroying the sight of one eye, has been lodged in the county jail.

Miss Lizzie Thompson, who was severely injured in Pembroke by being run into by a team driven by Warren Sargent Christmas night, remains in a very weak condition and it is feared that her injuries may be permanent.

At the meeting of the building committee of the Seventh regiment N. H. volunteers held in Manchester, Monday, Jan. 5th, it was voted to accept the plan of the house proposed to be built at the Weirs at an expense of $1000, and to erect the same and have it in readiness at the next annual encampment.

—John Swinton says the saddest sound heard in New York is the hammering of the tough beef-steak set on the boarding-house tables.

A man is wiser for his learning, and the sooner he learns that the only way to cure a cough or cold is to use Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, the better he is off.

Notice.

MY WIFE, SARAH TETHERLY, having without just cause left my bed and board, I hereby forbid any person harboring or trusting her on my account, as I shall pay no bills of her contracting after this date.

Right to the point

The Rev. J. E. Searles, of New York, is one of the most widely-known and highly esteemed of Methodist ministers.

Mr. Searles says: "I am impressed that it is a duty I owe to those afflicted with Rheumatism or Neuralgia, to say that a remedy has been discovered that is indeed a marvelous success. My son was already afflicted with Rheumatism, and I suffered some myself; but, at times, he was confined to have sometimes his joints so swollen as to be helpless. While in this condition he discovered a remedy which effected immediate relief, and a permanent cure. He has since testimonialized it to many others with the same result. I have also furnished it to a number of persons suffering with Rheumatism, and the result has been immediate relief, in a remarkable manner. Among others, Mr. H. Colley, Wm. P. Corbit, pastor of an church, Mr. H. Church, New Haven, Conn., who was suffering grievously with the terrible disease. I will give you his own words as written to my son, wishing him to publish the fact for the benefit of others suffering with the same disease."

What Mr. Corbit says.

"New Haven, July 24, 1882.

"Mr. Searles: Dear Sir:—I wish to say for the benefit of all who are suffering with Inflammatory Rheumatism, that your medicine is infallible. I suffered for two months the most excruciating torture; lost 18 pounds of flesh, and was not out of my house for a week. I heard of your remedy, and was from the instantly relieved by it. If there is a specific for disease of any kind, there most certainly is for Inflammatory Rheumatism in its severest form.

"Yours most respectfully, WM. P. CORBIT,

"Pastor Church St. M. E. Church, New Haven, Conn."

Such is ATHLOPHOROS—a thorough and efficient cure for the worst cases of Rheumatism and Neuralgia.

Some Elephant Stories.

Major Rogers had been out shooting, and had discharged all his guns, when an elephant made a charge at him from the skirts of the jungle. There was no help for it except to run, and for 400 yards the Major kept just ahead, feeling at every step just as if the trunk was trying to twist itself about his loins. A turn around a tree gave him a momentary advantage, which he made the most of by springing into the branches; but, before he had time to draw up his legs, the elephant had got him with his proboscis. Still Rogers pulled against him, thinking it was better to have his leg wrenched from the socket than to fall back bodily into the animal's power. The struggle did not last long, for, to the delight of the pursued and the chagrin of the pursuer, the Wellington boots, which the former wore, slipped off, released the leg and saved the life of poor Rogers. The dilemma, however, did not end here: for the elephant, finding himself balked of his prey, after destroying the boot, took up his quarters beneath the branches and kept his anticipated victim in the tree for twenty-four hours, when the country postman happened to pass by. Rogers gave him notice of his position, and soon help came and the elephant was frightened away by tom-toms and yelling. Had this occurred in the deserted part of the jungle, the officer must have been starved to death in the tree.

The native Hindoo from want of thought keeps up a constant drumming on the beast's head with the goad, or "ankus." I, therefore, hoped not to use it at all. Such an improvement all at once, however, proved more than the elephantine mind could grasp. He began really to enjoy himself, going his own way more than mine, till at last he marched straight into an immense forest tree of the banyan species and commenced to browse. He seized the boughs above his head, and, tugging violently with them, brought them down on my devoted skull. This was too much. I raised the ankus and brought it down on his head with a blow that brought blood through the skin. This had the desired effect, and he at once bundled off along the road by which he knew I wanted to go. He merely took with him a branch about the size of a small apple tree to discuss as we went along. From this moment we were friends, and I don't think I ever had to use the hook again so as to bring blood.—London Times.

It may interest young men who leave their country for their country's good and who hope to find lucrative employment in continental towns, to hear that for a vacant situation in one of the Parisian banks—a place worth $48 pounds a year—there were no less than six thousand applications.—London Truth.

There is something soft and tender in the fall of a single snow-flake, but it always reminds us to look after our bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup—our old stand-by in the days of coughs and colds—for we have always found it reliable.

—"What man has done," shouted the orator, "man can do." That isn't enough. Man must do what man hasn't done; what he was afraid to do; what he couldn't do. If man could only do what man has done, Christopher Columbus would never have sailed 100 miles from land, and we would be Indians still.

Diseases of the Skin.

Wetherell's Sarsaparilla with Iodide of Potassium cures all skin diseases. Its effect on salt rheum is wonderful; eruptions of the face or body are often cured with a single bottle. Dyspepsia and liver complaint yield readily to its wonderful properties. One dollar per bottle. Six for $5.

—"Did you pass the hat?" the pastor of a Texas congregation asked his deacon after the morning service. "Yes, I did," said the deacon, and then, looking into the vacant interior of a hat that contained nothing but lining, he added gloomily, "So did everybody else."

The pain and misery suffered by those who are afflicted with dyspepsia are indescribable. The distress of the body is equalled or surpassed by the confusion and tortures of the mind, thus making its victims suffer double affliction. The relief which is given by Hood's Sarsaparilla has caused thousands to be thankful for this great medicine. It dispels the causes of dyspepsia, and tones up the digestive organs. Try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

—It had been a day of triumph in the electrical class at Colby university; at last a successful experiment had been performed. In the hush that followed the storm of applause, the professor, with a deep drawn sigh, thus addressed them: "I have always noticed that the stamping is done by the men with little heads and big feet."

Tens of Thousand Colds

Lead to consumption, fevers, settled coughs, asthma, bronchitis, and croup, whooping cough, &c. Immediate relief by Dr. Seth Arnold's Cough Killer.

—"Smith met with a lamentable accident yesterday." "How was that?" "He was on his way to call on his girl when the train ran off the track and capsized." "Too bad. He must have been dreadfully cut up about it." "Cut up? Well, I should say he was. They couldn't find one of his legs at all."

The Engineer

Of the Wakefield, Mass., Rattan Works, C. N. Young, says: In all cases of biliousness accompanied with those terrible sick headaches, I have found no other medicine that seems to take hold and do the good that your Sulphur Bitters does. It is the best family medicine made.

—Two Chinamen in Mercer county, Cal., who had agreed to fight a duel to settle some difficulty, worked together all one forenoon to build a coffin. After completing their work they met, armed with revolvers, in a field, and one blew the head of the other off. The neighbors who had seen them make the coffin then knew what it was for.

A THRILLING STORY.

As Told by a Merchant in Troy, N. Y.—A Surgical Operation Avoided—How a Father, Wife and Daughter Escaped an Awful Doom.

Of the hundreds of accounts of remarkable cures wrought by DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, none have appeared so purely astonishing as the following: The persons mentioned are among the most highly respected in the city of Troy, and the story as told by the father will prove interesting to all our readers.—ED.

TROY, N. Y.

Dr. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:

DEAR SIR: My daughter was afflicted with a severe growth of Fungus. To remove it we had resorted to almost every remedy and consulted the most prominent surgeons and physicians. Dr. —— of Troy, said that a surgical operation would be necessary, but fearing fatal results I hesitated. Some of the physicians claimed that it was caused by one thing and some by another. The Fungus was prominent and disfigured her looks. Having heard of Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY working so thoroughly on the blood I determined to try it, to see if this medicine could do what doctors had failed to do and surgeons had hardly dared to undertake. I can say in truth that the result of the trial was the complete cure of my daughter of this dreadful malady. Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY alone effected it. We used nothing else, for other things had completely failed. My daughter today enjoys vigorous health and Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY alone is the credit due. My wife also was very poor in health, due to some liver difficulty with which she had suffered a long time until she became very much reduced in flesh. A trial of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy has resulted in the complete restoration of her health, which she had not enjoyed for years. She had gained in flesh and strength, and thus secured perfect health, and this is DUE ENTIRELY TO DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY. As for myself, being engaged in the grocery and commission business, which makes it necessary for me to test the quality of different articles, like butter, etc., my sense of taste and my stomach were seriously injured. Everything seemed to nauseate me, and fearful of dyspepsia in its most severe form, I tried DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY. The first bottle afforded immediate relief, and from that day to this I can say that Favorite Remedy has restored me to perfect health. These are facts which I claim prove that Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is the best medicine in the world for those afflicted with the above difficulties. If any one in the city of Troy doubts the truth of these statements let him come to me and I will prove them. I have recommended Favorite Remedy to hundreds and with the same good results.

Spouting Oil-Wells in Russia.

The principal oil-wells of the Baku district lie at Balaxane or Balakhani, about six miles to the northeast of the town: this is an oil-field about three and a half miles in length by one and a half in breadth. To the south lies a smaller field called Bebeabat. One fountain at Balakhani, ninety-eight feet in depth, is noted as having been flowing steadily for upward of two years, and still continuing to yield 800 barrels a day. Another well not far off, 490 feet deep, commenced its career by throwing up a jet thirty feet in the air, and then flooding the land with oil for a considerable distance all around, overflowing other wells and several small refineries, so as effectually to stop their work. The roar of the rushing oil and gas could be heard a mile from the spot.

Various flowing wells are said to yield 6,000 barrels a day, and some far more; but, from the fact that these quantities are generally stated in the Russian measure of poods, it is not very easy to realize what is meant. One pood, we learn, is equal to thirty-six pounds English. Hence one thousand poods represent somewhere about sixteen tons. Accounts have just reached England of an oil-fountain which was struck last December, and flows at the rate of from fifty to sixty thousand poods daily, gushing forth with such force as to break in pieces a three-inch cast-iron plate which had been fastened over the well in order to divert the flow in a particular direction. In the same district a huge heap of sand marks the spot where an oil-spring, on being tapped, straightway threw up a column of petroleum to twice the height and size of the Great Geyser in Iceland, forming a huge black fountain two hundred feet in height—a fountain, however, due solely to the removal of the pressure on the confined gas, for there is no trace of volcanic heat. The fountain was visible for many miles round, and on the first day it poured forth about two million gallons, equal to fifty thousand barrels.

An enterprising photographer who was on the spot secured a photograph which places this matter beyond cavil. The fountain continued to play for five months, gradually decreasing week by week, till it finally ceased to play, leaving its unfortunate owners (an Armenian company) well-nigh ruined by the claims brought against them by neighbors whose lands were destroyed by the flood of oil.—Popular Science Monthly for December.

ON FROZEN HEIGHTS.

A Winter Trip to the Summit of Mount Washington.

After a dangerous ascent through snow-drifts from six to twelve feet deep, and over many places where a false step would have sent me to the bottom of a precipice, I reached the summit of Mount Washington in an exhausted condition at 6 p. m., December. In making the ascent one has to pass through a cloud area more or less dense, and the moisture quickly saturates your clothing, and then the low temperature at a high elevation freezes your clothes. So was my experience, and before I could remove my apparel I had to be thawed out.

The officers of the signal service were very much astonished when I made my appearance at their station, and gave me a cordial greeting. I was told that a large percentage of those who have attempted the ascent during the winter season have paid dearly for their temerity. After a rest of three or four hours, I walked out to obtain a view of the mountain by moonlight. The night was nearly calm and the full moon made everything appear as bright as day. There was neither cloud nor fog, but a slight mist hung over the valleys. Each particular peak of the presidential range stood out in bold relief, and the moonlight on their mantles of snow and ice made a luminous halo somewhat akin to the aurora, while the frostwork on the buildings near me flashed and sparkled in the light. Long I gazed in silent admiration on the scene. So still and beautiful, yet so drear, it recalled to my mind an Arctic night of many years ago, when in that far-off region I stood alone and looked on a similar scene of snow and ice.

The intense cold awoke me from my reverie and I slowly retraced my steps to the warm fire. Early the next morning (Christmas day) I was called to see the sun rise. The same condition prevailed on the summit as the night before—the same quiet atmosphere, free from fog, but the light mist of the night had settled into a heavy belt of fog below us. If the night was gloriously beautiful, the panorama of the morning was surpassingly grand as the sun rose in the East. The rays falling on the fog belt illuminated it with all the colors of the rainbow. It appeared a mass of shimmering light and color. Each peak was encircled by luminous bands, while the small prisms of ice in frost work on the different buildings sparkled and danced, showing all the colors of the solar spectrum, and changing from one to the other with the greatest rapidity—all color and seemingly motion. It seemed indeed fairy land. A scene of such grandeur, dazzling beauty and gorgeousness I never again expect to see. As the sun rose higher and higher the fog heaved up under its warm rays, forming itself, like the billows of the ocean, in immense waves of color.

But the scene soon changed. From a calm the wind rose suddenly to a velocity of seventy miles an hour, and the fog rising formed a cloud completely obscuring the sun. It seemed that nature during my brief stay intended to show me not only her beauties, but also her grandeur in a storm. Snow and sleet began to fall, and the wind, increasing in violence, the building, although heavily braced on the outside by heavy rafters, rocked to and fro like a staunch ship in a gale or sea, and I felt it would surely be moved from its foundation. Venturing forth in such a storm would have been seeking destruction, so I solaced myself by watching its effects from a window. The wind was then blowing over 100 miles an hour, and owing to the blinding sleet and snow I could not see further than ten or fifteen yards. Immense pieces of frost work four feet thick and eight to ten feet long were torn from the buildings and blown out of sight. Never before had I experienced anything so sublime as well as fearful, and while the scene of the morning excited my admiration, the storm of the afternoon created profound wonder and reverence.

It ceased as suddenly as it began, and much to my astonishment, on going out of doors to see the effects of the storm, I found the summit as bare of snow and ice as it would have been on a summer's day. The next morning I prepared to descend the mountain, and by dint of considerable labor, many falls and numerous slides, I successfully reached the base. The scenes I witnessed fully recompensed me for all the hardships and dangers of the trip. —Rehoboth Sunday Herald.

And we might also say—time and pain as well, in our advice to good housekeepers and ladies generally. The great necessity existing always to have a perfectly safe remedy convenient for the relief and prompt cure of the ailments peculiar to woman—functional irregularity, constant pains, and all symptoms attendant upon uterine disorders—induces us to recommend strongly and unqualifiedly Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription"—woman's best friend. One's hair begins to fall out from many causes. The important question is: What is sure to make it grow in again? According to testimony of thousands, Parker's Hair Balsam will do it. It quickly covers bald spots, restores the original color when the hair is gray or faded, eradicates dandruff, and causes the scalp to feel cool and well. It is not a dye, nor greasy, highly perfumed, safe. Never disappoints those who require a nice, reliable dressing.

DANIEL LITTLEFIELD.

To a Daughter.

The blossoms she gave him—indeed they were fair;
And grateful the odor they cast on the air—
And he put them in water, and set them nigh
His little round window that looked on the sky,
And the blush of those blossoms, their pleasant perfume,
Made a sweet little spot in a dull little room—
Made a sweet little spot for a day and an hour.
Then—
Well, little Lil, what's the fate of a flower?

The blossoms she gave him—indeed they were fair;
But I think that the least of, the giving was there,
In that pass by the window—the look in her face—
Her tender, and youthful, and delicate grace—
The voice that just trembled in gentle replies,
The look and the light in her uplifted eyes—
Ah! these, to my thinking, were dearer by far
Than even the fairest of May-blossoms are.

The blossoms she gave him—you ask, little Lil,
With a lip that is quivering and blue eyes that fill—
If they faded?
They did—no occasion to cry!
For they blossomed again where I can't have them die—
These roseate tints on your soft little cheek,
In a manner mysteriously certainly speak
Of a bunch of pink blossoms, fresh torn from the tree,
That in eighteen and sixty your mother gave me.

MARIAN'S GIFT.

An April day, the sky all dappled with silver-shining clouds, while bright sheets of rain seemed to braid themselves with the sunbeams, and every gust of southward-coming air seemed full of the vague scents of violets and daffodils, and grass growing green on sunny hillsides.

Hiram Lacy sat by his city window, where the sweet air lifted the silver hair from his forehead, and thought longingly of the departed days when he dwelt under his own vine and fig tree and watched the dancing sunbeams with greedy eyes.

"Marian," he said, in his feeble piping voice; "Marian, don't you think we might have a little walk in the park this afternoon? The air is so mild and I'm so tired of these four walls."

Marian Lacy looked up from her desk at the farther end of the room.

She was a slender, pretty girl of seven or eight and twenty, with large, soft, hazel eyes, brown hair and pale cheeks.

"By and by, dear father," she said gently, "when the sun gets a little lower."

Once more she eagerly resumed her writing, the pen flying swiftly over the surface of the paper, as if it were winged with magic speed.

Hiram Lacy turned to his wife who sat patiently sewing opposite him.

"Wife," said he, "the apple trees will be in blossom at the old farm soon. Don't you remember how the white leaves used to shower down on the ground like a snowstorm? The old farm—if I could but have ended my days there!" he added with a weary sigh. "Here I'm a poor weakly old man, and nobody nurses me or cares for me in the city whirl—but there every tree is a friend of mine, and the very wind among the branches sounds familiar in my ears."

"It's no use thinking of old times, dear," said his wife, sighing almost inaudibly.

"If I could only have been contented to let those old speculations alone," resumed Hiram eagerly; "or if I could have bought them a month—only a month—earlier! But I was mad—and we are ruined! The landlord was here this morning persecuting us because the rent of the room was not paid. I never thought I should come to this, Huldah!"

His wife made no reply. Marian still wrote on, her brow slightly contracted.

"Still, we should have done well enough," went on poor old Lacy, "if Marian could have made up her mind to marry young Deforest! He is well off; we old folks could have had a home with him, with our feet on green grass, and God's pure, clear sky, above our heads. It's not too late yet, lass. Deforest was here yesterday when you and mother were gone down to those musty old newspaper offices. You'd better think of it, my girl."

Marian looked up, tossing back the drooping hair from her brow.

"Father," she said pitifully, "I have told you that I do not love him!"

"Love! love!" echoed the old man, sneeringly. "Love won't boil the kettle nor buy a gown. I thought you had outgrown the age of school-girl sentiment."

"I hope I shall never outgrow it, father," answered Marian in a low voice.

"And while you are waiting for love to grow up in your heart, your poor old father and mother may pine their lives out in this city-smelling den!"

"I hope not, father," said Marian. "My writing has—"

"I don't want to hear another word of your writing," interrupted Mr. Lacy. "If it hadn't been for your ridiculous idea that you were a genius, you'd have settled down quietly to be John Deforest's wife five years ago."

Marian pursued the argument no further, but her mother's gentle, encouraging glance, as she looked up, mutually testified that she had at least one tender sympathizer.

The blue-eyed April violets blossomed and died, and hung her chaplets of bloom on tree, glen, and forest, and still Marian toiled on, early and late.

Her father's words often occurred to her at times of fatigue or despondency. "A genius." Was she, indeed, a genius? If she were—oh, bright, impossible if—every sacred fire of her nature was burning on the altar of this book, into which she was interweaving the tendrest fancies of soul or brain; oh if!

And Marian grew paler and more absorbed day by day; and her mother watched her with wistful, silent care, and old Hiram fretted on with the incoherent plaints of old age, and the summer ripened into golden fulness, under beamy moonlight nights, and the glow of tropic days.

"It's getting warm weather," groaned old Hiram, "and this Croton water isn't fit for a dog to drink, let alone a Christian. Oh, if I could only have a drink of water out of the old well under the garden wall! It used to be as cold as ice when the sun was at its hottest! I dreamed last night of standing beside that well with the old bucket brimming over, and the wild roses hanging over the curb, all in a tangle as they used to grow!"

"Father," said Marian, who had just come in, with cheeks unwonted rosy and a light sparkling deep down in her eyes, "shall we all go, you and mother and I, for a nice long drive in the country, this afternoon?"

"The old man's face lighted up for an instant, but it fell again.

"We can't afford it," he said, testily. We are poor. Carriage drives cost money."

"But I have earned a—a little money from my book," began Marian eagerly.

"Book, indeed!" laughed old Hiram. "A pretty book you'd write. But, we'll go, if you can afford to squander the money on your old father. You've been very close with your money of late."

Marian's cheeks glowed at the undeserved taunt, but she did not reply.

"Father's not well," she said to herself, "and he's old and irritable, and this hot weather frets him. He will be better when—" And there Marian's reverie stopped.

The air was full of the sweet breath of new-mown hay, when the open carriage rolled along the green country roads, under the rustling boughs of beach and elm, and waving willow. Hiram Lacy's eyes brighened, the blood seemed to leap with new impulses through his veins.

"Ah!" he cried drawing a deep breath, "now I am beginning to live again! Why, this is the old road, with the gnarled oak hanging over the gate. There are the fields that used to be ours. Daughter, why did you take this road?"

"I thought you would like to see the old place again, father."

"It isn't ours any longer!" he groaned. "See those clover fields—I always said it was the best ground in the country—and the tall corn, growing so royally! And the house looks just as it used to look. I believe it's just the same robin singing on the poplar tree by the porch."

His eyes were brimming over with tears, his voice faltered strangely as he spoke.

"Who lives here now?" he asked after a pause. "You said Burke had sold it."

"Nobody just at present. Shall we go in walk throug the rooms?"

Hiram Lacy assented with a silent inclination of the head.

It was all the same—the old furniture undisturbed in its nooks and corners, the worn, familiar carpets, the same tinting of wall and woodwork. Hiram Lacy could almost believe that it was but yesterday he quitted the threshold. He sat down in the old-fashioned arm chair, which had once been his special chair.

"I shall die more contentedly for having seen the old farmhouse once more!" he said, in a broken voice.

"Father!" cried Marian, unable to restrain herself any longer, "you shall never leave it. It is home to you!"

"Home," repeated old Hiram in a puzzled voice. "It was home once I know, but—"

"And it is home now!" cried Marian, throwing her arms around his neck and bursting into tears. "Tell him, mother, I cannot."

"Marian is the one who has bought it, father," said the old lady, with fond maternal pride. "Her book has been published and it was a great success, and she took the money to buy the old farm back for her poor old father and mother to end their days in.

Old Hiram was silent for an instant; then he laid his hands on Marian's bowed head.

"My daughter," he said, "you have kept the fourth commandment, and God will bless you for it, in His own good time! I never dreamed of this—when—when I was so cross and unreasonable with you! But who is this?" as a shadow crossed the threshold, and a tall noble looking man entered from another door. "One of our new neighbors, perhaps; there have been many changes since I lived here."

"No, father," said Marian, growing as rosy as the elm pinks in the garden outside; "it's Mr. Arden, one of the publishers of the new book."

"I'm glad to see you, sir," said Hiram Lacy, with old-fashioned courtesy, "and I'm glad you like my girl's writings."

"I do, sir, very much," said Mr. Arden, frankly; and, moreover, I like the girl—so well that I'm here this afternoon to ask you to give her to me for my wife."

"What does Marian say?" asked the old man, after an instant of bewilderment.

"She says yes."

"Oh," said Mr. Lacy, dryly, "so this is the reason she wouldn't marry John Deforest!"

"It is one of the reasons, I believe," said Mr. Arden, laughing.

And thus, in striving to work out the happiness of her parents, Marian Lacy found the great gift and sunshine of her own life.

Mrs. Barbara Flick, Cleveland, Ohio, was completely cured, by St. Jacobs Oil, the wonderful pain-reliever, of chronic rheumatism of long standing.

The Chicago Daily News says: "Michael Sullivan, who was clerk of election at the second precinct of ward eighteen, and who disappeared shortly after the discovery of the frauds committed in that precinct, is now at Sarnia, Canada. He has written to certain parties in this city, and unless he receives a favorable response he will return on invitation of the citizen's committee, and relate all he knows."

Heart Disease will yield to the use of DR. GRAVES' HEART REGULATOR, thirty years has proved it a specific in all forms of heart disease. Free pamphlet of F. E. Ingalls, Cambridge, Mass. $1.00 per bottle.

John J. Snow of Walden, Vt., who was convicted in June, 1874, of shooting a peddler named Stanton, and sentenced to the Windsor, Vt., prison for life, was pardoned on Jan. 1st by Governor Pingree, on the petition of members of the grand and petit jury and the judges before whom he was tried.

"I placed the Athlophoros in the hands of a young women who has suffered long and severely with rheumatism. She has used it with good results." Rev. F. N. Greely, New Haven, N. Y.

The committee of the Maine Grand Army of the Republic on the reception of the National Encampment met at the Augusta house in Augusta on the evening of Jan. 5th. The committee on location reported that they had leased a large part of the promenade in Portland. Telegrams were forwarded to New Orleans to see if the Great Eastern could be secured for use during the encampment.

Of Unvarying Excellence

Mrs. Kate E. Meyer, aged twenty-five years, of Phenix, N. Y., is held for trial for poisoning her husband, Charles Meyer, aged sixty-five, New Year's day. She also poisoned two young men of the family, but not fatally.

Diseases of the Skin.

Wetherell's Sarsaparilla with Iodide of Potassium cures all skin diseases. Its effect on salt rheum is wonderful; eruptions of the face or body are often cured with a single bottle. Dyspepsia and liver complaint yield readily to its wonderful properties. One dollar per bottle. Six for $5.

A Business-Like Document.

On Tuesday, Jan. 6th, after the New York legislature had organized, the following message was laid before the senate and house:

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,
ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 6, 1885.

To the legislature: I hereby resign the office of governor of the state of New York. GROVER CLEVELAND.

A joint committee of the senate and house notified Lieut. Gov. Hill of Gov. Cleveland's resignation, and he at once assumed the duties of the office, and sent his first message to the assembly.

News and Notes.

Patrick Egan, a saloon keeper of East St. Louis, Mo., has been arrested, charged with being the principal in the robbery of the vault in the city clerk's office last May, when $3,000 in money and a large amount of city scrip was stolen. This is the robbery for which Charles Clark, alias Mike Coleman, and Thomas Duffy, lieutenant of police at East St. Louis, were arrested about a month ago. Egan was committed to jail in default of $4,000 bail. It is stated that several prominent persons are implicated in this affair, and that some startling developments will be made shortly.

General W. B. Hazen, chief signal officer, has reduced Sergeant Otto Holtnorth of the Signal Service to the ranks, and has formally recommended to the secretary of war that he be dismissed from the service for rifling Lieutenant Greely's private papers. The recommendation will be approved at once, as General Hazen's action was made at the suggestion of the war department.

A despatch from Columbus, Ga., says: "The murder of Samuel N. Barker of Carroll county was one of the most brutal in the annals of Georgia. Barker was but recently married, and with his bride had just settled on a farm for the coming year's work. Just before dark he went out to look at his stock, accompanied by his wife. When at a little distance from the house, three men, armed and drunk, walked up. They were John W. Smith, Andrew Smith and A. S. King. John Smith levelled his gun at the young husband, and, compelling him to go on his knees under pain of death, Smith abused him with all manner of obscenity. The wife begged for her husband's life, clinging to the knees of Smith and imploring him. The infuriated desperado pulled the trigger and the load went through Baker's heart, killing him instantly. Smith, the murderer, has escaped. He is under indictment for six previous murders and numberless charges of violence of less degree. For fifteen years he has been the terror of the county in which he lives, and people seem to be unable to deal with him as he deserves." And yet we are told that the laws are as well enforced, and human life as safe, in the south as in the north.

A New Orleans despatch says the exposition is certainly in bad luck. While the running expenses have not been less than $5000 a day, the gate receipts have not reached $4000. It has rained more than half the time since the opening, and the four days of the car drivers' strike cost the exposition the attendance of many thousands of visitors. Carrier's Cincinnati band, engaged for the season for $50,000, is said to be packing up, ready to go away, no funds for its payment being in sight.

A mob of 500 men attacked the salvation army meeting at Dayton, Ohio, Sunday night, and battered the doors down. They were finally driven off by the police.

Minnie Gillett, a prepossessing white woman of twenty-one, was married by a justice of the peace at Ainsworth, Neb., to David Little, a coarse looking negro. Miss Gillett's father keeps a hotel at Ainsworth, and Little has been doing odd jobs about the house. He made the girl believe he was heir to a large cattle ranch in Texas, and she consented to a secret marriage. Just as the ceremony was over Minnie's father came raving into the squire's office with the statement that Little had a black wife and two children at Des Moines, Ia. This disgusted the new made wife, and she swore out a warrant for Little's arrest on a charge of bigamy. While the papers were being made out Little fled, but was overtaken at Long Pine, and was taken back to Ainsworth, where he is in jail awaiting the action of the grand jury.

In the Galena, Ill., lead region many new and valuable mines have been discovered, some yielding as high as 3000 pounds a day. In southern Wisconsin several new and rich leads have been opened.

Notice is given by Commander Wadleigh of the following changes in the buoyage of the west end of the north channel, Vineyard Sound: The black can buoy (spar buoy in the winter months) on the west end of L'Homme Dieu shoal will be moved about one and one-half miles to the westward and placed on the west end of the new shoal recently located by the U. S. coast survey, and will be numbered "17." A danger buoy with black and red horizontal stripes has been placed on the twelve foot lump on the east end of the new shoal. A black spar buoy numbered "15," as at present, will be placed on the west end of L'Homme Dieu shoal proper, in place of the can buoy. Vessels drawing more than twelve feet should pass to the westward of buoy No. 17.

Commander Wadleigh also gives notice that a black spar buoy numbered "1" will be placed on the west side of the north end of the cut between Long Island and Nix's Mate, Boston harbor, and that the red spar buoy on the east side of the north end of the cut will be removed.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA
Works through the blood, regulating, toning and invigorating all the functions of the body.
RAYNHAM, MASS., Aug. 12, 1878.
C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gentlemen—I am a . . . I have had ringworm humor and salt-rheum so badly that my body was covered with raw sores; so also, my head and face. I have had any number of doctors in the last seven years, and none of them could cure me. One day my mother was in the city of Taunton, and found one of your cook books, and in reading it I found many people testifying to cures from the use of your Sarsaparilla and Olive Ointment. I felt forced to try it, although I had seen many things advertised that never did me any good. I have now taken two small bottles and one large one of Sarsaparilla, and used three boxes of Ointment. I now call myself cured. Nothing can be seen of the humor but the dim outlines of the sores. I shall take two more bottles, and then the cure will be complete.
I am gratefully yours,
EDGAR F. WHITMAN.
Biliousness, Sick Headache.
PITTSFIELD, MASS.
MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gents—Please send me by express two bottles HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA and a few Cook Books for distribution. Your preparation has worked wonders in the case of my wife, who has been troubled with sick headache and biliousness for years. She only took one-half teaspoonful at a dose, and has not been so well for five years as now. She found that within a week after taking it she felt very much better, and is now entirely free from those severe headaches. She has not taken any of any account since last spring, and what little she had is lent to do some others some good, and we must have it in the house.
Yours truly,
HOMER B. NASH.

POLICE COURT -- BATCHELDER J.

WEDNESDAY, Jan. 7th.

Joseph Brown, a young man who at any time would rather "hold up" an acquaintance for ten cents to get a drink than to do two days hard work, was up for drunkenness, and the judge, instead of inflicting a fine for the fellow's poor mother to pay out of her hard earnings, sent him to the county house of correction for sixty days, taxing costs at $6.90. Unfortunately this court has no power to order worthless creatures to be drowned in the dock.

Joseph E. Henry and John Smith, tramps, were each assessed $9.90 for drunkenness. Brentwood in default of payment.

INSTALLATION.

The following officers of St. John's Lodge, No. 1, F. & A. M., were installed on the evening of the 7th inst. by P. D. D. John Pender, assisted by Acting G. M. Lemuel T. Davis:

ELBRIDGE G. PEIRCE.

Mr. Elbridge G. Peirce, father of Postmaster Peirce, died in Washington, D. C., Jan. 5th, at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. James S. Morrow. Mr. Peirce was born in Middleborough, Mass., in 1801, but in early life went to Maine with his father, who was one of the noted shipbuilders of that time; after the death of his father he carried on the business himself, designing and building many ships which won fame in their day, his shipyard being on the Kennebec river. In 1845 he moved to this city, where he has resided ever since; after coming here he built the ship "Charger" and several others, his yard being located on Peirce's island. He was one of the early free soilers, joined the republican party when it arose, and was a member of that party up to the time of decease. He leaves a wife with whom he had lived for over sixty years, and four sons and three daughters.

MACHINE POETRY.

An unknown contributor sends a postal card bearing the postmark of the Concord & Portsmouth railroad, and having written thereon the following so-called "sonnet," which is probably intended as a specimen of how badly he can do when he lets himself loose:

She wrote poetry,
He wrote prose;
She had red hair,
He a red nose.
He said "marry?"
She said "yes;"
He gave her money
To buy wedding dress;
She took money,
Cleared for the west;
He is at home,
Fearfully distressed.

We shudder to think on what that poet might achieve should it ever occur to him to select the beautiful snow or the merry, merry spring time as a subject for his muse.

A BAD JOB.

Alfred H. Oliver of Lynn, receiving cashier in the office of the treasurer of the Eastern railroad for eleven years past, was arrested on the 7th inst. on a charge of embezzling $12,200; he confesses his guilt, and says he spent the money in fast living. He was not suspected of wrong-doing until the day the Boston & Maine took possession, when he should have turned over $22,260, but only delivered $10,000, and said the rest was put in a trunk which he could not find, and which must have been stolen. He is thirty-one years old, and has a wife and three hilden.

The apron-and-necktie dance given in Congress hall on Tuesday evening, the 6th inst., by the Sons of Veterans, was the most successful of their assemblies held this season; the attendance was large, and the affair was an enjoyable one for all present. The next dance of the series will take place in about three weeks, when a sheet-and-pillow-case party will be given.

The Times of the 7th inst. says: "Mr. Henry McEvoy, formerly of this city but who went west two or three years ago, is spending a short vacation with his friends in this city. He is now located in North Springfield, Missouri, and is employed by a wholesale establishment there. One of the great inducements to visit his home was the matrimonial question. Mr. McEvoy and Miss Annie Walsh, a very estimable young lady of this city, were united in marriage to-day. It is Mr. McEvoy's intention to return to his western home in a short time."

Any person affected with a cough is advised to try a bottle of Constitutional Cough Syrup. David Kimball & Co. have it for sale, and as it is warranted, they will refund the money in cases where it does no good—if there should be any such cases. Examine the "ad." in another column.

Mr. George A. Jackson, of Christian Shore, has within a short time added to his natural-history collection a big and very wise-looking owl, and a hen-hawk. Mr. Jackson's woodchuck has "turned in for the winter" about twenty times, but after being turned in a few days turns out again, and then goes back to his hole; he appears to be in a very dubious state of mind regarding the weather we are having, and really it is enough to upset the ideas and disarrange the habits of the best-disposed woodchuck.

Mr. Henry E. Perry, a native of this city and son of the late Dr. Adams Perry, is one of the lately-elected board of aldermen in Dover; this is a re-election, Mr. Perry having previously served one year as alderman, and before that as councilman for one year. He is a machinist, having learned the trade in the machine shop at South Newmarket.

The report that plans for a union depot for the Boston & Maine and Eastern roads, at Boston, are to be prepared soon is officially denied. Action in this direction will not in all probability, be taken for two or three years.

Mr. B. F. Dame, many years ago principal of the Haven school in this city, but since 1872 teacher of the Lincoln school in Manchester at a salary of $1350, has been tendered the mastership of the Oliver school at Lawrence, Mass., at a salary of $2000, and has accepted the offer. There are between 800 and 900 pupils in the Lawrence school, and there is a submaster, besides sixteen lady assistants.

At the adjourned annual meeting of the New Hampshire Historical Society, held at the society's room on Wednesday, the 7th inst., Hon. Calvin Page, Joseph B. Upham, Jr., and James Rindge Stanwood, of this city, and Charles E. Tilton of Tilton, were elected resident members, and Edmund Clarence Stedman of New York was elected an honorary member.

The schooner Martie A. Holmes, from Baltimore for this port with coal, put back to Baltimore in distress on the 6th inst., having been damaged by collision with the schooner W. L. White, bound from Baltimore for Havana.

A VETERAN'S RECORD.

The Laconia correspondent of the Boston Globe writes concerning Col. James Stevens Hoit of that town, who is claimed to be "the oldest active Freemason in the state," having been made a Mason in 1824, in Strafford Lodge of Dover. He was born in Barnstead in February, 1794, and is a pensioner of the war of 1812. We clip the following paragraphs from the correspondent's account:

When about twenty-one years old he became a member of a military company, and was appointed soon after orderly sergeant. During the war of 1812 he went with his company to Fort Constitution, in Portsmouth harbor, where they did garrison duty. While there the famous Walbach tower — named in honor of Colonel J. B. Walbach, then commandant of the fort—was built, Sergeant Hoit having charge of the carpenter work upon it. This tower was erected for a retreat to be used in case the fort should fall into the hands of the enemy, and is still standing. Its implements of war were three small guns and one thirty-six pounder, mounted. It would have been but a poor defence in these modern times. General John A. Dix was adjutant of the regiment, which consisted of an equal division of regular and militia troops. At one time, while at Fort Constitution, three British men-of-war were observed hovering around the "Shoals," with the evident intention of making an entrance into the harbor. A fisherman brought the news to the small garrison, and said he had overheard conversation between the enemy which led him to believe they intended to attack the navy yard, their desire being to destroy the frigate Washington, then upon the stocks. A slight engagement ensued, Sergeant Hoit assisting to show the Britishers that the handful of brave men were not to be trifled with. After his term of service as a soldier he returned to Barnstead, at the age of twenty-three. * * * The colonel has held several important positions during his life. At one time he was master mechanic of the Cocheco Print Works at Dover. After the war of 1812 he accepted a commission as captain in the Tenth New Hampshire militia, and was promoted from time to time until, in 1828, he was appointed by Gov. John Bell as colonel of the regiment, receiving an honorable discharge May 5, 1830. In 1840 he conveyed the presidential vote of the state to Washington, as messenger. In 1856 he was a representative to the state legislature, and was afterward re-elected. He was also chief engineer of the Laconia fire precinct when first organized. Colonel Hoit is a staunch republican in politics, and never votes any other ticket, except in town affairs, when he casts his ballot for those whom he thinks will make the most efficient officers. * * * The colonel has been married three times. His first wife was Louisa Ayer of Barnstead; the second, Abigail Clay of Lake Village; and the third, Asenath Russell of Eaton. He has two sons and two daughters living, which, with his present wife, include the only surviving members of the family.

Robert Marshall, a designer in the Dover print works, has been put under $50 bonds to keep the peace toward Alfred Flinn, another designer, who is married to Marshall's daughter. Flinn some time ago commenced paying attention to Lizzie Marshall, seventeen years old; Marshall objected, and the girl refusing to give up her lover, he turned her out of doors, and Flinn married her Christmas day. Since then Marshall has threatened Flinn's life, which led to his being put under bonds as stated—but the bonds do not appear to be very heavy.

Whitehouse block at Gonic was burned Jan. 7th. Loss on building $8000; insured. Yeaton & Co., C. S. Hill and the Tiger engine company were the principal tenants, and lost all, with no insurance.

Right to the point

The Rev. J. E. Scarles, of New York, is one of the most widely-known and highly esteemed of Methodist ministers.
Mr. Scarles says: "I am impressed that it is a duty I owe to those afflicted with Rheumatism or Neuralgia, to say that a remedy has been discovered that is indeed a most precious success. My son was greatly afflicted with Rheumatism, and suffered so severely that at times he was obliged to have morphine injected into his arm to get relief. While in this condition he discovered a remedy which effected immediate relief, and a permanent cure. He has since turtabled it to many others with the same result. I have also furnished it to a number of persons suffering with Rheumatism, and it has result been immediate relief, and a permanent cure. Among others, I gave it to Dr. Chas. T. Corbit, pastor of St. George's M. E. Church, New Haven, Conn., who was suffering greatly with this terrible disease. I will give you his own words as written to my son, which I am able to publish the fact for the benefit of others suffering with the same disease."
What Mr. Corbit Says:
"New Haven, July 24, 1883.
"Mr. Scarles: Dear Sir—I wish to say for the benefit of all who are suffering with Inflammatory Rheumatism, that your medicine is infallible. I suffered for two months the most excruciating torture; lost 25 pounds of flesh, and was not out of my house for a month; I heard of your remedy, and was almost instantly relieved by it. If there is a specific for diseases of any kind, yours most certainly is for Inflammatory Rheumatism in its severest form.
"Yours most respectfully, WM. F. CORBIT,
"Pastor Oregon M. E. Church, New Haven, Conn."

Tony Couldn't Make Him Speak.

They had a dime supper in the neighborhood of Pawtucket, conceived and carried out by the ladies. The conditions of this novel supper were these: For every word spoken by the gentlemen at the supper-table a forfeit of 10 cents was imposed; but, on the other hand (as duties are always compensated with rights and restrictions with privileges), it was agreed that whoever could wrestle the whole supper, submitting to all queries, surprises, and ingenious questions without replying, should be entitled to it gratuitously. Many and frequent were the artifices and subterfuges resorted to by the ladies in attendance to entrap the unguarded, and one after another stout and discreet man went down before the constant volley of artful interrogations. At last all fell out and paid the dime penalty save one individual—a queer chap whom nobody seemed to know. He attended strictly to business, and passed unheeded the jokes, gibes and challenges. They quizzed him, but all in vain. He wrestled with turkey and grappled with the goose. He bailed out the cranberry sauce with an unswerving hand, and ate celery as the scriptural vegetarian ate grasses; and, finally, when he had finished his fifth piece of pie, he whipped out a pocket-slate and wrote on it in a large and legible hand, "I am deaf and dumb."—Providence Journal.

Genius and Opportunity.

For a score of years the scientific school of criticism has tried to break down the barrier between ordinary minds and men of genius by proving that genius differs in degree but not in kind from common intellects. That this tendency should have grown in favor with critics is not surprising; it is merely an illustration of that larger tendency in modern science to regard all organic beings as related, and to obliterate the line of separation between the lowest men and the highest animals. But after accepting the assertion that men of genius are only ordinary men with some intellectual qualities developed to an unusual degree, how does that make genius any the less remarkable? It is in the difference that the marvel lies, and not in the resemblance. Science will never be able to do more than record that difference; it will never be able to explain it. So when we are told that Shakspeare or Goethe was the product of his time, we need not quarrel with the statement; but we know that no explanation of the fact that Shakspeare was Shakspeare can be given. That particular individuality which distinguished him from all other men, whether they were contemporary or not, cannot be explained by referring to the age or to the environment in which he lived.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Tired and Languid Women.

How many women there are of whom these words are true: "They feel languid and tired, hardly able to bear their weight on their feet, the bloom all gone from their cheeks, irritable and cross without meaning to be, nerves all upset, worried with the children, fretted over little things, a burden to themselves, and yet with no acute disease." What a pity it is. But a few bottles of Parker's Tonic will drive all this away, and relieve the troubles peculiar to their sex.

A THRILLING STORY.
As Told by a Merchant in Troy, N. Y.—A Surgical Operation Avoided—How a Father, Wife and Daughter Escaped an Awful Doom.
Of the hundreds of accounts of remarkable cures wrought by DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, none have appeared so purely astonishing as the following. The persons mentioned are among the most highly respected in the city of Troy, and the story as told by the father will prove interesting to all our readers.—ED.
TROY, N. Y.
Dr. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:
DEAR SIR: My daughter was afflicted with a severe growth of Fungus. To remove it we had resorted to almost every remedy and consulted the most prominent surgeons and physicians. Dr. ——, of Troy, said that a surgical operation would be necessary, but fearing fatal results I hesitated. Some of the physicians claimed that it was caused by one thing and some by another. The Fungus was prominent and disfigured her looks. Having heard of Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY working so thoroughly on the blood I determined to try it, to see if this medicine could do what doctors had failed to do and surgeons had hardly dared to undertake. I can say in truth that the result of this trial was the complete cure of my daughter of this dreadful malady. Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY alone effected it. We used nothing else, "or other things had completely failed. My daughter today enjoys vigorous health and to Favorite Remedy alone is the credit due. My wife also was very poor in health, she too was liver diffident with which she had suffered a long time until she became very much reduced in flesh. A trial of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy has resulted in the complete restoration of her health, which she had not enjoyed for years. She had gained in flesh and strength, and this secured perfect health, and this is DUE ENTIRELY TO DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY. As for myself, being engaged in the grocery and commission business, which makes it necessary for me to test the quality of different articles, like butter, etc., my sense of taste and my stomach were seriously injured. Everything seemed to nauseate me, and fearful of dyspepsia in its most severe form, I tried DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY. The first bottle afforded immediate relief, and from that day to this I can say that Favorite Remedy has restored me to perfect health. These are facts which I claim prove that Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is the best medicine in the world for those afflicted with the above difficulties. If any one in the city of Troy doubts the truth of these statements let him come to me and I will prove them. I have recommended Favorite Remedy to hundreds and with the same good results.
Yours, etc., WILLIAM WINDSOR.

Unto Death.

Look!
A gaunt, shambling wolf which has been making erratic circles on the prairie suddenly stops, lifts his nose high above the grass, and sniffs the air in every direction.
Hark!
A long-drawn howl—a sound which rasps on your nerves and brings a chill. The honest growl of the tiger would be music in comparison. It has no honest echo, but you hear the r-r-r-r-r sneaking across the half-mile of prairie to and evil company in the thickets beyond.
The echo is hardly lost in the pines before it is caught up and sent back by a dozen throats, and a moment after a pack of wolves break cover and race across the grass to join the lone animal which sent forth the rallying call.
Skulking-malignant-devilish! There are beasts which will look you square in the face. The wolf never does. Restless eyes—uneasy bodies—lolling tongues—yellow fangs!
The pack head across the prairie to the South, sniffing at the summer breeze as they run, and at each long leap their eyes grow fiercer and clots of foam fly from their red mouths to blotch the velvet grass. It is a trail they are following, and the scent is fresh.
Come on!
It is a strange sight which meets our eyes. Lying stark and stiff on the prairie, fingers clutching the grass and a look of agony on the face already turning purple under the hot sun, is the body of a hunter. Dead? No need to ask that when you have seen the terrible hole in the breast, and the blood which has welled out and soaked the grass and changed the color of the flowers. His rifle lies at his side—his pack at his head. No accident? Perhaps yes—perhaps no. There is one who could tell us if he could but speak.
"Here, dog!"
Lying beside the dead—rising quickly up as we approach—is the hunter's friend and companion—a grand old dog. He looks straight into our eyes. If we have come to bury the dead with kind hands, it is well. If we have come to rob the master—beware! There is Courage and Fidelity and Determination.
Hush! The dog wheels about and faces the north. A sound has reached his ears which sets his eyes aflame and raises every hair on his back. Yelp! yelp! yelp! It is the wolves—the pack which picked up the trail he had made as he went to the north in search of water.
Now watch!
There are twenty to one, and the scent of the dead adds to their fierceness and daring, but as they advance to within ten paces of the dog every wolf comes to a stop. Standing with his fore paws on the breast of the corpse, the dog growls a warning at each and every one before him. He could run away and save his life, but the base idea never comes to him. He will fight the whole pack—he will die defending his dead!
See! The wolves huddle together for a moment, as if in consultation, and then they break up and form a circle about their victims. The dog wheels slowly, growling his wrath and uttering his defiance. Even now he could break through and escape, but he will not. Of a sudden the leader of the pack dashes at him, but he returns to the circle—whipped—bleeding—vengeful. His place is filled by three companions, and for a moment the corpse is hidden from view and the uproar is frightful.
Grand old dog! They have tasted of his blood, but he has sent them crawling back. Placing his paw again on the breast of the dead he growls defiance to the last.
It is over! At a signal the whole circle closes in, and the struggle is ended and the feast begins. There is a tearing of flesh—a low growl of satisfaction—and it is scarcely five minutes before the last wolf has vanished from sight, leaving only the stains of blood on the grass for the vultures to look down on.

Too Gross Stories.

The 288 joke has reached Wheeling, from Pittsburg, and is going the rounds. Two persons meet, in a dark alley and one says: "Say, did you hear that story, to-day, about 288?"
"No," answered the other excitedly, "what is it?"
"Oh, it's too gross, too gross entirely," replied his companion in a mournful voice.
"Tell away," resumed the first, "and I'll try to stand it. If I must hear such dreadful things, I must."
"Well," exclaimed his friend, "144 is one gross, and 288 is two gross, isn't it?"
A meteor shot across the sky like a flash of lightning—a thud—a moan—a chuckle—a dark form stealing away in the darkness—and all was silent.—Wheeling Register.

A Queer Genoese Fashion.

We soon pass an immense house which was once a palace, but is now used for other purposes. Looking up, we see that one of the grand windows in the second story is open, and a lady is sitting at it. She is dressed in very bright, though somewhat old-fashioned attire. Flowers and vines cluster inside the window, and there is a hanging cage with a bird. As we stop and look at her, the lady does not move, and in a few moments we perceive that the window, the lady, the open shutters, the sash, the flowers, and the cage are all painted on the wall in a space where you would naturally expect to find a window. This used to be a favorite way of decorating houses in Italy, and in Genoa we shall frequently see these painted windows, some closed, and some partly open, some with one person looking out, some with two, and some with none. The lady at this window has sat and looked out on the street for hundreds of years. Under her window, into the great entrance of the palace, used to pass nobles and princes. Now there are shops in the lower part of the palace, and you can have your shoes mended by a cobbler in the courtyard.—St. Nicholas for December.

DANIEL LITTLEFIELD.

He Might Catch It Himself.

Among the regular passengers on the Boston, Lynn & Revere Beach Railroad is a somewhat celebrated chemist, who has lately compounded a mixture for the cure of cholera. Last evening he was in conversation with Conductor Bradbury regarding his discovery, and being very much interested in its wonderful medicinal properties, he raised his voice so as to attract the attention of all the passengers in the car. "Why," said he, "my medicine will knock the cholera higher than a burnt boot. I wish it would come here, and I would show you how quick I would conquer it and make my fortune besides." "What's the matter with your going out there where it is and wrestling with it?" blandly suggested the genial Bradbury. "Why, I might catch it myself," innocently replied the would-be cholera exterminator, and the roars of laughter that filled the cars at that moment so confused the worthy inventor as to cause his sudden retirement to the smoking car.—Boston Herald.

WIT AND HUMOR.

"MARY HAD A LITTLE LAMB."

A diminutive specimen of the feminine gender rejoicing in the euphonious cognomen of Mary was possessed of a young animal called in common parlance a lamb.
The exterior wooly covering of the quadruped was in color as white as the driven snow;
And to all places and localities withersoever the said Mary in her wanderings did perambulate,
The aforesaid small quadruped in like manner was just as certain to go.

Tea an Irritant Drug.

The experience of every confirmed tea-drinker, when soundly interpreted, supplies condemnation of the beverage; the plea commonly and blindly urged on its behalf being, when understood, an eloquent expression of such condemnation. "It is so refreshing;" "I am fit for nothing when tea-time comes round until I have had my tea, and then I am fit for anything." The "fit for nothing" state comes on at 5 p. m., when the drug is taken at the orthodox time, or even in the early morning, in the case of those who are accustomed to have a cup of tea brought to their bedside before rising. With blindness still more profound, some will plead for tea by telling that by its aid one can sit up all night at brain-work without feeling sleepy, provided ample supplies of the infusion are taken from time to time.

It is unquestionably true that such may be done; that the tea-drinker is languid and weary at tea-time, whatever be the hour, and that the refreshment produced by "the cup that cheers" and is said not to inebriate, is almost instantaneous.

What is the true significance of these facts?

The refreshment is certainly not due to nutrition, not to the rebuilding of any worn-out or exhausted organic tissue. The total quantity of material conveyed from the tea-leaves into the water is ridiculously too small for the performance of any such nutritive function; and, besides this, the action is far too rapid, there is not sufficient time for the conversion of even that minute quantity into organized working tissue. The action cannot be that of a food, but is purely and simply that of a stimulating or irritant drug, acting directly and abnormally on the nervous system.—Popular Science Monthly for December.

The Rise of the "Metropolitan Correspondent."

I will not assert that the bricks found among the ruins of Ninevah, covered with cuneiform characters, were tablets which had dropped from the hats of "Assyrian Specials;" neither will I insist that St. Paul alluded to the news-correspondents of Athens when he spoke of those Greeks there who "spent their time in nothing else but either to tell or to hear some new thing." In ancient Rome, however, centuries before there were types or printing presses, telegraphs or ocean steamers, there were metropolitan correspondents. Wherever the victorious legions advanced, the Roman officers, both military and civil, were supplied with the lidibria ventes and the acta populi by special correspondents, who sent away from the imperial city, inscribed on papyrus, almost exactly the same matters about which we telegraph. We read in some of these chronicles which have escaped the ravages of time about the debates in the Capitol, the receptions of the Executive, the gladiatorial shows, the new public buildings erected, chats for idlers, and on-dits for scandal-mongers. The profession of "metropolitan correspondents" thus established, ever since been followed at the capitals of civilized countries; and now that they have telegraph and the printing press for the diffusion of their gatherings and gleanings, they are a recognized institution. The brains of the fifty or more here are the cameras through which the nation's history is daily daguerrotyped on the minds of at least 5,000,000 readers. Jefferson, who was the first President inaugurated here, had as his favorite correspondent William Duane, of the Philadelphia Aurora, who had the run of the White House, and was sneeringly called by the Federalists the Presidential bagpiper.—Ben: Perley Poore.

Education for Citizenship.

What good does the laborer's ability to read do him if he only reads what confirms him in his delusions? The higher grades of instruction are doubtless more efficacious than the primary; but they are far from being of themselves competent to develop political capacity. Mr. Spencer, having shown how poorly prepared is the English university graduate, with his knowledge of Homer and Sophocles, to perform his duties as a member of Parliament, adds that to prepare a person for political life he ought to be given education in politics, while the contrary is done. Yet, when we wish to teach our daughters to become good musicians, we do not furnish them with a painter's apparatus, but seat them in front of a piano. The classical studies, so much criticised, have at least an æsthetic and moral influence, if they do not develop the political sense; but the study of the sciences, as it is ordinarily pursued, has neither of these advantages. Our courses are overcharged with historical and scientific studies, the tendency of which is to overload the memory of the pupils, without developing their judgment or elevating their character, and the result has been deplorable. Courses charged with calculations, analyses, and classifications, can not even contribute to the moral and intellectual elevation of the mind. There should be taught, besides the elementary and practical principles, the most speculative principles, and the most general results of the sciences, or, in short, their philosophy. In this way only has science an educational virtue; in this way it lifts the mind instead of merely furnishing the memory, and is liberal instead of servile and military. As usually taught, it serves only to prepare, for examination-day, answers the most of which will be forgotten a month afterward.—Popular Science Monthly for December.

The Coming Senator.

The Concord correspondent of the Boston Journal says that the statement that Gov. Hale will appoint Mr. Johnson, landlord of the Quincy house, Boston, as United States senator from this state after March 4th, is premature. Nevertheless there is good reason to believe that in this appointment, as in the recent selection of a judge of the supreme court, the Quincy house candidate will win. While we have many other men in the state who would fill the bill with credit, Gov. Hale, it is said, thinks it would be proper to transfer Mr. Johnson from the "bar to the senate."

Chandler and Randall.

Secretary Chandler has written a sharp note to Mr. Chairman Randall on the failure to pass any naval appropriation bill before the holidays. He urges that gentleman and his committee to try to put an end to the present anomalous and embarrassing condition of things as soon as convenient. He doesn't approve himself of the plan of voting money in the lump, but is willing to waive his objections on the present occasion. "Appropriation by a vicious method," he writes to Mr. Chairman Randall, "is better than no appropriation at all."

This is perhaps not quite fair to Mr. Randall, who has been devoting his time to visiting the southern people on a mission of brotherly love. Randall, when he heard that Mr. Chandler had lost confidence in the plan of having work done in government navy yards and was advocating the building of ships for the navy by contract, remembered his old watchward, "Pennsylvania and protection." If Mr. Chandler had come to believe in the extravagance of the navy yard system, why should not the democrats encourage the secretary of the navy in his good work of reform, and stick a pin there? To be sure, the pin pricks badly, but then as Mr. Chandler suggested the idea and Mr. Roach is part of the Pennsylvania interest, perhaps the democracy should try the experiment for which now the able secretary writes his incisive note, while he doubtless laughs in his sleeve at the condition of affairs. There is no doubt that Messrs. Randall and Chandler have a good understanding in this business.

Ions and Notes.

A despatch from Omaha says nothing is known there of the reported freezing to death of fourteen men in the vicinity of Valentine, Neb., during the cold snap.

Arnold C. Stacey of Bath, Me., was shot dead in his home on the night of the 7th inst. About a year ago Stacey became embarrassed in business, and made over his property to his wife. The property having been cleared of debt, Stacey wished his wife to restore it to his name, which she refused to do; a quarrel ensued, in which Mrs. Stacey shot her husband dead. She claims that the homicide was accidental.

Wm. J. Campbell, republican, was on Jan. 7th elected president of the Illinois senate by a vote of twenty-six to twenty-five, Senator Ruger voting with the republicans. In the house, Mr. Haines, ind. dem., received seventy-six votes for temporary chairman, one less than the required number. Mr. Haines voted against himself. After some filibustering the house adjourned until next day.

A despatch from Easton, Pa., says that on the night of Jan. 6th John Varck, a trackwalker on the Lehigh Valley railroad, was attacked at Espy Run by three tramps, who robbed him of his watch and money, stripped him naked, and divided his clothing among them. They then threw the man on the ground, tied his hands and feet, and inflicted injuries that may be the cause of his death. As they were about to inflict further brutalities on him the western express came in sight, and the tramps fled.

Terrible havoc, both to life and property, has been reported from the recent typhoon in Japan, and especially on the west coast. At a place called Kurashiki 500 houses were destroyed and 1800 persons killed. At Tamashima the sea walls were carried away, 100 lives lost, and 430 houses blown down; while at Imabari, Matsuyama, and Iyo 151 houses were wrecked, 112 junks sunk, and 170 persons drowned.

The Masonic Cemetery association of San Francisco, Cal., has brought suit against Ex-Senator Sharon and others for desecrating a grave. During the Sharon divorce trial a witness testified that Miss Hill, plaintiff in the case, placed some of Mr. Sharon's undergarments in a newly made grave for the purpose of acting as a love charm on the millionaire ex-senator. Health Officer Mears, at the instigation of Senator Sharon's counsel, had the grave opened to ascertain if such articles were deposited there. The claim is now made that the grave was desecrated and $5000 damages were asked. The suit is chiefly to test the authority of the health officer in such matters.

Victoriano Nievez is one of the luckiest men in the world. He lives at Carmen in Mexico, and is a millionaire. The other day he and his wife celebrated their golden-wedding anniversary. It was a great day for old Signor Nievez. He gave a banquet, and scattered dollars right and left. Five hundred thousand dollars in one lump were sent to the poor in the locust-eaten districts, and $10,000 were given to the republic to help pay off the American debt.

Steamer "Belle of Shreveport," with 100 passengers and 1700 tons of freight, was totally wrecked on Island No. 66 in the Mississippi river Jan. 6th; one man was drowned.

Andrew J. Davis, the noted spiritualist, is suing in a New York court for a divorce from his wife on the ground that she has another husband living.

The democrats have missed the opportunity of showing to the country that they had the desire to aid its business revival by passing the bankrupt law. But then the democrats are accustomed to miss good chances when in power. In the present instance, it is the democratic idea that if a bankrupt law is needed it had better be passed after Mr. Cleveland's administration shall have begun.

Ringworm Humor and Salt-Rheum.

RAYNHAM, MASS., Aug. 12, 1878.
C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gentlemen—* * * * I have had ringworm humor and salt-rheum so badly that my body was covered with raw sores; so I was on my head and face. I have had any number of doctors in the last seven years, and none of them could cure me. One day my mother was in the city of Taunton, and found one of your cook books, and in reading it found many people testifying to cures from the use of your Sarsaparilla and Olive Ointment. I felt forced to try it, although I had seen many things advertised that never did me any good. I have now taken two small bottles and one large one of Sarsaparilla, and used three boxes of Ointment. I now call myself cured. Nothing can be seen of the humor but the dim outlines of the sores. I shall take two more bottles, and then the cure will be complete.

I am gratefully yours,
EDGAR F. WHITMAN.

She only took one-half teaspoonful at a dose, and has not been so well for five years as now. She found that within a week after taking it she felt very much better, and is now entirely free from those severe headaches. She has not taken any of any account since last spring, and what little she had is lent to do some others some good, and we must have it in the house.

A RUMOR.

On Thursday, Jan. 8th, the democrats of this city, who always observe to a greater or less degree the birthday of General Jackson, were in capital humor. It was reported about town that President-elect Cleveland had invited Hon. Frank Jones to be Secretary of the Navy in the new administration. The number of faithful democrats who had supposed all along that Mr. Jones would be called to this position was very great. The number who regarded it as a harbinger of a job on the navy yard was still greater. The statement was regarded authentic, notwithstanding the fact that it was conceded that Mr. Cleveland had not been communicative as to his intentions in this respect; that it was not an object to give a cabinet appointment to New Hampshire, and that it was not supposed that Mr. Jones would exchange his busy mode of life for a routine existence at the navy department. At any rate, the town enjoyed the honor of the prospective appointment; the ability of the coming cabinet minister was discussed, and the wisdom and fore-sightedness of Mr. Cleveland commended; and the general effect of the designation of Mr. Jones for the position, upon the welfare of this region, was thoroughly canvassed and debated. As we are not in the secrets of the coming man, we can only chronicle what has occurred, and not what may take place.

MATRIMONIAL.

Passed Asst. Engr. Wm. H. Nauman, U. S. N., and wife, passed through this city on the evening train, Wednesday, 7th inst., on their wedding trip, they having that day been united in marriage at Portland. Mr. Nauman is well known in this city, having been for some time stationed on the navy yard, which he left to go on the Greely relief expedition, for which he was one of the volunteers. The bride, formerly Miss May Peters of Portland, has also many acquaintances here, having been a pupil at Miss Morgan's school for young ladies. Some of their friends, who had been notified of their passage through on that train, were at the station to tender congratulations and floral tokens.

POLICE COURT -- BATCHELDER J.

THURSDAY, Jan. 8th.

Edwin Goodwin was before the court for drunkenness, and was fined $5, with $6.90 costs; jail in default of payment. Goodwin used to be one of the most regular customers of this court, but had not been up for some time until Thursday. The last time he was sent to Brentwood he was ordered up for thirty-five days, but deserted from the farm, and being caught and taken back, had to serve one hundred and two days in all before receiving his discharge. Since then he has figured in a drunken row in Manchester, and gave the police of that city considerable trouble in effecting his arrest; he never gives the Portsmouth officers any serious tussel, being well aware that if he did he would get all the exercise he wanted.

George Pickering, charged with the same offence as "Eppy Doodah," drunkenness, was allowed to depart on signing the pledge.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

St. Mary's Benevolent Society of this city, at its regular meeting held Wednesday evening, Jan. 7th, elected officers for the coming year. The meeting was largely attended, and quite enthusiastic. Mr. D. J. Hurley, although he was not desirous of serving another year, was unanimously re-elected president. The report of the treasurer was read, from which it appeared that the association is in a most prosperous condition, with a large balance in the treasury; an increase of some $200 over last year. The full list of officers is as follows:

President, D. J. Hurley; vice president, John Phelan; recording secretary, Augustus Schreiter; treasurer, D. J. Long; book keeper, Charles F. Hurley; corresponding secretary, T. F. Cronin; assistant book-keeper, M. F. Canty; trustees, Walter Costello, Sylvester Wright, Thomas Leary, John Kelley, Daniel J. Lynch, Thomas Loughlin, Jeremiah O'Keefe.

THE CITY GUARDIANS.

Some curiosity was excited on Thursday by the number of police officers seen on the street in full uniform, and enquiries were made as to "what was up." It was only that the force were going to be photographed in a group, which was very successfully accomplished, as we are informed. We don't blame the boys for wanting to have their pictures taken, for they are a good looking lot, from the genial marshal down, and the uniform they have adopted is as neat and becoming as any we have seen; they make a creditable appearance, either singly or as a whole, and now that they have got fairly broken in to the work we do not think that any complaint can justly be made as to the manner in which their often unpleasant duties are performed..

COLLECTING THE REVENUE.

The secretary of the treasury has sent to the house of representatives an estimate of the cost of collecting the revenues at each port of entry for the year ending June 30th, 1886, the following being the estimate for several of the ports in New England: Boston, $569,931; Newburyport, $3499; Portland, $70,912; Saco, $750; Kennebunk, $684; York, $250; Portsmouth, $10,665.

The Eastern railroad pay car arrived in this city on Thursday.

In another column will be found a notice from the city marshal to owners of dogs, calling their attention to the provisions of the dog-taxing ordinance, and informing them of the penalty for neglecting to obey it.

The Red Stocking base ball club will give a social assembly at Mechanics' hall on Wednesday evening, Jan. 21st, with music by Lord & Medcalf's orchestra.

The British schooner Tyrone, Heckman master, arrived at this port on the 8th inst. from Vogler's Cove, Nova Scotia, with 2500 ties to the Eastern railroad.

There was very fair skating on the north pond Thursday, and the skaters were utilizing it to a considerable extent.

Henry Biederbeck, hospital steward of the Lady Franklin bay expedition under Lieut. Greely, and one of the little party of survivors who were in this city several weeks last fall, has been discharged from the service on surgeon's certificate of disability.

Unknown persons placed a heavy iron rail across the track about an eighth of a mile from the Topsfield (Mass.) station on the Newburyport branch railroad, on the night of Jan. 6th, and thus attempted to wreck the train leaving Boston at 4:40. The train struck the obstruction, but fortunately without injury. There is no clew to the perpetrators of the outrage.

The new city government of Dover was inaugurated Jan. 7th. Mayor Lothrop's valedictory showed the city's indebtedness to be $99,351.91, a decrease of $14,000 from last year. The new mayor, Richard N. Ross, delivered an inaugural address both brief and pithy. The common council organized with Oliver P. Ricker as president and Joseph E. Porter as clerk. In convention the following officers were elected by ballot: City clerk, John B. Stevens, Jr.; messenger, Geo. H. Demeritt; city marshal, James Fogerty; city solicitor, Thomas M. Pray; city physician, Dr. C. A. Fairbanks; assessor, John S. Glass.

In some parts of Coos county the snow is reported to be three feet deep.

Fourteen persons, five ladies and nine gentlemen, presented themselves for examination before Charles Lyman, chief examiner of the civil service commission, at Concord on Wednesday, the 7th inst. Pension Agent Cheney, Postmaster Carroll and Assistant Postmaster Chesley were appointed a board of examiners.

The selectmen of Laconia have been requested by a prominent citizen to ascertain the reason why Charles Thatcher, a grocer of that town, does not allow his son John, aged twenty years, to go out of doors or even to be seen by any one. He has never been to school, and has never been seen on the street since he was about two years old. His father claims that he has fits.

John R. McLean, of the Cincinnati Enquirer, has given his wife an $80,000 diamond necklace, the centre stone of which weighs five karats and cost $5000. It has long been a custom for editors to surprise their wives in that way now and then, and McLean was only keeping up with the procession.

George Stickney, treasurer of Union county, Dakota, is "short" $16,000.

Charles W. Furlong of North Berwick, John H. Plummer of South Berwick, George Cheney and Wesley C. Littlefield of Wells, Martin H. Kingsbury of York and Isaac D. Phillips of Kittery, are among the petit jurors in attendance on the January session of the supreme judicial court of Maine for York county, which met at Saco on the 6th inst. Robert Spinney of Elliot is one of the supernumeraries.

Three plants in full bloom stood in the front window of Wun Lung's laundry in the Quinby & Sweetser building on Main street this afternoon, and attracted the attention of pedestrians. Wun Lung said they were onions. His partner, She Nee, has not mastered the English tongue, and could not tell what they were. The plants were probably Chinese lilies. The flowers were dead white with a yellow centre, and exhaled an odor not unlike that of the lily of the valley, but more spicy. One of the plants had a consumptive look. "Melican come in here Fliday," says Wun Lung; "him full fliskey, blow on flower, kill him dead." Wun Lung has a very poor idea of the qualities of Maine whiskey.—Biddeford Journal.

These trips do not interfere with her regular time table.

Loss of Flesh and Strength,

With poor appetite, and perhaps slight cough in morning, or on first lying down at night, should be looked to in time. Persons afflicted with consumption are proverbially unconscious of their real state. Most cases commence with disordered liver, leading to bad digestion and imperfect assimilation of food—hence the emaciation, or wasting of the flesh. It is a form of scrofulous disease, and is curable by the use of that greatest of all blood-cleansing, anti-bilious and invigorating compounds, known as Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery."

Right to the point

The Rev. J. E. Searles, of New York, is one of the most widely-known and highly esteemed of Methodist ministers.

Mr. Searles says: "I am impressed that it is a duty I owe to those afflicted with Rheumatism or Gravel, to say that a remedy has been discovered that is perfect a marvelous success. My son was crippled with Rheumatism, and suffered so severely that, at times, he was obliged to have morphine injected into his arm to get relief. While in this condition he discovered a remedy which effected immediate relief, and a permanent cure. He has since published it to many others with the same result. I have also furnished it to a number of persons suffering with Rheumatism, and the result has been immediate relief, and a permanent cure. Impelled by a desire to live, Wm. P. Corbit, pastor of the George St. M. E. Church, New Haven, Conn., who was suffering greatly with this terrible disease. I will give you his own words as written to my son, wishing him to publish the fact for the benefit of others suffering with the same disease."

What Mr. Corbit Says:

"New Haven, July 24, 1883.

"Mr. Searles: Dear Sir:—I wish to say for the benefit of all who are suffering with Inflammatory Rheumatism, that your medicine is infallible. I suffered for two months the most excruciating torture, lost 35 pounds of flesh, and was not out of my house for a month, at least, for two months; and was almost instantly relieved by it. If there is a specific for disease of any kind, yours must certainly be for Inflammatory Rheumatism in its severest form.

"Yours most respectfully, WM. P. CORBIT,
"Pastor George St. M. E. Church, New Haven, Conn."

Such is ATHLOPHOROS—a thorough and efficient cure for the worst cases of Rheumatism and Neuralgia.

What will Surely Do It.

One's hair begins to fall out from many causes. The important question is: What is sure to make it grow in again? According to testimony of thousands, Parker's Hair Balsam will do it. It quickly covers bald spots, restores the original color when the hair is gray or faded, eradicates dandruff, and causes the scalp to feel cool and well. It is not a dye, not greasy, highly perfumed, safe. Never disappoints those who require a nice, reliable dressing.

Proverbial Philosophy By the Hotel Clerk.

Paste it in your hat that the people of the highest position and greatest importance, as a rule, make the least trouble.

It may seem an absurd proposition to some people, but hotel clerks were really not invented for the sole purpose of answering foolish questions.

It isn't the "loudest" or most lordly person who receives the greatest attention. Every hotel in the land has sheltered bigger men than you.

Don't spend half your time in trying to devise ingenious ways to make trouble for the servants, and the other half in making a row over your bill.

A little genuine civility to waiters and employes goes further than an attenuated "tip"—and further than a big "tip," with the politeness left out.

The hotel was not built for the express convenience and exclusive accommodation of any one person. This is official, and it will pay you to remember it.

There may be plenty of faults about the hostelry you honor with your presence, but don't make the mistake of trying to correct them. There is nothing in the Constitution of the United States to force you to remain if you are not satisfied.—Hotel Register.

Some Food for Reflection.

The age to which we have at present attained may be stated thus: Compared with the period 1838-1854 (the earliest for which there are trustworthy records), the average of a man's life now is 41.3 years instead of 39.8, and of a woman's 45.3 instead of 41.9 years, an addition of 8 per cent. to the female life and 5 per cent. to the male. Of each thousand males born in the present day, 44 more will attain the age of 35 than used to be the case previous to 1871. For the whole of life the estimate now is, that of 1,000 persons (one-half males and one-half females) 35 survive at the age of forty-five, 26 at fifty-five, 9 at sixty-five, 3 at seventy-five, and 1 at eighty-five. To put the case in another way, every thousand persons born since 1870 will live about 2,700 years longer than before. In other words, the life of a thousand persons is now equal in duration to that of 1,070 persons previously; and 1,000 births will now keep up the growth of our population as well as 1,070 births used to do. This is equivalent in result to an increase of our population, and in the best form, viz., not by more births but by fewer deaths, which means fewer maladies and better health. What is more, nearly 70 per cent. of this increase of life takes place (or is lived) in the "usual period"—namely, between the ages of twenty and sixty. —Cornhill Magazine.

Russian Stoves.

The Russian stove is made of fire-resisting porcelain, is always ornamental, and frequently a highly artistic, handsome article of furniture. Internally it is divided by thick fire-clay walls into several upright chambers of flues, usually six in number. Some dry firewood is lighted in a suitable fireplace, and is supplied with only sufficient air to effect combustion, all of which enters below and passes through the fire. The productions of combustion, being thus undiluted with unnecessary cold air, are very highly heated, and in this state pass up and down through different compartments. At the end of this long journey they have given up most of their heat to the twenty-four heat-absorbing surfaces of the fire-clay walls. Then all communication with the chimney is cut off, the fire is put out, having done its work, and the interior of the stove has bottled up its caloric ready for emission into the room, and, passing through the non-conducting walls of the stove, is radiated into departments.

"How much did Mr. Smith give you at his wedding?" asked a minister's wife of her husband. "Two dollars." "Well, that's a very insignificant sum for a rich man like Mr. Smith to pay for such a service." "It does seem a small amount," he replied, "but you must remember that he has been married before."—New York Sun.

A mother in New York City whose little son had fallen from the roof of her dwelling and caught on a telegraph wire, whence he was rescued by a daring descent of another lad upon a fire-escape, spanked her son and gave his rescuer 10 cents. Whatever may be said of the latter act, the former showed wisdom beyond that of the present age.

A sharp trick was played upon a Lambertville citizen a few days ago. He gave a tramp a pair of old pantaloons and was surprised shortly afterwards by a chap returning and giving him a five dollar note, which he said he had found in one of the pockets. So pleased was the citizen with the tramp's honesty that he presented him with a silver dollar, but imagine his rage upon discovering shortly afterwards that the bill was counterfeit.—Trenton True American.

Two middle-aged women, who had not seen each other for years, met the other day in City-Hall Park, and embraced effusively. After they had recovered their breath one asked: "Are you married?" "Oh, yes, and have five children—my husband is a brick-carrier in West Twenty-third street. "Are you married?" "Yes, indeed." "And your husband?" "He is a brick-carrier, too." "Where does he carry?" "In his hat."

Martin Murphy, one of the oldest and best-known pioneers of California, died recently at his home in San Jose. He went to the Pacific over forty years ago from Missouri, leading the first emigrant train across the plains. He engaged in cattle raising, and continued in the same business to the day of his death, when he owned 80,000 acres of land in four counties, and was worth over $3,000,000. He never invested a dollar in mines or mining stock speculation.

After trying all kinds of remedies for rheumatism or neuralgia, Athlophoros comes to crown a triumph. This is the universal testimony. Why not get it at once and save dollars, time and pain? You would, of course, if you knew of it. You will know of it. Its fame is going up and down the land as the specific that never misses. Jones & Bryan, of Lancaster, Wis., write: "Sold our first bottle of Athlophoros to an old and respected citizen, known all over the county. He was despondent of remedies, of which he had tried many, for protracted rheumatism. Before he had taken half a bottle he found it worked like a charm. It is a truly wonderful specific."

A specific must go to the spot. Athlophoros goes for rheumatism and neuralgia, and nothing else. In this only it has merit as a discovery. Says Rev. N. H. Buck, West Plain, Mo.: "A lady member of my church who has not been able to walk for years on account of rheumatism has been highly delighted with a trial of Athlophoros." And James A. Cook, writing from Smithton, Mo., says: "Send me three dozen bottles Athlophoros. It has worked a wonderful cure of rheumatism in my wife, and is rapidly helping others."

Many of the testimonials read like magical tales. David Little, of Sumner, Iowa, writes: "Have had rheumatism for nearly four years. Lost one-third my flesh, could not walk without crutches, nerves all shattered, could not sleep, no strength in arms or legs. Could neither rise or lie down without help. Took a dose of Athlophoros on Sunday morning. I got up, dressed myself, walked into the kitchen without crutches, and surprised the entire family by wishing them a happy new year. Rest well at nights, and my strength is rapidly returning. I thank God for your great discovery."

Further particulars of the Stacy tragedy at Bath, Me., obtained from Mrs. Tarbox, aunt of Mrs. Stacy, who was in the room at the time of the homicide, are to the effect that Stacy had threatened to cut his wife's throat from ear to ear six times in the last three weeks. She was in the pantry when the wife was choked, but ran out, saw him slap her face once and knock her to the floor with his fist twice just previous. She saw a pistol in the wife's hand, and left the room for fear of being shot. Stacy said to his wife when choking her: "I will wring your neck," and it is believed that he meant to kill her.

An Excursion to Mexico.

It is the testimony of all travellers that Mexico is one of the most interesting and fascinating countries on the globe. No country of the old world presents so much that is essentially novel and strange to American eyes. Its grand scenery, including some of the loftiest mountains in North America, its ancient cities and temples now in ruins, and the quaint Spanish-Indian characteristics of its present life, are all elements of interest. Now that railways make even distant parts of the country accessible, it is a more inviting field for the tourist than ever. Messrs. Raymond & Whitcomb, the well-known excursion managers, have arranged to take a party of limited numbers through Mexico, leaving Boston February 26th. Pullman palace cars, dining cars, and a special train throughout Mexico will be among its features, and the tourist will enjoy many other advantages, chief among which is entire freedom from travelling cares in a country where he may not know the language or the customs. Nearly a fortnight will be passed in the city of Mexico, and among the other places to be visited are Chihauahau, Zacatecas, Aguascalientes, Silino, Guanajuato, Leon, Queretaro, Tula, Puebla, Cholula, and Orizaba. A circular giving full details regarding this grand excursion may be had by addressing W. Raymond, 240 Washington street, Boston.

A Water Quake.

The British bark Isabelle has arrived at St. Johns, Newfoundland, from Cadiz. She reports in latitude thirty-eight degrees and fifty-seven minutes north, longitude twenty-nine degrees and fifty-five minutes west, on the 18th of last month, a terrific earthquake. The shock lasted fifteen minutes. The thunderous submarine roaring was appalling. The ship was shaken in every fibre, and the crew were paralyzed with fear. They broke through all discipline, and cut the boats loose. The cessation of the shocks restored tranquility on board. The weather was calm and fine at the time.

Annual Encampment, G. A. R.

Col. John C. Linehan, department commander, G. A. R., has issued general order No. 11, announcing the annual encampment of New Hampshire department as follows:

The annual encampment of this department will be held in Smyth's hall, Manchester, on February 11th, 1885. Headquarters will be established at Hotel Windsor. The committee on credentials, consisting of the assistant adjutant general and comrades Daniel B. Newhall of Post 2 and S. S. Piper of Post 3, will meet there at ten o'clock. Comrades on arrival will report to the committee and present their credentials, in order that the encampment may open promptly at 2:30 o'clock P. M. The council of administration will meet at the Hotel Windsor on Tuesday evening, February 10th, at 7:30 o'clock. It is hoped every member may be present. The commander of Post 3 will detail an officer of the day, officers of the guard, and six comrades who will report to the assistant adjutant at two o'clock for duty at the encampment. The work of the order will be exemplified by Louis Bell Post, No. 3, during the encampment. Arrangements have been made with the different railroad companies for the sale of tickets good for comrades and their families at the uniform rate of two cents per mile.

The "Tichborne Claimant" Again.

The San Francisco Examiner publishes a long interview with Edmund Orton, who returned there on the last steamer from Australia, to which place he went at the instigation of Miss Georgiana Baring, daughter of one of the Baring Brothers, the celebrated London bankers, for the purpose of identifying as his brother Arthur Orton, who is confined in the Parramatta lunatic asylum at Sydney, New South Wales. He states that he did identify him as his brother, and is therefore thoroughly convinced that the Tichborne claimant, recently discharged from prison in London, is really Sir Roger Tichborne, heir of the Tichborne estate. The real Arthur Orton, now in Australia, will be taken to London to further establish his identity.

Baylor, author of "The Perfect Treasure" (commenced in the January number) in which the experiences of an English lady and her friends during a tour through the United States are related with a mirth-provoking humor, a knowledge and appreciation of national characteristics, and a perfect fairness of tone and freedom from caricature that cannot fail to secure critical approval and wide popularity. HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA

Works through the blood, regulating, toning and invigorating all the functions of the body.

RAYNHAM, MASS., Aug. 12, 1883.

C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gentlemen—For years I have had ringworm humor and salt-rheum so badly that my body was covered with raw sores; so, also, my head and face. I have had any number of doctors in the last seven years, and never found one that could cure me. One day my mother was in the city of Taunton, and found one of your cook books, and in reading it I found many people testifying to cures from the use of your Sarsaparilla and Olive Ointment. I felt forced to try it, although I had seen many things advertised that never did me any good. I have now taken two small bottles and one large one of Sarsaparilla, and used three boxes of Ointment. I now call myself cured. Nothing can be seen of the humor but the dim outlines of the sores. I shall take two more bottles, and then the cure will be complete.

I am gratefully yours,

EDGAR F. WHITMAN.

Biliousness, Sick Headache.

PITTSFIELD, MASS.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gents—Please send me by express two bottles HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA and a few Cook Books for distribution. Your preparation has worked wonders in the case of my wife, who has been troubled with sick headache and biliousness for years. She only took one-half teaspoonful at a dose, and has not been so well for five years as now. She found that within a week after taking it she felt very much better, and is now entirely free from those severe headaches. She has not taken any of any account since last spring, and what little she has is lent to do some others some good, and we must have it in the house.

Yours truly,

HOMER B. NASH.

SUITS AGAINST THE TRUST CO.

John P. Treadwell, the trustee of Daniel H. Treadwell, Quincy Phillips and Emily T. Phillips, and others, have brought suit in the superior court of Massachusetts against the Portsmouth Trust & Guarantee Co. to recover various sums of special deposit aggregating, as claimed, over twenty thousand dollars. If these persons can obtain judgment in another state against themselves, while the company is under an assignment in this state, they can probably be able to collect it if the real estate owned by the company in Massachusetts has not vested in the New Hampshire assignee.

DRESS PARTY.

On Tuesday evening next, in Congress hall, a dress party will be given under the management of the three young men who have so successfully carried out courses of assemblies for several seasons past. Music will be furnished by Taylor & Tasker's orchestra of Dover, which organization uses a harp for the bass, instead of the big fiddle.

"BOB" INGERSOLL COMING.

On Friday night, Jan. 16th, in Music hall, Col. Robert G. Ingersoll, the great orator and noted free-thinker, will deliver his famous lecture on "Orthodoxy."

Tickets will be on sale at Goodrich's, Tuesday morning, at 75 and 50 cts.

Much interest is manifested in the meetings held this week in the Pearl street church. Preaching this evening by Rev. C. M. Anderson.

Sagamore steam fire engine was stationed on Market square, Friday, pumping water from the reservoir to flush the sewer pipes leading from the custom house to the main sewer.

Funeral services were held at the residence of Wm. E. Hadley on Elm street, Friday afternoon at two o'clock, over the remains of the late Elbridge G. Peirce, Sr., Rev. Dr. Wm. H. Alden officiating, and paying an eloquent and merited tribute to the worth of the deceased as an honest man and good citizen, a firm friend and faithful worker, and one who with strong convictions and decided opinions was yet willing to accord honesty to the motives of those who most widely disagreed with him. Capt. Eben Peirce of New Bedford, a brother, and Elbridge, George and Edwin Peirce, sons of the deceased, were the pall-bearers. The body was placed in the receiving tomb to await interment.

The north mill pond was covered with boys skating, Friday, in spite of the two inches of water with which the ice was overflowed. Once in a while a rapidly-moving boy would fall, and though he would be instantly hidden from view by the column of spray which would shoot into the air as he skimmed along on the ice, his whereabouts could be accurately determined by the position of the base of the column.

The M. N. B. club had their first assembly on Friday evening, in Franklin hall.

The following officers of Portsmouth Commandery, No. 47, U. O. G. C., were installed at Good Templars' hall on Thursday evening, Jan. 8th: John F. Leavitt, N. C.; Lizzie K. Brown, N. V. C.; Rebecca J. Raitt, prelate; Lucy K. Lord, K. of R.; Ann L. White, F. K. of R.; Lucy F. Perkins, treasurer; Margaret A. Randall, herald; Albert W. Hanscom, W. I. G.; Ezekiel Burns, W. O. G. The ceremonies were conducted by Supreme Commander John D. Young, M. D., of Lawrence, Mass.

An entertainment will be given at Brooks' hall, South Eliot, at 7:30 o'clock Thursday evening, Jan. 15th, under the auspices of the Ladies' Benefical Circle, the programme consisting of the dialogues "The way they keep a secret," "Aunt Betsey's beau" and "Lord Dundreary," with vocal and instrumental music, readings, tableaux, pantomimes. Mother Goose melodies, etc. Ten cents admission will be charged.

The steamer Reading, Smith master, arrived on Friday from Philadelphia with 1623 tons of coal, and the schooner Daylight, Hodgdon master, arrived the same day from Newport News, Va., with 1084 tons, both to J. Albert Walker.

If you want a cord of mountain rock-maple, one of the hottest-burning and most satisfactory fire-woods growing in New England, you can procure it at Mr. Daniel Littlefield's wood-yard, No. 13 Green street, where also the other hard and soft fire woods are always kept in stock, and delivered sawed and split as ordered.

It is stated that "Alcohol, used as a gargle, is a preventive of scarlet fever." According to this there are some hundreds of persons in this city who need have no fear of that dread disease.

Stephen W. Clarke, Esq., of Manchester, formerly of Portsmouth, on Wednesday morning of this week received a despatch announcing the death of his father, Mr. John Clarke, of Pittsfield, in the 83d year of his age, he being the oldest continuous resident of that town. Mr. Clarke had voted at sixty-one town elections in Pittsfield, and was a staunch republican up to the day of his death.

Mr. E. Curtis Marden, formerly of this city but for some years past a resident of San Francisco, Cal., is reported as having recently located permanently in the Sandwich islands, where he has secured a lucrative position under the Hawaiian government. "Curt" was a police officer—and a good one, too—under the democratic administration in this city in the days of "old ward six," but went to 'Frisco about seven years ago, and at once joined the force there.

The Portland, Saco & Portsmouth railroad, which by the recent lease has become a part of the Boston & Maine system, has during the past year built two new iron girder bridges, one over the Kennebunk river, between Biddeford and Kennebunk, and the other over the Great Works stream, between Wells and North Berwick. Both of these are in every respect first-class bridges. The railroad's portion of the long pile bridge across the Piscataqua river has been thoroughly repaired, and is in good condition.

Thos. E. O. Marvin, Esq., president of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, arrived in town to-day and went to Rochester to investigate an alleged cruelty to a horse there. On his return he will look up some cases here. One day this week he had Alonzo Jesseman of Dorchester, in this state, arrested on the charge of cruelly beating and torturing a steer to death. He was arraigned before Justice Collis of Plymouth, and was bound over in $500 to appear for trial at Haverhill on the third Tuesday in March. Mr. Marvin made his fourth annual trip this week through the White Mountain region, inspecting the cattle and horses used at the timber yarding places in the mountain forests and at the steam saw mills in that region. The last few years his reports have shown a great improvement in the condition and treatment of dumb animals there.—Dover Democrat, Jan. 8th.

Abijah Tarbox, agent of the S. P. C. A. for York county, is being constantly annoyed with anonymous letters by parties making various complaints of cruelty to horses, swine, hens, cats, dogs, etc., and other animals. While Mr. Tarbox desires to receive all such complaints they must be accompanied with the writer's name as a guarantee of good faith.—Biddeford Journal.

The following officers have been installed by Agamenticus Commandery, United Order of the Golden Cross, of York: Noble commander, H. E. Evans; vice commander, Sophia Turner; K. of R., Allen C. Moulton; Fin. K. of R., John C. Stewart; treasurer, Willis G. Moulton; prelate, Isaac Turner; herald, Leander Donnell; W. I. G., Ellen L. Norwood; W. O. G., J. A. Sewall; past noble commander, Howard Moore.

Capt. Perkins of the schooner Lillie, one of the fleet of brickers employed during the summer in carrying bricks from the up-river brickyards to Boston, has been reported as drowned at Ogunquit, Me., where the schooner is owned, and where she is laid up for the winter. Capt. Perkins writes to the Dover Democrat that he thinks there must be some mistake about this, as he is not aware of any such objectionable experience having happened to him.

At the regular meeting of Piscataqua Commandry, U. O. G. C., of Eliot, held Thursday evening, Jan. 8th, the following officers were installed by Dep. Gd. Com. T. F. Staples: M. P. Tobey, P. N. C.; Geo. W. Shapley, N. C.; Mary F. Athorne, N. V. C.; J. H. Foss, W. P.; W. H. Staples, K. of R.; J. H. Dixon, F. K. of R.; J. W. Wherren, W. T.; A. A. Shapley, W. H.; Lizzie A. Adams, W. I. G.; Martin Shapley, W. O. G. After the exercises the members assembled at the residence of Sir Knight Oliver Athorne, and partook of an oyster supper.

Morrill Lodge, I. O. G. T., of North Kittery will celebrate its anniversary on Tuesday evening, Jan. 13th, in the 1st Methodist church at North Kittery. The choir of the 2d Methodist church, at the village, will furnish music; and George Batty of Portland, whistling and harmonica soloist, dialect and character actor and vocalist, and performer on two or three instruments at a time, will take a prominent part.

In Kittery, Dec. 26th, Mr. Edward T. Goodwin, one of the aged citizens of the town, passed away at the age of seventy-eight years; and four days later, on Dec. 30th, his brother-in-law, Mr. Joel Bragdon of York, and of the same age as Mr. Goodwin, also went to his rest. Their wives, both of whom survive, were daughters of the late Rev. Joshua Goodwin of York. Mr. Bragdon was a professing Christian for about forty-five years, and was identified with the Methodist Episcopal society of the upper parish of York until it ceased to exist; and when the York & Kittery Christian society was organized, and a church built at Beech ridge, he affiliated with that society, and with his family remained in it until his decease. Besides a widow, Mr. Bragdon leaves three sons and three daughters, the elder son being Dr. George B. Bragdon of the Dorchester district of Boston. He was a great sufferer for many years, and for ten years or more prior to his death was totally blind.

The great necessity of being always to have a perfectly safe remedy convenient for the relief and prompt cure of the ailments peculiar to woman—functional irregularity, constant pains, and all symptoms attendant upon uterine disorders—induces us to recommend strongly and unqualifiedly Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription"—woman's best friend. It will save money.

An interesting conversation occurred on Saturday between a drunken country-man and one of Dave Silver's dummies, in which the country-man did all the talking. The fellow told the dummy good morning, and, as it made no reply, the drunken fellow became insulted, and rolled up his sleeves for fight, shook his fist in its face and said: "I ain't afraid of anything that hits the grit, and if you want anything out-en me you can git it." As the dummy didn't want anything the fellow walked off, saying: "You can't bluff me with your town clothes on. I am a 'sumpthin' myself.—Hancock (Ga.) Bulletin.

The negroes in Barbadoes are inveterate thieves. A hen-roost is almost impossible to preserve from them, and if they get into one they will sweep it clean. There mode of proceeding on such occasions is as follows: Having obtained an entry, they seize each bird from its perch, put its head under its wing, and whirl the unfortunate bird round and round in the air five or six times. The result of this is that the bird remains torpid and apparently lifeless, and is thus easily stowed away in a bag without danger of inconvenient cackling.

A tramp applied to an Elizabeth, (N. J.) woman for food one day last week, and she scolded him saying: "Why don't you come at a decent time—right after dinner or breakfast—not in the middle of the morning?" He said: "I hain't got no watch," in such a piteous manner, that she relented and went to the kitchen to get him something. Meanwhile her reproof sunk deep into his heart, and, to guard against making such a mistake in the future, he walked into the parlor and carried off the handsome mantel clock.

"Excuse me, madam," said a gentleman politely to a lady from whose head he had accidently pulled a false switch in a crowded car. "I've seen enough of you to convince me that you are no gentleman," exclaimed the confused woman "And I," returned the suave man, handing back the lost switch, "have seen enough of you to convince me that you are no gentleman either."

"Pat, have you any prairies in Ireland like we have in Illinois?" "To be shure we have. Didn't yez iver hear of Tipperary?"—Yonkers Statesman.

A prominent lawyer now practicing in this city tells the following: "An old darkey was under indictment for some trivial offence and was without counsel. The Judge appointed me to defend him. I was young and very fresh at the time, and it was my first case in court. As I went forward to consult with my client he turned to the Judge and said: 'Yo' Honah, am dis de lawyer what am appointed to offend me?' 'Yes,' was the reply. 'Well,' said the old darkey, 'take him away, Jedge; I pleads guilty.'"—N. Y. World.

A little fellow was climbing an apple tree, and when on the topmost limb, he slipped and fell to the ground. He was picked up in an insensible condition. After watching by his bedside through many weary hours his mother perceived signs of returning consciousness. Leaning over him she asked him if there was anything she could do for him now that he began to feel better. Should she bathe his forehead, or change his pillow, or fan him? Was there anything he wanted? Opening his eyes languidly, and looking at her the little sufferer said: "Yes, I want a pair of pants with a pocket behind." He got them.—N. Y. Tribune.

Brother Gardner announced the following new legends to be hung on the walls during the fall and winter term: "A bigot am mo' to be feered dan a fule." "You kin silence a man by knockin' him down, but it takes argyment to convince him." "Human nature' kin sometimes be depended upon ober night, but it's the safest way to take a note of hand fur it." "A man's rating am not how much he kin run in debt, but how nigh he kin squar' up ebery Saturday night." "Industry am sartin to bring plenty, and economy neber goes b'arfut in winter." "Between sayin' nuffin' an' talkin' too much de world leans to de man who holds his tongue." "Our opinion of ourselves makes us all great men."—Proceedings of the Lime Kiln Club in Detroit Free Press.

The respectable gentleman of the following anecdote was the victim of a slight misunderstanding, and probably he did not forget it. He went to the train one day to see his favorite daughter off. Securing her a seat he went to the bookstall and then returned to her window to say a parting word, as is frequently done on such occasions. While he was away the daughter left the seat to speak to a friend, and at the same time a prim old maid came in and took her place. Unaware of the important change inside, he hurriedly put his face up to the window and said, "One more kiss, sweet pet!" In another instant the point of a cotton umbrella was thrust from the window, followed by the passionate interjection, "Seat, you grey-headed wretch!" He scatted.

The relation of the microscope to cholera is at present an interesting and close one. And when another potent servant of man, electricity, is summoned to aid the microscope, the power of the latter is increased to an astonishing degree. Recently in London such an apparatus threw upon a screen the image of a cholera germ, magnified 2,000,000 times, and in which these long-hidden and minute organisms appeared the size of the human hand. The motto of the modern microscopist seems to be: "There is nothing hidden that shall not be revealed."

THE BALL SEASON—NECKS.

"New is the time for necks." Thus might read a woman's almanac, and does a manly ignorance inquire wherefore, the answer is given readily. January is the ball season; the ball season begun, both arms and necks are a consequence. And there are good reasons, moreover, why January should be the month of months. With the parlor thermometer at eighty, what does the daughter of a wealthy family care for outside snows? Furs reach up from the coachman's polished boots to the brim of his tall beaver, and she herself within has furs on furs. "Everybody" is hardly in town before December, and in December we have Christmas shopping and present giving. New Year's day brings a new order of things; Balls Benevolent lead the way. Haste is made to follow, because the time is short. In a month more the shadows of Lent will be cast; soon that annual eclipse will overtake us, and necks and arms will be lost in obscurity.

ARMS ARE AN OLD STORY,

But the fashionableness of necks has yet the attraction of novelty. And this season there are so many ways of showing them. The corsage cut low and round, the pointed back and front, the pointed back and square front with shoulder-straps only; while, as a charming revival, we note the advent of the Grecian bodice with its artistic folds. As to sleeves, we might not have any at all were it not for the plentiful trimmings of lace, tulle or crape, which, brought over and fashioned into some sleevelike pretense, come in to save us from positive sleevelessness. We all know people, however, who should they endeavor to exhibit a neck, would succeed only in displaying the foundation on which Nature intended a neck should be, but where the good work never reached completion. For these, as a refuge, can be seen the traditional heartshaped or Pompadour, with elbow sleeves. Many resort thereto and are safe; others insist on doing as others do, and thereby cause others much sad rumination on the proprieties. There is a run upon tulle—plain tulle in mazy mists of flouncings; soft glancings of tulle over shimmering satin below; bespangled tulle, and tulle covered at short intervals by chenille drops or small single artificial flowers—costly importations, crushed usually in one wearing.

JANUARY NOTES.

Nowhere do we notice more difference than in the degree of provisions at entertainments. Sometimes for a gathering that fills two large parlors, lemonade and cake is thought sufficient. Again, for less than one-fourth of that number we see wine, punch, cake, ice cream, confectionery, tea, coffee, oysters and sandwiches, home-made bread being especially esteemed, and our housekeepers may note that our best bread, cake and biscuit are made from Horsford's bread preparation.——Holiday tables have been prettily adorned by fancy chocolates, which are in special demand for such purposes. Wrapped in fancy paper, they are laid in bunches of three or four and tied with narrow colored ribbon, and sometimes is added such device as a small green frog, a lizard, or the like, that seems to sun itself on glistening logs. Prices run from fifteen cents upwards.——Mignonettes are more expensive, beginning at fifty cents, and here we notice an endless variety of ideas. Gipsy pots, pentagons, hats and vases are only some of the forms assumed, and the silken pouch when opened contains a few choice bonbons. Both these and chocolates are set around beside the plate, or they may be heaped on a dish in the centre.

SPECIAL COSTUMES.

Mrs. Livingston: blue satin with petticoat front of white velvet covered with black lace.——A distinguished literary lady: dark maroon Nonpareil velveteen with front of broche velveteen to correspond in color, trimming of passementerie ornaments and cord.——The editress of a well-known magazine: dark purple satin and brocade finished with black lace.——Miss Vanderbilt: ecru satin trimmed with lace flowers, sleeveless waist of golden brown brocade velvet, elbow sleeves of satin finished with lace.——Mrs. Cutting: plum colored satin with brocade in silver outlines.

LUCY CARTER.

Election Rascality in Illinois.

A Chicago despatch of Jan. 9th says: "A special venire for a grand jury was to-day impannelled in the county court to investigate the eighteenth ward election frauds. The panel includes James H. McVicker, George L. Dunlap, George L. Otis and other prominent citizens. Speaking of the supposed frauds committed at the late election, the Daily News says: 'It is now reasonably certain that enough votes were fraudulently returned from the second precinct of Norwood Park to give Carter Harrison his majority of 103 in Cook county. The poll book and tally sheet show 225 to be the total number of votes cast, but less than 100 of the recorded ballot depositors are known to be legal voters of the precinct. On the night of election the unofficial returns showed 106 democratic and eighteen republican votes cast. The official returns showed an increase of 100 votes, all on the democratic side, the republican vote remaining the same as at first reported."

Mr. Edward Morey has been chosen president of the Boston & Lowell railroad. Mr. Morey has for the past year ably discharged the manifold duties of managing director, and is one of the largest shareholders in the corporation. He is a Boston business man, who has proved to the stockholders of the Lowell that he has progressive ideas and a comprehensive grasp of the duties of his office. The New Hampshire people now brought into more intimate relations with the Boston & Lowell road, in its extension to the northern and western sections of our state, will be ready to welcome Mr. Morey to the new position, in the belief that the great interest he stands for will be managed for the mutual benefit of the business of its New Hampshire patrons and of the property he represents, which has now become such an important element in our railway system.

New Elements in a Baking Powder.

Professor von Leibig once said in speaking of baking powders that a material for baking should be made which would add to the bread the elements lost to the flour. Martin Kalofleisch's Sons have succeeded in producing a baking powder which, in the opinion of Professor Silliman of Yale, possesses the properties recommended by Von Leibig. It restores to the bread the potassa and magnesia salts which the milling removes from the high grade flours. It is also entirely free from those injurious salts which are often found in ordinary baking powder. This new invention is called Wheat Baking Powder, and makes bread and biscuits that dyspeptics can eat.—New York Tribune, Nov. 17.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gentlemen—It affords me much pleasure to recommend HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA. My health has been such that for some years past I have been obliged to take a tonic of some kind in the spring, and have never found anything that hit my wants as your Sarsaparilla. It tones up my system, purifies my blood, sharpens my appetite, and seems to make me stronger. Respectfully yours,

J. F. THOMPSON.

One of our prominent business men said to us the other day: "In the spring my wife got all run down and could not eat anything; passing your store I saw a pile of Hood's SARSAPARILLA in the window, and I got a bottle. After she had been taking it a week she had a rousing appetite, and it did her everything. She took three bottles, and it was the best three dollars I ever invested."

A SPIRITED RACE.

On Saturday, as a well known photographer was returning to his studio from dining, a smart N. N. W. breeze blew around the northeast corner of the custom house, which tilted the Derby hat of the photo-man and sent it high in the air, whence it descended and flew by rapid whirls toward State street. The owner, wearing a heavy ulster, at once started in pursuit. He apparently thought it would be a case of "instantaneous taking," but he soon learned that the race is not always to the swift. Away went the Derby, and after it in varied courses pursued the rightful owner, while a "group" of lookers-on became interested in the Derby race. The hat took a position beneath a horse fastened to a post in front of the Treadwell building on State street, and just as the ex-wearer stooped to pick it up, it started off on a roll toward the pier; but the artist finally tacked and "took it" on the fly, and encumbered with no little real estate which it had gathered in its travels, it came up Pleasant street covering its panting owner, who seemed in quite a breeze from the effects of his post-prandial race.

CONFLICT OF AUTHORITY.

The horse which ran away in Dover on the evening of the 8th inst., scared by the "music!" of the Salvation Army parade, belonged to Mr. A. C. Amazeen, formerly of this city, but now keeping a livery stable in Dover; and it was Mr. Amazeen's notice to Mayor Ross of his intention to claim damages from the city, which led the mayor on the 9th inst. to notify Capt. Thompson, the commander of the salvationists, that under no conditions would the army be allowed thereafter to parade with music,—to which Thompson replied that he "took his orders from heaven, and would not allow any earthly power to dictate."

The result of this dispute was at least a partial victory for the army, who did parade that evening with a portion of their instruments of noise, including three drums and cymbals, omitting the use of tambourines, which it is claimed are the instruments which scare horses. People were on the streets expecting a conflict, but at the last moment Mayor Ross thought it expedient to await the opinion of the city solicitor on the question, and see what action the Boston city government takes in the matter. The city solicitor gave an opinion that the city is not liable for damages done by the army to citizens' property. The army, finding themselves unmolested, and having police protection, made a parade much longer than usual.

Without taking into consideration where Capt. Thompson's orders come from, it is not plain that the salvationists should be stopped from marching about the streets with drums. They may be a set of cranky enthusiasts, and their "army" movements a nuisance; but they can hardly be worse than political parades, and as long as political organizations are allowed to make night hideous with the glare and smoke of torches, the blare of brass bands (not always good ones) and tin horns, and cheers and howls and fireworks, we cannot see why the salvationists should be interfered with when they want to make fools of themselves in a similar manner.

The law in the case of drum beating in the streets is clear and concise. Chapter 269, Sec. 5, of the General Laws of New Hampshire, says "No person shall, within the compact part of any town, * * beat any drum, except by command of a military officer having authority therefor." But this provision has never been enforced, so far as we know.

VITAL STATISTICS.

The births were as follows, by months: January, 11; February, 9; March, 8; April, 13; May, 17; June, 11; July, 13; August, 10; September, 7; October, 15; November, 8; December, 11. The number of births recorded was 89 less than the number of burial permits issued.

POOL TOURNAMENT.

At Preble's Eureka Pool Rooms, No. 31 Congress street, a pool tournament will commence to-day to continue through this month and February, the prize being a box of McAlpin's Chocolate Cream Tobacco. The player who during the tournament shall pocket the largest number of balls in any one run, and the player who shall pocket the largest number of balls on the break, will at the end play off for the prize in a regular game of 61-pool. Prize-takers in previous tournaments in this room are barred from competition this time.

Notwithstanding the craze for roller skating and the revival of dancing, this pool room retains its popularity as a place of recreation; the white rats and other natural curiosities increase in number, and the shaving and hair dressing business continues to be conducted in the front room by two of the best tonsorial artists in the city.

POLICE STATISTICS.

The whole number of arrests made by the police during the year ended Dec. 31, 1884, was 1121; number of lodgers at the station during the year, 703; amount of fines and costs collected, $1056.14; disbursements for witness fees, etc., $121.73; turned into the treasury, $934.41.

Death of Dr. Newell.

Arthur C. Newell, M. D., brother of Mr. L. V. Newell, of this city, recently died at Long Pine, Nebraska, of softening of the brain. He was a graduate of the Medical College of Ohio, practiced three years in Rochester, N. H., and in 1869 removed to Farmington. Outside of his profession he engaged extensively in business and was one of the owners of the largest mercantile block in Farmington. The deceased was an Assistant Surgeon in the army, in the civil war, and an ex-Postmaster of Farmington. He was a Mason and Odd Fellow, a member of the Provident Mutual Relief, also a member of the Royal Templars of Temperance, and Knights of Honor, and had $2000 or $3000 life insurance, making in all about $10,000 to be paid for the benefit of his family.

The annual meeting of the Rockingham Odd Fellows' Mutual Relief association will be held to-morrow (Tuesday) evening at half-past seven o'clock, at Odd Fellows' hall.

The dress party at Congress hall to-morrow evening will be a source of pleasure to all who attend.

The advertisement of Col. Robert G. Ingersoll's lecture in Music hall on Friday evening, can be found in another column.

Mr. E. C. Stickney, champion heavy-weight lifter of this city, starts this morning for Lawrence, Mass., where he will give an exhibition some time during the week.

Rev. O. A. Brown, D. D., of Boston, will lecture this evening in the 2d Methodist church, Kittery village, on "Common Paths."

The civil docket of the supreme court for this county, for the January term, which begins on the 20th inst. before Judge Clark, contains but 141 actions; on the equity docket are thirty suits, and twenty-six on the state docket. The first action on the civil docket was entered over eight years ago, while more than half of the actions on that docket were entered at the last October term.

Mr. Editor: I see it stated in the local papers that a steam fire engine was one day last week stationed at the reservoir on the Parade, pumping water therefrom to flush the drain pipes leading from the postoffice building to the State street sewer. It seems to me that this was an error of judgment on the part of whoever ordered it done; salt water would have answered the purpose just as well, and the Universalist church reservoir was within easy reach; and had a fire occurred near the centre of the city after the Parade reservoir was partially emptied, the expenditure of so much of the water from it might have been a serious matter. EX-FIREMAN.

Simeon Huntress' barn, on the old Williams place, so-called, in South Berwick, was burned on the night of the 9th inst., with its contents of hay, by a supposed incendiary fire. Loss about $700.

Orders were issued on the 3d inst. by the navy department to Commander Merrill Miller, to command the Marion, now at this navy yard, Jan. 15th. On the 7th inst. Paymaster L. A. Frailey was ordered to the Marion.

The Young People's Society of the 1st M. E. church of Eliot, Me., held a literary and musical entertainment in Emery hall, Thursday evening, January 8th, which was very largely attended by citizens generally. The amateur drama, "The Last Loaf," was well rendered by members of the society, and the farce, "We're All Teetotalers," was also well represented. Mrs. Henderson, of North Berwick, sang three fine solos in a most acceptable manner. The recitation "City and Country," by Mrs. Marion Stewart of Eliot was nicely delivered and pleasing. A small admission fee was charged, and the proceeds go toward the establishment of a fund to be used for a new church building, which the society contemplate erecting.

Modern Science and Skepticism

What has Skepticism done for the world?

Nothing but to suggest doubts. It has even suggested that Rheumatism cannot be cured. Skepticism is as bad as Rheumatism.

What has Science done for the world?

A good many things; for instance, it has shown that Rheumatism can be cured.

It has shown that Neuralgia can be got rid of.

Modern science has proved that Rheumatism is a blood disease, and has provided ATHLOPHOROS as the remedy which can completely cure it.

It has proved that although the old doctors failed to overcome Neuralgia, ATHLOPHOROS can reach it, and eradicate it from the system.

It has proved that though these tormenting diseases were so slow and obstinate, they can be overcome in a little while by means of Athlophoros!

Don't be skeptical. If you have any doubts as to what ATHLOPHOROS can do, write to some of those whom it has cured. For instance, Rev. S. R. Dennen, D. D., Pastor Third Congregational Church, of New Haven, Conn., the Rev. W. P. Corbitt, pastor George St. M. E. Church, of New Haven, the Rev. J. E. Searles, pastor Willett St. M. E. Church, New York city. Mr. Brummell, the well known candy manufacturer, of New York, Ex-Gov. Ingersoll, of Connecticut, and many others, equally well known.

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.

One of the drawbacks of married life is the sickness of the little ones. For a cold or cough you cannot find a better remedy than Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. Nearly all physicians prescribe it and no family should be without it.

Don't Give Up Yet.

It doesn't follow that a patient will die because the doctors have "given him up," or that he will recover because they promise to "pull him through." It is never too late to try the great virtues of Parker's Tonic. Mr. Michael Guilfoyle, of Binghampton, N. Y., was cured of rheumatism by it after ten years of unspeakable suffering. Mr. R. W. Mosher, druggist, of same city, certifies that he has sold over a thousand bottles of Parker's Tonic through its reputation for this and other cures.

—When Judge Gray, of the United States supreme bench, told a Massachusetts lawyer who was arguing a case before him, "the law is so and so," the lawyer quickly retorted: "It is the law now, sir, but it was not until you spoke." Judge Gray subsequently acknowledged his mistake in graceful terms.

The distressing disease, salt rheum, is readily cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier. Sold by all druggists.

Superior to Any.

"One of the oldest and most experienced physicians after many trials and consultations without benefit, gave Dr. Seth Arnold's Cough Killer a thorough trial, and pronounces it superior to any cough remedy he ever saw. Any one who wishes to know who the doctor is we will inform him."—Minneapolis, Minn., Evening Mail.

—A pew in Grace church, New York, which rents for $34 per annum, sold for $2,950 at a public sale a few days ago. Religion comes high in New York, but it appears that there is at least one man there who must have it.

—The peasants of Huntingdonshire, England, are proverbial for their boorishness. One day a lady, riding through the grounds of a friend to whom she was on a visit, found the gate closed which was the outlet from the fields to the high road; a peasant boy stepped forward, and bowing, opened the gate that she might pass. "What is your name?" asked the lady. "Tummus," said the boy, with another bow. "Ah!" replied the lady, giving him a shilling, "I see you are not a Huntingdonshire boy—you are so civil." To which the urchin rejoined—"Thee'rt a liar; I be."

INOCULATED POISON!

Some eight years ago I became the victim of a fearful Blood Poison, communicated by a nurse to my infant, and thence through the breast, and suffered for six long years. My Partner at a Masquerade.

The following extraordinary story was published by a well-known Austrian gentleman, in several of the German papers, shortly after the terrible disaster at the Ring theatre, Vienna:

My name is Emil Niklas. I came to England from Austria some ten years ago. Before I left home I was betrothed to a young lady named Bertha Ripka. Her brother, Theodore Ripka, came with me to London. He was a good fellow and is still my closest friend. But though I adored Bertha, and thought of nothing but the time when I should return to bring her to the land of my adoption, where we should live out our lives together—I and my well beloved—she was no what I thought her.

One day Theodore Ripka came to me with a letter in his hand. His face was pale, he looked at me with a strange expression.

"How shall I tell you, Emil?" he said. "Bertha, whom I know you love so well, has been false to you. She has married the rich retired merchant, Klauber."

From that day I hated women, and believed them all to be false and vile.

How I came to attend the masquerade ball of the London Madrigal club, I scarcely know. My friend, J. S. gave me a ticket, to be sure, but I have had numbers of tickets which I have not used. I think that it was because it was a masquerade that I went.

It was a splendid ball; the costumes were gorgeous, the music was exquisite, and I love to dance. A great deal of my old feeling returned as I glided through the waltzes or dashed through the gallops. I had chosen for my partner a beautiful figure in a domino of white silk, and a white silk mask. As the sleeves fell back from her arms I saw that all her bracelets were chains of pearls; and pearl drops shone in the ears, whose pink tips were just visible.

I had taken the liberty possible at a masquerade, and had asked her to dance without an introduction.

My partner danced beautifully—exactly as my little betrothed, Bertha Ripka, used to dance. Her voice seemed to me to be like hers. A strange spell fell upon me.

At last I began to fancy that all the past was blotted out, and that I was again in Austria, and that Bertha Ripka was my betrothed, and we were at the great ball I so well remembered.

"I do not know your name. May I call you Bertha?" I asked.

My partner laughed.

"My name is really Bertha," said she.

"I knew it—I knew it!" I cried.

I held her more firmly. Her little chin rested on my shoulder.

She was lighter than a fairy, sweeter than a rose.

"Bertha—Bertha!" I sighed. "Oh, this is bliss. We are both dead and in heaven, Bertha! When these people about us unmask, we shall see a company of angels, with white wings, Bertha, my beloved! Bertha, my own!"

She did not shrink from me as I uttered these kind words; she only clung the closer, and I almost believed that what I said was true.

The evening passed like a dream. At last supper was announced. This was the time at which all unmasked

"Bertha," I said, "let us be quite alone when you show me your face. Come here behind this screen of flowers into this little corner, where no one can see us. I know what face I shall see—I know, I know!"

The voice that answered me was very, very sad.

"Emil," it said, "be in no haste. When I unmask I must go."

"Do not say that,' I answered.

"I must say it," she sighed, "I must do it. Oh, Emil! Emil!"

She laid her hand in mine, and I led her into the little nook, sheltered by the flowers.

"Let me unmask you," said I.

She lifted up her face.

I took the white mask softly between my fingers and threw back the white hood. For a moment I looked into her face—I swear to you into her face—the sweet, pale face of Bertha Ripka, my beloved, my betrothed of the olden time. By what magic she came there I did not ask. I stooped to kiss her, and suddenly a flame sprang up before my eyes. She stood before me in a light blaze and shrieked for help. I saw her golden hair crisp and shrivel. I screamed for help. A crowd gathered. In a minute or more some men stood holding the remnants of a white domino, and laughing at me.

"Come back to your senses," they cried. "No great harm is done. Only a domino burnt at the end of the hall."

"The lady! The lady!" I cried. "Bertha—where is she? I saw her. She was on fire! I saw her hair burn—I—"

"My dear sir," said a gentleman, taking my hand kindly, "I assure you no one has been hurt! This is simply a domino which some one has cast aside. A cigar—the flame of the gas—something has set it on fire. Is it not that?"

I was calm now. I knew that no human being had been burned in that place, without the knowledge of the crowd, and I apologized for myself and took my way home. I heard them say that I had been drinking, and laugh at me as I left and went out into the grey dawn.

I took the first carriage, and reached my rooms as speedily as possible. Without undressing, I flung myself on my bed and slept long and heavily. It was late the next day when I awoke. Someone was knocking at my door. Staggering to my feet I opened it.

Theodore Ripka stood there, pallid and horror-stricken, holding in his and a yellow envelope.

"Great heavens! what news I have!" he cried. "Oh, Emil, what horrible news! I have received a telegram from Vienna. The Ring theatre is burned. My sister Bertha was among the audience, and she has perished in the flames!"

"When did this happen?" I gasped, as I supported him in my arms.

He had only sufficient strength to answer—"Last night."

The Union Pacific Railroad.

The government directors of the Union Pacific railway assure us that in the fact that a very large proportion of the shares in the road have passed out of the hands of the speculators in Wall street into the possession of New England investors, by whom the stock will be held, is a source of congratulation, although it doth not appear just why these directors insist upon informing the secretary of the interior at what high prices many of the shares owned by investors have been purchased.

The question of interest to the many holders in New England is, when will the Union Pacific cease to be regarded as a fancy, and become a dividend paying stock? How soon, with sharp competition from rival roads constructed at far less cost, if the present system of ruinous competing rates is maintained throughout the land, will the stockholders be permitted to behold a dividend sheet? It is predicted that after Congress adjourns, and some adjustment of the government claims has been achieved, and the attention of the New York bears is withdrawn from the stock, it may rise to 60.

There probably is no stock in the country that has encountered so many predictions as that of the Union Pacific. We remember when somewhat over a year ago, it was selling at 75 or thereabouts, a New York man predicted that before a year it would sell at 50, and the property be placed in the hands of a receiver. The prediction, as far as the market price was concerned, proved true. There seems to be an effort at reform in its administration, which promises in its results to benefit the property. We hope for the sake of the legitimate holders, the "trustees" and such folk as the government directors informs us have in good faith invested in the property, not for speculative purposes but in the expectation of holding it as a permanent investment, a better day is to come.

The General Depression in Business.

The savings bank system of Massachusetts now includes 168 institutions, with deposits amounting to $262,720,146, or $10,100,000 more than a year ago. The open accounts number 826,008, having increased by 19,998 within a year. Of the 168 concerns, 117 have paid four per cent interest to depositors this year; twenty, five per cent; nineteen, 4 1-2 per cent; and only two have returned as little as three per cent. The greater part of the loans made by these institutions from their deposits stand at four and one-half, five, five and one-half, and six. This increase of deposits is not altogether due to the fact that persons who commonly make savings bank deposits have been saving money. In times of business depression like the present, when there is a lack of confidence in ordinary investments, a natural result is an increase of deposits in savings banks. In other words, investors say to savings bank trustees, "We have no confidence in the character; of investments at the present outlook, take our money, pay us four per cent and the taxes upon it, and have it ready when we call for it."

Of course with a diminished number of real estate sales, there is a corresponding reduction in mortgage investments around Boston, and indeed Boston mortgages are avoided by many banks, whose trustees have gone far enough in that kind of investments. Government bonds are so high in the market that the interest on a purchase is less than the rate paid by savings banks, and this is the case with other investments of undoubted character.

Every one seems to be waiting for better times, by which is meant an increased call for products. But the whole world seems to feel the depression. Mr. Wells would have us believe that this condition of affairs was the natural result of the evils of our tariff system; that this has occasioned the extraordinary and prolonged industrial and financial depression and disturbance of the country. But in England it is far worse than here, because we just now do not buy much of England. In South America and Australia, in fact, everywhere, the same condition of affairs appears to exist, as if the whole world was affected by the state of business in the United States.

What may be the outcome; what beside a reduction in the price of labor may be the result, and how, when and where will begin the change which shall cause the machinery of the world again to move with that degree of harmony which shall adjust supply and demand so nicely that the civilized world shall prosper under a healthy condition of business affairs, is what to-day perplexes the political economists everywhere. The question stares the Buffalo statesman in the face. It meets him at the threshold of his administration, and compels him to put off the very hungry and thirsty with the remark "Don't talk to me of strategems and spoils, but read my letter on civil service." Verily, the coming president, between the Randalls pulling in one direction, and the radical free-traders in another, will have all he can do to preserve his political equipoise without stopping to waste his energies upon the settlement of the question as to who among the active politicians in the late contest, who supported him, shall displace incumbents in public places.

Mrs. Gaines' Litigation.

Mrs. Myra Clark Gaines, who died in New Orleans last week, spent the last sixty years of her life in a struggle to obtain a legal title to the immense property left by her father, Daniel Clark.

In 1803 Daniel Clark, an Indian trader in Mississippi, went to Philadelphia to spend the winter and enjoy the pleasures of what was then the metropolis of America. While there he fell in love with a French woman, Zulime Carrier, and privately married her. The only child by this union was Myra Clark, who was born in 1805.

About this time Clark became tired of Zulime, sent her to New Orleans, and lived as a bachelor. He denied that he had been married to her, and married again and had children. Zulime returned to Philadelphia and claimed to be his wife, but was unable to make out her case in the courts.

While Clark would have nothing to do with the mother, he took good care of the child and she was well educated. He went again into Indian trading, and amassed an immense fortune. In 1813 he died, and a will was produced showing that his property was left to his mother and to the city of New Orleans.

When Myra was twenty years of age, in 1826, she married Mr. Whitney, a lawyer, and then began to contest the will. She claimed that she was the only legitimate child of Daniel Clark, and that the property was hers. Mr. Whitney died, and the widow married General E. P. Gaines in 1839. He entered warmly into the case. It was tried and lost at New Orleans. It was appealed to the supreme court at Washington, and again lost.

About this time, in 1852, General Gaines died. The first suit had been brought against the will of 1811, which had been probated. Mrs. Gaines now claimed to have discovered evidence of a later will, in which she was named as the sole heir of Daniel Clark. This will was never produced in court, but a man named Francis Dusnan de la Croix, an intimate friend of Clark, testified that it had been read to him by Clark himself a short time previous to his death. He was told that it would be found after Clark's demise in a little black box in the room he occupied. As soon as Mr. Clark died De la Croix looked in the box for the will, but failed to find it. This was the basis of the claim which Mrs. Gaines prosecuted for forty years against the city of New Orleans and against those who had purchased the property of Rolf and Chem, the administrators of the will of 1811.

The Louisiana court decided against her on this claim, but on appeal to the supreme court at Washington, in 1861, she won her case, and obtained a judgment confirming this undiscovered will and giving her the whole property left by her father. Justice was delayed by the civil war, but in 1874 Mrs. Gaines had recovered possession of several millions, and minor suits for the recovery of the rest were going on. The value of the property before the war was estimated at about thirty million dollars.

This is one of the most remarkable cases on record. It is more than fifty years since the litigation began. It was after a contest which had lasted for nearly thirty years that Mrs. Gaines finally established her claim. She was seventy years old before she came into possession of any considerable portion of her property. That she succeeded at all was due to her indomitable perseverance, and her thorough mastery of the law and the facts in the case.

A despatch from Waupaka, Wis., says that nine government bonds stolen from Banker H. C. Mead at the time of his murder in October, 1882, have been found by relatives of the murdered banker in the treasury department at Washington, where they were received through Chicago and New York banks. They had passed through seven banks in all since being stolen. The murderer has never been identified, and an endeavor will be made to obtain a clue through the discovered bonds.

Capt. Joseph Oakley of Gloucester, Mass., has received through Collector Babson a valuable pair of marine glasses in recognition of his services for saving the crew of the British schooner George C. Calhoun, of St. John, N. B., about a year ago. Capt. Oakley's crew also received presents of money.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gentlemen—It affords me much pleasure to recommend HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA. My health has been such that for some years past I have been obliged to take a tonic of some kind in the spring, and have never found anything that hit my wants as your Sarsaparilla. It tones up my system, purifies my blood, sharpens my appetite, and seems to make me over. Respectfully yours,

J. P. THOMPSON.

One of our prominent business men said to us the other day: "In the spring my wife got all run down and could not eat anything; passing your store I saw a pile of HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA in the window, and I got a bottle. After she had been taking it a week she had a rousing appetite, and it did her everything. She took three bottles, and it was the best three dollars I ever invested."

THE SALVATION ARMY.

The Dover Democrat reports Mayor Ross of that city as saying, after the Salvation Army parade on Friday evening last: "The city solicitor says that if any accident occurs by which damage is done, the city is not liable, and is not supposed to furnish the army with protection." The city solicitor of Dover probably knows the law, but this interpretation of it seems queer to the [non-professional mind. We should suppose it the duty of the city to furnish protection to any and all citizens in the exercise of their legal rights; and that if the parading is illegal, and the city does not stop it, then the city would be liable in damages for any accident caused by the city's failure to enforce the law. In other words, if the salvationiste have a legal right to parade after their peculiar fashion, the city is bound to protect them in the exercise of that right; if they have not a legal right to so parade, the city is liable for any accident which may occur through their parades being allowed.

The Democrat of Saturday gives the sinners of this city warning, as follows: "A member of the Salvation Army, who went to Portsmouth yesterday, said that since their arrival here they had made forty-three converts. A detachment of the army here goes to Portsmouth, Feb. 1st, to commence operations there 'against Satan.' We doubt if their reception will be so satisfactory to them as it was here."

The stationers and fancy-goods dealers of the city report that while the call for Christmas cards this season was hardly up to the average, more New Year cards were sold by them than ever before.

An officer from Waltham, Mass., was in Portsmouth on Monday morning looking for a woman who left Waltham a short time ago under such circumstances as rendered her return desirable. The woman was soon found, and being arrested by the local police was taken to Waltham by the eleven o'clock A. M. train. Her name is Belle Rice; she is about twenty-four years old, and belongs in this city; her crime is reported to be infanticide.

There were about forty sail of fishermen in the lower harbor on Monday, and four coasters, two light and two laden. About twenty-five fishing schooners came up to the wharves, with small fares which sold at an average of three cents a pound. The schooner John Bracewell sailed from the lower harbor on the 11th.

There is to be a change in the music at the Portsmouth skating rink; the new band, of six pieces, will be under the direction of Mr. John D. Medcalf, of Lord & Medcalf's orchestra. On Saturday evening the Portsmouth polo club played two games at the rink with picked nines, winning the first game by five goals to one, and the second by four to one. We are informed that the Wright & Ditson polo club of Boston, which is captained by Mr. John F. Morrill, captain of the Boston base ball club, will play a game at the rink with the Portsmouth club at some time in the near future.

A poultry raiser of this city measured an egg laid on Monday by a pullet which was hatched last July, and found it to measure seven inches around the longest way and 5 3-4 inches the other, its weight being 2 1-2 ounces. He thinks this pretty good for a six-months-old fowl.

Naval Intelligence.

The Army & Navy Register, of Washington, D. C., under date of Jan. 10th has the following: "Lieutenant John H. Moore, U. S. N., leaves here on Tuesday next to join the Marion at Portsmouth. The departure of Lieutenant Moore takes from Washington one of the most energetic naval officers ever stationed here. He was mainly instrumental in establishing the Navy Mutual Aid Association, and through his efforts the Naval Institute has become an assured success. He will be greatly missed by his fellow officers here, who were one and all his friends. Paymaster L. A. Frailey, U. S. N., who was detached from the Norfolk navy yard on the 1st inst., has been ordered to the Marion, which gives him but a few days to finish settling his accounts. Paymaster Bacon, who was to have gone out with the Marion, will be ordered to the Pensacola. Commodore Franklin, who is to take command of the South Atlantic station, desired to have Paymaster Bacon act as fleet paymaster of his squadron, and for this reason his orders to the Marion were reconsidered."

The following were among the mileage claims of naval officers allowed by the second controller last week: Commodore Charles W. Pickering, $232.86; Chief Engineer Thom Williamson, $285.30; Lieut. Comdr. Charles W. Tracy, $166.65; Commodore P. C. Johnson, $1421.25.

Commander A. H. McCormick is detached from the command of the Essex, and placed on waiting orders. Lieutenants William H. Parker, Wainwright Kellogg, Corwin P. Rees and William M. Irwin, Ensigns William G. Hannum, N. J. L. T. Halpin, Edward Lloyd, Jr., Walter J. Sears and Reuben O. Bitler, Surgeon M. L. Ruth, Chief Engineer D. P. McCartney, Passed Assistant Engineer Frank J. Hoffman, and Assistant Engineers John H. Baker, James M. Pickrell and Martin Bevington, are detached from the Essex, and placed on waiting orders. Passed Assistant Paymaster Louis A. Yorke is detached from the Essex, ordered to settle acounts and then await orders.

News and Notes.

At Zeidersville, Pa., Saturday night, Lewis Carl and his wife were fighting when their son, aged twenty-one, interfered, and was fatally stabbed by his father with a pocket knife. The murderer was arrested.

By the explosion of the tug Mike Dougherty at Elizabeth, Pa., two of the crew were killed and three others badly hurt.

The coroner's verdict in the shooting case at Bath, Me., by which one Stacy was killed, was that Mrs. Stacy was blameless; and the Portland Advertiser says the verdict "is justified by the evidence. Stacy's ill-treatment of his wife was nothing new, and on this occasion he threatened her with personal violence. There was a loaded pistol at hand. The frenzied woman caught it up with a vague idea of frightening her assailant. He attempted to wrest it from her, and in the struggle it was discharged. There is no evidence that she intended to shoot him; but if she had, it would have been in self-defence."

Thomas Torney, aged fourteen years, was drowned by breaking through the ice on the Merrimac river at Lowell, Mass., Sunday. Body not recovered.

Wm. H. Vanderbilt has offered to give Mrs. Grant, wife of Ex-President Grant, all the property turned over to him by the general in payment for the $150,000 borrowed the day before Grant & Ward's failure. Mrs. Grant, while feelingly acknowledging the generosity with which Mr. Vanderbilt has treated her husband and herself, declines to accept his munificence.

An New Haven, Conn., Sunday, Madeline Stackpole, aged twelve years, took two opium pills and was found senseless in the road, but was resuscitated. She attempted suicide because her mother would not allow her to wear her best cloak to church that day; she says if she can't wear her new cloak she wants to die.

At Plymouth, near Wilkesbarre, Pa., Sunday, the Salvation Army paraded with tambourines, though the authorities had forbidden it. The salvation captain, a woman, was arrested, after a lively fight in which the mob sided with the salvationists, but she was afterward released.

Wednesday night of last week, at Rutledge, Ga., after an exciting county election and a plentiful consumption of whisky, a quarrel between Bob Brewer and Tom Estes led to others taking sides, and in a few moments at least twenty-five men were shooting, cutting and cursing at one another in a confused mass. Nearly everyone was wounded in some way before the melee was stopped. Babe Hawkins will probably die from three stab wounds in the back. One Churchhill had a knife driven to the hilt in his breast by B. H. Hardin, and has since died. It is thought all the others, except Hawkins, will recover.

North Troy, Vt., is to have the champion contest. Doughnuts will be suspended from the ceiling by strings, and the contestants, blind-folded and on roller skates, will try to see who can first eat their doughnut.

The eighteenth annual meeting of the New Hampshire Press Association will be held at the Eagle hotel, Concord, Monday next, 19th inst., at 11:30 o'clock in the forenoon. Banquet in the evening.

The Stratton mills at Swansey were sold Saturday for $25,000, including all the reel estate of the concern in Swansey. Ansel Dickerson was the purchaser.

Modern Science and Skepticism

What has Skepticism done for the world?

Nothing but to suggest doubts. It has even suggested that Rheumatism cannot be cured. Skepticism is as bad as Rheumatism.

What has Science done for the world?

A good many things; for instance, it has shown that Rheumatism can be cured.

It has shown that Neuralgia can be got rid of.

Modern science has proved that Rheumatism is a blood disease, and has provided ATHLOPHOROS as the remedy which can completely cure it.

It has proved that although the old doctors failed to overcome Neuralgia, ATHLOPHOROS can reach it, and eradicate it from the system.

It has proved that though these tormenting diseases were so slow and obstinate, they can be overcome in a little while by means of a

Athlophoros!

Don't be skeptical. If you have any doubts as to what ATHLOPHOROS can do, write to some of those whom it has cured. For instance, Rev. S. R. Dennen, D. D., Pastor Third Congregational Church, of New Haven, Conn., the Rev. W. P. Corbit, pastor George St. M. E. Church, of New Haven, the Rev. J. E. Searles, pastor Willett St. M. E. Church, New York city, Mr. Brummell, the well known candy manufacturer, of New York, Ex-Gov. Bigelow, of Connecticut, and many others, equally well known.

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from druggists, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.

Having used Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup in my family for the last three years, I find it is the best preparation I have used for coughs and colds, giving almost immediate relief. B. Walker, Gen'l Com. Merchant, 118 Light street, Baltimore, Md.

Mr. Vanderbilt persists in trying to break his neck by fast driving. Said he the other day: "Twon't be till cars go by electricity, on tracks made of flashes of lightning, that I'll prefer railroading to sleighing."

You Can Have It.

"My dear, what would I give to have your hair?" is often said by middle-aged ladies to young ones. Madam, you may have just such hair. Parker's Hair Balsam will give it to you. It will stop your hair from falling off, restore the original color and make it long, thick, soft and glossy. You need not stand helplessly envying the girls. The balsam is not oily, not a dye, but is an elegant dressing, and is especially recommended for its cleanliness and purity.

A Vital Fluid.

The blood, when impure, is the source of most, if not all, diseases that mankind is afflicted with. It is then important that we should care well for this vital fluid. Wetherell's Sarsaparilla will purify the blood and keep it pure. One dollar per bottle. Six for $5. Sold by druggists.

"I am not ashamed of the name of Broadrib," said Mr. Irving, the actor, to a Detroit reporter, "and in private correspondence always use it. But there are well-known reasons why artists should not like to figure before the public in their own personality. I selected the name of Irving without a thought of the American author, of whom I knew little.

The pain and misery suffered by those who are afflicted with dyspepsia are indescribable. The distress of the body is equalled or surpassed by the confusion and tortures of the mind, thus making its victims suffer double affliction. The relief which is given by Hood's Sarsaparilla has caused thousands to be thankful for this great medicine. It dispels the causes of dyspepsia, and tones up the digestive organs. Try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

The village of Fuenveja, Spain, reported to be sliding down the mountain toward the valley as a result of the recent earthquakes, has moved bodily sixty feet. Its former site is marked by a deep semicircular crevasse. The houses of the village, though damaged, still remain standing. The governor of Gibraltar has sent 2000 tents for the use of the houseless people of Andalusia.

I found it a sure cure. I have been troubled with catarrhal deafness for seven or eight years with a roaring noise in my head. I bought medicine in thirteen states but nothing helped me till I procured a bottle of Ely's Cream Balm. In four days I could hear well as ever. I am cured of the Catarrh as well. I consider Ely's Cream Balm the best medicine ever made. GARRETT WIDRICK, Hastings, N. Y.

—The pulsation of a cat's heart is said to be from 110 to 120 per minute. The pulsation of a cat's voice is from 15,000 to 165,000 vibrations per second.

The New York Star has ceased to exist as a daily. The Star hurt itself badly by its cold support of Cleveland and its leaning toward Butler. It hadn't much of a margin to work on, and this election business broke it up. It is said that John Kelly had one or two good offers for it, but refused because the would-be buyers would not pledge themselves to sustain Tammany hall and John Kelly through thick and thin.

Edward Lee, alias Proctor, of West Troy, N. Y., three years ago was sentenced to Clinton prison for eighteen years for a burglary. Since his incarceration he has invented a hot pressing machine and a window attachment. A Mr. Clark of Boston has secured a patent for the latter, which has already sold for $10,000, half of which has been placed in the prison safe to Lee's credit. Efforts are being made to secure his pardon.

Where Not To Start a Paper.

In his letter to the amateur journalists, Robert J. Burdette offers some sage advice regarding the starting of newspapers. Says he:

If he starts a newspaper in a town where nobody wants a paper;

Or where there are already five papers in a two-penny town;

Or, if a long primer man tries to start a nonpareil paper;

Or if he tries to run an eight-column paper on a two-column basis;

Or, if the skin his home advertisers and cuts rates for foreign ads;

Or, if he start out by giving a $8 puff for a 10-cent comb;

Or, if he start a paper because he has failed at everything else:

Then, indeed, hath he bitten off more than he can masticate, and his paper, beloved by the gods, will die young and fresh.

TROY, N. Y.

Dr. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:

DEAR SIR: My daughter was afflicted with a severe growth of Fungus. To remove it we had resorted to almost every remedy and consulted the most prominent surgeons and physicians. Dr. ——, of Troy, said that a surgical operation would be necessary, but fearing the results I hesitated. Some of the physicians claimed that it was caused by one thing and some by another. The Fungus was prominent and disfigured her looks. Having heard of Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY working so thoroughly on the blood I determined to try it, to see if this medicine could do what doctors had failed to do and surgeons had hardly dared to undertake. I can say in truth that the result of the trial was the complete cure of my daughter of this dreadful malady. Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY alone effected it. We used nothing else, for other things had completely failed. My daughter today enjoys vigorous health and to Favorite Remedy is the credit due. My wife also was very poor in health, due to some liver difficulty, with which she had suffered a long time and she became very much reduced in flesh. A trial of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy has resulted in the complete restoration of her health, which she had not enjoyed for years. She had gained in flesh and strength, and thus secured perfect health, and this is DUE ENTIRELY TO DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY. As for myself, being engaged in the grocery and commission business, which makes it necessary for me to test the quality of different articles, like butter, etc., my sense of taste and my stomach were seriously injured. Everything seemed to nauseate me, and fearful of dyspepsia in its most severe form, I tried DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY. The first bottle afforded immediate relief, and from that day to this I can say that Favorite Remedy has restored me to perfect health. These are facts which I claim prove that Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is the best medicine in the world for those afflicted with the above difficulties. If any one in the city of Troy doubts the truth of these statements let him come to me and I will prove them. I have recommended Favorite Remedy to hundreds and with the same good results.

Yours, etc., WILLIAM WINDSOR.

A MIDNIGHT INVASION.

Madame Carrelle's school was a remarkable institution, and the madame was a remarkable woman. I was of, what Byron calls, the bread-and-butter age, and therefore, did not appreciate the four lovely girls who were my intimates. Vestella Raymond was my favorite.

I shall never forget an incident related by her brother.

She and her mother lived alone on their estate, and were one day alone in the house—the servants being all out—a straggling ruffian entered the parlor where they sat, and demanded their money and jewels.

Mrs. Raymond was paralyzed with fear. Vestella feigned excessive terror, and taking a small box from her pocket, she handed it to him with the key, saying:

"We were preparing for a journey and had packed up our jewels. I believe this box contains them; will you open it and see? My fingers tremble so I cannot unlock it."

The man laid his pistols on the sofa for the purpose of unlocking the box, when Vestella snatched them up; and commanded him not to stir hand or foot.

It was his turn to be appalled, for there was no mistaking the will flashing from those eyes, and there was no trembling in the finger that pressed the trigger.

He remained motionless.

In a few moments the servants entered, and he was secured.

This was Vestella's style, and she manifested it in various ways among us. But the steely vigor of her character was softened and rendered lustrous by the glittering polish of mirthfulness and frolic.

Her merry conversation was our unfailing antidote for homesickness. So cheerful and affectionate, so warm-hearted and confiding. And what sarcastic observations she would make, not exactly "upon men and things," but upon things in general, and the madame in particular.

At her instigation we five formed ourselves into a society "for the mutual discussion and preservation of all such secrets as it seemed unadvisable to communicate to our many friends among the other young ladies in the school."

Our rules provided that there should be no reserve upon any subject between the members; that any interview with a gentleman should be faithfully reported, and all that transpired at said interview; and that any member guilty of falling in love should have her hair cut short, and woven into bracelets for the other four.

Vestella was a rogue, a mischief, a very Amazon. She could skate, ride, swim, and oh dear, I cannot mention half her exploits. Yet when I remembered how she hung over me through the long nights, when I was racked with fever, away from home and friends, how nearly she filled the place of a mother to me, I felt persuaded that, if the members of our society had an opportunity to fall in love, she would be the first one to improve it.

The house was built in a style uncommon in this country. Its peculiarity consisted in two square towers upon the front—one upon each corner—giving it the appearance of an Episcopal church.

Vestella called it the double-barrelled schoolhouse. The house proper was three stories in height, and the towers rose one story above the roof. The windows in each story opened upon a broad veranda, extending across the front of the house, and quite around each tower, and these piazzas were supported one above the other by slender pillars.

The upper story in each tower had formerly been used as a deposit for old furniture and other rubbish, but when Vestella entered the school, her rambling disposition led her into one of these rooms, and nothing would do but it must be fitted up for her occupation.

She had such a taking way with her, and the increasing popularity of madame's establishment had so often forced upon her mind the propriety of shortly enlarging her buildings, that Vestella carried her point, and was installed in the "tower-top."

It suited the society, for we could discuss our secrets without danger of being overheard, and could vent the explosions of mirth which they often elicited, without risk of a visit from the hall-teacher.

The lawns and gardens extended in front of the house for a great distance, with a great slope, terminating in a circular pond, surrounded by an artificial grove. It was my delight in the afternoons, at such hours as we were not required to be in our rooms, or at recitation, to take my book or fancy-work, and slip away to a cunning little seat I had constructed in the shade of the grape-vines.

I was sitting here one afternoon, when I was startled by men's voices on the other side of the paling.

My first impulse was to run; but I thought, perhaps, I might gather something to report to the society. I cautiously parted the vine leaves and peeped through a crack in the boards.

There were two young men, whom I recognized as members of the Collegiate Institute. One of them, a tall gracefully-formed young fellow, with a laughing blue eye, was conversing and gesticulating with great animation.

"I can do it—I tell you I can do it; I will wager a dozen baskets of champagne that I can do it."

"Done!" exclaimed the other, grasping his hand. "But how on earth are you to get up there?"

"Just as Cleth Hyles got into the chamber at Miss King's. He climbed up the pillars to the balustrade in front of the second story, then he had to take the water-pipe to the third. There was a little projection there; he crept along that, and got into the window. Now, this is nothing to that."

"But here there are four stories."

A cold shudder crept over me, and my heart beat so, I fancied they must hear it, for I began to have some idea of their intentions.

"Yes, there are four; but just look at it. Here, you see," as he pointed towards the tower, "is a broad piazza under each row of windows—good resting-places—and the pillars are just the right size to climb. But I was telling you about Cleth. He bet with Paul Faikes, a real savage jealous-tempered fellow, just as I bet with you now. He got in, and got out, and no one in the school ever knew it. He took faithful note of everything, particularly the features of the occupant. He cut off one of her curls and carried it to Paul. He had no idea that Paul had the remotest acquaintance with any of the girls. But I knew all the time that Paul had been introduced to one of them, and had been flirting desperately with her for six months. Now, it happened that her chamber was the very one. Cleth found a photograph upon her table, and carried it to Paul along with the curl, to prove that he had won the bet. But he showed it to three or four of us fellows first. It was a photograph of Paul himself. How we laughed at Paul about it; and oh, how enraged he was! He challenged poor Cleth and shot him; and now if you—"

"You needn't fear me, for I have not been flirting with any of them; least of all with that tall, fierce one up there. If she should happen to wake up—"

"I won't wake her up, I assure you."

"But you never can get down again without being caught."

"Can't I, though? I'm a good pathfinder, and never get lost."

"You will try it to-night, you say?"

"To-night at two o'clock."

And they walked off.

Our New York Letter.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13th.

This metropolis is likely to have a successor to both John Kelly and Hubert O. Thompson, of the rival democratic organizations, in Rollin M. Squire, the new Commissioner of Public Works. He is a man of vigor and brain, perfectly competent to "set up for himself," and with vast patronage at his disposal will wield an influence not second even to that of Mayor Grace, whose term is much shorter.

New York state is likely to be ably represented in the U. S. Senate by the choice of Minister Levi P. Morton or Ex-Secretary of State William M. Evarts to succeed Senator Lapham. A "dark horse" may possibly carry off the honors, but with both prominent candidates so well known it seems hardly probable. The two factions, led by Ex-Senator Platt and Ex-Governor Cornell on one side, and Senator Miller, Congressman Burleigh and the friends of President Arthur on the opposite, appear to be very evenly balanced.

The enemies of Mr. Blaine now charge him with instigating the action of Capt. Thomas Phelan, the "dynamite fiend" whose narrow escape from assassination here on Friday in the office of O'Donovan Rossa for being a traitor to the Irish cause, is the talk of the town. Phelan is a Kansas City man, and was an enthusiastic supporter of Blaine and Logan in the national contest. The supposition of the people who advance the idea of Blaine's handiwork is that Phelan's published interview detailing the infernal attempt to blow up the steamer "The Queen," was arranged to give the British government indisputable evidence that the United States is the acknowledged headquarters of England's enemies. Following this theory, a demand from Great Britain for the extradition of the conspirators would be the next thing in order, and Ex-Governor Cleveland on assuming the Presidency would find himself at the outset of his administration beset with a grave question of state, which if it did not disturb our friendly relations with John Bull or eventuate in actual war by reason of a refusal to deliver the dynamiters to British justice, would totally alienate from the new administration that considerable portion of the Irish Americans which adhered to the democratic cause in sufficient numbers to save Cleveland and Hendricks from defeat in 1884. Mr. Blaine's detractors see his shadow in every bush, and their fear of him and his influence, in or out of office, is a fear that pursues them in their waking moments and haunts their dreams by night.

A Washington paper says Bismarck seems able to get the best of every country but his own, whereupon the quaint Mail and Express remarks that it is but another example of "cubs crowding a lion from his den."

The horse railroads carried 187,413,242 passengers last year, while the elevated lines transported 96,702,620 more.

The number of vessels arriving at this port in 1880 was 7730; in 1881, 6849; in 1882, 6422; in 1883, 6322; in 1884, 5952. Part of the decrease is accounted for by the substitution of steamers for smaller sailing vessels. Speed is the great desideratum.

The American Grocer gives a remarkable exhibit of the decline in the price of granulated sugar since 1870, taking the month of December of each year, as follows: "1870, 13c.; 1871, 12 5-8c.; 1872, 12 3-8c; 1873, 10 1-8c.; 1874, 10 3-8c.; 1875, 10 1-2c.; 1876, 12 1-8c.; 1877, 9 1-2c.; 1878, 8 3-4c.; 1879, 9 5-8c.; 1880, 9 1-2c.; 1881, 9 1-4c.; 1882, 8 5-8c.; 1883, 7 7-8c.; 1884, 5 7-8c."

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gentlemen—It affords me much pleasure to recommend HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA. My health has been such that for some years past I have been obliged to take a bottle of some kind in the spring, and have never found anything that hit my wants as your Sarsaparilla. It loosens up my system, purifies my blood, sharpens my appetite, and seems to make me over. Respectfully yours,

J. P. THOMPSON.

One of our prominent business men said to us the other day: "In the spring my wife got all run down and could not eat anything; passing your store I saw a pile of HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA in the window, and I got a bottle. After she had been taking it a week she had a rousing appetite, and it did her everything. She took three bottles, and it was the best three dollars I ever invested."

The schooner Bradford C. French sailed from this port on Tuesday for Newport News, Va., and will return with a cargo of coal to J. Albert Walker. The Bradford C. French is one of the largest schooners plying to this port, and carries upward of thirteen hundred tons of coal. The steamer Williamsport sailed from Philadelphia on Tuesday for this port, with sixteen hundred tons of coal to J. Albert Walker. More coal has arrived here thus far this month, than during the entire month of January, 1884.

In the court of claims at Washington, on Monday, in the case Eastern Railroad Co. against the United States, the petition was dismissed. This was a case involving the right of the postmaster-general to modify the terms of what are known as four-year contracts for carrying the mails. The court held that the action of the postmaster-general was strictly in accordance with the law.

It is rumored that Capt. Trefethen, of the steamer Mystic, will shortly commence running his staunch boat between this city and Kittery Point, a couple of round trips every day except Sunday, touching at Newcastle each way.

Mr. Editor: Permission was granted by Secretary Chandler a short time since for the steamer Appledore to be taken to the navy yard, and have the use of some facilities there, necessary in making repairs on her machinery and boilers, such accomodation having been granted to others. The steamer was to have been towed to the yard on Tuesday, but on making the arrangements for removing her it was learned that there was no place at the navy yard wharves for her to lie, and also that all the tools in the steam engineering department were in use, and could not be spared! As nothing is being done in the department of steam engineering at the yard, this denial of a privilege previously granted by the secretary is supposed to be but another manifestation of the local "ring rule" which has been so prominent a feature for years. G.

The dress party at Congress hall on Tuesday evening was a pronounced success, there being about fifty couples in the grand march, and the toilettes of the ladies elaborate and beautiful. Taylor & Tasker's orchestra, of Dover, furnished music which received universal commendation.

The following officers of Hope Division, Sons of Temperance, of Newcastle, were installed last week by D. G. W. P. Charles E. Campbell, assisted by D. G. C. Abbie S. White: Nathaniel Yeaton, W. P.; Miss Ida Locke, W. A.; Miss Josie H. Rand, Rec. Sec.; Miss Mary B. Neale, Asst. Rec. Sec.; Mrs. Eliza A. Rand, Fin. Sec.; Mrs. Mariam Yeaton, Treas.; John Amazeen, Chap.; Mrs. Louise Yeaton, Con.; Mrs. Fannie Harding, Asst. Con.; Mrs. Phila Murray, I. S.; Mrs. Clara A. Hall, O. S.; N. P. Campbell, P. W. P.

AFFAIRS IN KITTERY.

KITTERY, ME., Jan. 12th.

Miss Anna A. Abrams, Miss Mabel I. Jenkins, Miss Susie E. Pettigrew and Miss Addie S. Remick, the young ladies from this town attending the State Normal school at Gorham will graduate from that institution with a class of fourteen others, being the first class of '85; the examination and graduation exercises will occur Thursday and Friday, January 22d and 23d.

Dr. Andrew R. Wentworth and Mr. Geo. O. Wilson, apothecary at the navy yard hospital, left here last week for Washington, D. C., to attend the sessions of the congressional committee which is investigating frauds in the naval bureau of medicine and surgery.

Last week being the week of prayer, meetings were held every evening at the Second Methodist church.

Mr. Harrold Perkins of Red Bank, N. J., a nephew of Dr. M. F. Wentworth, has been visiting a week past at his uncle John Wentworth's in North Kittery. Mr. Perkins is professor of music in a school at Red Bank of which his mother is principal; his sister, Miss Maude Perkins, teaches French in the same school.

The Isles of Shoals steamer Appledore will be taken to the navy yard this week to have her boilers repaired. Mr. James Boardman of this town will do the job.

Moses A. Safford, Esq., has finished his duties at Alfred, where he has efficiently served the county as register of probate for several years past; he will now resume his law practice at his office here.

A resident on Pullet hill, North Kittery, has a handsome flock of White Brahma fowls—or which recently were White Brahma fowls—that have lately turned to a decidedly reddish color, which he claims is owing to the prospective change in the administration.

Fifteen dogs by actual count, and no two alike, were observed on Pullet hill by a resident there on a pleasant morning last week. They talk of changing the name of the locality to Dog Corner.

Rev. Lewis Phillips, of Haverhill, Mass., preached in the 2d Christian church Sunday afternoon last.

Mr. Wm. M. C. Philbrick, the taxidermist of this town, is preparing the seamew recently shot by Everett E. Otis.

SUB ROSA.

—Nebraska will exhibit a lot of petrified snakes at the New Orleans exhibition. The boots in which they were found will not be exhibited.

—The man who sprinkles ashes on his sidewalk in slippery weather may not be a professed Christian, but he does the next best thing to heaping coals of fire on his enemy's head.

—The peasants of Huntingdonshire, England, are proverbial for their boorishness. One day a lady, riding through the grounds of a friend to whom she was on a visit, found the gate closed which was the outlet from the fields to the high road; a peasant boy stepped forward, and bowing, opened the gate that she might pass. "What is your name?" asked the lady. "Tummus," said the boy, with another bow. "Ah!" replied the lady, giving him a shilling, "I see you are not a Huntingdonshire boy—you are so civil." To which the urchin rejoined—"Thee'rt a liar; I be."

A FIRST-CLASS FAMILY MAGAZINE.

LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE.

A Regular Monthly of General Literature.

ON THIS SIDE,

A New Serial Story,

By F. C. BAYLOR,

IS COMMENCED IN THIS NUMBER.

Several chapters of MARY AGNES TINCKER'S charming story, Aurora, with a frontispiece, also appear, together with other Short Stories, Poems, and Articles of Interest upon Current Topics.

PROSPECTUS FOR 1885.

Among the chief periodicals of the country, LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE has acquired the distinctive reputation of being "eminently readable."

Arrangements have been made for many contributions of special interest during the coming year. Among these particular attention is invited to a serial story entitled "ON THIS SIDE," by F. C. Baylor, author of "The Perfect Treasure" (commenced in the January number) in which the experiences of an English baronet and his friends during a tour through the United States are related with a mirth-provoking humor, a knowledge and appreciation of national characteristics, and a perfect fairness of tone and freedom from caricature that cannot fail to secure critical approval and wide popularity. Miss Tincker's beautiful novel, "Aurora," will be completed in the summer, and will be followed by several stories in two or more parts, including "The Lady Lawyer's First Client," by the author of "A Latter-Day Saint."

Sketches of Italian Life, by Mrs. Laurt Thompson, an account of the Pioneers of Tennessee, by "Edmund Kirke," a narrative of the experiences of a Steerage Passenger to and from Liverpool, by Theodore Wharton, an article on Queen Anne, or Free Classic Architecture, by George C. Mason, Jr., and a Comedy for private theatricals, by James Payn, will be upon hand early numbers, together with the usual variety of short stories and articles of general interest by popular writers.

Modern Science and Skepticism

What has Skepticism done for the world?

Nothing but to suggest doubts. It has even suggested that Rheumatism cannot be cured. Skepticism is as bad as Rheumatism.

What has Science done for the world?

A good many things; for instance, it has shown that Rheumatism can be cured.

It has shown that Neuralgia can be got rid of.

Modern science has proved that Rheumatism is a blood disease, and has provided ATHLOPHOROS as the remedy which can completely cure it.

It has proved that although the old doctors failed to overcome Neuralgia, ATHLOPHOROS can reach it, and eradicate it from the system.

It has proved that though these tormenting diseases were so slow and obstinate, they can be overcome in a little while by means of Athlophoros!

Don't be skeptical. If you have any doubts as to what ATHLOPHOROS can do, write to some of those whom it has cured. For instance, Rev. S. R. Dennen, D.D., Pastor Third Congregational Church, of New Haven, Conn., the Rev. W. P. Corbit, pastor George St. M. E. Church, of New Haven, the Rev. J. R. Scarlet, pastor Willett St. M. E. Church, New York city. Mr. Brummell, the well known candy manufacturer, of New York, Ex-Gov. Bigelow, of Connecticut, and many others, equally well known.

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.

EDMUND BURKE, late Commissioner of Patents.

BOSTON, October 19, 1870.

THE BEST COUGH CURE | PULMOCINE.

"Tis more brave to live than to die." Therefore don't wait until a slight cough develops itself into consumption, but secure a bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup at the small outlay of 25 cents, cure your cough, and live on happily.

J. C. Wiedman, the leading merchant of Glen Easton, W. Va., has disappeared, carrying off considerable of other peoples' money, but leaving behind a wife and five children.

All Broken Down.

Is it not sad to see so many young men every day of whom this can be said? Young man, take my advice. Stop all indiscretions which you have practised, keep good hours, retire early, and build up your shattered system by using Sulphur Bitters, which will cure you.—Old Physician.

A Vital Fluid.

The blood, when impure, is the source of most, if not all, diseases that mankind is afflicted with. It is then important that we should cure well for this vital fluid. Wetherell's Sarsaparilla will purify the blood and keep it pure. One dollar per bottle. Six for $5. Sold by druggists.

Gov. William W. Holden, of North Carolina, was impeached and convicted in 1871 of high crimes in suspending habeas corpus, and was prohibited from ever holding a state office. This was on account of his efforts as governor to break up the murderous kuklux organization. Many democrats now, after thirteen years have thrown old issues into a different light, and the kuklux infamy is not needed by the democratic party any more, favor Mr. Holden's restoration to citizenship. Others bitterly oppose it.

I found it a sure cure. I have been troubled with catarrhal deafness for seven or eight years with a roaring noise in my head. I bought medicine in thirteen states but nothing helped me till I procured a bottle of Ely's Cream Balm. In four days I could hear well as ever. I am cured of the Catarrh as well. I consider Ely's Cream Balm the best medicine ever made. GARRETT WIDRICK, Hastings, N. Y.

James F. Legate, a prominent Kansas prohibitionist, has confessed that, presuming upon his confidential relations with Mr. St. John and without St. John's knowledge, he attempted to sell out the prohibition cause to the republican national committee, who refused to listen to the offer. That is, a letter purporting to have been written by Legate, and making this confession, has been published, —but Legate shouts that it is a lie and forgery way through.

Captain Mitchell, of the bark Antoine Sala, New York and Havanna trade, came home in May, entirely helpless with rheumatism. He went to the mountains, but receiving no benefit, at his wife's request began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. He immediately began to improve; in two months his rheumatism was all gone, and he sailed in command of his vessel a well man. Hood's Sarsaparilla will help you. Sold by all druggists.

Don't Give Up Yet.

It doesn't follow that a patient will die because the doctors have "given him up," or that he will recover because they promise to "pull him through." It is never too late to try the great virtues of Parker's Tonic. Mr Michael Guilfoyle, of Binghampton, N. Y., was cured of rheumatism by it after ten years of unspeakable suffering. Mr. R. W. Mosher, druggist, of same city, certifies that he has sold over a thousand bottles of Parker's Tonic through its reputation for this and other cures.

A MIDNIGHT INVASION.

I was petrified with astonishment for a few moments. As soon as I could collect my scattered senses, I fled to the house, and rushed up to Vestella. All the society members were with her. I burst upon them with the terrible news I had heard.

Nellie de Lisle fell at once into a swoon. Anna Vesey screamed and wrung her hands in terror, while Florilla Carter and myself insisted upon reporting all to madame.

"No, no, girls, do nothing of the kind," said Vestella, as she calmly sprinkled water upon Nellie's face, and tried other means to restore her. "We will arrange it better than that. Come up here, all of you," she continued, after a pause, as she saw Nellie beginning to revive. "Come up here, after Mdlle. Westron has been through, and I will show you a trick that will astonish you."

The hall-teacher went her rounds every night at ten o'clock, to see that the lights were all out, and the girls in order. And that night, after she had retired, we noiselessly slipped up to the appointed place.

Vestella had closed all the blinds, and dropped the curtains, fastening the two side windows, and leaving the sash of the front window up. She waited for about an hour, to be sure that all in the house were asleep, then cautiously lighted a lamp and proposed her plan.

It was adopted, with many suggestions and improvements, and much suppressed laughter from the rest of us, who had now lost all fear, and were ripe for fun.

We took the mattress from the bed—it was a new one, very thick and heavy—and set it up edgewise, just the distance of its width from the window. Then having taken out the bed-rope, we made a slip-noose in one end, and spread it open under the window, raising it a little from the floor by means of a circle of thick books. Vestella took the other end in her hand, and, having extinguished the light, stationed herself in the darkest corner, beside the mattress, ready to push it over at a signal from her.

It was now one o'clock, and we waited in breathless suspense. The clock struck two, and we were ready to drop with fatigue and drowsiness; but soon after, a light rustling, away down below, roused us to a high pitch of expectation. He was coming. How could he get along with so little noise? He must have been experienced in such undertakings.

In a few seconds we heard his hands creak, as he grasped the balustrade, and immediately his head and shoulders were thrust through the window. The mattress seemed to startle him.

He looked around, listened, then seemingly impressed with the necessity of greater caution, he gently set one foot upon the floor, then the other, then stood erect, and looked and listened again.

Vestella pulled the cord with all her strength, and down he went.

Down went the mattress upon him, smothering his exclamations, if he uttered any.

Each of us flew to a corner, and held it down with all the force we could muster in our trepidation.

We heard no sound from him, and felt no struggles.

He evidently felt himself in a scrape, and had shrewdness enough to perceive that the more quietly he took it, the more easily he would get through.

What little noise there was, occasioned a bustle in the room below; the hall-teacher rapped at the door. "Now," I thought, "all is over with us."

"Miss Raymond."

"Well, mademoiselle," replied Vestella drowsily, as if just awakened from a sound sleep.

"Is all quiet in your room?"

"Perfectly, mademoiselle."

"I heard a noise as of some one falling."

"So did I, mademoiselle. It must have been in the street. I will open the door directly."

"Oh no; I would not disturb you. Good-night."

After all had become quiet, Vestella knelt down beside the mattress, and putting her lips to the edge, said in a voice scarcely above a whisper:

"Young man, you're a prisoner."

"I surrender at discretion," he answered in a singularly low and quiet tone.

It was the same voice I had heard in the garden.

"Will you submit to our terms if I let you out?"

"I will."

"First, then, you are to move as quietly as possible. You are to answer all questions we propose; and when you speak, speak in a very low voice. Now let him up, girls."

We all took our seats in a row, Vestella in the center, and lit the lamp. The young man arose, and we had a full view of his face. There were the same laughing blue eyes I had seen in the garden. They were not laughing now, however—they were cast down, and the whole expression of his face was decidedly sheepish.

"Upon your knees, young man," said Vestella sternly, putting on an awful frown.

He knelt at the distance of about three paces from Vestella's feet, with such unstudied grace, and I could think of nothing but Raleigh receiving knighthood from Queen Elizabeth.

"Give us your name, sir, and your history. Tell us for what purpose you came here, and how you did it. There are four stories here, you know."

He started as if a bullet had struck him. He glanced nervously at each of us, turned red, then pale, then reddened again, then hung his head; but at length found his voice, told us his name, his history, his connections, and ended by assuring us that his object was merely a frolic; that he meant no harm to any one.

"You were to take faithful note of every thing in the room, particularly the features of the occupant"—he started again—"you have an opportunity now."

He remained silent.

"Can you remember how we all look, or would you like photographs?" He was still silent, blushing deeper and deeper.

"It is my duty to hand you over to Madame C——— that you may be dealt with according to law. What have you to say why sentence should not be pronounced upon you?"

"Oh, ladies, I do entreat you to spare me exposure. I will submit to any terms you impose. I should be expelled from the institute; my mother's heart would be broken by the disgrace; I should lose all my friends——"

"Listen, then, to the sentence of the court." Vestella whispered to us, and each took her stand in a separate corner of the room. "In consideration of your extreme youth, and the distress which a knowledge of your foolish freak would bring upon friends, this court—the Court of Independent and Honorable Misses—has determined not to make public your misdemeanor; but I do hereby adjudge you to kneel before each of these young ladies separately, ask their forgiveness, and give them your promise that you will never attempt anything of the kind during your whole life. Then return to me and sign a confession which I shall write, and which shall be left with the court for your future good behavior. After which you must have a cupful of cold water poured over your head. This you can show to your comrades as evidence that you won the bet. Now, sir."

He arose from his knees, and, walking straight up to Anna Vessey, knelt before her, and executed that part of his sentence. Then to Florilla, and so on to all of us, using different terms to every one, expressing himself so elegantly, and with such apparent sincerity, that we were secretly enraptured with, and forgave him readily, though none of us spoke.

Then came the water ceremony.

Vestella filled a large cut-glass pitcher with water, and, making him stoop with his face over the washstand, poured it over his head.

Then we each filled it in turn and poured it over his head and down his neck, until his curls were all straightened out, and no two hairs were lying in the same direction.

"Now, sir," said Vestella, "you can sign this confession, and then go down the way you came up. You are a good pathfinder, and I hope you will not get caught again. Tell your comrades that you found the 'tall fierce one' wide awake."

He crept to the window.

We followed him to the balustrade, saw him reach the ground and run nimbly down the lawn.

The whole scene had occupied but little more than an hour.

Having assisted Vestella to arrange her bed, we scuttled back to our own.

So ended the "Midnight Invasion."

Prohibition State Convention.

The Prohibitionists of New Hampshire, irrective of sex, who believe that the welfare of the country requires the suppression of the traffic in alcoholic drink by law, and that no such reform can be brought about by any party save the one now organized for that purpose, viz.: The Prohibition Party, are earnestly requested to attend a State Convention to be held in City Hall, Manchester, on the 27th day of January, 1885, at 11 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of organizing a State Prohibition Club and to transact such other business as may come before the Convention.

The political campaign of 1884 has now passed into history, and the record will prove one of hope and encouragement to all true lovers of sobriety and good order. But this is no time to stand still. Our enemy is never idle. The State Prohibition Committee has completed its labors for the present, and unless some special work presents itself, will hold no more meetings, until called together to decide upon a date to hold the State Convention of 1886. The last meeting of this committee was held in this city, and before adjourning, it was unanimously recommended that the friends of prohibition in the state should organize for active work during the next two years.

Then, rally once again around the standard of Prohibition, and by a well attended and enthusiastic Convention demonstrate to the people of the nation that the old Granite State is determined to do her share towards the annihilation of that most bitter foe to home and country—the liquor traffic.

Excursion tickets will be on sale at the principal stations of the Boston & Lowell and Concord railroads, and will be good on the day before and after the Convention.

Able speakers from abroad will be present at afternoon and evening sessions.

St. John and His Proposed "Sell Out."

Frederick N. Willard, of the Kansas City Times, and nephew of James F. Legate, publishes a card in which he says that at Mr. Legate's request he wrote and mailed a letter to S. B. Elkins of the republican national committee, before the election, saying in substance that St. John, the prohibition candidate for president, would leave the field if it were made an object for him to do so, and said that Mr. Legate was the only one who could manage him. Legate received a reply, but Willard did not know its contents. Soon after Willard, at Legate's request, sent a telegram to St. John in New York state, the wording of which he did not fully comprehend; but it was sufficient to convince him that Legate telegraphed to St. John for instructions. Afterwards, when he asked Legate if he had heard from the despatch, the latter replied that everything was lovely.

Legate says he did not write the Kerens letter, but he has admitted that he tried to persuade the national republican committee to buy off St. John. Whether he wrote this particular letter or not, is a matter of very little consequence. He has confessed, too, that he had no authority to act for St. John. That he himself was engaged in a disreputable negotiation is admitted; that the negotiation failed is certain.

An Iron Steamer for Venezuela.

There has just been completed at the ship building yard of John Dialogue at Camden, New Jersey, an iron, schooner rigged, screw propeller steamer for the commander of the Venezuelan army. The vessel will sail under the American flag, and will be commanded by an American captain until she arrives at her destination. She is named the Augusta, and is intended ostensibly for a transport, but is so constructed as to be easily turned it to a war cruiser with a full battery of broadside guns.

The Telegraph Companies Win.

Actions brought by the city of Philadelphia against the Western Union Telegraph company, the Mutual Union Telegraph company and the Bell Telephone company for the amount alleged to be due as license fees under ordinance of January 6, 1881, and March 30, 1883, have been reported upon by a referee, to whom they were submitted. The referee says that because the license fees enacted are unreasonable, as fees, and because they operate in substance as a tax, he is of the opinion that the finding in each of these cases should be for the defendants, and he accordingly so finds.

Guy M. Galt, aged seventeen years, son of Lieut. Galt, and Jacob Rhinehart, aged twenty-seven, both of Sterling, Ill., committed suicide with rat poison Jan. 12th. They were intimate friends. No reason is assigned for this folly.

At a Grand Army fair in Stoughton, Mass., recently prizes to the amount of $3000 were distributed by lot. The managers of the fair were arrested on criminal process, on the afternoon of the 13th inst., for maintaining a lottery.

The ship "Prince of Wales," one of the Hudson Bay company's finest vessels, has been frozen up in Hudson bay with a cargo of furs worth $500,000, and without the necessary supplies for passing the winter. Serious apprehensions are felt for the fate of the crew and the ship.

Referring to the recent debate in Congress between Senator Hawley and two or three southern senators, relative to Jeff Davis, the Providence Journal says: "Now that Senators Vest and Lamar have sufficiently vindicated the character and patriotism of Jefferson Davis, it seems a little hard that Benedict Arnold should not have a day devoted to his cause."

The Washington correspondent of the St. Louis Republican thus sets up Mr. "Senator" Christie, who in his round proportions and at times in his savoir faire, eclipses many a member of the august senate: "The handsomest turnout on the avenue to-day is that driven by Mr. J. I. Christie, deputy sergeant-at-arms of the senate, a beautiful cutter adorned with foxtailed robes and Mr. Christie, the latter holding the ribbons of a span of spirited horses named respectively 'Fannie Jackson' and 'Fearnot Gift.' It may be interesting to the ladies, who are usually interested in horseflesh to the amount of the number of rides they get, to know that the beauty of a trotter bearing the Indian name of 'Fearnot Gift,' is a sister to 'Maud S.' Mr. Christie is a bachelor and drives alone, and besides, being as broad as he is long, fills the sleigh full. Mr. Christie is a very important officer of the senate; he is the who looks after the comforts of the inner senator and holds the keys to the closets, plans the investigating committees that are sent out in the summer time to chase butterflies over the Rocky mountains, or attend clam-bakes on Long island. These investigations do need close attention, and they get it from the deputy sergeant-at-arms of the senate."

WHAT WILL convince you of the wonderful curative properties combined in Hoop's SARSAPARILLA, if the remarkable cures that have been effected by its use fail to impress upon your mind this repeatedly proven fact? Thousands are using it, and all declare that it is a medicine possessing all and even more than we claim for it. My friend, if you are sick or in that condition that you cannot call yourself either sick or well, go and get a bottle of Hoop's SARSAPARILLA, and realize yourself how this medicine hits the right spot, and puts all the machinery of your body into working order.

LOWELL, MASS.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gentlemen—It affords me much pleasure to recommend HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA. My health has been such that for some years past I have been obliged to take a tonic of some kind in the spring, and have never found anything that hit my wants as your Sarsaparilla. It tones up my system, purifies my blood, sharpens my appetite, and seems to make me over. Respectfully yours,

J. P. THOMPSON.

One of our prominent business men said to us the other day: "In the spring my wife got all run down and could not eat anything; passing your store I saw a pile of HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA in the window, and I got a bottle. After she had been taking it a week she had a rousing appetite, and it did her everything. Now look three bottles gone, it was the best three dollars I ever invested."

ODD FELLOWS' MUTUAL RELIEF.

The Rockingham Odd Fellows' Mutual Relief Association held its annual meeting on Tuesday evening, Jan. 13th, and the following officers were elected:

George Annable, president;
John W. Moses, vice president;
John S. Rand, secretary;
William G. Billings, treasurer.

The association has been highly favored the past year; only nine assessments have been called for, and at one time nearly five months elapsed without a death. The amount paid to families of deceased members during the year was $7370.06.

The association was formed in 1872; and since then it has paid out in benefits $99,655.22. Surely it has a good record.

ST. MARY'S BENEVOLENT ASSOCIATION.

A special meeting of the Association will be held at the hall this (Thursday) evening at eight o'clock, to make arrangements for attending the funeral of our late Brother Nicholas Zambelli.

AUGUSTUS SCHREITER, Secretary.

The Portsmouth polo club, which will play a game at the Portsmouth skating rink on Saturday evening with the Wright & Ditson club of Boston, is composed as follows: Herbert White, captain and rusher; Ivah R. Davis, rusher; Charles D. Varrell, centre; Warren O. Lear, cover point; Burt J. Rowe, half back; Joseph P. Conner, goal; G. E. Philbrick and W. Frizzell, substitutes.

Mr. Wm. T. Rand, son of our respected townsman Alexander Rand, has removed with his family to Boston, where he will be employed as cashier and bookkeeper of the firm of Field, Boulivent & Field, on South street, wholesale leather dealers. We wish him every success in his new undertaking.

Good skating this week on the upper part of the north mill-pond; the opportunity was improved on Wednesday afternoon by several hundred skaters.

Mr. James O. Trefethen, postmaster at Kittery, who a few months ago bought Mr. Nathan Jones' fine farm in Newington, on the shore of Great bay, has sold the farm again, Mr. R. H. Beacham of this city being the purchaser.

At the masquerade skating carnival in the Portsmouth rink, Wednesday evening, no persons except those masked will be allowed on the skating floor until after 8:30 o'clock; and every masquerader will be required to unmask in the inspector's tent, previous to going on the floor, to insure the exclusion of objectionable persons. Mrs. Newhall of Boston, costumer, will be in this city the first of next week with a large assortment of fancy costumes to select from.

Drummer J. E. Kelly, U. S. M. C., has been transferred from the marine barracks at Charlestown, Mass., to the barracks at the Portsmouth navy yard.

It is announced that Mr. Lucius Tuttle, general passenger and ticket agent of the Eastern railroad until that road was leased to the Boston & Maine, and later the assistant general manager of the consolidated lines until he resigned the position, has accepted the office of general passenger agent on the Boston & Lowell railroad. So experienced and thorough a railroad man as Mr. Tuttle has no need to hunt for a position, the services of such being always in demand.

At a regular meeting of York Lodge, No. 3, Daughters of Rebekah, of Kittery, the following officers were installed by D. D. G. M. Frank H. Rowell and staff: N. G., Annie E. Wilson; V. G., Abbie P. Philbrick; R. S., Mary F. Hayes; P. S., Martha E. Philbrick; Treasurer, Annie F. Grant; W., Lizzie L. Getchel; C., Jennie S. Locke; R. S. of N. G., Arvilla Trefethen; L. S. of N. G., Annie Damon; R. S. of V. G., Ruby R. Littlefield; L. S. of V. G., Annie E. Eaton; Chaplain, Harriet P. Moore; I. S. G., Jennie Joy; O. S. G., O. B. Moody. After the installation a supper was served in the hall. The attendance was large.

William Stevens, one of the oldest citizens of Salem, Mass., died on the 14th inst. at his residence on Summer street. He was born near Portsmouth on Aug. 7th, 1793, and was therefore nearly ninety-two years of age. For years he was in the fruit business in Market square, Salem, in a little one-story building that formerly stood on the present site of the Hazeltine house. He kept a long row of sheds for baiting horses for farmers and market-men.

James Andrews of Biddeford, Me., the contractor who removed the ledge off the westerly end of Badger's island in this harbor, has brought suit in the United States circuit court in New York to recover $13,900, with interest from 1880, from the Brooklyn elevated railroad for furnishing and laying foundation stones for iron uprights. After Mr. Andrews had completed his contract the railroad company went into the hands of a receiver, and the new company refuses to pay on the old company's contracts because it bought out the latter under foreclosure. The new company offered to pay its indebtedness in the stock of the road, but Mr. Andrews refused the proposition, and sued for the whole amount due.

The announcement of the death of Mrs. Smyth, wife of Ex-Gov. Frederick Smyth of Manchester, which occurred on Wednesday morning, Jan. 14th, caused universal sorrow throughout the state, and indeed in many parts of the country, as the governor and Mrs. Smyth had very many friends in many states of the union. Mrs. Smyth was an estimable lady, beloved by all who knew her and endowed with a happy faculty of making every one who had the pleasure of meeting her, enjoy her kindly ways, her agreeable manners and her amiable qualities. During the administration of Governor Smyth the returning soldiers had on many occasions an opportunity to receive her pleasant welcome to New Hampshire. Mrs. Smyth had many devoted friends in this city, and we think her last visit here was when she came to sit for her portrait, painted by Tenny. She was born in Candia.

DON'T WANT HER HERE.

A Dover despatch of Jan. 13th tells the following story:

About six weeks ago Hattie Clough left her husband, and went west with a man named Ellis. Clough at that time came here after her, but he was too late. Two weeks ago the runaways returned to this city, and went housekeeping as man and wife. Unfortunately Hattie is of a fickle disposition, and getting tired of Ellis she left him and took up with another man. Last night she went to Ellis' house to see him, and inquired affectionately for his health. He was so pleased that, in order to keep her there, he quietly purloined her hat and held on to it; this did not suit the fair Hattie, as she had only come to call, so she rushed out on the street and caused a big sensation. Officer Otis took a hand in the matter; he procured her hat from Ellis, and locked her up for the night in the police station. To-day she left for Portsmouth, where success undoubtedly awaits her.

Persons proposing to take in amateur entertainments can find at Moses Brothers' news and periodical store "Burdett's Series of Recitations and Readings," which includes books of serio-comic, dramatic, patriotic, heroic, pathetic, serious and dialect selections, edited and arranged by the talented elocutionist James S. Burdett, and published by the Excelsior Publishing House, 29 & 31 Beekman street, New York city. All tastes can be supplied by this series, and there is a good deal of pleasure to be gained from reading the books by those who never expect to "appear in public on the stage."

L. R. Hamersly & Co., of Philadelphia, the publishers of "The United Service" monthly magazine, have issued the first number of "The Army and Navy Quarterly: an eclectic magazine," with the following list of contents: "European Cavalry; by Colonel Keith Fraser," from Fortnightly Review; "The British Navy; by Sir E. J. Reed, M. P.," from Contemporary Review; "A Forgotten American Humorist; by Mrs. Launt Thompson," from London Society; "The Present Position of Tactics in England; by Colonel W. W. Knollys," from Colburn's United Service Magazine; "The End of a Great Navy; by Vice-Admiral Jurien de la Graviere," translated from the Revue des Deux Mondes by Jas. Duval Rodney, Esq.; "Torpedoes on Shipboard and in Boats; by C. Chabaud-Arnault, Captaine de Fregate, M. F.," translated from the Revue Maritime et Coloniale by Wm. Bainbridge-Hoff, Commander U. S. N.; "Our London Letter," and book reviews. Price, $2 per year, postage paid.

The "American Journal of the Medical Sciences," published by Lea Brothers & Co., of Philadelphia, at $5 per year, is almost a necessity for the physician who would keep up with the most advanced discoveries and the most intelligent practice of the day. The number for January, with nearly 300 pages of valuable matter, ably maintains the previous high reputation of the publication, many of these papers being of special value and interest.

"The United Service" for December has articles on "The employment of quick-firing six-pounder shell-guns for the naval service;" "One of the Duanes," three chapters; the "Wreck of H. M. Frigate 'Hussar,' 1780," by Rear Admiral Preble, U. S. N.; "Recollections of reconstruction," fourth (and concluding) paper; "The Thirty Years War," conclusion; with the usual editorial notes, and reviews and notices of service literature. L. R. Hamersly & Co., Philadelphia, publishers; three dollars a year; single number twenty-five cents.

Governors of Missouri, Indiana and Kansas were inaugurated Jan. 12th.

FAMILY MAGAZINE,

LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE.

A Regular Monthly of General Literature.

ON THIS SIDE,

A New Serial Story,
By F. C. BAYLOR,

IS COMMENCED IN THIS NUMBER.

Several chapters of MARY AGNES TINCKER'S charming story, Asa Ware, will be a frontispiece, also appear, together with other Short Stories, Poems, and Articles of Interest up on Current Topics.

PROSPECTUS FOR 1885.

Among the chief periodicals of the country, LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE has acquired the distinctive reputation of being "eminently readable."

Arrangements have been made for many contributions of special interest during the coming year. Among these particular attention is invited to a serial story entitled "ON THIS SIDE," by F. C. Baylor, author of "The Perfect Treasure" (commenced in the January number). In which the experiences of an English baronet and his friends during a tour through the United States are related with a mirth-provoking humor, a knowledge and appreciation of national characteristics, and a perfect fairness of tone and freedom from caricature that cannot fail to secure critical approval and wide popularity. Miss Tincker's beautiful novel, "Aurora," will be completed in the summer, and will be followed by several stories in two or more parts, including "The Lady Lawyer's First Client," by the author of "A Latter-Day Saint."

Sketches of Italian Life, by Mrs. Launt Thompson, an account of the Pioneers of Tennessee, by "Edmund Kirke," a narrative of the experiences of a Steerage Passenger to and from Liverpool, by Thomas Wharton, an article on Queen Anne, or Free Classic Architecture, by George G. Mason, Jr., and a Comedy for private theatricals, by James Payn, will be published in early numbers, together with the usual variety of short stories and articles of general interest by popular writers.

Modern Science and Skepticism

What has Skepticism done for the world?

Nothing but to suggest doubts. It has ever suggested that Rheumatism cannot be cured. Skepticism is as bad as Rheumatism.

What has Science done for the world?

A good many things; for instance, it has shown that Rheumatism can be cured.

It has shown that Neuralgia can be got rid of.

Modern science has proved that Rheumatism is a blood disease, and has provided ATHLOPHOROS as the remedy which can completely cure it.

It has proved that although the old doctors failed to overcome Neuralgia, ATHLOPHOROS can reach it, and eradicate it from the system.

It has proved that though these tormenting diseases were so slow and obstinate, they can be overcome in a little while by means of Athlophoros!

Don't be skeptical. If you have any doubts as to what ATHLOPHOROS can do, write to some of those whom it has cured. For instance, Rev. S. R. Dennen, D. D., Pastor Third Congregational Church, of New Haven, Conn., the Rev. W. P. Corbit, pastor George St. M. E. Church, of New Haven, the Rev. J. E. Searles, pastor Wilbur St. M. E. Church, New York city. Mr. Brummell, the well known candy manufacturer, of New York, Ex-Gov. Bigelow, of Connecticut, and many others, equally well known.

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practioners with whom I have had official intercourse."
CHAS. MASON, Commissioner of Patents.

"Inventors cannot employ a person more trustworthy or capable of securing for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office." EDMUND BURKE, late Commissioner of Patents.

BOSTON, October 19, 1870.

R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: You procured for me, in 1866, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and have prosecuted reissues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you nine-tenths of the whole of my business, in your line, and advise others to employ you.

A Vital Fluid.

The blood, when impure, is the source of most, if not all, diseases that mankind is afflicted with. It is then important that we should care well for this vital fluid. Wetherell's Sarsaparilla will purify the blood and keep it pure. One dollar per bottle. Six for $5. Sold by druggists.

Every day adds to the great amount of evidence as to the curative powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Letters are continually being received from all sections of the country, telling of benefits derived from this great medicine. It is unequalled for general debility, and as a blood purifier, expelling every trace of scrofula or other impurity. Now is the time to take it. Made by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by druggists.

I found it a sure cure. I have been troubled with catarrhal deafness for seven or eight years with a roaring noise in my head. I bought medicine in thirteen states but nothing helped me till I procured a bottle of Ely's Cream Balm. In four days I could hear well as ever. I am cured of the Catarrh as well. I consider Ely's Cream Balm the best medicine ever made. GARRETT WIDRICK, Hastings, N. Y.

You Can Have It.

"My dear, what would I give to have your hair?" is often said by middle-aged ladies to young ones. Madam, you may have just such hair. Parker's Hair Balsam will give it to you. It will stop your hair from falling off, restore the original color and make it long, thick, soft and glossy. You need not stand helplessly envying the girls. The balsam is not oily, not a dye, but is an elegant dressing, and is especially recommended for its cleanliness and purity.

NO. 37 CONGRESS STREET,

Portsmouth N. H.

Mr. George W. Muchmore of North Kittery has an old family horse known in the neighborhood as "Old Joe," that has arrived at an age when sobriety of behavior should be his most marked characteristic; and his owner having bought a much younger horse to take his place, Old Joe has had little to do but to rest, and recall the events of his youthful days. By so doing he had grown remarkably young and coltish of late, and when they least expect it he is apt to "play possum" on the boys when they take him out, and by stratagem get away from them and make good his escape, when no amount of coaxing or driving can secure him again until he is ready. Such was the case one morning recently, when as Mr. Muchmore's youngest son was riding him to the brook for his morning draught he was suddenly seized with the spirit which filled the steed that Gen. Putnam rode, and made a dash with headlong speed, throwing the boy a distance of fifteen feet ahead by actual measurement, and made his escape; the boy was not badly hurt, but was very much surprised indeed.

A THRILLING STORY.

As Told by a Merchant in Troy, N. Y.—A Surgical Operation Avoided—How a Father, Wife and Daughter Escaped an Awful Doom.

Of the hundreds of accounts of remarkable cures wrought by DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, none have appeared so purely astonishing as the following; The persons mentioned are among the most highly respected in the city of Troy, and the story as told by the father will prove interesting to all our readers.—ED.

TROY, N. Y.

Dr. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:

DEAR SIR: My daughter was afflicted with a severe growth of Fungus. To remove it we had resorted to almost every remedy and consulted the most prominent surgeons and physicians. Dr. —, of Troy, said that a surgical operation would be necessary, but fearing fatal results I hesitated. Some of the physicians claimed that it was caused by one thing and one by another. The Fungus was prominent and disfigured her looks. Having heard of Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY working so thoroughly on the blood I determined to try it, to see if this medicine could do what doctors had failed to do and surgeons had hardly dared to undertake. I can say in truth that the result of the trial was the complete cure of my daughter of this dreadful malady. Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY alone effected it. We used nothing else, or other things had completely failed. My daughter today enjoys glorious health and Favorite Remedy alone is the credit due. My wife also was very poor in health, due to some liver difficulty with which she had suffered so much that she became very much reduced in flesh. A trial of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy has resulted in the complete restoration of her health, which she had not enjoyed for years. She had gained in flesh and strength, and thus secured perfect health, and this is DUE ENTIRELY TO DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY. As for myself, being engaged in the grocery and commission business, which makes it necessary for me to test the quality of different articles, like butter, etc., my sense of taste and my stomach were seriously injured. Everything seemed to nauseate me, and fearful of dyspepsia in its most severe form, I tried DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY. The first bottle afforded immediate relief, and from that day to this I can say that Favorite Remedy has restored me to perfect health. These are facts which I claim prove that Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is the best medicine in the world for those afflicted with the above difficulties. If any one in the city of Troy doubts the truth of these statements let him come to me and I will give them. I have recommended Favorite Remedy to hundreds and with the same good results.

Yours, etc., WILLIAM WINDSOR.

HIS LIFE'S ONE HOLIDAY.

BY LILLIAS CAMPBELL DAVIDSON.

Huntingdon Wayne was thirty-five, and had never yet been in love. He had worked hard and well, and had made a fortune which even he thought would enable him to marry without being recklessly imprudent; and he began to think it was time to decide upon a wife who should satisfy his somewhat fastidious requirements. She must be of a stately and noble presence—Wayne had rather an idea of a fine woman;—not too young, nor too emotional—Wayne was a person who hated scenes; in short, she was to be a woman made to order, and he found it more difficult to discover her than he had at first supposed.

It was with a feeling of something as akin to failure as his well-regulated mind ever indulged in that he ordered his portmanteau packed for a fortnight's visit to Newton-on-Sea, and tore himself away from the fascinations of club and office life, to pay a long promised visit to his old friend, Dr. Marshall. He had seen nothing of the Marshalls for years past, though there was a tie of old associations between them, and even something of sadder interest. Five years ago, when Wayne's uncle offered him a berth in the tea business of which he was now the head, he extended a like offer to Huntingdon's younger brother, Jack; but Jack, always something of a hot-headed fellow, took offense at some word or deed of his elder's, and refused the offer. Soon after he took some post on the east coast of Africa, and went out with high hopes of the fortune he was to bring back and lay at Hettie Marshall's feet.

Huntingdon heard of the engagement with contempt for the folly of two young people without a penny; but when, three years later, news came of poor Jack's death out in Zanzibar, the little bride that was to have been passed out of his mind, and it was only when an invitation came for him from the Marshalls, who were at Newton-on-Sea for Hetty's health, that the thought of her existence crossed him again.

He had not seen her since she was a little child in pinafores; and when he was brought up, on the evening he arrived, to the side of a crimson hammock swung between two tall pine-trees, and introduced to a slight, pale girl, whose great blue eyes were raised to his with a pathetic gentleness and sweetness, a feeling such as in all his thirty-five years of sensible life he had never before experienced shot through him with a thrill of wonder, and almost bewilderment. He took in his own the small, fragile, white fingers, and then laid them down almost reverently on the soft cushions amidst which she lay.

I suppose if any one had asked him then and there whether he believed in love at first sight, he would have answered as contemptuously as ever; and yet, for all that, he was as deep in love as ever man fell at one blow. He told himself it was pity—a pity that only grew as the days passed by, and he saw how delicate a creature her great trouble of two years since had left her; it seemed to him it was his duty to try and atone to her for all the suffering and loss she had undergone; as if his life ought to make up to her for Jack's death, somehow. Strange that duty had never had such a zest and a pleasure in it before!

She was a thing so new to his experience, with her pleading blue eyes, her soft little ways, and the pathos that hung about all she did and said. Wayne used to sit and watch her furtively, as if she was a creature of some unknown race.

Three days after the first evening and the hammock, the ideal "fine woman" had died out of his mind, never to return; and before the week was over he had said to himself—he, the practical, cool-headed Huntingdon Wayne—that life without little Hettie would hardly be worth the living, and that he must have her for his own or die. Practical common-sensical men often take the hardest form of the disease called love. He spoke to Dr. Marshall before the middle of the second week, and asked his consent to win Hetty. The doctor listened with a good deal of surprise, but no appearance of displeasure; and when Wayne had finished he grasped him heartily by the hand.

"My dear fellow," he said, with something between a smile and a sigh, "you have my heartiest consent and my best wishes, if you can get Hetty to say 'Yes.' You are almost a part of poor Jack, and there's no one else I should so gladly call my son. Of course it all rests with Hetty; but I know she does not dislike you, and you must trust to time for the rest. Love such as she gave poor Jack, perhaps the same woman never gives twice over; but there's no reason she shouldn't love you well, and make you a good wife. The grief of two years back is passing away—it is more the physical state left by the shock of that time that wears on her now. Perhaps she will never be very robust, but you will take good care of her, I'm certain."

"She shall be strong again, please God, if I can make her so by my devotion," said Huntingdon, while a vision of unspeakable happiness danced before his mind's eyes—a snow-white yacht cruising among smiling islands in a summer sea, seeking health for her who was its queen.

"I'll leave the business to look after itself," he thought, with a glow of rapture, "and travel round the world with her till the color comes back to her pale face, and the light to her eyes; yes, and the happiness to her heart.

So the fortnight wore away, and another was well nigh gone, and yet Wayne lingered at Newton-on-Sea. He was never away from Hetty's side; he fetched and carried for her like a dog, he was a slave to her every wish. Dr. and Mrs. Marshall regarded him with undisguised favor. Tom, the enfant terrible of the family, voted him "no end jolly;" and Hetty? Hetty liked him well; her eyes brightened when he came, she missed him when he was away; he was so thoughtful, so kind, so good, no one could help being fond of him.

One night there was a storm, and by noon the next day there came the news that a great ship from the Cape had gone to pieces on the Razor Rocks, not two miles away. Nothing would do but that Hetty must go and see it. There were no lives lost, they heard, but the life-boat people must wait till the tide fell before they could get off all the crew, and Hetty was eager to see the rescue. So Huntingdon, of course, volunteered to drive her and Master Tom to the scene of the disaster in Hetty's little pony-carriage.

What a drive that was! Wayne will never forget it while he lives. The hedges were all aglow with the June roses and the honeysuckle, and a breath of summer floated up to them from the narrow, winding lanes. The pony was fat and indolent, and took its own time. Wayne would not have hurried one of its steps. The sun was setting when they reached the solitary bay where the steamer had run ashore, and a golden glory shone over sky and sea—edging the cloud-banks with unearthly splendor, and dyeing with crimson the shallow pools left by the retreating tide. The cliff-path to the shore was steep and narrow. Wayne had to help Hetty with a tender care. Perhaps life had never held such exquisite pleasure for him before. Her little light shawl lay over his arm, her small hand rested in his clasp. It seemed to him the world was bounded by Hetty.

Never had his heart beat so high with hope. Once she stopped to gather a tiny blue cliff-flower, and after a moment's pause, she shyly gave it him. Was it only the sunset glow that mocked his fancy, or did a delicate color really mount to her cheek at his low spoken word of thanks?

But, far out on the low, black ledge of cruel rocks lay the great shattered ship. Little boats plied swiftly and safely across the quiet shallows where the storm waves had raged not many hours ago. Hetty was all excitement to see the rescued people; while Tom, with the frankness of his age and kind, declared aloud that "this sort of shipwreck wasn't much good—there wasn't any drowning to be done!"

The thoughtful Huntingdon had of course brought a telescope, and stood like a statue of Atlas while Hetty rested the glass on his shoulder and watched the boats land their burdens at the little fishing-pier.

He was in a sort of rapt dream, hearing dimly Hetty's little ejaculations of pity over the bedraggled aspect of the shipwrecked, and altogether ignoring Master Tom's somewhat crude chatter, as that youthful torment wetted his feet at the margin of the tide, and gave his opinion with delightful confidence upon matters in general, and shipwrecks in particular. The sunset glory grew brighter and more vivid, lighting up the sombre cliffs and level waste of water, and throwing into sharp relief each black stake of the fishing-nets which dotted the bosom of the broad bay.

It seemed to Wayne that he would like to stand just so forever—Hetty close to him, he her support and comfort, no one to come between; for Tom certainly did not count for much. Was it not a type of what all their life to come was to be? Crimson glory—Hetty depending on him, his highest happiness to minister to her.

Suddenly into his dream ran a shriek, wild and terrible. The telescope rolled from his shoulder, and splashed into a pool at his feet; and as he turned to catch Hetty's fainting figure in his stalwart arms, with one lightning flash his eyes fell where hers had rested, and saw, in the crowded boat-load just reaching the shore, among the bronzed and bearded faces of the wrecked ship's crew, the face of Hetty's lost lover—his own brother Jack! * * *

Ah! well, well! Wayne behaved capitally, every one said. "Old Don behaved like the brick that he is, after all," to use Jack's own expression. He took his brother into partnership and enabled him to marry Hetty within six weeks—Hetty, to whose pale cheeks the roses had come back, as if by some magic spell. He never married. "Don was an old bachelor before he was in knickerbockers," Jack confides sometimes to his wife.

People say he means to leave all his money to his niece, little Hetty, who has her mother's eyes. And deep in a secret drawer, carefully treasured from prying eyes, lies a withered scrap of weed, which was once a blue cliff-flower, and is all that is left to Huntingdon Wayne of his life's one holiday.

Lord Chief Justice Coleridge, in an address to the Grand Jury, at the opening of the Autumn Assizes, at Bedford, Eng., the other day, spoke in length on the character of the punishment which Justices of the Peace frequently inflicted. He strongly condemned the passing of heavy sentences for trifling offenses, such as pilfering and the like, believing that such a method was but manufacturing criminals instead of correcting them. In illustration, he cited a case where two urchins were sent to prison for three months, with hard labor, for the paltry theft of a few apples from an orchard, an offense for which, perhaps, many of the magistrates themselves were guilty when they were boys. If heavy sentences were awarded in such cases, there were no others adequately severe for the far graver crimes which frequently came before Judges at Assizes.

Curtis, Andrew C. Wallace, C. D. Welch, Alpheus Bodwell, William Corey, Nathan P. Kidder. The Dynamiters' War.

Capt. Phelan, the dynamiter who was carved up and almost murdered by a brother dynamiter in O'Donovan Rossa's office in New York, is rapidly recovering. To a reporter who asked what his aim would be when he got out, he replied:

"My first purpose is to push with all the energy I possess the case against the treacherous cabal that planned my assassination. They are uttering threats anew against me; but I want it distinctly understood that there are not weapons enough in the whole dynamite armory to scare me from court or from prosecuting the cowards who attempted to murder me. I have faced death often before, and I can look calmly in its eye again." Being reminded that O'Donovan Rossa, in his paper, had charged that he was a traitor, the captain said: "Wait till I get out of here; then there will be music. There's looseness somewhere. I have documents in my possession that, if published, would startle two continents. I want to place my case squarely before my countrymen, and, until they hear my side of this story, I ask them to suspend judgment."

The landlady of a hotel in Hull, Eng., states that Phelan stayed a week at her house, and gave his real name. He made no disguise of the fact that he was O'Donovan Rossa's agent. Phelan and Kearney held frequent land-league meetings in Hull. They left the city on the same boat, Kearney being disguised as a navvy.

At Frankfort-on-the-Main, on the night of Jan. 13th, a police commissioner named Rumpff, who had been active in the prosecution of socialists, was found dead in front of his own house, stabbed in several places. His assassin is unknown. All agree that the murder was the work of anarchists, in revenge for the part Rumpff had taken in securing the conviction of Reinsdorf and his companions of the Neiderwald conspiracy. The Emperor William, when informed of the death of Rumpff, was visibly agitated. A reward has been offered for the discovery of the murderer. The dagger with which the deed was committed twice penetrated the heart of its victim. No robbery was committed. It is presumed that vengeance was the only motive for the crime.

Robert Merchant, an old man, died at Greece, N. Y., Jan. 13th. On his death bed he confessed that twenty years ago, while keeper of a tavern, he murdered a peddler, robbed him, and buried the body under the hotel. The matter will be investigated.

A report comes from Calhoun county, Ga., that two men, named Joel Shuman and Thomas Ginn, recently fought a duel on horseback to settle an old quarrel. They met on the road. Ginn's little son was on the horse behind his father, who told him to get down and run away. The men then began firing at each other. Each emptied the contents of his revolver. Shuman was wounded in four places, and fell from his horse; he died in half an hour. Ginn has three wounds, but may recover. The boy stood near a fence corner and watched the proceedings. He was terrified, but unharmed.

The house given to the late prima donna, "Litta," (Miss Von Elsner,) by her admiring townspeople of Bloomington, Ill., has been sold under foreclosure of mortgage. Litta's career, though highly successful in an artistic sense, was ended in poverty, and the family she worked faithfully to support are now almost destitute.

The North German Gazette says many retired army officers have gone to China to instruct the Chinese army in European tactics. The government is powerless to prevent this. It, however, prohibits officers still in the army of reserve from going.

In the supreme court at Portland, Me., Jan. 14th, Thomas J. Libby was arraigned to answer an indictment for the murder of Lydia S. Snow at the City hotel last summer. He appeared cheerful and nodded to acquaintances in the room. He pleaded not guilty in a clear, emphatic tone. The judge, at the request of the prisoner, appointed A. E. Moulton and C. S. Andrews to defend him.

Wesley M. May, aged seventeen years, was arrested in Madison, Conn., Jan. 14th, on a bench warrant for criminal libel, the charge being that he posted malicious and obscene matter about Charles Bartlett and his daughter.

Robert Bishop, fourteen years old, was drowned at Rockland, Me., while skating, Jan. 14th.

The town hall at Warminster, in Wiltshire, England, was partially wrecked by an explosion of dynamite on the night of Jan. 13th. Several houses in the neighborhood were badly shaken, many windows shattered, and several persons thrown to the ground by the violence of the shock. The report of the explosion was heard for two miles around the town hall, and great excitement was caused until it was ascertained that no one had been seriously injured. Pieces of tin tubing which had apparently contained a fuse were found near the scene of the explosion. Two suspicious looking strangers were noticed loitering near the town hall during the afternoon, and police are searching for them, but thus far no arrests have been made.

COL. INGERSOLL'S LECTURE.

This evening, at Music hall, a lecture on "Orthodoxy" will be delivered by the most fascinating speaker and the most audacious assailant of what is generally accepted as religious truth, Col. Robert G. Ingersoll. Though many of the audience will no doubt dissent from his conclusions, all will be charmed with his oratory. Tickets at Goodrich's.

COMMISSIONED.

The U. S. S. Marion, which has been at this navy yard some two years, undergoing extensive repairs, went into commission at two o'clock Thursday afternoon, Jan. 15th, the following officers reporting:

Comdr. Merrill Miller, commanding; Lieut. Comdr. John F. Merry, executive officer; Lieutenants John W. Hagenman, John F. Moore, John E. Roller, Clinton H. Lyeth; Ensign Lorenzo Semple; Naval Cadet Robert H. Orr; Surgeon T. C. Heyl; Passed Asst. Surgeon Thomas C. Craig; Chief Engineer Frederick G. W. McKean; Passed Asst. Engr. William A. Mintzler; Asst. Engr. A. E. Smith; Acting Boatswain E. W. Holmes; Carpenter William H. Barrett; 2d Lieut. James E. Mahoney, U. S. M. C., commanding the marine guard; Paymaster's Clerk Charles A. Gilson. Paymaster L. A. Fraley will report later, he having been recently detached from other duty and ordered to settle accounts.

A SLIPPERY CHARACTER.

William Henderson, alias "Jack Sprat," who dodged the Dover police officers on Monday, the 12th inst., twice jumping out of second-story windows, and escaping across the river into Maine, returned to Dover or the 13th, and went to the Cocheco works and settled. He then paraded round the streets glorying in the reputation he had obtained. He went into Foster's Democrat office and asked for a copy of the paper which gave an account of his escape. In reply to a question, "Are you not afraid you will be captured by the police?" he said, "I am too nimble for any officer to catch me. If they lay their hands on me I'll surrender, because if I run away they might 'pepper' me if they could aim straight enough." He stayed in Dover all the forenoon on the 14th, and then left, it was reported in a team bound for this city. City Marshal Norton received a telephone message from Dover to look out for him, but he did not arrive. This slippery youth is described as being a hoodlum of the worst variety, about seventeen years old, and very small of his age. The offence for which he is wanted in Newburyport is malicious mischief—throwing a large stone through a window of a passenger car on the Eastern Division of the Boston & Maine railroad.

Miss Mabel F. Emery, daughter of the late Samuel H. Emery, and sister of Samuel W. Emery, Esq., the well known reporter and Associated Press agent, died at noon on Wednesday, the 14th inst., of consumption, after a weary but patiently-borne illness of about nine months. Miss Emery was a young lady of irreproachable character and high promise, and was deeply beloved by a wide circle of friends, outside of her family connections; she was a member of the Portsmouth high school, and would have graduated with the class of '85. Her age was fifteen years and nine months.

William H. Gardiner, Esq., of this city, chief clerk in the bureau of education at Washington, has issued as secretary the ninth annual report of the class of 1876 of Dartmouth college. It is a pamphlet of twenty-five pages. The class originally numbered sixty-nine, of whom four have died. The book also contains personal notices of all the non-graduates of the class.

Nicholas Zambelli, who was permanently crippled three or four years ago by being buried under a falling clay bank on the farm of Hon. Frank Jones, died on the 14th inst. At the time of the accident, Zambelli and another man were working in under the bank with picks, and both were buried by the fall; the other man escaped with trifling injuries, but for many days it was not thought Zambelli could recover, which however he finally did do, though he was hopelessly distorted in form, and wholly disabled from engaging in any active employment. He was a member of the St. Mary's Benevolent Association, a most commendable charity connected with the Catholic church, and which has largely contributed to his support ever since he was hurt.

The Whalesback foghorn could be heard giving its hoot every half minute during the day on Thursday. Snow commenced falling thickly about ten o'clock in the forenoon, and kept at it through the day, causing the hearts of the stable keepers to leap for joy.

The "brickers," the last of which have been but recently laid up, will mostly continue in the same trade during the coming season, provided of course that the brick yards supply them with sufficient freights. This, however, they consider quite doubtful, as there is a report that Hon Frank Jones has purchased at the up-river brick-yards one million bricks, to be laid down here.

The clerk and selectmen of ward two have scooped in two aldermen from that ward to represent the city on the jury at Exeter next week, and, this, too, when there is so little call for men on the navy yard that scores of the unemployed could have been found willing to serve had they been selected.

Nathaniel Miller, Esq., so well known for many years as a prominent business mechanic of this city, and in ship building times as an extensive brass founder, and who has for many months been confined to his house at Gravelly Ridge by a serious illness, now remains quite comfortable. He enjoys the visits of his friends, and keeps himself informed through the columns of the newspapers on the political and other events of the day. He is well posted in the history of the country, and from his great memory is able to discuss it intelligently with his callers.

A detail of forty-five men for the U. S. S. Marion, from the receiving-ship Wabash, started from Boston for this port on Thursday in the United States tug Rocket.

Belle A. Rice, the young woman arrested in this city on Monday, the 12th inst., on suspicion of her having murdered her illegitimate infant, born in Waltham, Mass., on the previous Friday, is still under the care of a physician and nurse at the police station in Waltham, where she will be kept until able to appear before the court. She is improving gradually. It is reported that the girl's betrayer is a married man named Webber, formerly of this city.

The Boston & Maine railroad has adopted the United States car coupler, and will have this life-saving invention applied to all the freight cars on its several divisions. This coupler obviates the necessity of men going between cars to connect them, and will add several years of life to the "expectation" of the brakeman.

Miss Mary W. Matthewson, who died recently in Boston, was the daughter of George W. Matthewson, formerly agent of the Cocheco print works at Dover. Miss Matthewson was an accomplished instructor and was a teacher in the Robinson female seminary in Exeter from 1870 to 1874, and from January, 1883, to June, 1884. The deceased also taught in Portsmouth and in other places.

Installation of the officers of DeWitt Clinton Commandry on Monday evening.

The Knights of Pythias will give their annual ball on Friday evening, Jan. 30th, at Congress hall.

Smelts are being caught in considerable numbers at Great bay. Old smelters say they never know the smelts to be so large as they are this winter.

We are pained to learn that Mrs. Charles H. Hayes, nee Harrat, while on her bridal tour, en-route to her intended home in Minneapolis, was prostrated by a severe nervous attack at Watertown, Conn. Her medical attendant fears that slow fever will supervene, and that at best, three months will elapse before the homeward journey can be resumed.—Penny Post.

The Newmarket national bank at the recent election chose Joseph C. Burley, T. H. Wiswall, Charles E. Griffith, Benjamin F. Lang, Lafayette Hall, Joseph Cilley and W. N. Dow, directors; Joseph C. Burley was re-elected president.

—Leading musicians are advocating a lower musical pitch. We hope the cats will adopt it.

—Parlor comedy—"What's the matter, dear? What makes everybody look so solemn?" Arabella—"Sh, sh; Jones, the humorist, is going to give a recital."

—The hotel porters in St. Louis have been made famous, or infamous, by the publication of their portraits in a local newspaper.

—When the other cabinet makers stop, Cleveland will have a chance to get his work in.

—"So you've been practicing at the skating rink, eh?" said a friend to Simpkins. "Yes," admitted Simpkins, "I have." "Well, how do you take to the rollers?" "Oh, I've no objection to the rollers. They're all right. It's the chalk on the floor I object to. It's so darned hard to brush off."

—The January fashion magazines are a little late in putting in their appearance, but it is safe to say that snow ploughs are less generally worn on railroad engines this season than usual.

LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE.

A Regular Monthly of General Literature.

ON THIS SIDE,

A New Serial Story,

By F. C. BAYLOR,

IS COMMENCED IN THIS NUMBER.

Several chapters of MARY AGNES TINCKER'S charming story, Auriora, of a ci-devant jeune, also appear, together with other Short Stories, Poems, and Articles of Interest upon Current Topics.

PROSPECTUS FOR 1885.

Among the chief periodicals of the country, LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE has acquired the distinctive reputation of being "eminently readable."

Arrangements have been made for many contributions of special interest during the coming year. Among these particular attention is invited to a serial story entitled "ON THIS SIDE," by F. C. Baylor, author of "The Perfect Treasure" (commenced in the January number) in which the experiences of an English baronet and his friends during a tour through the United States are related with a mirth-provoking humor, a knowledge and appreciation of national characteristics, and a perfect fairness of tone and freedom from caricature that cannot fail to secure critical approval and wide popularity. Miss Tincker's beautiful novel, "Aurora," will be completed in the summer, and will be followed by several stories in two or more parts, including "The Lady Lawyer's First Client," by the author of "A Latter-Day Saint."

Sketches of Italian Life, by Mrs. Laura Thompson, an account of the Pioneers of Tennessee, by "Edmund Kirke," a narrative of the experiences of a Steerage Passenger to and from Liverpool, by Thomas Wharton, an article on Queen Anne, or Free Classic Architecture, by George C. Mason, Jr., and a Comedy for private theatricals, by James Payn, will be published in early numbers, together with the usual variety of short stories and articles of general interest by popular writers.

THE GAZETTE IS PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY AND SENT TO SUBSCRIBERS AT THE LOW PRICE OF $1.50 PER YEAR, PAID IN ADVANCE, OR $2 AT THE END OF THE YEAR

It contains full accounts of all of importance that transpires in Portsmouth and its vicinity, and a condensed summary of news, foreign and domestic; editorials upon current topics; New Hampshire items; carefully prepared market news, containing reports of vessels owned at this port, or officered by men from Portsmouth or its neighborhood; and is just the paper for residents desiring to be posted on all that takes place at home, while to those living in the vicinity of Portsmouth, or to former residents who retain their interest in the "old home by the sea," it is the best means of keeping informed of what transpires at their native city, and it CONTAINS MORE ORIGINAL MATTER THAN ANY OTHER PAPER OF ITS SIZE IN THE STATE, THE EDITORS WORKING MORE WITH THEIR PENS THAN WITH THEIR SCISSORS.

VANDERBILT'S MILLIONS!

Could not buy from me what Swift's Specific has done for me. It cured me of Scrofula in its worst form, after I had suffered with it fifteen long years, and had tried all the remedies, only to break down my health and make me almost helpless. MRS. ELIZABETH BAKER,

INOCULATED POISON!

Some eight years ago I became the victim of a fearful Blood Poison, communicated by a nurse to my infant, and thence through the breast, and suffered for six long years. The Mercury and Potash treatment seemed to drive the poison further into my system only to break out in worse form on other portions of my body. Three months ago I began taking Swift's Specific, and it has cured me sound and well. It is the greatest blessing which has come to mankind in years.

A triple source of happiness:—a good business, a contented mind and a bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

You Can Have It.

"My dear, what would I give to have your hair?" is often said by middle-aged ladies to young ones. Madam, you may have just such hair. Parker's Hair Balsam will give it to you. It will stop your hair from falling off, restore the original color and make it long, thick, soft and glossy. You need not stand helplessly envying the girls. The balsam is not oily, not a dye, but is an elegant dressing, and is especially recommended for its cleanliness and purity.

A Noted Ruffian Passed On.

Isaiah Rynders, the once famous democratic leader of New York city, died suddenly a few days since at the age of eighty years. From about 1832 up to the secession of the republican party to power, few men were more notorious than Isaiah Rynders, who was the idol of the New York slums, and for years was United States marshal of New York; he was a fighting-man, a "sporting man," a noted leader in the old volunteer fire department of the city, and unequalled as a breaker-up of abolition meetings. When the republicans took control of the government Rynder was of course displaced from the office which he disgraced, and for the past twenty-four years has been but little heard of.

Campaigning in the Desert.

The Soudan correspondent of the London Standard sends the following despatch from Howenhatks: "The difficulty of the desert march is immense. The column starts at two A. M., and the march continues the whole day. We are going to Gakdul via the Abuhalfa wells, where we hope to find sufficient water for the men and camels. A small party left on guard at Howeliyatt was fired on to-night, but otherwise we have not been molested. Small parties of Arabs, wearing the Mahdi's uniform, are roaming the desert, yet some sell us sheep and assert that there are only a few rebels at Metemmey. The heat is very trying. The camels have been sixty hours without water. The men are allowed two pints daily. The water is in a condition resembling pea soup. Soldiers freely offer $1 for a tumbler full. If the Arabs in active hostility had rendered the desert route impassible it would have been necessary for us to carry every ounce of food and water necessary for both men and animals."

Justice Drake Resigned.

Chief Justice Charles D. Drake, of the court of claims, who has resigned and whose resignation has been accepted, is nearly seventy-four years old, and retires from the bench with the full salary ($5000) of his office. Justice Drake says that he thought it best to retire before his mental powers began to decay and advancing years rendered him unfit for the arduous duties of the office of chief justice of the court of claims, which position he has filled since 1871.

The president on the 15th inst. sent to the senate the nomination of Wm. A. Richardson to be chief justice of the court of claims, vice Drake, resigned, and of John Davis to be an associate justice of the court of claims, vice Richardson. John Davis is the present assistant secretary of state.

The Mormon church newspaper organ at Salt Lake City, Utah, has had articles recently, urging the assassination of United States marshals who attempt to serve warrants on polygamists by entering their houses, or to serve subpœnas for witnesses. It is now said that this policy has been decided on, and to that end a large number of Mormon special policemen have been sworn in to guard the houses of polygamists against alleged intruders.

John Hurley and Robert Thompson, two tramps who were given lodgings in the station on Wednesday night, got drunk on Thursday and were locked up that night to await trial. They were assessed $9.90 each, fine and costs, which they will "work" out at Brentwood, no doubt greatly to their satisfaction.

Don't forget the base-ball exhibition at the Portsmouth rink this evening by the Wright & Ditson team of base-ball professionals, to be followed by a game of polo between the visitors and the Portsmouth club.

A revival is in progress at the Freewill Baptist church at Kittery Point, in charge of Rev. C. M. Anderson, the recently ordained pastor. Rev. J. D. Waldron of this city is assisting. The meetings have been holden during the last three weeks, and will continue a week or ten days longer. Great interest is taken in the work.

Mrs. Newhall, the eminent Boston costumer, will be at the Portsmouth Rink on Tuesday and Wednesday next to furnish costumes for the grand masquerade and skating carnival Wednesday evening.

It is said that Mr. Reuben E. Gilpatrick of Christian Shore, this city, artist in colors, tree agent, etc., is now one of the heavy guns of the Salvation Army in Dover, and shouts "hallelujah" in a style to make the crows anxious over in the next county. The Dover papers warn us that the army will invade this city shortly.

Mr. George Wallace Pickering is building a good house on the Dover road in Newington, near Gravelly Ridge, which is approaching toward completion, and the exterior has already been painted in a color pleasing to the eye. The work has been done mainly by the proprietor, and the location is on one of the most picturesque spots in a distant view of the deep Piscataqua. Mr. Pickering being a bachelor, is very reticent about his future intentions; but some people think he is building a cage before he catches the bird." He has the sobriquet of "Colonel," supposed to have been inherited from Colonel Jos. Warren Pickering, his father, who was well and honorably known in the business circles of Portsmouth many years ago.

The houses of Herbert Briggs, Rosa Briggs and E. F. Andrews in Dighton, Mass., were entered Thursday night by burglars. A small amount of money was obtained from the two first named. Chloroform was used.

A train from Alton Bay for Dover, while going at full speed Thursday, struck Edward J. Skelley, a deaf mute of Rochester, at Horne's Hill. When the train stopped Skelley was found piled up on the cowcatcher, but little injured.

PORTSMOUTH HISTORY.

We shall publish in Monday's Chronicle "Portsmouth in the New Hampshire Legislature for a Hundred Years, 1784—1884," by William H. Gardiner, A. M., —the most interesting and valuable historical paper published in any Portsmouth journal for years. It will also appear in the New Hampshire Gazette of next week.

COL. INGERSOLL'S LECTURE.

Notwithstanding the stormy weather on Friday evening about 500 persons assembled in Music hall to hear Col. Ingersoll discourse on "Orthodoxy," and for two hours listened to the most remarkable lecture delivered in this city within our memory. We shall refer to it more at length hereafter.

"THE MODERN PREACHER,"

A sermon preached at the South Parish church in this city on the 18th of October last, by the pastor, Rev. Alfred Gooding, has been printed at the instance of some of the parishioners, and copies can be found on sale at the bookstores of Mr. Knight, the printer of the discourse, and Mr. M. Goodrich; price ten cents.

As the initial sermon of the new pastor of the parish, and a true statement of the change which has occurred within the past half-century in the relations between preacher and congregation, this publication is of value, and commends itself to the perusal of pastor and people of whatever denomination of Christians.

THE ELIOT BRIDGE CO.

The stockholders of the Eliot Bridge company met in Dover on the 13th inst., and elected the following directors: John Bracewell of North Adams, Mass.; Chas. H. Sawyer, Chas. W. Woodman, James E. Lothrop, of Dover; John E. Staples, of York; Sylvester Bartlett, of Eliot. The Treasurer's report shows:

Cash on hand January, 1884,	$470.48
Collected during the year,	716.67
	$1,187.15
Amount paid out,	773.00
Balance on hand,	$414.15.

A dividend of four per cent was declared.

There passed over the bridge during the year 1884 the following: Market wagons, at eight cents toll each, 4556; carriages, at ten cents each, 2682; carriages, (double,) at fifteen and twenty cents each, 127; carts, at twelve cents each, 424: cattle, horses and sheep, at one cent each, 450.

OBSTRUCTING A HIGHWAY.

Hon. James W. Emery, the oldest member of the bar in Portsmouth, N. H., and formerly president of the Cambridge horse railroad, has a suit against the Eastern railroad company, which is to be tried this month before the supreme court for Rockingham county. Mr. Emery, whose residence is the Cutts mansion in Portsmouth, is obliged to pass over a grade crossing every time he goes to his office. One cold night, with his family, he was kept waiting for a long time by a freight train standing on the track which crosses Vaughan street. This had been so frequent a source of annoyance that Mr. Emery took out his watch and made note of the time he was delayed. By the law of New Hampshire, it is provided that no proprietors of a railroad shall obstruct by their engines, cars or train any highway more than two minutes at one time, under penalty of $20 for each offence to the party delayed thereby. Mr. Emery has engaged General Marston of Exeter as counsel to try the case.—Boston Transcript.

The Portsmouth Fireman's Relief Fund Association on Wednesday of this week elected George A. Jackson president, Horace Mudge vice president, William S. Hazel secretary, Willard J. Sampson treasurer; Willard M. Gray, steamer No. 2, Henry Kenniston, steamer No. 3, Warren Holmes, steamer No. 4, and John E. Harmon, of the board of engineers, directors. The treasurer's report gives the balance on hand from last year at $1898.08; received during the year, $73.20; expended, $51.50; balance on hand Jan. 14th, $1927.78. Any member of the Portsmouth fire department can become a member by paying one dollar a year, in two payments, and in the event of sickness incurred in the line of duty, receives $5 per week while the disability lasts.

Capt. Frank Coleman, late of the schooner Emily A. Staples, which vessel is now laid up at Boston, has been passing the last three weeks with his family at his farm on the Dover road in Newington, one-half mile from Gravelly Ridge. The "Staples" has been known as a successful brick carrier on the Piscataqua for the last eight years, occasionally carrying heavy freights from other ports. Her last trip of the late season was made from the Kennebec to Malden, Mass., with quartz, which is there crushed for the manufacture of sand paper. During the last sixteen years Captain Coleman has commanded two vessels sailing out of this port. He first made up his mind that he would have the schooner D. K. Ham, and he sailed her for eight years to the satisfaction of her owners. He then concluded that he would like the command of his last vessel, which was given to him. He determined he would own the pleasant place upon which he now resides, and he purchased it. He intended to have his present wife, and she had him. Now he wishes for a large coal schooner of about 300 tons, and it is reported that he has her.

Mr. Ira Whidden, of Newington, now twenty-four years of age, and who has sailed as mate continuously with Capt. Frank Coleman in the schooner Emily A. Staples for the last six years, is at home with his mother at the homestead not far from the Dover point bridge, whence his father carried on the ice business in Portsmouth successfully for many years. It is reported now that Mr. Whidden will retire from Neptune's domains, and settle on terra firma.

The United States tug Rocket left the Boston navy yard for this port on the morning of Thursday, the 15th inst., with forty-five men for the U. S. S. Marion, and not having arrived nor been heard from up to 8:30 o'clock Friday morning, at that hour the tug Leyden started from this yard under command of Comdr. Francis M. Green, navigation officer at the yard, in search of the overdue steamer. Not long after she started a despatch was received stating that the Rocket was safely anchored in Gloucester, Mass., harbor, where it was thought very likely the Leyden also would put in.

A red oak floor laid six years ago in one of the commodious rooms of Winthrop P. Hoyt's farm-house on Dover road, Newington, two miles from the Portsmouth line, shows no signs of wear yet. The timber from which the planks were constructed was cut near by, and the logs were sawed and planed at Daniel Mason's mill in Portsmouth. The floor has simply been oiled in all this time, and the graining shows that Nature cannot be surpassed by any artist.

The farm buildings of Mr. George A. Murray at Gravelly Ridge, which were destroyed by fire a year ago, have been replaced on a more extensive scale, and are now nearly finished.

Mr. Douglas Frazer, the former joint auditor of the Boston & Maine and Eastern railroads, has been appointed assistant to General Manager Furber of the Boston & Maine, vice Lucius Tuttle, resigned.

Two years ago last November Judge Craig of Alabama was elected to the 48th Congress from the fourth Alabama district, as a republican. There was no question as to his election, but because he was a republican the certificate of election was given to his democratic competitor, Shelley. Early in the last session every member of the house elections committee was convinced that Shelley had no shadow of right to the seat he occupied, and so clear was the case of Judge Craig that the consideration of the case, when it came up in the house on the 15th inst., did not occupy the house ten minutes, when he was given his seat. But he was kept out of that seat for twenty-two months, because he was a republican, and a democrat who was known not to have been elected wanted the place.

The Earl of Aylesford, who was the boon companion of the Prince of Wales, and accompanied the prince in his tour around the world, died suddenly a few days ago on his cattle ranch in Texas. Last year the earl when in England got into a drunken row at a railway station, and had a leg broken; on the same visit home he sold his estate at Aylesford, for which he received nearly $500,000. His wife, Lady Aylesford, has since 1876 been living with the Duke of Marlborough as his mistress, and about three years ago presented her paramour with a son. The earl attempted to get a divorce, but the researches of the queen's proctor exposed so much immorality on both sides as to show that neither was entitled to relief from the courts. The earl was very popular in the section of Texas where he lived.

A New Serial Story,

By F. C. BAYLOR,

IS COMMENCED IN THIS NUMBER.

Several chapters of MARY AGNES TINCKER'S charming story, AURORA, with a frontispiece, also appear, together with other Short Stories, Poems, and Articles of Interest on a Current Topics.

PROSPECTUS FOR 1885.

Among the chief periodicals of the country, LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE has acquired the distinctive reputation of being "eminently readable."

Arrangements have been made for many contributions of special interest during the coming year. Among these particular attention is invited to a serial story entitled "ON THIS SIDE," by F. C. Baylor, author of "The Perfect Treasure" (commenced in the January number) in which the experiences of an English baronet and his friends during a tour through the United States are related with a mirth-provoking humor, a knowledge and appreciation of national characteristics, and a perfect fairness of tone and freedom from caricature that cannot fail to secure critical approval and wide popularity. Miss Tincker's beautiful novel, "Aurora," will be completed in the summer, and will be followed by several stories in two or more parts, including "The Lady Lawyer's First Client," by the author of "A Later Day Saint."

Sketches of Italian Life, by Mrs. Laurt Thompson, an account of the Pioneers of Tennessee, by "Edmund Kirke," a narrative of the experiences of a Steerage Passenger to and from Liverpool, by Thomas Wharton, an article on Queen Anne, or Free Classic Architecture, by George C. Mason, Jr., and a Comedy for private theatricals, by James Payn, will be published in early numbers, together with the usual variety of short stories and articles of general interest by popular writers.

Modern Science and Skepticism

What has Skepticism done for the world?

Nothing but to suggest doubts. It has even suggested that Rheumatism cannot be cured. Skepticism is as bad as Rheumatism.

What has Science done for the world?

A good many things; for instance, it has shown that Rheumatism can be cured.

It has shown that Neuralgia can be got rid of.

Modern science has proved that Rheumatism is a blood disease, and has provided ATHLOPHOROS as the remedy which can completely cure it.

It has proved that although the old doctors failed to overcome Neuralgia, ATHLOPHOROS can reach it, and eradicate it from the system.

It has proved that though these tormenting diseases were so slow and obstinate, they can be overcome in a little while by means of Athlophoros !

Don't be skeptical. If you have any doubts as to what ATHLOPHOROS can do, write to some of those whom it has cured. For instance, Rev. S. R. Dennen, D. D., Pastor Third Congregational Church, of New Haven, Conn., the Rev. W. P. Corbit, pastor George St. M. E. Church, of New Haven, the Rev. J. E. Searles, pastor Willett St. M. E. Church, New York city. Mr. Brummell, the well known candy manufacturer, of New York, Ex-Gov. Ingersoll, of Connecticut, and many others, equally well known.

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practioners with whom I have had official intercourse." CHAS. MASON, Commissioner of Patents.

"Inventors cannot employ a person more trustworthy or more capable of securing for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office." EDMUND BURKE, late Commissioner of Patents.

BOSTON, October 19, 1870.

R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: You procured for me, in 1860, my first patent. Since then you have acted for me in obtaining a hundred of cases, and procured many patents, reissues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business, in your line, and advise others to employ you.

Life is too short to try half a dozen different kinds of "sure cures;" when one suffers with a cough or cold stick to the best and use Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup; it will cure your cough and never disappoint you. All druggists sell it at twenty-five cents a bottle.

A despatch of the 15th from Pittsburg, Penn., says: "The discovery to-day of the bodies of four infants, ranging in age from one to three years, which were buried near the big rock bridge in the lower end of the city, has created great excitement. The bodies were found in rough boxes, and one, at least, has been recently buried."

A Vital Fluid.

The blood, when impure, is the source of most, if not all, diseases that mankind is afflicted with. It is then important that we should care well for this vital fluid. Wetherell's Sarsaparilla will purify the blood and keep it pure. One dollar per bottle. Six for $5. Sold by druggists.

Congress has passed a bill to refer the French spoliations claims to the court of claims for examination and report.

The First Keen Twinge.

As the season advances, the pains and aches by which rheumatism makes itself known, are experienced after every exposure. It is not claimed that Hood's Sarsaparilla is a specific for rheumatism—we doubt if there is, or can be, such a remedy. But the thousands benefitted by Hood's Sarsaparilla, warrant us in urging others who suffer from rheumatism to take it before the first keen twinge.

Commander Henry H. Gorringe is seriously ill and in a critical condition in his rooms at Benedict hotel, New York. He is suffering from concussion of the spine brought on by falling from a car some time ago.

I found it a sure cure. I have been troubled with catarrhal deafness for seven or eight years with a roaring noise in my head. I bought medicine in thirteen states but nothing helped me till I procured a bottle of Ely's Cream Balm. In four days I could hear well as ever. I am cured of the Catarrh as well. I consider Ely's Cream Balm the best medicine ever made. GARRETT WIDRICK, Hastings, N. Y.

Last year Massachusetts enjoyed almost a total immunity from small-pox, but nine cases, with one death, having been known to occur, which is less than for any year since 1844.

Don't Give Up Yet.

It doesn't follow that a patient will die because the doctors have "given him up," or that he will recover because they promise to "pull him through." It is never too late to try the great virtues of Parker's Tonic. Mr Michael Guilfoyle, of Binghampton, N. Y., was cured of rheumatism by it after ten years of unspeakable suffering. Mr. R. W. Mosher, druggist, of same city, certifies that he has sold over a thousand bottles of Parker's Tonic through its reputation for this and other cures.

Minola.

Queen Minola!
Your slumbrous eyes, and ebon, wavy hair
Hold all my soul enthralled within a snare
So intricate that human hands never weave
With warp and woof one-half so strange as this,
That finds my love, while I must live to miss
Your face—and missing, ever grieve.
Minola!

Loved Minola!
Touch lips with mine before we rend apart
The tight that binds us, darling, heart to heart
And soul to soul. Good-by! love's bitter sweet!
If God had given you a fairer face,
And me the wealth of all the human race,
No thorns should lie beneath your dainty feet,
Minola!

Sad Minola!
The taint is but a single drop to untold seas—
The little sin, that on her bended knees
Some saintly nun asks Christ to wash away!
But, were it not a little—a little as small—
Its faintest tinge must ever be the wall
That hides our heaven from the light of day,
Minola!

Dear Minola!
Strong hands and pitiless have forged the chain
That bound your race. What might we gain,
If on some desert island, hidden yet,
He should be cast, with only love to guide?
True, I might claim you, sweetheart, for my bride;
But all the greater world must then forget
Minola!

Lost Minola!
You were unto my life as dawn to day—
The softened touch of moonlight on the bay—
The echo of a mother's lullaby—
A dream of heaven, wrought of all the bliss
The earth lost when that last fierce kiss
Had died upon our lips with our good-by,
Minola!

A THRILLING STORY.

As Told by a Merchant in Troy, N. Y.—A Surgical Operation Avoided—How a Father, Wife and Daughter Escaped an Awful Doom.

Of the hundreds of accounts of remarkable cures wrought by DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, none have appeared so purely astonishing as the following: The persons mentioned are among the most highly re-pected in the city of Troy, and the story as told by the father will prove interesting to all our readers.—ED.

TROY, N. Y.

Dr. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:

DEAR SIR: My daughter was afflicted with a severe growth of Fungus. To remove it we had resorted to almost every remedy and consulted the most prominent surgeons and physicians. Dr. ——, of Troy, said that a surgical operation would be necessary, but fearing its ai results I hesitated. Some of the physicians claimed that it was caused by one thing and some by another. The Fungus was prominent and disfigured her looks. Having heard of Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY working so thoroughly on the blood I determined to try it, to see if this medicine could do what doctors had failed to do and surgeons had hardly dared to undertake. I can say in truth that the result of the trial was the complete cure of my daughter of this dreadful malady. Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY alone effected it. We tried many other, for other things had completely failed. My daughter today enjoys vigorous health and to Favorite Remedy alone is the credit due. My wife also was very poor in health, due to some liver difficulty with which she had suffered a long time until she became very much reduced in flesh. A trial of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy has resulted in the complete restoration of her health, which she had not enjoyed for years past, she has gained in flesh and strength, and thus secured perfect health, and this is DUE ENTIRELY TO DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY. As for myself, being engaged in the grocery and commission business, which makes it necessary for me to test the quality of different articles, like butter, etc., my sense of taste and my stomach were seriously injured. Everything seemed to nauseate me, and fearful of dyspepsia in its most severe form, I tried DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY. The first bottle afforded immediate relief, and from that day to this I can say that Favorite Remedy has restored me to perfect health. These are facts which I claim prove that Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is the best medicine in the world for those afflicted with the above difficulties. If any one in the city of Troy doubts the truth of these statements let him come to me and I will prove them. I have recommended Favorite Remedy to hundreds and with the same good results.

Yours, etc., WILLIAM WINDSOR.

Prices of Store Cattle—Working oxen ⅌ pair, from $190 @ $225; Milch cows and calves from $20, $37 @ $48; Farrow cows, $15 @ $31; Fancy cows, $50 @ $60; yearlings, $10 @ $20; two-years-old, $16 @ $30; three-years-old, $24 @ $32.

Swine—Western fat, live, 4¾ @ 5c ⅌ lb; dressed, 6¼c ⅌ lb. Northern dressed hogs 5¾c ⅌ lb.

Prices of Sheep and Lambs—In lots, $1 50, $3 00 @ $4 00 each; extra, $5 00 @ $5 50, or from 1¼ @ 5½c ⅌ lb.

Veal calves 2¼ @ 7½c ⅌ lb.

Prices of Hides, Tallow and Skins—Brighton hides, 7 @ 7½c ⅌ lb; Brighton tallow, 5¼ @ 6¼c ⅌ lb; country hides, 6 @ 7c ⅌ lb; country tallow, 3½ @ 4c ⅌ lb; pelts, 50 @ 95c each; calf skins, 10c ⅌ lb; dairy skins, 50 @ 75c each.

There were considerable many buyers at Watertown, which gave a better tone to the market and firm prices. According to quality we do not consider the market rates in any way improved, and 9¼c dead weight was considered the top of the market, at much of the stock changed hands from 7 @ 8½c ⅌ lb, dead weight, unless very slim oxen; mostly from 8 @ 8½c ⅌ lb.

Milch cows were in fair supply, with no change in rates from $2 @ $70 mostly.

The Sheep Call—The supply was sufficient for the demand, with sales very firm at last week's rates. The trade opened slow, for the reason that sellers and buyers did not seem to agree upon price. Some bids were not consider it very respectable, even below last week's figures, but actual sales would range as last quoted. These were a few very fine flocks taken to kill that would probably reach 5¾c ⅌ lb.

Hogs—Rates firm at 4¾ @ 5c live, on western lots.

Veal calves sold at full prices as quoted.

Live poultry at 9 @ 10c on mixed lots, with nearly ½ ton offered.

NOW USE WETHERELL'S SARSAPARILLA WITH IODIDE POTASSIUM

INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM

I was attacked last winter with inflammatory rheumatism of severe type—my first serious illness since 1876. I had various kinds of treatment with only temporary partial relief. After seven weeks I was reduced in weight 35 pounds, had no strength or appetite, and was growing weaker every day. In this condition I began Swift's Specific, and in three days began to improve, and in three weeks I was free from disease and up attending to my regular business. My appetite returned and I rapidly gained my flesh. I have waited this long to be sure that my cure was permanent.

WINTER IN CALIFORNIA.

How It Differs from Winter in New England.

After Thanksgiving, winter. In the Atlantic states, east of the Hudson, good sleighing is expected at this date. Here nothing more than a few white frosts indicate the winter has come. There have been frosts in the lowlands during the past week. Last night the frost crept up on the hillside a little. The crystals lay on the plank sidewalks in the suburban towns, and sparkled as the rays of the rising sun touched them. For a moment or two there were millions of diamonds, then small drops of water, and then nothing. But the frost makes crisp mornings, and a coal or wood fire most enjoyable morning, and evening—the wood fire especially. Moreover, the frosts help to color the foliage, although in this country the deciduous trees drop the greater part of their foliage before the frosts come. The soft maples, elms, white birches, and locust trees, which have been naturalized here, for the most part, have cast their leaves. Yet the maples take on a wealth of color before the leaves fall; so the frosts do not do all the coloring. Even the eucalyptus, which casts its leaves at midsummer and continues dropping them until late in the autumn, has a wealth of color which is hardly noticed. The coniferous trees prevail so largely in California that the high colors of deciduous trees which grow on the hillsides and mountain slopes of eastern states are rarely seen here. Yet in every dell after the first frosts have come in this latitude, one may find patches of color shading off from gold to scarlet, with a great many subdued tones, which artists, who are good colorists, do not fail to notice.

The first rains have already come. But the winter rains have not yet appeared. There is a sort of hush between the autumn and winter. If one goes to the wood, he will hear hardly any other sound than that of the harsh and obstreperous bluejay. Here and there will be a tapping on the trunks, and an occasional squirrel descends to see what provision in the way of acorns there may yet be left on the ground. In the open, where the ground is soft, there are the tracks of the sneaking coyote. Even owls cease in a measure to hoot in the winter season, and the mournful sound of doves has altogether ceased. A great silence has fallen upon the woods. There is hardly a singing bird. The linnets in the suburban gardens, which two months ago were so active in feasting on the ripe fruit, beginning even earlier with cherries, and continuing until the last ripe pear had disappeared, have become silent also. No more songs and no more depredations, for the good reason that there is nothing to steal, and the pairing season has not begun. The white frosts are the fitting introduction of winter. They precede the heavier rains.

The trade winds have died out. They will not prevail in this latitude before the middle of next May. Some are unlucky enough to say that it is a pity that they should ever prevail. But these winds are the Lord's scavengers, sent up as so many messengers from the salt ocean to deliver the city from plagues and pestilence. San Francisco has not been a clean city from the day of its foundation. There is Oriental dirt. It has come to be a foreign city. Merchandise fills the sidewalks, and in many places crowds the pedestrian into the street. Offal is thrown there. The six months' trade winds of summer and the six months' rain are the two sanitary agents which keep watch and ward over the city. The most dangerous weeks of the year, on the score of health, are those when neither the trade winds nor the rains prevail. The winter season being less pronounced in this latitude, there is less disposition to store up anything. All the season is open, and even now the bees are making honey, or are going to rob other hives. For in this state even the bees have caught the spirit of the monopolist. They get a part of their honey honestly, and, as to the rest, they do not scruple to get it dishonestly.—San Francisco Bulletin.

Ways of Telling a Man He Lies.

That a man who lies is a liar admits of no doubt; but the time was not far distant when it was considered advisable to give expression to the fact, when applied directly to the individual, with something of prudent euphonism in the choice of the particular form of words chosen for the occasion. Many delicate methods of getting around the difficulty are suggested them to ingenious and inventive minds. A man suspected of untruthfulness has been characterized as one "who says more than his prayers;" whose word is "not exactly gospel truth;" whose "methods of stating a fact are not in logical harmony with the strictest demands of veracity;" whose "practical sympathies with the leading characteristics of Ananias' views of truth is unquestioned," and so on. But we have entered upon an era in which these polite methods describing mendacity are deemed weak, unsatisfactory and superfluously polite. "Hence the word "liar" has come into general use, and is handled from one end of the land to the other, and with a frequency that promises to deprive it of the emphasis it has hitherto enjoyed by making it too common.—Boston Gazette.

It was formerly a common superstition that toothache was caused by a little worm, having the form of an eel, which gradually gnawed a hole in a tooth.

THE BEST COUGH CURE | PULMOCINE

Mr. Murdock Mackenzie, Highlands, Carleton county, New Brunswick, testifies that St. Jacobs Oil, the great pain-cure, completely cured him of acute rheumatism of long standing, and also his wife of face neuralgia and toothache.

—"Now your talk has the true ring," said the girl to her lover when he began to speak of a diamond circlet.

One in three, says the late Dr. Clendening, show symptoms of heart disease. Why not use DR. GRAVES' HEART REGULATOR, it has cured thousands, why not you? $1.00 per bottle. Free pamphlet of F. E. Ingalls, Cambridge, Mass.

—The occasion of a public banquet in a small town is looked upon as a red-letter night. Lots of letters are read from distinguished men who did not intend to come.

"Rheumatism settled in my right hip, the pain was very severe, took Athlophoros and was entirely cured." Lyman Judd, New Haven.

—Little Dick—"What are those animals in that big window?" Mamma—"That is a fur store window, and the animals are seals and bears." "Are they alive?" "Oh, no. They were shot and stuffed, and then stood up to look as if were alive." "Who are those ladies in the window by them, mamma?" "They are dressed-up figures, to show the new styles in furs." "Ain't the ladies alive?" "No, pet." "Were they shot and stuffed, too?"

A fine whiskey—mellowed by age and guaranteed pure—is the "G. O. Taylor Old Bourbon." See that it has the signature of Chester H. Graves & Sons over the cork. Buy it of your druggist or grocer.

A SPOOK.

Excitement among the citizens of ward one over the usual nightly appearance there of a figure, of what is supposed to be a man clad in woman's dress, is on the increase. One night of the latter part of last week a muscular son of Vulcan, while peaceably retiring to his home, no one else being seen on the street, was pursued by it up Vaughan street, and barely made his escape after being clutched by the skirts of his coat, into a neighboring saloon; after gaining a little Dutch courage he sallied forth with friends in search of his pursuer, who suddenly disappeared as if in mid-air. A son of Mars residing on Christian shore, and who has the reputation of having been a brave soldier during the late unpleasantness, is afraid to cross the north mill-bridge on his way home, nights, except under escort. The figure appears and disappears so rapidly that some assert it must be an apparition.

AROUND HOME.

The Portsmouth Machine Co. are to put a steam heating apparatus in the large store No. 3 Congress street, owned by Chas. H. Mendum, Esq.

The tug Knickerbocker, Blair master, arrived at this port on Sunday from Portland, on her way to Boston, having in tow a scow that is at Boston to be loaded on some sailing vessel bound for the Rio de la Plata, to be there used for conveying logwood down the river.

The funeral ceremonies over the remains of the late Mabel F. Emery were held at the residence of her mother on Union street, Saturday afternoon. There was a very large concourse of friends and relatives present, and the high school class of '85 attended in a body. Rev. J. F. Robins and Rev. H. E. Hovey officiated. There were many floral tributes sent by friends, and the high school class of '85, of which Miss Emery was a member, sent a handsome wreath. The remains were buied in the burial lot of her grandfather at the south cemetery.

The committee on pensions of the national house of representatives last week reported a bill granting a pension of $50 per month to the widow of Comdr. S. Dana Greene, who died at the Portsmouth navy yard a few months ago.

Hi. Henry's Premium Minstrels are to be at Music hall next Saturday evening. The Lowell News says of their visit to that city: "Their entertainment was unanimously pronounced the best of its kind that has been given here for years. The programme was replete with novelties. The choruses were well sung and the single acts were all first-class."

The Red Stocking base ball club, an organization of young men in this city, have arranged for a series of social assemblies. It was their intention to have these parties in Mechanics' hall, but they have sold so many tickets they have secured Congress hall. The first of the series will take place on the evening of Wednesday, Jan. 21st.

In the river and harbor bill, as finally agreed on by the house committee, the appropriation for improvements in Portsmouth harbor is $10,000.

Messrs. W. J. Sampson & Co. have a large force of painters at work on the new block of buildings at Dover built by Messrs. Jones, Winchester & Walker. The work is being done under contracts partly from Mr. John E. Giddings, the contractor for the building, and partly from the owners of the block. The steam heating apparatus is being put in by the Portsmouth Machine Co., which under the new agent, Mr. Carmen, has supplied the Catholic Seminary with steam heating, and is doing a large business in this speciality.

The new music at the Portsmouth skating rink is greatly superior to the old, and is highly appreciated by the numerous patrons of the rink,—the said patrons having become so numerous, by the way, that the management has decided to add another evening (Thursday) to those heretofore known as "rink nights;" music every evening. The game of polo, Saturday evening, between the Wright & Ditson club of professional base-ball players, of Boston, and the Portsmouth polo club, was won by the visitors, four goals to two; previous to the polo game an exhibition of base-ball pitching, base-running, etc., was given by the Wright & Ditson team, and was greatly appreciated by the many lovers of the national game who were present.

Rev. A. L. Morey, pastor of the Congregational church in Hampton, has resigned his pastorate to accept the presidency of Ridgeville college, Indiana.

True M. Prescott and wife, of Hampton Falls, celebrated their golden wedding last week.

The Dover Democrat of last Friday said: "The foghorn at Whalesback lighthouse in Portsmouth harbor—fifteen miles from here—was plainly heard tooting in this city this afternoon."

The Rockingham County Temperance association meets on Thursday of this week at South Newmarket.

York county had 155 prisoners in its jail last year, 118 of whom were sentenced from Biddeford. Saco, with only 5000 less population, sent only eleven prisoners.

Mrs. Marion W. Emery has been appointed post-mistress of the office in Sanford, in place of Hon. I. Sumner Kimball, resigned.

Edwin Booth will play Iago to Mr. Barron's Othello, supported by the Boston Museum Co., in Manchester on the 25th of February, if tickets enough can be sold at $2, $1.50, $1.00, seventy-five cents, etc. The sale begins this morning. Thirty days and more is a good while to wait before the curtain goes up, after buying a ticket.

News and Notes.

In the senate on the 16th inst. a message from the house of representatives was received, announcing the disagreement of that body to the senate amendments to the temporary naval appropriation, and asking for a conference, which request was granted, and the chair appointed conferees.

A despatch of Jan. 16th from Panama, Central America, says: "A revolution is progressing in five states of Columbia. Barranquilla has been captured and is held by the rebels. Carthagena was captured on Jan. 13th, and was retaken by the national force yesterday. Troops have been sent to assist in the attack on Barranquilla, and another detachment has been sent to Bueno Ventura to assist in the restoration of order there. Affairs at Cacica and Panama are quiet, and the national force is sufficient to maintain order should a revolt or riot occur. The situation is uneasy. There is no foreign man-of-war to maintain order."

The British steamer Admiral Moorsom, running between Dublin, Ireland, and Holyhead, Wales, was sunk Jan. 15th by collision with the American ship Santa Clara; twelve of the crew and four passengers were drowned.

Rear Admiral S. P. Quackenbush will be placed on the retired list on Jan. 23d, and Commodore J. R. Franklin will be promoted to the grade of rear admiral. Rear Admiral E. T. Nichols, chief of the bureau of yards and docks, will be retired March 1st, and Commodore E. Y. McCauley will be promoted to the grade of rear admiral. These changes will promote Capt. D. L. Braine to the rank of commodore, and Commander H. L. Howison to the rank of captain.

The Salvation Army claims to have converted 482 persons in Saco, Me.

PROBABLY NEVER

In the history of proprietary medicines has any article met success at home equal to that which has been poured upon Hood's SARSAPARILLA. Why, such has been the success of this article, that nearly every family in whole neighborhoods have been taking it at the same time. Every week brings new evidence of the wonderful curative properties of this medicine.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Combines the BEST Remedies of the vegetable kingdom, and in such proportion as to derive their greatest medicinal effects with the least disturbance to the whole system. In fact this preparation is so well balanced in its action upon the alimentary canal, the liver, the kidneys, the stomach, the bowels and the circulation of the blood, that it brings about a healthy action of the entire human organism, that can hardly be credited by those who have not seen the remarkable results that have followed its use. If the Sarsaparilla does not prove sufficiently laxative, take a few doses of HOOD'S VEGETABLE PILLS. It is well in all cases of biliousness to take these pills in connection with the Sarsaparilla for the first ten days. That dull, sleepy, sick feeling can be wholly overcome by the use of these remedies. Will you give them a trial and be yourself again?

An ex-alderman of this city says of Hood's Sarsaparilla, "It is the strongest Sarsaparilla I ever saw."

Each dollar bottle contains one hundred (averages) doses. Sold by all druggists.
Price one dollar, or six for five dollars.

PORTSMOUTH

— IN THE —

New Hampshire Legislature

— FOR —

A HUNDRED YEARS.

1784--1884.

— BY —

WM. H. GARDINER, A. M.

Having occasion to refer to the Journals of the Senate and House of Representatives of New Hampshire in the preparation of another historical article I at the same time made notes for this one. I have found upon inquiry orally and by writing that there is no complete list of the members of the Senate and House in the New Hampshire Legislature from Portsmouth. Accordingly, to complete the history of our "Old Town by the Sea," I present to your readers the results of my labors. If any errors are noticed I shall be grateful if they are pointed out so that this record may be made correct as well as complete.

In the lists given below all members of the Senate previous to the session of 1855 are dead, and of the House all members previous to 1836 are dead, and in both bodies after these dates wherever the name of a dead member appears it is indicated by a *.

To some readers there may appear some discrepancies in the spelling of proper names. I have followed the spelling given in the Journals.

I have also followed the order given in the Journals in giving the names of the representatives rather than arrange them alphabetically each year. This arrangement will give the clue to the persons first chosen each year in former years.

In 1850 the names appear by wards for the first time, and from that time until 1875 (with the exception of the years 1856, 1857, 1858, 1859, when they appear without any wards) they are given in three wards; in 1875 and 1876 they appear in seven wards; from 1877 they appear in four wards.

COL. INGERSOLL'S LECTURE.

Whether those who regard the eloquent free-thinker as a blasphemous orator considered it a special providence that the elements were abroad in full force on Friday night we wot not. The audience present, however, by their liberal applause evinced their gratification at the manner in which the gifted speaker discussed his subject throughout the two hours of the lecture. Mr. Ingersoll is logical, witty, convincing, and at the same time candid in all he says. He does not claim to know as to the future, but he states certain propositions, and then claims that pr sent and past facts are irreconcilable with the theories of some who hold to the miracles, the atonement, endless punishment, etc.

The lecture lasted, as we have said, for two hours, during which the audience, as one person, closely followed the lecturer, while many seemed to be in full sympathy with his theories, or rather, his doubts. Much of his unorthodox language, if delivered even as recently as twenty-five years ago, would have shocked some of our people as rank blasphemy, but Col. Ingersoll plainly said these theories of the Orthodox and other similar beliefs cannot be true. They do not accord with the character given of the supreme being. The salvation by atonement, the escape of hell by a conversion of the very bad just before death, the transfiguration and other bible narrations were discussed, and if not disproved, thoroughly doubted. It was the keen, astute lawyer taking nothing on trust, insisting on proof and reason as to principles, to whom we listened and were attracted, while those who by their applause and involuntary exclamations seemed to have been touched to the quick were in goodly numbers in the audience.

The colonel seemed to enjoy giving his lecture, and to partake of no little share of appreciation of the bright sayings with which the lecture bristled throughout. He has a far more attractive face than the bill-boards would lead us to suppose, and as his countenance lights up at a coming good utterance, and the rapid, easy, graceful, winning manner of delivery progresses, he holds his audience well in hand, and seems with apparently no effort to send forth an unceasing flow of logical, attractive and interesting argument. He appeared in neat morning costume, spoke without notes of any kind, and while he had the whole stage of Music hall to himself, appeared also to have the entire audience in sympathy with him. At all events he was given the closest attention, while most generous applause followed his many pungent and piquant sayings.

No report of the lecture does or can do a tithe of justice to the orator. It is his inimitable manner, his candid statement of his doubts,—not his assertions that others are wrong and he knows it and they know it, but his tentative expressions of doubt, that win for him wherever he goes the admiration of almost unlimited audiences.

The United States tug Leyden, which started out on Friday morning to hunt up the tug Rocket, arrived back at the navy yard shortly after noon on Saturday, having on board the forty-five seamen detailed from the receiving-ship Wabash at Boston for the U. S. S. Marion at this yard. The Rocket, which is a little craft of only 127 tons, attached to the Boston navy yard, was under command of Lieut. Comdr. Wm. A. Morgan; she has no accommodations for so many extra men, and meeting bad weather off Cape Ann at noon on the day she left Boston, put into Gloucester harbor, where she was found by the Leyden, and the seamen for the Marion transhipped.

The Parlor skating rink in Franklin hall, which is open every afternoon and evening in the week except Sunday, continues its popularity as a favorite place of resort; the afternoon sessions are from two o'clock to 4:30, the price of admission being only ten cents, which includes the use of skates if desired; evening sessions from seven to ten o'clock, with twenty cents admission, skate checks ten cents extra. The new floor gives entire satisfaction, and Lord & Medcalf's orchestra furnishes music. The utmost case is taken to exclude any and all objectionable persons.

William Stevens died in Salem, Mass., on Wednesday of last week, in the 92d year of his age. He was in the grocery business in Salem for over fifty years, and was highly esteemed by all who knew. He was born in Rye in 1793, and married Mary Loud of this city, with whom he lived happily for fifty-four years; he leaves four daughters and three sons. He served in the war of 1812, as did also James Stevens, his brother, who was for many years a plane-maker in Boston.

Reserved seat tickets for the Masquerade skating party at the Portsmouth skating rink on Wednesday evening, will be on sale at M. Goodrich's bookstore this afternoon.

Rt. Rev. Bishop Niles, of the Episcopal diocese of New Hampshire, will be present at St. John's church in this city, on Septuagesima Sunday, Feb. 8th, for the purpose of administering the rite of confirmation.

IS COMMENCED IN THIS NUMBER.

PROSPECTUS FOR 1885.

Among the chief periodicals of the country, LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE has acquired the distinctive reputation of being "eminently readable." Arrangements have been made for many contributions of special interest during the coming year. Among these particular attention is invited to a serial story entitled "ON THIS SIDE," by F. C. Baylor, author of "The Perfect Treasure" (commenced in the January number) in which the experiences of an English baronet and his friends during a tour through the United States are related with a mirth-provoking humor, a knowledge and appreciation of American characteristics, and a perfect fairness of tone and freedom from caricature that cannot fail to secure critical approval and wide popularity. Miss Tincker's beautiful novel, "Auriora," will be completed in the summer, and will be followed by several stories in two or more parts, including "The Lady Lawyer's First Client," by the author of "A Latter-Day Saint."

Sketches of Italian Life, by Mrs. Launt Thompson, an account of the Pioneers of Tennessee, by "Edmund Kirke," a narrative of the experiences of a Steerage Passenger to and from Liverpool, by Thomas Wharton, an article on Queen Anne, or Free Classic Architecture, by George C. Mason, Jr., and a Comedy for private theatricals, by James Payn, will be exhibited in early numbers, together with the usual variety of short stories and articles of general interest by popular writers.

Lifted Up

A happy surprise it was to Mr. A. E. Norton, of Bristol, Conn., when ATHLOPHOROS put him on his feet, and sent him cheerfully about his business. Let him tell his own story:

"About three weeks ago I was taken with a severe crick in the back. For four days I was unable to turn in bed without help, and when lifted up could not stand on my feet. I was induced to try ATHLOPHOROS, after all the usual remedies failed. In 30 minutes after taking the first dose I could bear my weight upon my feet. In two days I was able to get about and attend to business. In two other cases which have come to my knowledge its use has been attended with the same results."

A poor man in Philadelphia had to borrow a dollar to buy a bottle of ATHLOPHOROS. On account of his poverty his name shall remain a secret. He had suffered terribly from Rheumatism. He gratefully writes:

"I took my first dose Tuesday afternoon, and on Wednesday, after the seven doses, I had not a sharp or severe ache left. Then I reduced the dose one-half and took the remainder of the bottle. I was able to be steady at work till Saturday, when I took a severe cold and was unable to use my left hand. I purchased another bottle and by bedtime I found relief. The medicine is all you claim for it."

Investigate ATHLOPHOROS all you please! Find all the fault you choose with it! and yet the fact remains, that it is doing what no other medicine ever could do for Rheumatism and Neuralgia.

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be permaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.

Mark Twain's scheme to advertise his latest book by getting up a suit-at-law over it before its publication is more ingenious than the actresses' old ruse of having their diamonds stolen. As an adverting dodge it commands the respect due to originality.

The pain and misery suffered by those who are afflicted with dyspepsia are indescribable. The distress of the body is equalled or surpassed by the confusion and tortures of the mind, thus making its victims suffer double affliction. The relief which is given by Hood's Sarsaparilla has caused thousands to be thankful for this great medicine. It dispels the causes of dyspepsia, and tones up the digestive organs. Try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

A THRILLING STORY.
As Told by a Merchant in Troy, N. Y.—A Surgical Operation Avoided—How a Father, Wife and Daughter Escaped an Awful Doom.

Of the hundreds of accounts of remarkable cures wrought by DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, none have appeared so purely astonishing as the following. The persons mentioned are among the most highly respected in the city of Troy, and the story as told by the father will prove interesting to all our readers.—Ed.

TROY, N. Y.

Dr. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:

DEAR SIR: My daughter was afflicted with a severe growth of kidney disease. To cure it we had resorted to almost every remedy and consulted the most prominent surgeons and physicians. Dr. [illegible] of Troy, said that a surgical operation would be necessary, but fearing fatal results I hesitated. Some of the physicians claimed that it was caused by one thing and some by another. The fungus was prominent and disfigured her looks. Having heard of Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY working so thoroughly on the blood I determined to try it, to see if this medicine could do what doctors had failed to do and surgeons had hardly dared to undertake. I can say in truth that the result of the trial was the complete cure of my daughter of this dreadful malady. Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY alone effected it. We used nothing else, for other things had completely failed. My daughter today enjoys vigorous health and to Favorite Remedy alone is the credit due. My wife also was very poor in health, due to some liver difficulty with which she had suffered a long time until she became very much reduced in flesh. A trial of Dr. Kennedy's Favor te Remedy has resulted in the complete restoration of her health, which she had not enjoyed for years. She had gained in flesh and strength, and then enjoyed perfect health, and this is DUE ENTIRELY TO DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY. As for myself, being engaged in the grocery and commission business, which makes it necessary for me to test the quality of different articles, like butter, etc., my sense of taste and my stomach were seriously injured. Everything seemed to nauseate me, and fearful of dyspepsia in its most severe form, I tried DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY. The first bottle afforded immediate relief, and from that day to this I can say that Favorite Remedy has restored me to perfect health. These are facts which I claim prove that Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is the best medicine in the world for those afflicted with the above difficulties. If any one in the city of Troy doubts the truth of these statements let him come to me and I will prove them. I have recommended Favorite Remedy to hundreds and with the same good results.

Yours, etc., WILLIAM WINDSOR.

Miss Oceana Tefft of Providence, R. I., nineteen years old, was buried on Saturday. The deceased was the victim of an accident, resulting from the premature discharge of a toy cartridge-pistol, which she was examining in the house, some two weeks ago. As it failed to respond to the pressure of the hammer, she bent the barrel in order to inspect the cartridge, when the hammer fell suddenly, and the ball lodged in her hand. She received surgical attention, but owing to exposure lockjaw set in, and she died.

If so ask your druggist for Wetherell's Extract of Sarsaparilla. Don't be put off with any substitute for the article you ask for. One dollar a bottle.

A despatch of Jan. 18th, from London, says: "Particulars of the collision between the steamer Admiral Moorsom and ship Santa Clara are coming in slowly. The steamer Falcor, which has arrived at Cork, found the Admiral Moorsom on Friday morning on her beam ends, and rescued three men, one woman and a child. The body of a man was found lying on the deck. There was nobody else on board. The weather was rough, and the Falcon was unable to take the wreck in tow. On Saturday the steamship Lady Woodhouse succeeded in getting lines to the wreck, but during a heavy sea the ropes parted, and the Admiral Moorsom eventually sank. Nothing is known concerning the remainder of the crew not already accounted for. A boat of the Admiral Moorsom, which contained thirteen persons, is still missing. Two men were killed while trying to board the Santa Clara. The total number of dead and missing, including the captain, is sixteen."

INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM

I was attacked last winter with inflammatory rheumatism of severe type—my first serious illness since 1876. I had various kinds of treatment with only temporary partial relief. After seven weeks I was reduced in weight 25 pounds, had no strength or appetite, and was growing weaker every day. In this condition I began Swift's Specific, and in three days began to improve, and in three weeks I was free from disease and up attending to my regular business. My appetite returned and I rapidly gained my flesh. I have waited this long to be certain that my cure was permanent.

A GOD SEND!

I have had rheumatism for forty years, and have been relieved with a few bottles of S. S. S. I consider it a God-send to the afflicted.

RINGS AND BANGLES.

The Extraordinary Decorations Which Dandies are Beginning to Display.

Two men boarded a Broadway car last night at Twenty-first street. Their faces have been familiar in the windows of the Union club for many years. One of them is tall, rather corpulent, and red-faced, and the other is very similar, except that he isn't tall. They sat down stiffly, and looked with owl-like severity at the signs on the roof of the car until they arrived at Delmonico's, where they alighted. The taller of the two wore three rings on the third finger of his left hand, one on the little finger, and two additional rings on his right hand. As he displayed them all by resting his hands on his knees, the other passengers had a good opportunity for examining them. Of the three rings on his left hand, the upper one was of plain silver, but square-edged. The second one was gold. A valuable diamond was set in it, flanked by a huge ruby on either side. The third ring was a wide band of gold with a sapphire imbedded in it. There was a seal ring on the little finger of that hand. Of the two rings on his right hand one was a heavily chased serpent with a diamond in the head and the other was a very thin and delicate plain gold ring. The fat hands of the other man were quite as profusely decorated, and he wore a plain silver bangle on his left wrist. The bangle was riveted on. The spectacle of these two gorgeously bedecked and bejeweled club men drew attention to the fact that the wearing of many finger rings has suddenly become very popular in New York. A jeweler who was subsequently spoken to about the matter said:

"Ten men buy rings now where one bought them a year ago, and they are nearly all of the glove-ring pattern—that is, the stone is not set up from the ring, as is the case with solitaire diamond rings which ladies wear, but it is set in gold on a level with the surface of the ring, so he can draw on his gloves without removing his ring. The fashion came, as all such fashions do, from across the water. The French dandies are in the habit of wearing all sorts of rings, the majority of them being souvenirs from some of their romance escapades. The fashion spread to England, where it flourished two or three years ago. It is no longer considered proper on the other side for men to wear a number of rings unless they are utterly valueless. I have seen men who were undoubtedly entitled to a leading position on the other side who wore five or six rings, the total value of which would not have exceeded $15. One would, perhaps, be a small shell ring bought for a shilling at some seaside resort, kept to commemorate a moonlight stroll, or perhaps something like that; another would be a plain and narrow band of gold twisted from a bangle in a ball-room; a third a little circlet from a child, niece, or sister, and so on throughout. That sort of thing never looked vulgar on the other side, but over here it is likely to arrive at great proportions, and the richer the man the more rings he wears."

"What about the masculine bangle?"

"I believe the duke of Beaufort started the fashion years ago, and it has been continued by a number of American actors, dudes, and fools. It is of all affectations the most effeminate. I am glad to say we have only had three men who desired that sort of ornamentation. The bangle is nearly always of silver and without any embellishment. Two men who recently departed to different and remote quarters of the world came in not long ago and had bracelets riveted on their wrists. They don't expect to meet again for years, so they indulged in this little bit of romance. That was the solidest reason I ever heard of for the masculine bangle, and that was not very solid, either, when you come to look it squarely in the eye."—N. Y. Sun.

About Roller Skating.

A letter on the subject from one of the most eminent physicians of this country says: "Nothing has ever taken with our best citizens as roller skating has done, and nothing ever set on foot for the amusement and physical improvement of young people is more worthy of encouragement. Roller skating is the thing wanted by our young people, especially the ladies. It affords just the sort of exercise that they require for their physical development—gentle, but active, and so attractive they cannot resist it. It is my deliberate opinion that no conception has ever entered the human mind, in this century, so important to the health of ladies in our cities as this skating within doors. Nothing could exceed it in grace. No sight I have ever beheld is so beautiful as a roller skating rink, with its tastefully dressed young men and ladies sailing, swimming, floating through the mazes of the march, as if impelled by magic power. The old people assemble nightly to witness the sight, apparently as much delighted as their children.—Williamsport Breakfast Table.

Too Two.

They were walking together under a very little umbrella, and she liked him well enough not to want a large spread of alpaca. He was modest, and seemed to be nervous, and she finally remarked, very softly, and with a note of interrogation:

"Charlie?"

"Yes, Fannie," he responded.

"I'll carry the umbrella, if you'll let me."

"Oh, no, I can carry it."

"Yes, Charlie, but, you see, your arm takes up so much room that one side of me is out in the wet."

"I know that, Fannie, but what will I do with my arm; won't it be in the way just the same?"

"I don't know, Charlie. Gus Clarke always knows what to do with his when he is walking under an umbrella with Mary Martin, because Mary told me so."

Poor Charlie!

Callahan's Tavern.

Callahan's mountain tavern, on the road to the Virginia Springs, writes: Ben Perley Poore in The Boston Budget, enjoyed a great reputation before the railroad days, and parties would often go from Washington to enjoy a few days there, deer-hunting and trout-fishing. It was located in a double gap of the Alleghanies, where four mountain roads met. There was a small farm, hemmed in by the mountains, with a stream of clear water running through it, and a spring of cool, delicious water. When I used first to go there the house was a low, picturesque cottage, but on my last visit, soon after the war, I found that it had been disfigured by a pompous Virginia veranda, with large white wooden columns. On this veranda were the domestick productions of the region—maple sugar, buckskin gloves, and rattlesnakes!—each in boxes duly labeled. The "snaiks" were visible through a pane of glass inserted in the top of the box, and their rattling was plainly heard when they were disturbed. They were plentiful thereabouts, and the antidote given to those who were bitten by them was a large quantity of raw whisky, "one poison neutralizing the other," as a temperance man in our party observed.

But the fare at Callahan's was all that an epicure could desire, even if his appetite had not been sharpened by a ride in a stage coach. Never did I taste such juicy venison steaks, or such crisp fried chicken, with fresh omelettes and a variety of the fancy warm bread and cakes for which the southern matrons were famous. The coffee was equally excellent, the milk was cold and pure, and after this delicious repast there were those of the party who enjoyed a compound of old home-made peach brandy, with fresh honey from a neighboring hive, there not being any constabulary in those parts.

Troops from both armies camped there during the war, and the landlord informed me that Gen. Averill "camped on" him seven times. He did the Yankees general justice, however, and said that, while the stock was taken, the hay and grain were consumed, and the fences were burned, no wanton damage was inflicted nor was the house disturbed. "The confeds," added the old man, with a sigh, "treated us a heap worser, though we t they paid us in their money, but that wa'n't of no 'count."

Just after crossing the summit of the Alleghanain chain we saw a large number of horses' bones whitening in the woods, while many of the trees appeared to have been lopped off about fifteen or twenty feet from the ground. Our driver, on being questioned, said it was the battle-field of Dry creek. "The Yanks was a-coming, and the confeds fought 'em har fur tew days, both sides shiring at each other till the Yanks' powder was gone; then t'ey went a-tarin." He said, further, that each side lost about a hundred men; but he was evidently ignorant of the facts, although he had been over the road twice a day all summer. Even the name of the rebel victor was unknown to him. Such is fame.

A Full Moon in His Room.

An extremely dignified elderly bachelor who was wild in his younger days, but who had been a choice blossom of propriety, lo! these many years, lives at our house this winter. There is an ancient stovepipe hole through the wall which divides the bachelor's room from an unoccupied one, which hole is covered and hidden by wall-paper, and the bachelor knew not of its existence. He had made a few bets on the election as is the custom of bachelors, whether old or young, and on Saturday night last he collected those bets and treated the "boys," aged from 50 to 70 years. He is such a stanch old democrat and had lost all his bets for many years; hence it is not at all strange that upon this occasion he became as "glorious" as Tam o' Shaunter aforetime. At a late hour he came home in what had been his normal nightly condition twenty years before, and stumbled up to his room. Now, it so chanced that there was a visitor in the unoccupied room that night, the gaslights whereby shone dimly into the bachelor's room through the paper that covered the round stovepipe hole. The bachelor saw that light at once, and gazed at it with eyes of horror. Terror-stricken, he ran to a friend's room, and bursting the door he wailed in a voice loud enough to waken every inmate in the house: "Take care of me Charlie, I've got them again. I have not had them for twenty-seven years, but they have come back again. Save me, Charlie, save me!" Charlie endeavored to soothe him by asserting that he was all right, etc., whereupon the old fellow roared: "I know I have them for I saw a full moon in my room! as full as a tick."—N. Y. Cor. Portland Argus.

"Say, ma, how much of a fortune have you got?" Mamma—My child, that isn't a subject for little people like you to concern yourselves about. Daughter—Oh, yes, ma, it is. There's a girl in my class that's only seven, and she was telling me that she would be worth $5,000 when her pa and ma kicked the bucket.—Paris Paper.

Mrs. J. Nelson Jordan, Ellsworth, Me., received such relief from rheumatism by using Athlophoros that she would not have complained if the price had been $50 a bottle.

A Snub From the President-Elect.

Mr. Cleveland last week sent to 300 democrats at Buffalo a brief note, dated at a French restaurant where he was dining, state that it was impossible for him to meet the Cleveland democracy that evening. The gallant 300 waited until nine o'clock before the note of Grover was received. The democracy are just mad, and say it was an intended snub, after a promise to be present. The democrats make the mistake in thinking that Cleveland belongs to them. The real condition of affairs is, that the democracy belongs to Cleveland. He was made a candidate by the manipulations of the mugwumpian element in the republican party; and the democracy, as they were bid, voted for him. Now, the sooner the heretofore unterrified come to a realizing sense of their relative position with Mr. Cleveland, the less annoyance they will cause themselves and the prominent members of the party upon the subject of federal patronage.

More High-Toned Thieves.

It has been discovered that the Merchants' national bank of Norwich, Conn., has been robbed of $130,000 by James M. Meech, the cashier, and Charles Webb, assistant cashier, who have for years been speculating in stocks with the bank's money, and lost it. The bonds of the two men amount to $30,000, so the bank's net loss will be $100,000.

Webb, assistant cashier of the Merchants' bank, was also president of the Shetucket national bank, and he and the cashier, William Rosth, have made away with $50,000 of that bank's funds. Webb was also city treasurer, but kindly refrained from stealing the city funds.

The three thieves have hitherto been highly respected, and the entire community is astounded at the disclosures.

How Cleveland is Said to View Things.

The Washington correspondent of the Providence Journal writes that paper that a gentleman who has long been one of Governor Cleveland's officers in the state government repeats the following as a statement lately made to him by Mr. Cleveland: "There must be reforms in the government," said he to me last week, "and the question with me will be where to begin. One hundred and two thousand office holders, constituting the regular army of politicians, are rooted in power by twenty-four years adverse possession. Four-fifths of them should be turned out, the best evidence of this being that they are in the party in power so long which never put any in place but its useful men—those who would help to perpetuate its rule. Therefore I say that the best evidence that they should go out is found in the fact that they were appointed at all." As to the cabinet this gentleman continued: "The only thing I know which has been determined on is that the presidential advisers will be selected from those states that cast their electoral votes for Cleveland. I say I know this, because he has said so much to me, and I was talking to Dan Lamont, the private secretary of Gov. Cleveland, and he intimated the same thing. I can tell you, however, what I believe. I think New York will get the treasury. I cannot say who the man is, or if he has been selected. The south proper will be offered two places. They will most probably be the post-office department and attorney-general, and they will both go to the far southern states."

At Kankakee, Ill., about four o'clock Sunday morning, an infirmary of the Illinois Eastern Hospital for the Insane was burned, and seventeen of the forty-five demented inmates lost their lives, twelve of their bodies being recovered next day. The attendants are stated to have worked heroically to save the poor creatures, and did get out nearly thirty, though in most cases the patients resisted rescue. The thermometer was twelve below zero at the time.

At Chicago, Jan. 16th, the special grand jury appointed by the Cook county criminal court returned indictments against Makin, Gallagher, Shields, Hansbrough, Sullivan, Bieland and Gleason, all prominent democratic politicians, for participation in the eighteenth ward election frauds. Makin was also indicted separately for perjury, in swearing he did not order the printing of the bogus tickets.

The springs, wells and water courses generally in Newington were more nearly filled than they had been for several years. When the present snow melts, most of the water from it will be likely to soak into the ground.

PROBABLY NEVER

In the history of proprietary medicines has any article met success at home equal to that which has been poured upon HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA. Why, such has been the success of this article, that nearly every family in whole neighborhoods have been taking it at the same time. Every week brings new evidence of the wonderful curative properties of this medicine.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Combines the BEST Remedies of the vegetable kingdom, and in such proportion as to derive their greatest medicinal effects with the least disturbance to the whole system. In fact this preparation is so well balanced in its action upon the alimentary canal, the liver, the kidneys, the stomach, the bowels and the circulation of the blood, that it brings about a healthy action of the entire human organism, that can hardly be credited by those who have not seen the remarkable results that have followed its use. If the Sarsaparilla does not prove sufficiently laxative, take a few doses of HOOD'S VEGETABLE PILLS. It is well in all cases of biliousness to take these pills in connection with the Sarsaparilla for the first ten days. That dull, sleepy, sick feeling can be wholly overcome by the use of these remedies. Will you give them a trial and be yourself again?

An ex-alderman of this city says of Hood's Sarsaparilla, "It is the strongest Sarsaparilla I ever saw."

Each dollar bottle contains one hundred (averages) doses. Sold by all druggists.

Price one dollar, or six for five dollars. Hood's Sarsaparilla, prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

Levi Woodbury, 1825.
James W Emery, 1873.

From the foregoing lists it will be noted that there are 239 different persons who have represented this city in the N. H. Legislature for the past 100 years. Of this number thirty have served in the Senate and House; five have never served in the House, viz., Joshua Wentworth, Pierce Long, Jeremiah F. Hall, Marcellus Eldredge, John S. Treat; 203 have served only in the House. Of the 239 different persons 79 have served one term; 91, two terms; 21, three terms; 16, four terms; 9, five terms; 8, six terms; 2, seven terms; 6, eight terms; 1, nine terms; 4, ten terms; 1, eleven terms; 1, thirteen terms. Ninety-four of the 239 are now alive; 91 members of the House and 8 members of the Senate, —5 of the 8 members of the Senate also being members of the House. The names of the persons having served the longest terms in the House and Senate follow.

Wm. Ham, Jr., served the longest in the Senate, having a record of six terms. George Gaines and James W. Emery, having the record of ten terms each, are the Seniors in the House.

The oldest living member of the Senate is Marcellus Bufford, having served in 1855. Among the members of the House is Josiah G. Hadley, having served in 1836. After that come Robert Morrison, in 1841; Jas. W. Emery, 1843, 1844, 1846; Wm. S. Hadley, 1845; John N. Handy, 1846. Beginning with the representatives for the year 1849, one or more of them is alive for every year down to the present. The members for the sessions of 1881 and 1883 are the only sets that have no dead among their number.

[Note by Editor.—Since this article came into our hands two of those down in the lists as survivors, or already mentioned as such, have died, namely, Robert Morrison, and John N. Handy.]

NARROW-GAUGED POLITICIANS.

For some time past the democrats in the national house of representatives have been controlled by such men as Samuel J. Randall and Judge Holman of Indiana, who have attempted to make political capital by insisting upon "Millions for the South but not one cent for Chandler." Everyone understands that there are certain legitimate, well-established kinds of expenditures on the part of the government for naval purposes and for the proper administering of the functions of the government at home, and keeping its representatives abroad. The men of dwarfed ideas, while the republican administration has been disbursing the funds of the government have said, "Our party has a majority in the house of representatives, where the appropriation bills originate, and we will pare down everything and show our desire to economize!" What results follow? Take a case near home.

The United States ship Marion went into commission at the navy yard in this harbor on the 15th inst. The officers stood on the burning deck and faced the northeaster on that day; but the men, "Oh, where were they?" Ordinarily it would have been an economical way to have sent a detachment of seamen from the navy yard at Charlestown to the Canseway street station of the Eastern railroad, and in two hours they could have been landed in Portsmouth, and taken on a steamer and put aboard the Marion, and the men have been comfortably transferred and cared for. But there were no funds for this purpose. There was a tug at the Charlestown yard, and coal that could be used, and so the men were put on board this tug.—with no accommodations for being warmed and housed, — and sent in mid-winter around by sea. The tug not arriving at this port when looked for, a relief steamer was very properly sent out from this station to look her up; and beside the wear and tear, the cost of the coal consumed while the tug lay by during the late storm would have paid the railway transportation of these men. But democracy says "No funds." We allude to this pennywise Randalism solely to show how diminutive a statesman can control a great political party. Of late, he is not sure that it will do for him to permit the government to begin to build a navy, until he has seen the last republican sent out from every department of the government. The country must wait, the navy must languish, we must be unrepresented among other nations abroad, because a cheap, narrow-gauge idea rules the democratic party. How long time it will require for the contractors to ware ship and take the democratic party in tow, and make satisfactory arrangements with certain leaders before proper votes will be given to appropriate funds to complete certain ships, is of course a mere matter of speculation.

We can only conjecture that if the policy of Mr. Cleveland's administration is to be shaped in any degree by the twopenny minds of such time-servers as Randall, whose tariff constituents require him to be always up to some dodge to make his party think he is as good a democrat as the best of them, there will be an early call upon the officers of the expedition. The people will become disgusted with such mis-named statesman ship, and a majority will be found in Congress and in the states against the new president, the meaning of which not the thickest-headed democrat in the land can fail to comprehend.

A FIRST-CLASS FAMILY MAGAZINE,

LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE.

A Regular Monthly of General Literature.

ON THIS SIDE,

A New Serial Story,

By F. C. BAYLOR,

IS COMMENCED IN THIS NUMBER.

Several chapters of MARY AGNES TINCKER'S charming story, Auriora, which is a masterpiece, also appear, together with other Short Stories, Poems, and Articles of late set up in Current Topics.

PROSPECTUS FOR 1885.

Among the chief periodicals of the country, LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE has acquired the distinctive reputation of being "eminently readable." Arrangements have been made for many contributions of special interest during the coming year. Among these particular attention is invited to a serial story entitled "ON THIS SIDE," by F. C. Baylor, author of "The Perfect Treasure" (commenced in the January number) in which the experiences of an English baronet and his friends during a tour through the United States are related with a mirth-provoking fun, or, a knowledge and appreciation of national characteristics, and a perfect fairness of tone and freedom from caricature that cannot fail to secure critical approval and wide popularity. Miss Tincker's beautiful novel, "Auriora," will be completed in the summer, and will be followed by several stories in two or more parts, including "The Lady Lawyer's First Client," by the author of "A Latter-Day Saint."

Sketches of Italian Life, by Mrs. Launt Thompson, an account of the Pioneers of Tennessee, by "Edmund Kirke," a narrative of the experiences of a Steerage Passenger to and from Liverpool, by Thomas Wharton, an article on Queen Anne, or Free Classic Architecture, by George C. Mason, Jr., and a Comedy for private theatricals, by James Payn, will be published in early numbers, together with the usual variety of short stories and articles of general interest by popular writers.

Lifted Up

A happy surprise it was to Mr. A. R. Norton, of Bristol, Conn., when ATHLOPHOROS put him on his feet, and sent him cheerfully about his business. Let him tell his own story:

"About three weeks ago I was taken with a severe crick in the back. For four days I was unable to turn in bed without help, and when lifted up could not stand on my feet. I was induced to try ATHLOPHOROS, after all the usual remedies failed. In 30 minutes after taking the first dose I could bear my weight upon my feet. In two days I was able to get about and attend to business. In two other cases which have come to my knowledge its use has been attended with the same results."

A poor man in Philadelphia had to borrow a dollar to buy a bottle of ATHLOPHOROS. On account of his poverty his name shall remain a secret. He had suffered terribly from Rheumatism. He gratefully writes:

"I took my first dose Tuesday afternoon, and on Wednesday, after but seven doses, I had not a sharp or severe ache left. Then I reduced the dose one-half and took the remainder of the bottle. I was able to be steady at work till Saturday, when I took a severe cold and was unable to use my left hand. I purchased another bottle and by bed-time I found relief. The medicine is all you claim for it."

Investigate ATHLOPHOROS all you please! Find all the fault you choose with it! and yet the fact remains, that it is doing what no other medicine ever could do for Rheumatism and Neuralgia.

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.

Pure blood is absolutely necessary in order to enjoy perfect health. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood and strengthens the system.

—A young lady who was too sick to wash the supper dishes recovered sufficiently, fifteen minutes after her mother had performed the job, to play croquet and "sit up" with a young man until midnight. What delicate creatures American girls are, anyhow.

Would you like a medicine that will invigorate the system, give you a good appetite and brace up the body against the influences of the changing seasons. If so ask your druggist for Wetherell's Extract of Sarsaparilla. Don't be put off with any substitute for the article you ask for. One dollar a bottle.

—"What makes your horse go so slow?" asked a tourist one day in the Glen of the Downs, Ireland, of his Celtic Jehu. "It is out of rispict to the bayutiful sanery, yer honor. He wants to see it all. And, thin, he's an intelligent baste and appreciates good company, and wants to kape the likes o' ye in beloved ould Ireland so long as he can."

Don't Give Up Yet.

It doesn't follow that a patient will die because the doctors have "given him up," or that he will recover because they promise to "pull him through." It is never too late to try the great virtues of Parker's Tonic. Mr Michael Guilfoyle, of Binghampton, N. Y., was cured of rheumatism by it after ten years of unspeakable suffering. Mr E. W. Mosher, druggist, of same city, certifies that he has sold over a thousand bottles of Parker's Tonic through its reputation for this and other cures.

Mr. Theodore F. Bayles of Tarrytown, N. Y., has in his possession a letter, hitherto unpublished, dated May 17th, 1801, to Gov. Clinton from Thomas Jefferson, then president, in which he says that of all duties imposed on the executive head of a government, appointment to office is the most difficult and irksome; that he, himself, was disposed to make as few changes in office as possible, and to remove only for "misconduct."

INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM

I was attacked last winter with inflammatory rheumatism of severe type—my first serious illness since 1876. I had various kinds of treatment with only temporary partial relief. After seven weeks I was reduced in weight 35 pounds, had no strength or appetite, and was growing weaker every day. In this condition I began Swift's Specific, and in three days began to improve, and in three weeks I was free from disease and up attending to my regular business. My appetite returned and I rapidly gained my flesh. I have waited this long to be certain that my cure was permanent.

HARNEY'S RACE FOR LIFE.

Ned Buntline's Recollections of an Interesting Episode.

The World's ment on of the veteran General Harney and h s recent marriage were read by me with interest. Four years' hard service with him in the Florida war, and nearly two in Mex co, closely associated with him most of the time, g ve me a r ght to a knowledge of him as he was.

In 1883, when I was a Midshipman, acting Lieutenant on board the United States schooner Otsego, on the Florida coast, he was Lieutenant Colonel of the Second United States Dragoons, under Colonel Twiggs. It was the only cavalry regiment in the war, and Phil Kearney, Charlie May and Billy Fulton, the father of Chandos Fulton, prominent now in your city, were then in the regiment.

Harney looked every inch a soldier, and he stood s x feet three inches in his boots. He was not hand one. He was stalwart, manly, ever impetuous in word and action.

In 1839 he had a post with two companies of the Second Dragoons on the Caloosahatchee river, about ten or fifteen miles above its mouth. It enters the Gulf of Mexico at Sanabel Island. The men were mostly in tents. There was a small stockade, a sutler's store and a temporary storehouse in the encampment.

In the middle of a hot night—I forget the precise date—the Seminoles, numbering three or four hundred, under Arpiaka, the fish-eater, and Billy Bowlegs, surprised the post. Colonel Harney, in consequence of the heat and mosquitoes, had taken his blankets and left his quarters to sleep on a knoll on the river bank, where the cool breeze swept over the water. This alone saved his life. He was awakened in the dead of night by the yells of the Indians, the firing of guns and the shrieks of his dying men.

Harney, in his shirt and drawers without a weapon, could only run for his life. Capture would be death by the cruelest torture. He ran down the river, through the dense swamp, the Indian yells filling the night air, and he believing them close on his trail. For miles he kept on, the scanty clothes he wore torn all to tatters on the branches as he plunged through the brush, and fast as he went he heard a crash behind him. He was pursued. At last, breathless, worn out so he could run no further, he halted and turned. I give his own words to me of what then occurred:

"I heard the red cusses close onto me, I knew it was death, but I thought I'd die game. I squared off, clinched my fists and shouted, 'Come on, you red devils, d——n you, come on.' 'Howly saints, is it you, Kernel?' cried one of my own men, the only man beside me that escaped, as he halted within my reach. I was that mad, to be so scared by a white man, that I knocked him down on the spot! It's a fact. Then I felt ashamed of my act, picked him up and told him I was sorry!"

The two then crawled on through the swamp and got down by daylight to Sanabel Island, swimming across the narrow channel to its sandy shore. The next day we ran in there for water in the Otsego and found Harney and his soldier almost stark naked on the beach, both hungry and thirsty, but thankful for life.

And this is known in Florida war history as the "Massacre on the Caloosahatchie." The reason of the surprise was, that there was a temporary truce between the Indians and whites, and, fearing no danger, the sentinels were few and careless. After that Harney planned and carried out a raid into the Everglades, in which twenty-seven buck Indians were killed or captured—and all of them hung as soon as in our hands. We captured about thirty squaws and children, who were held as prisoners till sent West. I was on the raid. In it the late General Ord was shot through the shoulder. He was then a Second Lieutenant in the Third Artillery. General Sherman, now retired, was a First Lieutenant in the same regiment at the time.—New York World.

The Correct Version.

"My dear," said the King of Denmark to his spouse, the mother of Hamlet, "you needn't give it away, but I poured molten lead into my brother's ear while he was sleeping in the orchard, and that's the kind of sea-serpent that stung him."

"You don't say so?" said the Queen.

"I have said so, so please don't say that I don't say so. Yes, I poured a bullet-moldful into his ear. It was a capital joke. Do you know what his last words were when he went off?"

"I do not."

"They were: I didn't know it was loaded."—Detroit Free Press.

The Prince of Wales is only forty-five. But if you count his age on the little darkey's plan, by the fun he's had, he'd be most three hundred, says the Boston Globe.

A New York drummer lately entered a store in a Delaware town to find the proprietor and clerk playing checkers, the fire out, and the floor unswept for three days. "Well, how's business?" was the salutation. "Sold a paper of pins this week," was the calm reply of the proprietor, as he put a new man into the king row. "And can you stand up under such times?" "I kinder reckon. We've got a big bonfire downstairs, and Bob and I are having a game of checkers to see who sets fire to it. I guess the insurance is good."—Wall Street News.

Sure Cures for Wife Beating.

In Hampshire villages a custom still prevails of serenading a wife beater with kettles, tongs and shovels until he is brought to his senses either from shame or to be rid of the horrid din. In the counties of Surrey and Sussex a somewhat similar custom was formerly in vogue. When it was known that a man was in the habit of beating the partner of his joys and sorrows some chaff from the threshing floor was sprinkled in front of his house at night. If this hint, which was well understood, had not the desired effect all the cow horns, bones, cleavers, bells, whistles, rattles, frying-pans and old kettles in the village were pressed into service. Between the pauses in the music the following verse was sung:

There is a man in this place
Has beat his wife
Has beat his wife;
It is a very great shame and disgrace
To all who live in this place;
It is, indeed, upon my life.

This invariably produced the desired effect. But where the offender was too hardened a severe drubbing was administered by the village dames on a dark night in a convenient place.

Scotch notions of breach of promise of marriage are even more remarkable than those which prevail elsewhere. A young woman who had been discarded by one sweetheart married another one and then brought an action for breach of promise against the first. The Magistrate before whom the case was tried refused to grant the request of the young lady for damages. He would not regard her as the possessor of a mildewed heart.

Senatorial Nominations.

In the republican legislative caucus of New York, Jan. 19th, William M. Evarts was nominated for United States senator, he having sixty-one votes to twenty-eight for Morton and three for Depew. He was elected on the 20th.

Daniel W. Voorhees was renominated for United States senator by the democrats of the Indiana legislature, Jan. 19th.

Jonathan Chace, republican, was on the 20th inst. elected United States senator from Rhode Island, to succeed the late Senator Anthony, deceased.

Senator O. H. Platt, republican, was on the 20th inst. re-elected to the United States senate by the Connecticut legislature.

The selection of such a man as Mr. Evarts for United States senator by the republicans of New York, is most creditable to their good sense. The country needs such men in the senate, and we hope to see the example followed in other states. The vote in the legislative caucus showed that the voice of the people upon this question was plainly heard and unmistakeably understood at Albany.

Small Business.

A determined effort is to be made to pass through Congress the bill to appropriate money due the members of the Greely expedition to Lady Franklin bay for their commutation of rations and fuel during the years that they were absent, which money was duly appropriated during those years, but is now unavailable by reason of the balances being covered into the treasury. The money is due the men, they need it, and it will be mighty small business for the United States to steal it from them.

In announcing the appointment of Mr. Lucius Tuttle, late of the Eastern railroad staff, to be general passenger agent of the Boston & Lowell railroad, the appointment to take effect Feb. 1st, the circular of Gen. Supt. Mellen of the Boston & Lowell says: "He will have entire charge of all passenger traffic, including advertising connected with the same, and the parlor-car service; and will make all rates, both for regular and special service, subject only to the approval of the president and general superintendent."

The fifth annual ball of the telegraph operators of the Boston & Maine railroad, eastern division, took place in Monument hall, Boston, on the evening of the 16th inst., and was largely attended. Messer's orchestra furnished the music. The floor was under the direction of Mr. H. Cross, who was assisted by E. A. Nutting, G. M. Fassett, J. W. Bickford, S. A. D. Forristall, C. W. Wedger and J. H. Macdonald.

But few if any railroads running out of this city have been as fortunate in its conductors as has been the Boston & Maine, several of whom have spent nearly a life time in its service. One of the most popular and efficient conductors, as well as the oldest in point of service—with the exception of the veteran, Orsin Hamilton—is William T. Plaisted, who has served as such continuously between Boston and Portland since 1854—a period of thirty years. Mr. Plaisted can say, as is the case with Mr. Hamilton, that not a single loss of life or accident to passenger has occurred on any train under his charge during that long period of time.—Boston paper.

At the supreme judicial court in Saco last week, the case of Solon S. Andrews of Biddeford (who in the early part of 1883 was carrying out a contract with the United States government for the removal of a portion of Gangway rock in Portsmouth harbor) against Josiah M. Aderton of Kittery, was tried. This was an action of trespass to recover for damages alleged to have been caused by the schooner Satellite, of which defendant was master on April 28th, 1883, on that date running into the drill-stand and tide-breaker of the plaintiff erected over Gangway rock, and injuring the same and also the drilling machinery which at the time was on the stand, the amount claimed being $600. The defence was in substance that the schooner was navigated with due care, caution and skill by Capt. Aderton, and that the collision with the drill-stand was due to causes of wind and tide impossible to be foreseen and wholly beyond defendant's control, and for the consequences of which he cannot justly be held responsible. The case was argued on Friday, and given to the jury on Saturday forenoon; shortly after noon a verdict was returned for the defendant, and the case was appealed to the law term by plaintiff's counsel.

PROBABLY NEVER

In the history of proprietary medicines has any article met success at home equal to that which has been poured upon HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA. Why, such has been the success of this article, that nearly every family in whole neighborhoods have been taking it at the same time. Every week brings new evidence of the wonderful curative properties of this medicine.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Combines the BEST Remedies of the vegetable kingdom, and in such proportion as to derive their greatest medicinal effects with the least disturbance to the whole system. In fact this preparation is so well balanced in its action upon the alimentary canal, the liver, the kidneys, the stomach, the bowels and the circulation of the blood, that it brings about a healthy action of the entire human organism, that can hardly be credited by those who have not seen the remarkable results that have followed its use. If the Sarsaparilla does not prove sufficiently laxative, take a few doses of HOOD'S VEGETABLE PILLS. It is well in all cases of biliousness to take these pills in connection with the Sarsaparilla for the first ten days. That dull, sleepy, sick feeling can be wholly overcome by the use of these remedies. Will you give them a trial and be yourself again?

An ex-alderman of this city says of Hood's Sarsaparilla, "It is the strongest Sarsaparilla I ever saw."

Each dollar bottle contains one hundred (averages) doses. Sold by all druggists.

Price one dollar, or six for five dollars. Hood's Sarsaparilla, prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

TUESDAY, Jan. 20th.

George F. Kimball and Edward Grady, for drunkenness, were assessed the usual $9.90 each, and both went to the county farm in default of payment.

CALENDARS.

The best calendars this year are supplied by the insurance offices. The kind which pleases the eyes of advanced years is issued by the Insurance Co. of North America, of Philadelphia, a company incorporated nearly a century ago, and noted for its stability. This company is represented in this city by Messrs. Morse & Ilsley, in Exchange buildings.

Large and handsome calendars, very convenient for office use, are also issued this year by the Philadelphia & Reading Iron & Coal Co., of which J. Albert Walker is the agent for Portsmouth; by N. W. Ayer & Son, newspaper advertising agents, of Philadelphia; and a very handsome one indeed by the Boston Herald.

DEATH OF DR. KIMBALL.

David Kimball, an old and highly respected citizen, died early Tuesday morning at his residence on Austin street, at the advanced age of 85 years and 11 months. He has been in failing health for several years, so much so, that he gave up active business in May, 1880, but his last sickness was short, and his death Tuesday morning somewhat unexpected.

Mr. Kimball was born in Topsfield, Mass., Feb. 26, 1799. His childhood was passed in his native town. In youth he attended the Dummer Academy, where he qualified himself for teaching school, in which vocation he afterwards engaged at Newbury, Mass. In 1822 he came to Portsmouth, and entered the drug store of Wm. Norwood as a clerk. Wishing earnestly to qualify himself for what he considered a very responsible business, he went to Boston, soon after entering the drug store, and attended a course of lectures of the medical college in chemistry and medicine. About two years later he purchased Mr. Norwood's interest in the apothecary business, and from that time until 1880, he devoted himself assiduously to its duties.

In this long and faithful business career of over half a century, he won a well deserved competence. Throughout life he maintained a character of unblemished integrity and conscientious uprightness—being honest not because honesty is the best policy, but because of sound principles, learned in youth and ever sacredly cherished. He sought wealth only by steady attention to his regular business, and ever enjoyed the confidence of the community in which he lived. The knowledge of his business and the sound principles he inculcated in the minds of young men in his employ have in several instances started them upon a career that has been both honorable and successful.

Mr. Kimball was ever a constant attendant upon the services of the Congregational church, ready to promote its interests. In politics he was among the early and earnest abolitionists, and afterwards an active member of the republican party. He was treasurer of the Gas Company from its organization in 1851 till his death.

Mr. Kimball's family on the maternal side has been distinguished for longevity. He remembered seeing his great-grandmother in 1805, then one hundred years old. The centennial of his own mother was celebrated Oct. 2, 1879, her children, grand-children and great-grand-children being present. She died in December, 1879, retaining her faculties in a remarkable degree. Her husband died comparatively young, leaving a family of twelve brothers and sisters, all but one of whom (the subject of this notice) died of consumption.

Mr. Kimball married Caroline R Swett, of Newburyport, Nov. 4, 1828. She survives him. Their family consisted of three daughters and one son. The son, Charles Kimball, died in Mexico about twenty years ago. The daughters are living; Mrs. Gerrish, widow of Capt. George A. Gerrish, and Miss Harriot McEwen Kimball, live at their father's; and Mrs. Harris, wife of R. L. Harris at Brooklyn, N. Y.—Times.

ODD FELLOWS' MUTUAL RELIEF.

At the annual meeting of the Odd Fellows' Mutual Relief Association of Strafford county, held in Rochester last week, the following officers were elected:

S. S. Chick of Great Falls, president; J. F. Seavey of Dover, vice president; A. S. Parshley of Rochester, secretary; C. W. Talpey of Farmington, treasurer.

During the past year there have been but eight deaths and seven assessments, one assessment having been paid from the surplus fund in the treasury. This is a very small number of deaths, the smallest since the relief has been organized. Three members have been dropped for non-payment of dues, and forty-three new members have been admitted. The present membership is 1098.

The secretary's report shows that the number of assessments paid during the fifteen years the relief has existed is 154; total amount paid out, $178,509. It has been as follows: Great Falls, $22,446; Rochester, three lodges, $31,231; Farmington, $10,491; Dover, two lodges, $27,251; Kittery, Me., $5,897; Salmon Falls, $5,937; Newmarket, $4,342; South Berwick, Me., $6,711; Portsmouth, three lodges, $53,630.

There was fine skating (and lots of skaters) on the south pond, Monday and Tuesday; on the north pond also the skating was good in spots, and was largely taken advantage of. "Coasting" was good in some of the streets and on some of the sidewalks, Tuesday, and pedestrians had to keep a good lookout for sleds and double-rippers.

The United States tug Rocket, Lieut. Comdr. Wm. A. Morgan commanding, arrived at this navy yard on Monday afternoon from Boston with forty-five men for the U. S. S. Marion, and sailed again Tuesday morning for Boston.

On Tuesday the weather had moderated considerably from what it was the previous day, the wind veering toward the southwest. The sleighing was very good, and there were many teams in town from the surrounding country.

The steamer Clara Bateman on Tuesday towed the sloop Yankee and the "band stand," belonging to the contractor for the removal of Ganzway rock, from the rock to the north side of Pier wharf, where they will go into winter quarters.

The masquerade roller-skating carnival at the Portsmouth skating rink comes off this evening; it is the first thing of the kind in this city, and will no doubt prove a great attraction. Mrs. Newhall of Boston, with 100 fine costumes, will be at the rink this forenoon and through the day to accomodate those who propose appearing in character.

It is now stated that Mr. Reuben E. Gilpatrick of this city has not enrolled himself as a warrior in the Salvation Army, but continues to sell trees and shrubs from the New York house he is local agent for, at the usual low prices.

Loose hay was selling on the Parade, Tuesday, at fifteen dollars per ton.

The ice on Great bay is now about two feet thick in spots, since the last cold term. After the recent rains smelts were running in moderate schools up to their favorite spawning grounds at the mouths of the fresh water streams which empty into the bay. The mother fish now abound with spawn. In consequence of the thinness of the ice in the early part of the winter the fishermen were unable to secure large quantities. A party of four, however, who started from here one day last week, obtained two hundred and thirty pounds of large size; one fish weighed eleven ounces. They are now running quite large.

The schooner D. K. Ham was towed to the marine railway at Kittery on Tuesday by the tug Clara Bateman.

The days are lengthening very perceptibly.

The British schooner Berma, Dixon master, which arrived at this port on Tuesday, cleared from Moncton, N. B., Nov. 13th, 1884; was driven ashore at Tennant's Harbor, Me., during a heavy gale on the night of Nov. 23d; was got off, and after taking off deck load proceeded to Rockland, where she was repaired, and then reloaded and proceeded on her voyage.

A certificate representing $1000 of the special deposit of the Portsmouth Trust & Guarantee Co., and held as collateral by the First National bank, will be sold at the rooms of the bank at noon on Saturday, to the highest bidder.

The masquerade party to be given by the three young men who managed the highly successful dress party in Congress hall recently, and which they intend shall be the leading event in the dancing line to take place in the city this season, will come off on Tuesday evening, Feb. 3d.

Hon. Joseph Kidder, of Manchester, will lecture in the School course at the Rye town hall on Wednesday evening, Jan 21st.

G. Harrison Jenness, Esq., of Rye, has accepted the invitation of the Farmers' club of North Hampton to repeat his lecture on "Life in Washington," and will do so in Centennial hall on Friday evening, Jan. 23d.

Rev. A. W. Seavey, A. M., will lecture in Centennial hall, North Hampton, on the evening of Jan. 30th; subject, "Glimpses of the Old World: or, European scenery, life and art."

Hon. T. E. O. Marvin, president of the New Hampshire Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, paid official visits last week to Peterborough, East Harrisville, (a hamlet of Dublin,) Hancock and New Ipswich, in the interest of the society. Many cases of ignorant neglect and wilful abuse were remedied without recourse to prosecutions; one man at Peterboro, against whom two complaints were made, was arraigned before Justice John R. Miller, fined, and put under bonds for six months. The energetic, business-like and gentlemanly manner of the society's representative commands the respect of the humane and intelligent portion of the communities wherever the merciful reform has been introduced, and a powerful public sentiment is being aroused throughout the state which will soon make the neglect and abuse of cattle, overdriving and under feeding of horses, and brutality to children, by offenders against the humane laws of our state for the prevention of cruelty, so odious that every voice will be raised in execration of offences that have hitherto gone unrebuked by men and unwhipped of justice.

Schooner Eddie Weeks, Brad. Varrell master, recently purchased by Messrs. Varrell & Baker of York harbor, brought from York on her last trip here about 2000 lbs. of what is technically known among fishermen as "Crawm," which was brought at a fair price by Ed. Jameson. She came to an anchor in the lower harbor, where she lay during the last heavy weather, and has since sailed for York.

Farmer Joseph S. Grant, now of Kittery and formerly landlord of the late Gibson house, was in town on Tuesday with a big farm wagon.

Landlord Grant of the Sea Cottage, Long Sands, York, was in town on Tuesday, and took out considerable supplies for that popular resort, which remains open for company all the year round.

PROSPECTUS FOR 1885.

Among the chief periodicals of the country, LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE has acquired the distinctive reputation of being "eminently readable." Arrangements have been made for many contributions of special interest during the coming year. Among these particular attention is invited to a serial story entitled "ON THIS SIDE," by F. C. Baylor, author of "The Perfect Treasure" (commenced in the January number) in which the experiences of an English baronet and his friends during a tour through the United States are related with a mirth-provoking humor, a knowledge and appreciation of national characteristics, and a spirited picture of home and freedom from caricature that cannot fail to secure critical approval and wide popularity. Miss Tincker's beautiful novel, "Auroraville's Footsteps," will be completed in the summer, and will be followed by several stories in two or more parts, including "The Lady Lawyer's First Client," by the author of "A Latter-Day Saint."

Sketches of Italian Life, by Mrs. Laurt Thompson, an account of the Pioneers of Tennessee, by "Edmund Kirke," a narrative of the experiences of a Storage Passenger to and from Liverpool, by Thomas Wharton, an article on Queen Anne, or Free Classic Architecture, by George C. Lifted Up

A happy surprise it was to Mr. A. R. Norton, of Bristol, Conn., when ATHLOPHOROS put him on his feet, and sent him cheerfully about his business. Let him tell his own story:

"About three weeks ago I was taken with a severe crick in the back. For four days I was unable to turn in bed without help, and when lifted up could not stand on my feet. I was induced to try ATHLOPHOROS, after all the usual remedies failed. In 30 minutes after taking the first dose I could bear my weight upon my feet. In two days I was able to get about and attend to business. In two other cases which have come to my knowledge its use has been attended with the same results."

A poor man in Philadelphia had to borrow a dollar to buy a bottle of ATHLOPHOROS. On account of his poverty his name shall remain a secret. He had suffered terribly from Rheumatism. He gratefully writes:

"I took my first dose Tuesday afternoon, and on Wednesday, after but seven doses, I had not a sharp or severe ache left. Then I reduced the dose one-half and took the remainder of the bottle. I was able to be steady at work till Saturday, when I took a severe cold and was unable to use my left hand. I purchased another bottle and by bed-time I found relief. The medicine is all you claim for it."

Investigate ATHLOPHOROS all you please! Find all the fault you choose with it! and yet the fact remains, that it is doing what no other medicine ever could do for Rheumatism and Neuralgia.

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order as above shown and as directed.

INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM

I was attacked last winter with inflammatory rheumatism of severe type—my first serious illness since 1876. I had various kinds of treatment, with only temporary partial relief. After seven weeks I was reduced in weight 35 pounds, had no strength or appetite, and was growing weaker every day. In this condition I began Swift's Specific, and in three days began to improve, and in three weeks I was free from disease and up attending to my regular business. My appetite returned and I rapidly gained my flesh. I have waited this long to be sure that my cure was permanent.

COL. HARNEY'S REVENGE.

"Ned Buntline's" Reminiscences of the Seminole War.

When the massacre of the Caloosahatchie ended the truce which had for a brief time suspended operations against the Seminoles, writes "Ned Buntline" in the New York World, the war opened with renewed activity. The naval force on the coast—to which the writer hereof, then a midshipman, acting as lieutenant, was attached—consisted of the topsail schooner Flirt, Wave, and Otsego, commanded respectively by Lieutenant Commanding J. T. McLaughlin, Lieutenant John Rodgers (late admiral) and Passed Midshipman Edmund Templar Shubrick, about whom I will shortly write a tragic history. The army force consisted of the 3d artillery, 6th infantry, 2d dragoons, and a part of the 7th infantry. The 8th infantry came later, under command of Col. Worth, who soon after was promoted, and, relieving Gen. Zachary Taylor, pushed active operations until the war was practically ended. I am thus particular now because in these papers all these parties will have a place.

Col. Harney was raging mad when he reached Key Biscayne on our schooner, swearing the bitterest vengeance on the red murderers of his brave men. For it was murder in the broadest sense. The men fell not as soldiers in battle, but were surprised in bed, shot down, slain and scalped, with no chance for resistance. On the island which forms Cape Florida there were several companies of the 3d artillery and two companies of the 3d dragoons. Harney as lieutenant colonel ranked all the officers at the post, and the naval men having a large number of cypress canoes that had been made expressly for our use in following the Indians up the river, lagoons, and bays along the coast, made his plans easy of accomplishment.

Calling for volunteers to go on the expedition, the brave Harney soon had 200 picked men, sailors and soldiers, ready for a start. I forget just now the names of all the officers who went along. I am almost sure that General Sherman, now retired, was one—or he was at the post, a lieutenant. I know that the late Gen. Ord was there, as will be seen in later lines in this sketch. Lieut. Rodney, of Delaware, a gallant dragoon, also Capt. Fulton, of the same regiment, Francis Key Murray, John Contee, and Lieut. Rogers were in the naval contingent.

"Young man," said Harney to me when we were fitting out the canoes, "have you any small, strong rope on board of the Otsego?"

"Yes, colonel. Here is a coil of deep-sea lead-line, which will hold a strain of 500 pounds, and it is small, as you see!"

"It is the very thing! Send the coil of rope to my boat. I'll make good use of it before we get back!" he answered, clinching his remark with one of his usual bitter oaths against the "murdering red niggers."

To make the story short, we got away just after dark, provisioned for ten days, but armed and munitioned for a week's steady fighting, if it came to that. We had thirty boats and canoes, averaging about seven men in each. We paddled as silently as possible up to old Fort Dallas, at the mouth of the Little Miami river, and entering it pulled rapidly up into the everglades. Everything depended on our taking the Indians by surprise. The strictest orders were given not to fire a gun or even give an order in a loud tone. An experienced guide was in the first canoe, and the others followed in line as close as one could be kept to another.

It took all night to pass up the shallow, sinuous stream and get fairly into the glades. Then, fearing to be discovered, we lay all day close on a little island, watching through our glasses for smoke or signs of occupation on distant islands in sight of ours. Our vigilance and care were rewarded. We saw on one of the largest islands evident signs of occupation, but no sign of alarm to show that our presence in the glades had been discovered. We knew that we were near the haunts of "Sam Jones," or Arpaka, the oldest chief in the Seminole nation, and of Chikiki, the giant fishing chief, who was supposed to be at the head of the party that committed the massacre we were now to avenge.

All day, resting and sleeping as much as we could, we laid by, eating cooked provisions, making no fire, and waiting for night to cover our further movements. And right glad we were when it came, and just cloudy enough—not too dark—to cover our approach to the island, which we knew was occupied. Every man was now on the alert. Arms were inspected, orders given to keep in line until close to the island. Then certain detailed boats were to lay off around it to cut off escape, while three landing parties were to advance and surprise the enemy, not a shot to be fired until we were discovered by the Indians. "Then," said Harney, with a bitter oath, "go in for work. Kill or capture all you see—young or old, he or she. Spare them only as they spared my poor boys over on the Caloosahatchie!"

On, slowly and steadily, muffled paddles rising and falling with measured cadence, we pushed through shallow water and stiff saw-grass. It was not more than six or seven miles, apparently that we had to go, yet we were till near midnight getting into position for action, close up to the tree-covered island. We had so far heard no sound except the occasional yelp of some Indian dog on the island. But now, understanding their orders, the officers of each detachment moved forward.

Harney and his dragoons, with carbines, took the center, the artillerymen, armed with muskets, the right; the navy men the left, supplied with United States Yager rifles.

Soon the landing parties were on shore. Yet no sound of alarm. "Forward" came the order, passed in whispers from officer to man, along the line. On—and soon a scent of smoke greets our nostrils. Still onward, and a chorus of yelping curs break the stillness of the night.

"Forward—double quick!"

Then in a few seconds we burst into a village of palm-thatched houses, with smoldering fires around and among them, and a horrible yell and a scattering fire from the startled redskins greet us as we rush in, firing as we go. It was the quickest bit of work I ever saw, yet the surprise was so complete that it was hardly like a fight. Fifteen or twenty shots on their side, a full volley on ours, and we had nothing more to shoot at, for all who were not down, dead or wounded, fell to the earth in submission, except four or five, who fled off in the darkness among the trees and shrubbery. Among these was seen the gigantic Chikika, dropping his rifle from a broken arm as he ran. Above private in the 2d dragoons—his name was Hull, and he was made a sergeant soon after—saw Chikiki as he ran, and followed, carbine in hand. He never lost sight of the chief, but kept on until he could get a sure shot. Wounded and bleeding Chikika found he could not escape. He halted, threw up his left uninjured hand, and cried out in his broken English:

"No shoot! me good Injun—heap good! No shoot!"

"Take that for Caloosahatchie!" shouted Hall, as he sent a ball through the chief's heart. An instant later he tore the scalp from Chikika's head, and then ran back to the village to present it to Col. Harney. The colonel was standing by some wounded officers and men of the command looking sternly at the group of terrified prisoners and a small pile of dead and dying Indians.

"Bring that coil of rope from my boat!" he cried out to one of his men; "and be —— quick about it. We'll have a hanging-bee before sunrise!"

Mrs. Jenkins complained that the turkey she had eaten didn't set well. "Probably," said Jenkins, "it was not a hen turkey."

Cove Creek Confidence.

The New Hampshire Senatorship.

Referring to the choice of a United States senator by the legislature next June, the Dover Republican says:

In this connection we wish to say, in the outset, that any views we may entertain on the subject are not to be considered in disparagement of Senator Blair. We hope his successor will be as good a senator as he has been. We expected good service from him and have not been disappointed. Always at his post and always faithful to his trust, he has been a true, enlightened and useful legislator. He is a royal republican, an indefatigable worker, and has brought forward measures of the highest importance, and advocated them with conspicuous courage and ability. His name is connected enduringly with the Blair education bill, as well as with intelligent effort to ameliorate the condition of labor, and give national encouragement to the cause of temperance. In fact he has achieved a national reputation of which he and his state may well be proud. The legislature might easily do worse than to make him his own successor.

This commendation of Senator Blair is well deserved, and the closing hint is an especially good one.

Books, Magazines, etc.

"A Marsh Island" occupies the place of honor in the Atlantic for February, and in this installment of the story the fortunes of its principal characters begin to be entangled. It is a delightful series of pictures of the country and country folk. Mr. Craddock's "Prophet of the Great Smoky Mountains" is continued, and here again the hero and heroine are brought into "a good situation." A striking episode also occurs in Mrs. Oliphant's "Country Gentleman," and in fact all three of the Atlantic serials, which began in January, are exceedingly interesting. Among the most important articles of a more solid nature are an account of the revival of interest in antique sculpture after the neglect of the Dark Ages, by William Shields Liscomb, under the title of "The Quest for the Grail of Ancient Art;" a second paper on Madame Mohl's Salon; and a clever article of a semi-critical nature, on "Vernon Lee," by Harriet W. Preston. Dr. Holmes' papers are continued. Bradford Torrey contributes a paper on "Winter Birds about Boston." "A Sheaf of Sonnets," by Helen Gray Cone, and verses by Edith Thomas and E. R. Sill, complete the poetry of this issue. A crisp and pungent criticism is given of "Nathaniel Hawthorne and His Wife," a book we noticed in these columns some time since, wherein Mr. Julian Hawthorn seems to imagine he is just as great a writer as was his ancestor, while his biography is full of inappropriate reminiscences and omits much of what the public had every reason to expect would appear; but this is one of the mistakes incident to a biography written by a son. Reviews of "Montcalm and Wolfe," and of other volumes, together with the usual "Books of the month" and the Contributors' Club, complete an excellent number. Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston.

The good things in the February issue of "The Eclectic" commend themselves to different classes of readers, as a special effort is made in this magazine to suit varied tastes. Among the strong papers of a more serious and weighty cast may be instanced "A Faithless World," Francis Power Cobbe; "The Democratic Victory in America" by William Henry Hurlburt; and "John Wycliffe: His Life and Work" (from Blackwood's Magazine.) There is a second paper of De Laveleye's notes on "Wurzburg and Vienna." Edmund Gosse, the English poet, is represented by a short paper on "Samuel Johnson," and Dr. Charles Mackay's fresh installment of "Bygone Celebrities" makes very agreeable gossip. Among other articles of notable interest are "Food and Feeding," Englishmen and Foreigners," "The Rye House Plot," and "Authors as Suppressors of Their Own Books." These papers by no means exhaust the interest of the number, but they adequately represent the general character of it. Published by E. R. Pelton, 25 Bond street, New York. Terms, $5 per year; single numbers, forty-five cents; trial subscription for three months, one dollar.

F. Marion Crawford has published a fifth novel in eighteen months. This time he produces "An American Politician," and as is the case commonly with writers who tackle subjects with which they are unacquainted, the book is said to be not worth reading. Mr. Crawford should think more and write less.

After the Mormons.

At Salt Lake, Utah, on the 20th. inst., the Rugger-Clawson polygamy case was argued in the territorial supreme court, and taken under advisement. An open venire, and the exclusion of Mormons from the jury, are the points at issue.

C. W. Penrose, editor of the Deseret News of Salt Lake, a Mormon church organ, was sought by officers on the 20th, on a warrant for polygamy. They searched his office, but the accused could not be found.

The Mormon church president of Utah, Angus M. Cannon, was arrested on the 20th for polygamy, and held in $2500 bail for examination. The prisoner is a brother of the apostle, George Q. Cannon.

Senatorial Elections.

The Pennsylvania legislature on the 20th inst. elected J. Donald Cameron, republican, for United States senator.

The Missouri legislature re-elected Senator Vest, democrat.

The Florida legislature re-elected Wilkinson Call, democrat.

The legislature of North Carolina re-elected Zebulon B. Vance, democrat.

"Dr." Buchanan Once More.

Dr. John Buchanan, who became notorious three years ago by issuing bogus medical diplomas, was again arrested in Philadelphia on the 20th inst., together with a woman calling herself Dr. Rebecca Russell, who claims to be Buchanan's business partner. Buchanan is charged with having again issued bogus diplomas since his release from prison; and, further, with forgery in having subscribed the names of some of Philadelphia's most prominent physicians to his bogus sheepskins in order to enhance their value. Buchanan was committed in default of $2000 bail for trial, and Mrs. Russell in default of $1000 bail.

In the history of proprietary medicines has any article met success at home equal to that which has been poured upon HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA. Why, such has been the success of this article, that nearly every family in whole neighborhood have been taking it at the same time. Every week brings new evidence of the wonderful curative properties of this medicine.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Combines the BEST Remedies of the vegetable kingdom, and in such proportion as to derive their greatest medicinal effects with the least disturbance to the whole system. In fact this preparation is so well balanced in its action upon the alimentary canal, the liver, the kidneys, the stomach, the bowels and the circulation of the blood, that it brings about a healthy action of the entire human organism, that can hardly be credited by those who have not seen the remarkable results that have followed its use. If the Sarsaparilla does not prove sufficiently laxative, take a few doses of HOOD'S VEGETABLE PILLS. It is well in all cases of biliousness to take these pills in connection with the Sarsaparilla for the first ten days. That dull, sleepy, sick feeling can be wholly overcome by the use of these remedies. Will you give them a trial and be yourself again?

An ex-alderman of this city says of Hood's Sarsaparilla, "It is the strongest Sarsaparilla I ever saw."

The case consequently will be removed to the Circuit court and entered there at the May term. Page for plaintiff; Marston & Eastman for deft.

"MASHERS" SNUBBED.

Since the recent frequent appearance of the "Mother Hubbard" on our streets it has become customary for many young ladies to arm themselves before going out in the evening, their weapons being usually selected from the stock of bootjacks, mortar-pestles, stove pokers, coal-shovels, canes, etc., commonly kept in the house. This was the case with two young ladies who live near the Eastern depot, who had occasion to visit the south part of the city Tuesday evening of this week; the weapon selected by them was a gentlemen's walking cane. The call was made, and when on their homeward way they were accosted,—not by the "Mother Hubbard" but by two young men who were evidently "out on a mash," who stopped directly in front of the young ladies, and remarked, as if expecting to meet them, "Why! here you are now;" but the ladies were on a fighting rather than a flirting expedition, and when they found themselves stopped their courage was equal to the occasion, and the one who carried the cane struck an attitude similar to that assumed by a champion batter of a base-ball team, and with the warning remark "You walk!" was about to drop the uplifted cane on the cranium of the insulter. This reception rather surprised the masculine pair, as it was not the kind of a mash they were looking for; and judging by the flash of the black eye of the fair damsel that she meant business, and by the steadiness with which she held the cane that she would be a sure hitter, they concluded not to try to continue the flirtation, but in less time then it takes to write it they dodged the threatened blow with an alacrity which showed familiarity with the art of self-defence, and vacated the sidewalk in front of the heroines, who continued their triumphal march home without further molestation. Hi. Henry's Minstrels at Music hall on Saturday evening. Of their performance the Alton, Ill., Telegraph says: "It is one of the best shows that ever visited this city—it was fresh, original in its many and varied features, chaste and mirth provoking. Billy Lyons is a vocal phenomenon; a voice of pure soprano and as clear as a bird, and in his make-up of a 5th Avenue belle defies detection."

The schooner Daylight, Captain Hodgdon, was on Wednesday of this week towed by the tug Clara Batemen from the Eastern railroad wharf to a berth near the Spring market, where she is to be loaded for Baltimore by Charles H. Hayes with one thousand barrels of apples.

When an old and reliable firm like David Kimball & Co. agree to warrant an article, people can rest assured that it is of some value. The above-named firm have taken the agency for Littlefield's Constitutional Cough Syrup, and warrant it to cure or the money will be refunded. They do not say this remedy will cure every cough, but they do say that if it does not cure they don't ask a man to waste his money on it. There can be no loss in trying it, for you are sure either of a cure or getting your money back. Read their advertisement on the 1st page.

Considerable talk was caused in Kittery about a year ago by the failure of a young man to appear on the day set for his marriage to a young woman, he having unceremoniously departed from the town on the evening previous. No reason for his conduct was given, and public opinion generally was decidedly unfavorable to him. It would be supposed that if the young woman who was thus cruelly insulted should ever meet the man capable of such action, she would make things as lively as possible for him with woman's most dreaded weapon of war, her tongue; but such was not the case in this instance. The young fellow returned to the paternal residence to spend the Christmas holidays, and one afternoon hitched up the old family horse, drove to the residence of his ex-inamorata, a couple of miles away, tied the animal in front of her house, and went in. What explanation he had to offer is not known, but it must have been satisfactory, for his call was extended to several hours' duration, and his clothes were whole and his scalp on top of his head when he left. He is engaged at work in Boston or vicinity; and what result, if any, will arise from his visit home, can only be conjectured.

LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE.

ON THIS SIDE,

A New Serial Story,

By F. C. BAYLOR,

IS COMMENCED IN THIS NUMBER.

Several chapters of MARY AGNES TINCKER'S charming story, Aurora, with a frontispiece, also appear, together with other short stories, Poems, and Articles of late set up in Current Topics.

PROSPECTUS FOR 1885.

Among the chief periodicals of the country, LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE has acquired the distinctive reputation of being "eminently readable."

Arrangements have been made for many contributions of special interest during the coming year. Among these particular attention is invited to a serial story entitled "ON THIS SIDE," by F. C. Baylor, author of "The Perfect Treasure" (commenced in the January number) in which the experiences of an English baronet and his friends during a tour through the United States are related with a mirth-provoking humor, a knowledge and appreciation of national characteristics, and a perfect fairness of tone and freedom from caricature that cannot fail to secure critical approval and wide popularity. Miss Tincker's beautiful novel, "Aurora," will be completed in the summer, and will be followed by several stories in two or more parts, including "The Lady Lawyer's First Client," by the author of "A Latter-Day Saint."

Sketches of Italian Life, by Mrs. Launt Thompson, an account of the Pioneers of Tennessee, by "Edmund Kirke," a narrative of the experiences of a Steerage Passenger to and from Liverpool, by Thomas Wharton, an article on Queen Anne, or Free Classic Architecture, by George C. Mason, Jr., and a Comedy for private theatricals, by James Payn, will be published early in January, together with the usual variety of short stories and articles of general interest by popular writers.

Lifted Up

A happy surprise it was to Mr. A. R. Norton, of Bristol, Conn., when ATHLOPHOROS put him on his feet, and sent him cheerfully about his business. Let him tell his own story:

"About three weeks ago I was taken with a severe crick in the back. For four days I was unable to turn in bed without help, and when lifted up could not stand on my feet. I was induced to try ATHLOPHOROS, after all the usual remedies failed. In 20 minutes after taking the first dose I could hear my weight upon my feet. In two days I was able to get about and attend to business. In two other cases which have come to my knowledge its use has been attended with the same success."

A poor man in Philadelphia had to borrow a dollar to buy a bottle of ATHLOPHOROS. On account of his poverty his name shall remain a secret. He had suffered terribly from Rheumatism. He gratefully writes:

"I took my first dose on Tuesday afternoon, and on Wednesday, after but seven doses, I felt not a sharp or severe ache left. Then I reduced the dose one-half and took the remainder of the bottle. I was able to be steady at work till Saturday, when I took a severe cold and was unable to use my left hand. I purchased another bottle and by bed-time I found relief. The medicine is all you claim for it."

Investigate ATHLOPHOROS all you please! Find all the fault you choose with it! and yet the fact remains, that it is doing what no other medicine ever could do for Rheumatism and Neuralgia.

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.

Catarrh

Is a very prevalent and exceedingly disagreeable disease, liable, if neglected, to develop into serious consumption. Being a constitutional disease, it requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, acting through the blood, reaches every part of the system, effecting a radical and permanent cure of catarrh in even its most severe forms. Made only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Look out for Your Head.

No matter what parts it may affect, catarrh always starts in the head, and belongs to the head. There is no mystery about the origin of this direful disease. It begins in a neglected cold. One of the kind that is "sure to be better in a few days." Thousands of victims know how it is by sad experience. Ely's Cream Balm cures cold in the head and catarrh in all its stages. Not a snuff nor a liquid. Applied with the finger to the nostrils.

A right whale forty-seven feet long, fourteen feet across the flukes, and eighteen feet through the thickest part of the body, went ashore on Shinnecock point, Long Island, Jan. 18th. The longest slabs of whale-bone measured seven feet, and the whole amount of the bone was valued at $1500; it was thought the blubber would yield seventy barrels of oil, the entire fish being valued at $2500.

Some of the entries in the early records of the town of Waltham, Mass., are of an amusing character. Among the duties apparently devolving upon the earlier boards of selectmen was that of attending to the funeral arrangements of the town poor. The records give the items considered essential, and some of them have a festive rather than a funeral cast. In January, 1739-40, the board of selectmen, considering the death of Widow Wyeth, passed a vote to have the coffin made, the grave dug, four pairs of men's and two pairs of women's gloves provided, and "such a quantity of Rum for the funeral as should be found necessary."

Boxing Fruit in Florida.

A correspondent at Boardman, Marine county, Fla., writes as follows in regard to boxing oranges and lemons in that state:

"The boxing material and hoops come from Maine, the side or end pieces and middle piece of planks are sawed and planed here. The paper wrappers also come from the East, and are sent here in huge boxes, worth $45 the box, and requires 6 cents' worth of paper for each box of oranges. Large packing houses, similar to our sugar houses, are erected close to the railroad and in a house where from 10,000 boxes to 25,000 are shipped, it requires from ten to twenty laborers with step-ladders, each provided with a sack like unto a cotton-pickers's bag, and nippers, to cut the orange stems close up to the oranges. A couple or more of two-mule wagons bring into the orange groves 'field boxes' with handles; into those the cutters empty their bags of o anges carefully so as not to injure the fruit.

"These boxes when full, are taken up by the wagoners, sixteen or eighteen boxes at a time, and are carr ed to the packing-house and placed therein, and another set of boxes taken back to the grove on the return of the wagon. Grading the fruit comes next in order; that is the perfect fruits are chosen from those that are creased or have been injured on the trees or in their growth, and the bright chosen or separated from the russets or colored. Next in order comes the sizing the oranges. They are passed between a row of upright pegs and a board, the pegs placed at different distances from the board, a d between every two pegs a trough leads into a box into which the sized fruit drops. At each one of these boxes sta ds a boy, whose business is to wrap the fruit in tissue paper, with the stems upward, and they are then taken and packed securely and firmly into shipping boxes, and after undergoing this process the lid is put on and hoops bind all securely together, and the fruit is ready for shipment.

"Ten men in the field, gathering oranges, one assistant to help load in wagons the boxes when full, two sorters, two graders, six wrappers, one or two packers, one man to prepare the boxes, and one man to nail up after packing, two wagoners, constitute a packing force to put up, say 150 boxes of fruit per day ready to market at a cost, say of 45 cents for each box for box material, paper, nails and labor. It requires $45 worth of paper to the 600 boxes of oranges, and they range in size from ninety-six to the box to 300, and it costs much less for handling the largest size. One dollar per man, and 60 cents per boy are the wages paid daily."

A THRILLING STORY.

As Told by a Merchant in Troy, N. Y.—A Surgical Operation Avoided—How a Father, Wife and Daughter Escaped an Awful Doom.

Of the hundreds of accounts of remarkable cures wrought by DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, none have appeared so purely astonishing as the following. The persons mentioned are among the most highly respected in the city of Troy, and the story as told by the father will prove interesting to all our readers.—ED.

TROY, N. Y.

Dr. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:

DEAR SIR: My daughter was afflicted with a severe growth of Fungus. To remove it we had recourse to almost every remedy and consulted the most prominent surgeons and physicians. In ——, of Troy, said that a surgical operation would be necessary, but fearing its at results I hesitated. Some of the physicians claimed that it was caused by one thing and some by another. The Fungus was prominent and disfigured her looks. Having heard of Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY working so thoroughly in the blood I determined to try it, to see if this medicine could do what doctors had failed to do and surgeons had hardly dared to undertake. I can say in truth that the result of this trial was the complete cure of my daughter of this dreadful malady. Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY alone effected it. We used nothing else, for other things had completely failed. My daughter today enjoys vigorous health and to Favorite Remedy alone is the credit due. My wife also is very poor in health, due to some liver difficulty with which she had suffered a long time until she became very much reduced in flesh. A trial of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite remedy has resulted in the complete restoration of her health, which she had not enjoyed for years. She had gained in flesh and strength, and thus secured perfect health, and this is DUE EN TIRELY TO DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY. As for myself, being engaged in the grocery and commission business, which makes it necessary for me to test the quality of different articles, like butter, etc., my sense of taste and my stomach were seriously injured. Everything seemed to nauseate me, and fearful of dyspepsia in its most severe form, I tried DR KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY. The first bottle afforded immediate relief, and from that day to this I can say that Favorite Remedy has restored me to perfect health. These are facts which I claim prove that Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is the best medicine in the world for those afflicted with the above difficulties. If any one in the city of Troy doubts the truth of these statements let him come to me and I will prove them. I have recommended Favorite Remedy to hundreds and with the same good results.

INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM

I was attacked last winter with inflammatory rheumatism of severe type—my first serious illness since 1876. I had various kinds of treatment with only temporary partial relief. After seven weeks I was reduced in weight 35 pounds, had no strength or appetite, and was growing weaker every day. In this condition I began Swift's Specific, and in three days began to improve, and in three weeks I was free from disease and up attending to my regular business. My appetite returned and I rapidly gained my flesh. I have waited this long to be sure in that my cure was permanent.

THE GOAT MUST GO.

How a Dude Assisted an old Gentleman to Escape.

That rugged, though not exactly picturesque, part of New York City which first greets every traveler from the north to that city, and which has been immortalized by the comedies of Harrigan and Hart, is about to be stripped of one of its most prominent features. The shanties that adorn its rocks will still remain, but doom has been pronounced upon the goat that has become native to the soil—in such a word can be applied to the barren trap rock on which they browse.

The animal has multiplied until he has become a nuisance, and, owing to his increasing numbers, even the billboards and the tomato cans cannot yield him sufficient nutriment. He is even accused of consuming the iron railings of the fine mansions which are encroaching upon his habitat, and of undermining the brown stone fronts which have of late years been erected there.

One of the new residents in these mansions has actually lodged a complaint against these animals—something utterly unknown before to even the oldest inhabitant in that vicinity. There is talk of an indignation meeting to give expression to the feeling which this "upstart" has provoked among the old citizens.

But he trusts to the justice of his cause and the extent of his grievance. The goats have pushed out and broken one of the stone posts of the railing on his front doorsteps. These steps are always full of goats, and recently one of them being chased by a dog ran up the steps and jumped through a plate-glass window into his parlor. Under these circumstances he has complained to the police.

Another recent resident, a very young man, has also a tale of misery to tell. He was calling on his best girl whose father made fun of his pipe-stem legs and his dude coat-tails sticking below the edge of his overcoat. On his way home late on the night when the "old man" went to his club he met that gentleman interviewing a goat which had attempted to back him off the sidewalk. The old man had seized the animal by the horns and was trying to back it into some policeman and have it arrested. The contest was an exceedingly close one and it looked when the dude came up as if only an official count could settle it.

Here, then, was the young man's long-coveted opportunity to make a friend of the old one. He would rescue him from his predicament and win his daughter's hand by means of the old man's gratitude. His offer of help was gladly welcomed. He was directed to take hold of one horn of the animal. He did so, and the old gentleman, picking up his hat and cane, skipped merrily home.

Now the difficulty of taking one horn is just the same in the case of the goat as it is in other cases. When you have ta en one horn you feel like taking another. In fact you have to, for you will be more likely to be upset when you take one than if you take two. So the young fellow took another and found himself in a worse plight than the old gentleman was in; for there was no one to relieve him. The goat ran him down one avenue, then across another street and up another avenue, until, instead of being taken to a police-station itself, it rescued the dude up to one and had the pleasure of seeing him arrested as a disorderly person, while the goat, imitating the old gentleman, took its cheerful way home-ward.

This young man has joined the crusade against the goat population of that vicinity.

One Well for Two Families.

One well was never large enough to furnish water for two or three families. I rent my palatial dwelling-place from a man who owns two houses—one on either side of that in which I live.

In my back yard there is a well, and in each of the other back yards a cistern is located, and when the three families moved into our respective places of abode, it was clearly understood and so nominated in the bond that all should have access to and water from the well, and that the central figure in the group (meaning myself) should be permitted to draw upon the hoarded treasures of either cistern at his own sweet will.

On Monday of the second week after we began to utilize our building, my wife intimated to me that she would appreciate having a few pails of washing water from one of the cisterns. When my wife intimates anything to me, I always feel the promptings of love in my heart and promptly accede to her wishes. I did so on this occasion, and went to the cistern to westward of us. I pumped up one pail of water and took it to my waiting spouse, but when I attempted to draw another, the woman who seemed to be running that cistern came out and asked me if I did not think it would be more polite—she bore down on "polite" pretty hard—to get some water from the other cistern. I told her that I was a plain, blunt fellow, who did not stand on etiquette very much, and if it made no difference to her I'd get the water where my wife dum pleased. She replied that her cistern was very low, but I told her I was not a bit stuck up or particular about the rank in society of cisterns with which I might have to associate, and she said something about my not being able to take a hint, when I replied that I could take more hints in a minute than she could give me in an hour, and proceeded to transfer the water from the cistern to the wash-tub.

When I returned for a third pail full, the crank of the chain-pump was gone, so I visited the cistern of my other neighbor, who smiled as if to welcome me, as I entered her gate, and remarked that the weather was quite dry. I agreed with her, and was engaged in wetting a pailful of weather, when she proceeded to say that cistern water would be an object one of those days. I said I supposed so, and having emptied my pail came for more.

"Don't you hate a hog?" she inquired. I admitted that I was not very deeply in love with the present tenement of the devil, when she said something about two-legged hogs that I could not help regarding as personal. I filled my pail and gracefully strolled to the back door of the kitchen, where my wife stood, and informed her of the crisis that hovered over us. Sooner than I can tell it, the round of a discarded table-leg was thrust into the spout of the pump at the well, and I was invited to saw it off, which I did. When I returned at noon, from my office, I found my family thirsty, and then I saw for the first time that I had revenge upon all parties concerned, including myself. It cost me a dollar to get the table-leg bored out of the spout, and my wife has to have some bangs and back hair, and the other women have had to purchase new dresses, and court-plaster and arnica have to be bought for the children every day, and each of my neighbors has a padlock on the wheel of his cistern pump, while I pay a negro two dollars a day to guard the well with a double-barreled shotgun, and don't speak to the people that live on either side of us. Oh, no! one well for three families is very amusing, but it is expensive, too.—F. E. Buddle, in New York Mercury.

In Paris when a man gets a divorce from his wife it is the fashion to celebrate the affair by a dinner, ball or some sort of festival. In America when a man gets a divorce, after he has settled with his lawyers, he has to hump himself to get money enough to buy bread, and the chances are that he will run a few lunch routes for some time to come. An American divorce is no picnic, and after a man has been obliged to support one or two grass widows for a couple of years life ceases to have any charms for him, and he is ready to die.—Peck's Sun.

Battle in Africa.

The British troops under Gen. Stewart, 1500 in number, have had a battle near the Aba Kloa wells, twenty miles from Metemmeh, with 10,000 Arabs. The latter left 800 dead on the field, and their wounded numbered 2000 or more. The British had nine commissioned officers and sixty-five men killed, and eighty-five wounded.

The Insurance Men Retaliate.

Texas has become too hot for the fire insurance men, and the New York companies have directed their agents to grant no more policies in that state after February 1st. This action is due to a decision in the United States Circuit court in effect that the face of a policy expresses the value of the property insured in case it is destroyed by fire. Underwriters have always held that a law which allows such a decision offered a great inducement to dishonest men to burn their own property, to the great loss of the companies and of the near neighbors of the persons who are guilty of arson. Their position has long been deemed reasonable in New York, and the legislators of Texas after this summary proceeding on the part of the companies will possibly consider the wisdom of amending their statutes.

A Disgusted "Noble" Man.

During an investigation into the recent election matters at Chicago, Ill., the county grand jury has stumbled upon what may be a very important discovery in view of the closeness of the democratic and republican strength in the state legislature. In the fourth senatorial district, Cantwell, the democratic candidate for state senator, was declared elected, and Mamer, republican, defeated. A thorough examination of the ballots, it is said, indicates that Mamer received a majority of 397.

More Democratic Rascality.

Lord Garmoyle, the titled young Englishman who is heir to an earldom or dukedom, or something, and who was first heard of in connection with a breach-of-promise suit brought against him by Miss Fortescue, an actress, arrived at the Hotel Brunswick, New York, on the 20th inst., from Chicago, accompanied by Lord Osborne, and Captain Arlington of the British navy. The New York World says of him:

Lord Garmoyle is a tall, pink-cheeked, and effeminate-looking man of about six and twenty. His chin recedes from under a rather large mouth, which is fringed with a plain little brown moustache, guiltless of either wax or curl. He is built on the most approved dude model, and expressed a most earnest desire to be let alone by newspaper reporters. The party will remain in New York for a few days.

The noble lord says the newspaper men call him all sorts of names,—Lord Gumboil, Lord Garlic, and even Lord Garfunge.—"and by Jove! you know, it's—I—I don't like that kind of thing, you know." It certainly is too bad.

On Monday, Jan. 19th, the Virginia fleet captured sixty-seven oyster pirates. This is but the beginning of a determined warfare that is to be waged against the depredators. Gov. Cameron declares his determination to continue to make war upon them so long as they continue their unlawful practices. All of the men who were captured and who may be convicted, will be sent to the state prison. Another expedition is to start out at once in search of depredators believed to be infesting the waters of the eastern part of the state. Most of these men are Marylanders and Jersey men.

The Halifax, N. S., Herald publishes an interview with R. P. Grant, president of the Pictou bank, showing transactions of the bank with John Logan, who conducted the largest tannery in the dominion near Pictou. Logan obtained advances from bogus drafts on Halifax, St. John, Montreal and Boston persons to the extent of $125,000 from the cashier, unknown to the directors. The bank took possession of Logan's tannery and other property valued at $200,000, also life policies for $92,000, and it still incurs a loss of $90,000.

A despatch from Hong Kong says that the governors of the maritime provinces of China have been commanded by special orders from the imperial government at Pekin to enforce impartially the laws regarding foreign enlistment which have been agreed upon by the various powers in regard to Chinese free ports. These orders were issued in consequence of a remonstrance made by Marquis Tseng to the English foreign office, and communicated to Sir Harry Parkes, the English ambassador at Pekin. They are aimed against French naval and trading vessels, the commanders of which have been picking up seamen wherever they could find them in Chinese seaport towns. The orders are a quasi declaration of war on the part of China, and will make it exceedingly difficult for French vessels hereafter to find crews in Chinese ports.

Ross Martin, cashier of a bank at Jamestown, Pa., has gone to Canada, taking along $40,000 of the bank's funds.

Bob Mack, the well-known minstrel, died at Elmira, N. Y., Jan. 21st.

Ex-Gov. Leland Stanford has been elected United States senator from California, by the republicans.

In the history of proprietary medicines has any article met success at home equal to that which has been poured upon HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA. Why, such has been the success of this article, that nearly every family in whole neighborhoods have been taking it at the same time. Every week brings new evidence of the wonderful curative properties of this medicine.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Combines the Rare Remedies of the vegetable kingdom, and in such proportion as to derive their greatest medicinal effects with the least disturbance to the whole system. In fact this preparation is so well balanced in its action upon the alimentary canal, the liver, the kidneys, the stomach, the bowels and the circulation of the blood, that it brings about a healthy action of the entire human organism, that can hardly be credited by those who have not seen the remarkable results that have followed its use. If the Sarsaparilla does not prove sufficiently laxative, take a few doses of HOOD'S VEGETABLE PILLS. It is well in all cases of biliousness to take these pills in connection with the Sarsaparilla for the first ten days. That dull, sleepy, sick feeling can be wholly overcome by the use of these remedies. Will you give them a trial and be yourself again?

An ex-alderman of this city says of Hood's Sarsaparilla, "It is the strongest Sarsaparilla I ever saw."

Each dollar bottle contains one hundred (averages) doses. Sold by all druggists. Price one dollar, or six for five dollars. Hood's Sarsaparilla, prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

The sheriff's sale of the stock of millinery in the stores of J. M. Tebbetts, at Nos. 3 and 13 1-2 Market street, took place Thursday forenoon. The stock at No. 3 Market street, appraised at $889, was sold to John S. Rand for 33 1-2 per cent of the appraisal; the stock in the store at the corner of Market and Ladd streets, appraised at $1459, was sold to the same gentleman for twenty-four per cent of the appraisal. There were only one or two bidders beside Mr. Rand, and the stocks it will be seen went at very low figures. We understand that Mr. Tebbetts will soon reopen the store corner of Market and Ladd streets, and resume business.

LITTLE HARBOR.

The secretary of war has sent to the house of representatives the report of Col. C. E. Blunt, United States corps of engineers, of the results of his preliminary examination of "Little Harbor with a view to its improvement as a harbor of refuge," made in compliance with the requirements of the river and harbor act of July 5, 1884. Col. Blunt says that he cannot recommend this. He estimates the total cost at $154,000. He admits that our lower harbor is difficult sometimes to enter with a strong northeast wind and ebb tide. He appears to be decidedly of opinion that the alleged probable saving of property and life would not be worth the $150,000 it would cost to make the improvement. Referring to Hon. Frank Jones' statement as to the deficiency of harbors between Portland and Cape Ann, Col. Blunt naively remarks: "The mouth of the Merrimac river will soon be a good harbor unless the improvements now in progress at the expense of the national treasury wholly fail of their object. There is no doubt however of their full success!" It would seem that an officer apparently so ill informed as to the character of the mouth of the Merrimac, with its shifting bar, not at all permanently improved with its jetties made at a vast outlay, is unable to judge between a safe, land-locked harbor of refuge and an exposed roadstead, even if the outlays in which he expresses so much confidence are to be kept up annually.

The report is accompanied by such evidence as would convince any impartial examiner that the section in the act of 1884 which provides that no survey shall be made of any harbor until a preliminary survey has been made by a local engineer, and his opinion stated with facts and reasons on which he bases it, "including the present and prospective demands of commerce," will not always be a safe rule, as everything is made to depend upon the opinion of a local engineer who may not incline to engage in more work than he is obliged to undertake.

In the present case, we do not see that Col. Blunt has taken any especial pains to comply with the requirements of the law as to the demands of commerce. The petitioners send many letters, some of them from men of experience familiar with the matter under discussion, and as we should have supposed, convincing in their character. We find a communication from the president of the Board of Trade and thirty-nine others; from Col. Ichabod Cole of Eliot, who is especially familiar with the river, and has been for fifty years; from Capt. John Stewart, long master of coasting schooners; from Capt. Thomas O. Hoyt of Kittery Point; from Hon. F. Jones to Gen. Newton, preceding a supplementary report of Col. Blunt, whose tenacity of opinion seems to show no signs of yielding. Then come letters from Ex-Mayor Sise, and from Leander White, keeper of Whalesback light station; and Jesse E. Frisbee, Esq., representative to the Maine legislature, gives a list of thirteen vessels lost, which might have been saved had Little Harbor been accessible. Letters also from Capt. Albert Rand, of steamer Clara Batemen; Collector Howard; Col. William H. Hackett, clerk of the United States circuit court; Capt. Herman A. Tarlton; Capt. Lyman D. Spalding; Charles H. Rollins; Hon. John S. H. Frink; Alderman Eldredge; Senator Laighton; the editor of the Chronicle; James P. Bartlett; Messrs. Albee and Stedman, of Newcastle, who write truth, not poetry, in this connection; Ex-Mayor Treat; E. P Kimball, Esq, and Robert C. Peirce, of the Piscataqua savings bank; Capt. John S. Pray, Mayor Page and Major Urch; Capt. Rufus A. Preble of Newcastle, a harbor pilot of forty-three years' service; Ex-Congressman John R. Reding; Capt. B. F. Jacobs add Capt. J. A. Stover; Jos. Hiller Foster, Esq., of the Portsmouth savings bank; Capt. Wm. Ross, late of the ship Granite State; and Messrs. Rider & Cotton. Now all these gentlemen to a greater or less degree state either from personal observation, general report or specific information, what is needed in this locality, but to all of them is reported a "Blunt" refusal to recommend the improvement.

While we have seen the prodigal outlay made to deepen rivers where no dangers to navigation exist, we here see an opportunity to add to the means of saving not only property in vessels and cargoes, but of lifeitself. Our distinguished former townsman does not deny that to some extent Little Harbor, if improved, would be used as a harbor of refuge by fishing vessels, and coasters of light draft, and would be serviceable in such cases. And we submit that the life and property and pursuit of happiness by the lone fisherman, or the buffetted coaster, are of just as much value to either of them and their families, as are those of the commander of the most costly ship that sails the ocean blue and is in danger of shipwreck.

What may be the outcome of this matter we cannot conjecture; but we do know that when the Colonel of Engineers reports his evidence and his findings thereon, he makes out a pretty strong case against himself, and reaches a decision which the House of Representatives ought upon the papers presented, to reverse.

FRANKLIN THEATRE.

At Franklin theatre, on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings of next week, the Acme Operatic & Burlesque company will perform "The Gold Fiend," which is described as a moral, humorous and exquisitely interesting fairy story; the prices of tickets will be 10, 20, 30 and 50 cents, and the managers advertise that "money will be refunded to everyone who is not satisfied that they have had their money's worth." An exchange thus speaks of this entertainment:

"A dollar show for ten cents" is what the management of the Acme Operatic & Burlesque company promised to give at the People's Museum, and in the production of the "Gold Fiend" last evening they faithfully kept their word. From the rise until the fall of the curtain there was one continuous stream of laughter. The singing, dancing and sayings were all new, and comprised none of the old jokes which audiences have been compelled to listen to so often. The members of this company have been judiciously selected from the cream of operatic talent, and no pains have been spared to make this the cleverest company on the road. It is indeed a rare treat to see so many young and pretty faces grouped together.

Saturday evening, at Music hall, Hi. Henry's Premium Minstrels will appear. The Lowell News says of the show in that city, "the entertainment was unanimously pronounced the best of its kind that has been given here for years. The programme was replete with novelties. The choruses were well sung, and the single acts were all first-class."

Michael Hurley left this city in the eleven o'clock train for the eastward last Thursday forenoon, to enter the employ of Solon S. Andrews, Esq., the former contractor engaged in the removal of Gangway ledge in Portsmouth harbor, who owns an ice pond of a surface of 200 acres near Bath, Me., where he is now engaged in cutting ice.

Mr. Charles Dame has been recently appointed foreman of Henry Bean's stock and milch farm in Newington. The barn, newly finished, is the largest in that town, and at present holds about forty head of cows of fine grade.

Mr. John Lewis, who has sometimes been maliciously reported as belonging to the B. N. T. W. society, is busily engaged in cutting and packing ice for the Eldredges' lager beer establishment, from the pond near by.

The fishing schooner George E. Hagan, of Newcastle, beat in on Thursday afternoon, the 22d inst., with 5000 lb. of codfish—a good fare for these times. She was so thoroughly iced up on arrival as to look more like an iceberg than a vessel.

From the report of the chief engineer of the fire department it appears that the number of fires occurring during the year ended Dec. 31st, 1884, was twelve; value of property destroyed as nearly as can be estimated, $109,925; amount of insurance on property destroyed, $69,925.

There is reported to be a civil war going on among the barbers of this city, and the price of hair cutting and shaving is said to be at barberously low figures.

Ice in the north mill-pond is solid enough at present. It used to be quite a busy place at this time of the year for eel spearers; but their late attempts have proved nearly futile. Eels cannot breathe there.

The blizzard from the northwest was so severe on Thursday that no lazy people were to be seen on the streets.

Nearly all the papers in this county announced, either last week or this, that the Rockingham County Temperance Association would hold a convention at South Newmarket, Thursday, Jan. 22d. Confiding in this notice two gentlemen and a heroic young lady braved this cold morning and took the cars for South Newmarket, only to learn that they were the victims of somebody's blunder. No convention was to be held. We hope the late political campaign has not demoralized the management of this much lauded organization. Even our special reporter showed slight symptoms of indignation on his return.—Times, Jan. 22d.

Enoch J. Connor has been awarded the contract for re-cementing the basement of the custom house building, he being the lowest of three bidders whose proposals were opened on Thursday.

Mr. George W. Peirce, of Rye, brought in to Mr. Con. Sullivan on Wednesday of this week sixty-five pounds of fine smelts, caught in a seine at Seavey's creek. The fish have been selling at fifteen cents a pound.

An uneven swap of overcoats was made on the night of the masquerade at the Portsmouth skating rink, in consequence of a mistake in checks. If the one who took the best coat is honest, he will re-exchange.

The advance in the market price of Portsmouth, Great Falls & Conway railroad bonds to ninety-two and the stock to forty indicates, with the movement to have legislation granted in relation to the sinking fund of the Eastern railroad, that the day of dividends is coming. There is an enquiry for these bonds in the market, and large orders to buy have been given. The bonds are long, secured by mortgage at a rate of interest which can be afforded by the corporation because for a debt it is low in comparison with the rate by other similar corporations, while for investors at ninety it pays five per cent, a rate which for a good bond in these days is by no means to be disregarded by capitalists and savings banks.

In these hard times, when incomes are small and people in cities are obliged to economize, and we hear of so many theatrical companies stranding and avoiding debts, it is gratifying to chronicle the success in our midst of a dramatic company of youngsters who gave an entertainment at the west end recently, satisfied the audience, paid all the bills, and had a handsome division of profits among the actors and attendants.

There will be a clam chowder at Martin Garrity's, Saturday night.

FAMILY MAGAZINE,

LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE.

A Regular Monthly of General Literature.

ON THIS SIDE,

A New Serial Story,

By F. C. BAYLOR,

IS COMMENCED IN THIS NUMBER.

Several chapters of MARY AGNES TINCKER'S charming story, Aurora, which is rendered, also appear, together with other short stories, Poems, and Articles of late set up in Current Topics.

PROSPECTUS FOR 1885.

Among the chief periodicals of the country, LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE has acquired the distinctive reputation of being "eminently readable." Arrangements have been made for many contributions of special interest during the coming year. Among these particular attention is invited to a serial story entitled "ON THIS SIDE," by F. C. Baylor, author of "The Perfect Treasure" (commenced in the January number) in which the experiences of an English baronet and his friends during a tour through the United States are related with a mirth-provoking humor, a knowledge and appreciation of national characteristics, and a perfect fairness of tone and freedom from caricature that cannot fail to secure critical approval and wide popularity. Miss Tincker's beautiful novel, "Aurora," will be completed in the summer, and will be followed by several stories in two or more parts, including "The Last Lawyer's First Client," by the author of "A Latter-Day Saint."

Sketches of Italian Life, by Mrs. Launt Thompson, an account of the Pioneers of Tennessee, by "Edmund Kirke," a narrative of the experiences of a Steerage Passenger to and from Liverpool, by Thomas Wharton, an article on Queen Anne, or Free Classic Architecture, by George C. Mason, Jr., and a Comedy for private theatricals, by James Payn, will be published in early numbers, together with the usual variety of short stories and articles of general interest by popular writers.

Lifted Up

A happy surprise it was to Mr. A. B. Norton, of Bristol, Conn., when ATHLOPHOROS put him on his feet, and sent him cheerfully about his business. Let him tell his own story:

"About three weeks ago I was taken with a severe crick in the back. For four days I was unable to turn in bed without help, and when lifted up could not stand on my feet. I was induced to try ATHLOPHOROS, after all the usual remedies failed. In 20 minutes after taking the first dose I could bear my weight upon my feet. In two days I was able to get about and attend to business. In two other cases which have come to my knowledge its use has been attended with the same results."

A poor man in Philadelphia had to borrow a dollar to buy a bottle of ATHLOPHOROS. On account of his poverty his name shall remain a secret. He had suffered terribly from Rheumatism. He gratefully writes:

"I took my first dose Tuesday afternoon, and on Wednesday, after but seven doses, I had not a sharp or severe ache left. Then I reduced the dose one-half and took the remainder of the bottle. I was able to be steady at work all Saturday, when I took a severe cold and was unable to use my left hand. I purchased another bottle and by bedtime I found relief. The medicine is all you claim for it."

Investigate ATHLOPHOROS all you please! Find all the fault you choose with it! and yet the fact remains, that it is doing what no other medicine ever could do for Rheumatism and Neuralgia.

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.

INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM

I was attacked last winter with inflammatory rheumatism of severe type—my first serious illness since 1876. I had various kinds of treatment with only temporary partial relief. After seven weeks I was reduced in weight 35 pounds, had no strength or appetite, and was growing weaker every day. In this condition I began Swift's Specific, and in three days began to improve, and in three weeks I was free from disease and up attending to my regular business. My appetite returned and I rapidly gained my flesh. I have waited this long to be certain that my cure was permanent.

THE HULA-HULA.

Strange Customs of the Natives of the Sandwich Islands.

The hula-hula or native dance of the Sandwich-Islanders is one of the most singular and fascinating exhibitions of the poetry of motion to be seen among any of the barbaric or semi-civilized nations of the earth. In the olden time on all occasions of festivity and joy the hula-hula was a conspicuous feature. The king had his own band of expert dancers, and the hula-hula was brought to a high state of perfection; but on the advent of the missionaries into the country and the civilization of the race hula-hula began to decline. The influence of the missionaries and of the really religious of the natives has always been strongly exercised against its perpetuation, both on account of its connection with the old days of idolatrous worship, and because they think some portions of the performance unseemly and even lewd. A few famous dancers still remain, but a public exhibition is never given. At rare intervals a private hula-hula is gotten up and a few favored foreigners are invited to witness the performance.

I was invited by a native chief whose acquaintance I had formed, to go with him to see a real hula-hula, a genuine dance of the good old time.

We entered a large room on the floor of which a number of native spectators lay stretched on soft mats. Room was made for us, and we had hardly taken our seats before a curtain, which was stretched at the far end of the room was drawn, and the entertainment commenced. First the musicians entered and sat down on one end of the stage, which was simply a large thick mat, on three sides of which reclined the spectators. The music consisted of six drums—three large and three small. The large ones were enormous calabashes, the heads of which were covered with tightly drawn skin; the small ones were cocoanut shells covered in the same manner.

The leader—a sprightly dame of 70 summers—was a very important personage, as it was her business to direct the performance by the expression of her face and the action of her hands.

Suddenly a strange chant was raised, accompanied by a beating of the drums in perfect time. This gradually died away and two more musicians appeared, holding long sticks from which they elicited clear notes by striking them with shorter ones; these took their places behind the rest of the orchestra and

After them, all dancing in a row,
The comely virgins came with garlands dight,
All fresh with flowers.

Ten girls, fascinatingly dressed, with scarfs bound around their waists and crowned with garlands of flowers and with wreaths of gardenias around their wrists and ankles, made their way with slow and graceful movements to the edge of the stage, on which they sank just as the music ceased. Some of these girls were beautiful, and had lightly moulded limbs and figures of extreme grace. At a tap of the drum they raised themselves to their knees and commenced a wild song to which they at first beat time by a clapping of the hands. Gradually this changed into the most expressive pantomime. The sticks and drums took up the measure—arms, hands and even fingers spoke torrents of words with a precision that the best-drilled ballet troupe could never attain. The body swayed backward and forward, the slightest motion to the right or left being repeated by all; sometimes snake-like and repulsive, anon seductive and pleasing, until finally a wild tossing of the arms, followed by a low wail, proclaimed the end of the story, to the evident discomfiture of the maiden, and the triumph of the lover.

During the interval required for a rest, a very intricate performance was gone through by four men and four women, who sat opposite and close to one another. Each held a bamboo about two feet and split at the end into strips. When struck together they made a most peculiar sound which formed the accompaniment to the song.

The object appeared to be for each one to put the other out of time, in which none of them ever succeeded, as in whatever way one thrust the stick, the other was sure to do exactly the same. Sometimes a prick point by the men was gracefully parried by the women, who retaliated by a smart tap on the head or shoulder, which the men never attempted to guard. A distinct rhyme was kept up all the time by the bamboos, and as their sound began to get somewhat monotonous loud cries were raised for the "hula."

The dancers formed a circle. Each held a small calabash ornamented with feathers, and with seeds inside, so that it could be used as a tamborine or rattle. Slowly the ring begins to circle round, hands and feet keeping time in a majestic formal fashion. Soon they quicken their steps, and the sharp rattle keeps up a ringing fire, with now and then a deep boom from the big drums; the circle widens, and, just as with wild grace the dancers reach the inner row of spectators the music ceases and they throw themselves on the ground, leaving two of their number standing in the center. After a pause the music and the singing begins again and as they become more passionate so does the dancing of the pair become more intoxicating and abandoned. Others join them, each pair wording out the old story of coquetry, jealousy, and the final surrender of the maiden, according to their own tastes and ideas. Soft swaying movements and a gentle turning away, timid glances and startled gestures gradually give place to more rapturous passions. The excitement of the dance inspires them to fresh and more rapid evolutions, until exhausted nature can stand no more, and they drop fainting on their cushions.—Kansas City Journal.

Twenty-Seven Years on His Back.

In 1848, while Jonathan Bass, then 18 years old, was going to a pasture, now built upon in Lockport, N. Y., he felt a severe pain in his right foot. He has never been able to discover what caused the pain. He became lame, and tried in every way to get cured, doing a little work in one place or another until 1857. Then, one joint after another having become affected until all were diseased, he was at last put on an invalid's movable bed. He has never since left it. Until 1865 he managed to feed himself, but since then he has been fed by others. All his joints are firmly set and immovable, and though he cannot move any part of his body, and, of course, cannot chew at all, his appetite is vigorous, and he eats a good deal of meat by sucking it into his throat in long slices.

He can talk as well as ever, and is an intelligent and well-read man. He read so constantly when he was first bedridden that he blinded himself, and has not been able to see since 1869. His body is in such a singular condition that it seems as if it was all one solid bone. The hole he has wasted away and his arms and legs are very little thicker than the bones beneath the skin. Yet the bones of the fingers of the right hand have disappeared, and so have all the bones of the left hand and of all the toes. He weighs only seventy or eighty pounds, and any one who can raise that weight can lift him by putting one hand under his head and one under his heels, his body being as rigid as if he were a log. His muscles are said to be unaffected, though useless, his heart and all his other vital organs perfectly sound, and his condition otherwise such as to lead the doctors to believe he will live many years longer. He does not suffer pain now, as he used to do early in his affliction.—New York Sun.

A maiden lady of Philadelphia was a witness in court the other day, and when sworn was requested to kiss the Bible. She refused, saying that it was so long since she had kissed anything that she had forgotten how it was done. This is a strange and interesting case.

The Revenue Marine.

In the senate, on the 22d inst., Senator Conger reported favorably from the committee a bill to promote the efficiency of the revenue marine service. The bill directs the secretary of the treasury to place on waiting orders with waiting orders pay, all officers of the revenue marine who shall be totally disabled for regular duty, or shall be sixty-five years of age, or who shall have served forty years; the vacancies so created shall be filled by promotion. The secretary is also authorized to place on the waiting orders on one-half of his regular pay, or to drop from the rolls with one year's full pay any officer of the revenue marine who shall be found to be disabled, but whose disability is not an incident of the service. The bill further provides for the appointment of three post-captains in the revenue marine service, with an annual compensation of $3000 each. The provisions of the bill are good, as far as they go, and it should became a law.

Avalanches in Italy.

A despatch from Rome says that terrible accounts continue to be received from the region of the Piedmontese Alps, of the casualties and destruction caused by snow storms and avalanches. Twenty houses have been destroyed and forty persons killed at Borgomanero. Fifty houses have been demolished at Frassiniere, and the number of fatal casualties there is eleven. In the little village of Frassino, which has a total population of less than 1800, seventy persons have been killed. Soldiers have been sent to all places named to assist the villagers in digging out the dead and rescuing the wounded victims. Collections for the benefit of the stricken villages are to be made in the churches throughout Italy, and it is suggested that the remaining portion of the funds raised for the cholera victims should be devoted to the relief of those who have suffered by the avalanches.

In the history of proprietary medicines has any article met success at home equal to that which has been poured upon Hood's Sarsaparilla. Why, such has been the success of this article, that nearly every family in whole neighborhoods have been taking it at the same time. Every week brings new evidence of the wonderful curative properties of this medicine.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Combines the Best Remedies of the vegetable kingdom, and in such proportion as to derive their greatest medicinal effects with the least disturbance to the whole system. In fact this preparation is so well balanced in its action upon the alimentary canal, the liver, the kidneys, the stomach, the bowels and the circulation of the blood, that it brings about a healthy action of the entire human organism, that can hardly be credited by those who have not seen the remarkable results that have followed its use. If the Sarsaparilla does not prove sufficiently laxative, take a few doses of Hood's Vegetable Pills. It is well in all cases of biliousness to take these pills in connection with the Sarsaparilla for the first ten days. That dull, sleepy, sickly feeling can be wholly overcome by the use of these remedies. Will you give them a trial and be yourself again?

An ex-alderman of this city says of Hood's Sarsaparilla, "It is the strongest Sarsaparilla I ever saw."

Each dollar bottle contains one hundred (averages) doses. Sold by all druggists.

Price one dollar, or six for five dollars.

HI. HENRY'S MINSTRELS.

At Music hall, this evening, Hi. Henry's Premium Minstrels will appear. This company performed in Kingston on the night of Dec. 29th, and the Leader of next day said: "There was never a better minstrel performance given in Kingston than that of Hi. Henry's troupe on Tuesday evening. The performance was in all parts most excellent, and the applause was frequent and pronounced. The parlor entertainment was very fine indeed; the singing being good and the jokes fresh and new. Messrs. Bowers and Mack are hosts in themselves; Billy Lyons as the wonderful soprano was a great success. The skating carnival brought out loud applause. Tom English, the musical wonder, created great interest. His violin playing was simply wonderful, and with the bones he is marvellous. The base ball match was sidesplitting. The hour of the sparkling opera, "The Legend of Greybeard's Rock," was well sung and finely acted. There were five interesting scenes. Very handsome wardrobes are used."

"THE GOLD FIEND."

A paper at Fall River, Mass., speaks as follows concerning the burlesque opera company which will appear in Franklin theatre three evenings next week.

The management of Acme Operatic & Burlesque company have succeeded in securing the Academy of Music to-morrow evening, and will produce the beautiful fairy extravaganza, "The Gold Fiend," in a manner which will call into play all the numerous acoustic and mechanical effects of the Academy stage. This clever company has been playing during the week to crowded houses at the People's Museum, and to accommodate the many patrons of amusement in Fall River, they have at the request of many influential citizens who desire their wives and families to witness this grand production, agreed to give two special performances to-morrow.

MISTAKEN EXCURSIONISTS.

The Dover Democrat of Thursday, the 22d inst., says that on the previous evening as Thomas Cavanaugh and James Ryan were selling tickets in the city hall ticket office for the St. Mary parochial levee, a stranger asked for twenty tickets. "They were handed to him. He examined one, and said there must be a mistake. Mr. Cavanaugh asked what was the matter, and the stranger replied that he and nineteen others had come up all the way from Portsmouth to hear John B. Gough lecture, and that on examining one of the tickets he had just purchased he discovered they were for a levee and not for a lecture. Mr. Cavanaugh then informed the stranger that Gough would lecture twenty-four hours later, and accordingly the tickets were taken back and the money refunded. The stranger informed Mr. Cavanaugh that he and his party saw an item in one of the Portsmouth daily papers to the effect that the lecture was to take place Wednesday evening, and that was how they made such a bad mistake. When the party were informed of the error they were naturally displeased." The managers of the levee invited the party to enter and enjoy themselves, which they did, remaining several hours.

The Democrat of the same date (the 22d) says: "Some Dover temperance workers went to South Newmarket today to attend a meeting of the Rockingham County Temperance Association." As there was no meeting of that association in South Newmarket that day, it is probable that the Dover temperance workers were as much displeased at their wild-goose chase on Thursday as the Portsmouth would-be hearers of John B. Gough were on Wednesday evening.

Nearly all the papers in this county announced, either last week or this, that the Rockingham County Temperance Association would hold a convention at South Newmarket, Thursday, Jan. 22d. Confiding in this notice two gentlemen and a heroic young lady braved this cold morning and took the cars for South Newmarket, only to learn that they were the victims of somebody's blunder. No convention was to be held. We hope the late political campaign has not demoralized the management of this much lauded organization. Even our special reporter showed slight symptoms of indignation on his return.—Times, Jan. 22d.

The Journal of Jan. 24th remarks that "The Rockingham County Temperance Association met at South Newmarket on Thursday of this week."

The Newmarket Advertiser of the 24th says: "The annual meeting of the Rockingham County Temperance Association will be held at the Methodist Episcopal church in South Newmarket, Thursday, Jan. 29th."

Rev. John A. Goss will lecture in the Court street church on Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock; subject, "St. Paul's view of life and death."

In the police court at Dover, on Friday, John R. W. Sagar was tried for cruelty in using a horse unfit for use by reason of lameness, the complaint being brought by T. E. O. Marvin of this city on behalf of the New Hampshire Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. After the evidence on both sides was in Mr. Marvin briefly addressed the court, stating that if the accused was adjudged guilty a very low fine would satisfy the society, which only wished to secure merciful treatment for dumb animals. Sagar was fined $10, with $10.58 costs.

The coat reported as having been wrongfully taken from the Portsmouth rink on the night of the masquerade belonged to Mr. Washington Stott. On the loss being reported to Dr. Potter, proprietor of the rink, he at once expressed willingness to make any loss good, but was not called upon to do so, the coat having been found. In a pocket of the inferior coat left behind, was discovered a card bearing the name of Edward E. Fowler of Newburyport, and the two coats were again exchanged before Thursday was gone.

Seventeen marines, including three sergeants, from the barracks at the Charlestown navy yard, arrived in this city by rail, Friday morning, marched to the navy yard landing, and were transported across the river to the yard, where they were quartered in the barracks. This detail is for the marine guard of the U. S. S. Marion. The government tug Rocket, from the Charlestown yard with twenty-five seamen for the Marion, arrived at this yard on Friday; she started from Boston on Thursday morning, but was compelled to turn back after reaching Nahant, on account of the weather.

There was a dance at Newington on Friday evening, under the management of R. H. Pickering and C. H. Pickering of that place. A party of twenty-five ladies and gentlemen went from this city in Beacham's new barge, to attend the dance.

MASQUERADE.

A masquerade party is to be given in the Portsmouth skating rink Tuesday evening, Feb. 3d, with music by Taylor & Tasker's full orchestra, of Dover. It will be conducted by the young gentlemen who managed the recent dress party in Congress hall, and with the same care. Mrs. Newhall, the Boston costumer, will bring down for this occasion a new and varied line of costumes, the finest ever seen in this city.

The third assembly of the M. N. B. club took place in Franklin upper hall on Friday evening.

There were quite a number of fishing vessels at the Water street wharves on Friday; the vessels were very much iced up on arrival. The Florence Nightingale, of Swampscott, came in Friday afternoon, with a considerable fare. Messrs. Fernald & Co., of Gloucester, who are stopping in Portsmouth at the former Seaman's Home,—now the "Horn of Plenty," conducted by Mrs. John S. Hubley,—have been buying fish here for the past two weeks, and contemplate establishing themselves permanently. The highest price paid last week was $3.50 per hundred lbs., and $3 the last few days.

The entertainment given at Brooks' hall, South Eliot, on Monday evening, Jan. 19th, under the auspices of the Ladies' Beneficial Circle, was one of the most pleasing ever given there. The dialogues were very entertaining, and the parts well taken; the violin and piano duets by Dr. Willis and Mrs. Staples were finely rendered, and heartily encored. The management may feel sure of a full house at their next entertainment.

Several chapters of MARY AGNES TINCKER'S charming story, Aurora, with a frontispiece, also appear, together with other Short Stories, Poems, and Articles of Interest up on Current Topics.

PROSPECTUS FOR 1885.

Among the chief periodicals of the country, LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE has acquired the distinctive reputation of being "eminently readable."

Arrangements have been made for many contributions of special interest during the coming year. Among these particular attention is invited to a serial story entitled "ON THIS SIDE," by F. C. Baylor, author of "The Perfect Treasure" (commenced in the January number) in which the experiences of an English baronet and his friends during a tour through the United States are related with a mirth-provoking humor, a knowledge and appreciation of national characteristics, and a perfect fairness of tone and freedom from caricature that cannot fail to secure critical approval and wide popularity. Miss Tincker's beautiful novel, "Aurora," will be completed in the summer, and will be followed by several stories in two or more parts, including "The Last Lawyer's First Client," by the author of "A Latter-Day Saint."

Sketches of Italian Life, by Mrs. Launt Thompson, on account of the Pioneers of Tennessee, by "Edmund Kirke," a narrative of the experiences of a Steerage Passenger to and from Liverpool, by Thomas Wharton, an article on Queen Anne, or Free Classic Architecture, by George C. Lifted Up

A happy surprise it was to Mr. A. E. Norton, of Bristol, Conn., when ATHLOPHOROS put him on his feet, and sent him cheerfully about his business. Let him tell his own story:

"About three weeks ago I was taken with a severe crick in the back. For four days I was unable to turn in bed without help, and when lifted up could not stand on my feet. I was induced to try ATHLOPHOROS, after all the usual remedies failed. In 30 minutes after taking the first dose I could bear my weight upon my feet. In two days I was able to get about and attend to business. In two other cases in which have come to my knowledge its use has been attended with the same results."

A poor man in Philadelphia had to borrow a dollar to buy a bottle of ATHLOPHOROS. On account of his poverty his name shall remain a secret. He had suffered terribly from Rheumatism. He gratefully writes:

"I took my first dose Tuesday afternoon, and on Wednesday, after four more doses, I had not a sharp or severe ache left. Then I reduced the dose one-half and took the remainder of the bottle. I was able to be steady at work till Saturday, when I took a severe cold and was unable to use my left hand. I purchased another bottle and by bed-time I found relief. The medicine is all you claim for it."

Investigate ATHLOPHOROS all you please! Find all the fault you choose with it! and yet the fact remains, that it is doing what no other medicine ever could do for Rheumatism and Neuralgia.

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggists, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.

The Face.

It is a mistake to believe that a good complexion depends upon the use of cosmetics. It really depends upon perfect digestion and the purity of the blood. If persons with poor complexions will only take Wetherell's Sarsaparilla, which is the best medicine ever devised for imperfect digestion and a purifier of the blood, they are sure to digest well, and in consequence have clear, healthy complexions. Sold by all druggists. One dollar per bottle.

The heaviest sleet of the season fell Thursday at Shreveport, La. The bridges in the surrounding country have been swept away, the streams being higher than for years. The roads are impassible, and this condition of things is causing great suffering in some localities.

"A God-send is Ely's Cream Balm," writes Mrs. A. Jackson, of Portsmouth, N. H., on May 25, 1882. I had catarrh for three years! had tried nearly all remedies but to no purpose. Two or three times a week my nose would bleed quite freely and I thought the sores in it would never heal. Your Balm has cured me. This preparation is not a liquid or a snuff, and is easily applied. Price 50 cents. See advt.

The prisoners in the jail at Bellevue, Bossiere parish, La., set fire to that building Wednesday evening of last week, and it was completely destroyed. For a time it was thought that the whole village would be destroyed, but the spread of the flames was prevented by tearing away buildings near the jail. All the prisoners were secured.

The ten-year-old son of George Ridwell of Pittsfield, Mass., found a broken thermometer in his father's store a day or two ago, and took the bulb containing mercury and about two inches of the glass pipe, into his mouth. He accidentally swallowed it, and it is likely to result in his death.

You Can Have It.

"My dear, what would I give to have your hair?" is often said by middle-aged ladies to young ones. Madam, you may have just such hair. Parker's Hair Balsam will give it to you. It will stop your hair from falling off, restore the original color and make it long, thick, soft and glossy. You need not stand helplessly envying the girls. The balsam is not oily, not a dye, but is an elegant dressing, and is especially recommended for its cleanliness and purity.

MALTESE AND ANGORA.

Something About a Sort of Pets that Many Ladies Prefer to Small Dogs.

"Is it possible," asked a reporter, "that Maltese and other fancy cats are taking the place of dogs as ladies' pets? It is said that in Washington ladies go out shopping taking with them Maltese cats fastened with gilt chains to their girdles."

"Well, I don't know whether cats will ever supplant dogs in the affections of the ladies," laughingly replied Surgeon B. G. Dovey, as he sat in his office at No. 26 West Fourth street, in front of a door marked "Private," where both dogs and cats were for sale and under medical and surgical treatment; "but there is no doubt that the Maltese and Angora cats have become great favorites. Still, there is no greater demand for the former than there was three years ago. The Angora cat has probably increased in popular favor, and now, on any fine day one may see ladies driving in Central park with the beautiful creatures in their laps. The Maltese, too, are often taken for a drive, and both they and the Angoras seem to enjoy the fresh air fully as much as their mistresses do. No, cats are not often taken out walking. A cat is not fond of long walks where there are no fences to climb, and dogs may be encountered, but the lazy luxury of a carriage seems to suit them. The Maltese and Angora cats are very docile and affectionate. The Maltese, probably, can be more easily and thoroughly domesticated than any other of the feline tribe. They are less expensive than the peerless Angora, but still they come pretty high. I can sell a full-grown male for about $12, and male kittens for from $8 to $10 each. The females are cheaper, being worth about $2 each. A well-grown Maltese cat should weigh about twelve pounds. They are long-lived, and, if properly treated, should attain a score of years. A perfect Maltese cat should be altogether slate-colored, without a particle of white. Most of them have six toes and very large feet, but they may be pure-bred and have small feet and only five toes. They came originally from the island of Malta, but to-day America, or even New York state, produces more Maltese cats than Malta does.

"The Maltese cats, as a rule, are hardy, but they are usually kept so closely confined to the house, and often feed so injudiciously, that they are liable to get indigestion, torpid liver, and fits. When the fits appear death is likely to be close behind. They are brought to me often when there is no time to treat them. Sometimes I am called upon to attend a cat afflicted with what the owner thinks is an abscess, or a tumor, but which frequently proves to be a cancer. Nothing then can help them except an operation, but if the disease has not made very great progress I can generally operate successfully. With dogs cancer is much more common, and I often have to remove it. Sometimes I use ether, sometimes not, as the circumstances require; but I can save life far more frequently than surgeons who treat human patients.

"A litter of Maltese kittens numbers from three to seven. They grow quickly, and are very playful and interesting. The Angora cat is as different as possible from the Maltese. My wife takes exclusive charge of our stock, and is as devoted to them as though they were children. The Angora came, and comes yet, from Persia, but we raise a good many in this country. They are of various colors—pure white, black, white and black, yellow and white, gray and white, steel and white, and mottled—but all are alike beautiful. Their hair is very abundant, long, fine, and soft as silk. Their tails are as bushy as those of foxes. Their ears are small and far apart, and their eyes are large, sagacious, and of a light olive color. They live from twenty-five to thirty years. In price they average, for male kittens $40, and for full-grown males $125; for female kittens $25, and for full-grown females $1.0. The Angora cat is, I think, the handsomest small animal that lives."—N. Y. Sun.

It Wouldn't Work the Second Time.

"Are you a dramatic editor?" asked a smooth-faced young man, attired in a plug hat, a bright green bobtail frieze coat, and tight check pants, and further adorned by a red scarf, yellow-upper shoes, and a four-pound watch-chain, as he walked into the office, with a three-ply frown corrugating his brow. "Are you the man that prints them guys onto the perfession?"

"We occasionally print interesting incidents relating to prominent artists," replied the d. e. blandly.

"Wasn't this the paper that printed that story about Giannini, the opera singer, being captured by brigands in Spain?"

"I think I remember the instance," replied the critic.

"And after they had cleaned out the tenor and his troupe, Giannini began to sing something, whereupon the chief of the robbers recognized the tenor from having heard him sing at Madrid, and was so much affected that he embraced him, returned the plunder, and escorted him safe through the country. That was the story, eh?"

"Yes, I think such were the facts," said the journalist, snapping his watch.

"Well, it is all guff—a regular bilk," exclaimed the professional, angrily.

"What do you mean?" growled the writer, reaching for the big shears.

"Why, just this: Robbers ain't got no more appreciation for talent than—than managers have. They don't go a cent on art, them fellows don't," and the artist gloomily lit one of the critic's cigarets.

"Don't, eh?" said the star-scalper.

"No, sir, they don't; and I'll prove it. My stage name is Hamphat—you've heard of the Hamphat Brothers, the great song-and-dance team haven't you?"

The dramatic editor admitted that he hadn't.

"Well, sir, my partner, 'the world-renowned' Teddy Hamphat, was up doing the northern circuit last week, and the stage he was in was stopped by road-agents near Ukiah. Ted had read that blamed Giannini item, so he took the boss highwayman aside into the bushes and sung him a couple of verses of 'Dat Yaller Gal Dressed in Green,'"

"And how did it work?"

"Work, sir; why, the gang shot him full of holes and chucked him into a ditch. I'm agoing up on the 5:30 train to fetch the body home."

"That's sad—very," said the critic, with a beaming smile.

"And it's all your fault. I'd advise you fellows to let up deceiving the public that way. It ain't the square shake by a derned sight. We're going to give the widow a benefit, and I think you oughter give it a star notice as a stand-off."

The critic promised to attend to it, so the gentleman from the Bella Union abstractedly collared the balance of the cigarets and drifted out.—San Francisco Post.

More Dynamite Outrages!

Despatches were received in New York from London on Saturday afternoon, stating that "an alarming explosion of dynamite has just occurred in the Houses of Parliament." This meagre report was quickly followed by others, of which the following is the substance:

The Houses of Parliament and the government offices were severely shaken and considerable damage was done. It is impossible at this moment to tell the extent of the calamity. The report of the explosion was heard in Downing street. Great excitement prevails and enormous crowds are assembling at the scene. The origin of the explosion is wrapped in profound mystery, but is believed to have been caused by dynamite. The explosion occurred close to the House of Lords, near Westminster Hall. It is reported that the explosive was placed in the crypt under the building. One policeman was hurt. The force of the shock was tremendous, and was felt at a great distance. The amount of the damage done was very great. Rumors are current at this hour that another explosion occurred at two o'clock this afternoon at London Tower. The excitement increases with every moment, and the city is filled with flying rumors. There were two explosions, instead of one, as at first supposed, at the Parliament houses. The second one about three minutes after the first. One was near the House of Commons, the other at Westminster Hall. One man has been arrested near the scene of the explosion. The detective force is hard at work now seeking further developments, which are anxiously awaited, particularly by people in neighborhood of Westminster Hall.

The rumors regarding an explosion at London Tower are confirmed. The outrage was the most successful which has yet been made upon any of the public buildings since the inauguration of the present era of dynamite warfare. The famous old building was crowded with visitors at the time of the explosion. The wildest rumors are in circulation as to the number of persons who have been injured by the crime. These rumors are being carried through the city, and considerably exaggerated by the visitors who were present at the time and who have hurried away in all directions. Up to four o'clock but sixteen persons had been officially returned as having been injured by the explosion. None of these are reported as mortally hurt. The attack was made on that portion of the building known as the "White Tower." It was fairly filled with visitors at the time, and most, if not all, of those who are known to have been hurt were moving about in the Tower at the time of the explosion. The White Tower was almost completely wrecked by the force of the explosion, and the roof was blown clear off the structure. All the persons known to have been injured were visitors. The police, the moment they realized the nature of the explosion, effectually barred all egress from the Tower and grounds. They are now subjecting every person who they have succeeded in detaining by this measure to a most rigid search, upon the theory that the attack was perpetrated by some person or persons inside the premises.

The latest despatches up to Sunday morning added little, except details, to what was at first sent. The first explosion, in Westminster Hall, occurred at 2:59 o'clock P. M., as shown by the stoppage of the big clock at that moment.

Everybody in the building of course rushed towards the hall, and the crowds going to and coming from Westminster bridge turned into the yard and poured through the main door into Westminster Hall. Three or four minutes later a loud report came from the vicinity of St. Stephen's Hall. The first report was mild compared with the last, which was like the roar of a dozen cannons, and accompanied by a general smashing. Instantly the 1500 or 2000 excited men who had crowded into the hall ran for the door through which they had come, trampling upon and crushing each other in their haste to escape from the palace. The scene of the second explosion was in the lobby of the House of Commons, and completely wrecked the place. The wall separating the lobby from the chamber was nearly demoralized, and the women's gallery, which faced the speaker's chair at the southern end, and which was partly over the lobby, was torn to pieces. Bradlaugh's seat, under the strangers' gallery, was buried, and, strangely enough, hardly a vestige is left of the Irish benches. The House clock was stopped at precisely 2:14. The glass roof of the Commons was broken all to pieces. The walls of the division rooms, on each side of the lobby, into which the members file when the House divides on a measure, were blown down. Most of the benches on the floor were broken up, and all were thrown into heaps. The strangers' and and peers' galleries are partial wrecks. No one was seriously injured by the second explosion, as nearly all visitors and attendants had gone into Westminster Hall, whence came the first report.

Saturday being the usual visiting day at the Houses of Parliament, the buildings contained a great number of sightseers at the time of the explosions. The first explosion occurred in the crypt of Westminster hall. The second took place in the strangers' gallery in the House of Commons. Immediately before the first explosion, a lady visitor, who was alone and was about to enter the buildings, beckoned to a policeman, and when he went to her, she called his attention to a package lying upon the steps outside the crypt. The policeman picked up the package carefully, not suspecting anything, and went with it into Westmin-ter Hall. He had no sooner reached the hall than the package exploded. This explosion knocked the policeman down, and injured him so seriously that his case is considered critical. Its force also knocked down two other policemen who were standing in the vicinity and badly stunned them. A lady and gentleman standing near the officer who had the package were also prostrated. The great window over the main entrance to Westminster Hall was smashed to atoms, and all the side windows were blown out. In the interior of the House of Commons and upon the floor the only seat damaged by the explosion was that which Mr. Gladstone occupies. It was badly broken. A small chip was also torn off the top of the speaker's chair. The explosion caused quite a panic among the visitors who were in the buildings at the time. Those who were in the House of Commons fled precipitatively, and many of the ladies were bruised in the crush. The second explosion in the Parliament buildings occurred three minutes later than the first, and was far more destructive. The dynamite which caused the second explosion, must have been placed under the Peers' gallery, on the left side. Little hope is entertained of the survival of the wounded policeman. The force of the explosion was such that one man was blown to the earth, who was as many as 300 yards from the point where it occurred. The lobby of the House of Commons was completely demoralized.

The woman who called attention to the infernal machine on the steps of the crypt was placed under close guard in the Westminster hospital, one of the theories of the police being that she carried the package into the crypt. No trace of the machine which exploded in the lobby of the Commons, could be found. It is estimated that it must have contained at least twenty or twenty-five pounds of dynamite to have caused so much damage. The marble about the doorways of the House of Commons was shattered, and in St. Stephen's hall great damage was done the statuary.

The police seem to have settled upon the theory that the dynamite which caused havoc at the House of Parliament and at the Tower was conveyed to those places by women, or men dressed as women, who appeared to be pregnant, the explosive being concealed under their garments. Such a person was observed by the visitors at the Tower just before the explosion. She was escorted by a man of military appearance. Before the gates were closed by the police after the explosion this woman and her escort had disappeared, having evidently taken advantage of the excitement to make their escape unnoticed.

The number of casualties reported as resulting from the explosion in the White Tower is twenty. Six of these are classed as severely, and two are thought to have been fatally injured. The possibilities of the danger at the Tower are the subjects of much discussion. Large quantities of ammunition are stored there at all times, and had the fire spread to the magazines, the danger would have been indefinitely increased.

Up to evening only two arrests had been made on account of the day's outrages. One was that of a Canadian, apparently a sailor, whose innocence was soon established, and who was released. The other arrest was made late in the afternoon, the suspected person being an Irishman known by the name of Cunningham, who has at times gone under the names of Dalton and Gilbert. He recently came from America and was among the visitors at the Tower, who were detained and searched by the police. His account of himself was not very satisfactory, and he was conveyed to the police office and placed in confinement to await further developments. Further search of the Tower and the examination of the visitors which was made by the police, resulted in nothing more important than this arrest.

It is announced that O. G. Morse, a travelling salesman and collector for D. Lothrop & Co.'s piano, organ and sewing-machine agency in Dover, has disappeared. He had been collecting large sums of money for the firm, which have not been turned in. It is rumored that the deficit amounts to $1500. Morse is married and has a family. He has been employed by the firm nearly two years, and had large territory and considerable money to handle.

Ted Timoney, formerly of Dover but now of Providence, R. I., and Nobby Clark, put on the gloves at a sporting house in Boston on Friday afternoon, and during the second round Timoney struck Clark a back-handed blow on the back of the neck. The force of the blow disabled Timoney's right arm, and stopped the fight. Timoney went to the Massachusetts general hospital, where it was found that the small bone of the right arm, was fractured between the wrist and elbow. His wound was properly dressed, and he left the hospital with friends.

Nobody Who Uses

Who uses Sulphur Bitters can remain long unwell. The foreman of the Shapleigh Machine and Screw Works, Boston, Mass., L. B. SMITH, says: Ever since birth I have been troubled with Salt Rheum; my head was covered with scales and patches, and when I bent my fingers the flesh would crack open and bleed. The itching and burning feeling almost drove me crazy. Your Sulphur Bitters has done me more good than anything I have ever used, and I think it is a great blood purifier, and I advise all so troubled to use

Sulphur Bitters

Bitters, for I know it will do you good.

The Engineer of the Wakefield Rattan Works, says: I think your Sulphur Bitters are a most excellent medicine. I have used them in my family for some time, and now would not be without them in all cases of illness, accompanied with those terrible sick headaches. It is the best medicine I ever saw. I have used many different kinds of medicines in my family, but none seem to take hold and do the good that your Sulphur Bitters have done. C. R. YOUNG.

Sulphur Bitters? The most prominent people in New England. The wife of DEACON CARLETON, First Baptist Church, Winchester, Mass., says: My eldest son was troubled with Rheumatism so bad that for over three months he was unable to leave his bed; his knees and joints swelled so that he could not feed himself. The best physicians here failed to help him, and I tried Sarsaparillas and all manner of liniments without benefit. A gentleman told my husband to use Sulphur Bitters, as he thought it was an honest medicine. In three days from the first dose of Sulphur he was able to feed himself, which he had not done before for twelve weeks, and in two weeks he was able to return to his work.

The Postmaster, Winchester, Mass., says: Gentlemen,—I am personally acquainted with Mr. and Mrs. Carleton, and was astonished at the remarkable effect of your Sulphur Bitters in curing their son; and its large sale is undoubtedly due to the fact that it is an honest medicine. And I do not think too much can be said in its praise.

Yours truly, GEO. P. BROWN.

128 Doses One Dollar.

The Ex-Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, MAJOR GEO. S. MERRILL, says: For a reliable medicine use Sulphur Bitters. I believe it to be the best and purest medicine made.

CHURCH DEDICATIONS.

The Christian church at North Hampton, which has just been entirely remodelled at considerable expense, was last week rededicated, the order of exercises being as follows: Invocation by Rev. Joel Wilson of Kittery, Me.; reading of scripture, Rev. L. W. Phillips, Haverhill, Mass.; reading of hymn, Rev. D. B. Murray, Manchester; prayer of dedication, Rev. John A. Goss, Portsmouth; reading of hymn, George E. Merrill, Greenland; sermon, subject, "Blessings of public worship," Rev. D. P. Pike, Newburyport, Mass.; remarks, Rev. D. B. Murray, a former pastor of the North Hampton church; reading of hymn, Rev. Mr. Copp, pastor of the Methodist church, Hampton; closing prayer, Rev. J. H. Graves, Hampton; benediction, Rev. Mr. Plaisted, of Wells, Me. The venerable clergyman, Rev. Mr. Scott, of the Methodist church, was present. Letters were read from Rev. Mr. Haynes, pastor of the Congregational church at North Hampton, and Rev. Mr. Spaulding of Salisbury, Mass. Services were held in the evening, when Rev. John A. Goss preached the sermon. Revs. Murray, Plaisted, Merrill, Graves and others assisted in the service. The exercises, both afternoon and evening, were of great interest.

The Congregational church in Epping was dedicated Jan. 22d. The choir gave excellent music. The invocation was by Rev. A. B. Peabody of Candia; reading of the scriptures by Rev. F. E. White, pastor of the Methodist church in Epping; prayer by Rev. E. H. Greely of Concord; historical statement by Rev. Joseph H. Stearns, D. D., pastor; dedicatory sermon by Rev. George B. Spalding, D. D., of Manchester; prayer of dedication by Rev. Dr. Robie of Greenland; benediction by Rev. Mr. Fitts of South Newmarket. The exercises were of great interest, and the society now has a fine house of worship.

Hi. Henry's minstrels had a good audience at Music hall, Saturday evening, and gave marked satisfaction. The jokes are new and good, the singing and special acts excellent, the closing "opera" amusing, the costumes rich, and the whole entertainment clean.

At Franklin theatre, this evening, will be performed the "Gold Fiend," an amusing, interesting fairy legend, presented by a strong company. The play and players come highly endorsed, and the price of admission is said to be the only cheap thing about the show. See advertisement.

The Birds of a Feather Comedy Co. will be at Music hall Feb. 2d, 3d and 4th, and will perform "A Day in June" all three evenings. The price of admission will be but ten cents, with ten cents additional for reserved seats.

Sol Smith Russell of the Boston Museum company, now travelling on the New England circuit, has achieved great success as Jefferson Scattering Batkins in the "Silver Spoon."

The Eastern Railroad Trainmen's Mutual Benefit Association now numbers seventy-five members; it pays $6 a week sick benefit, and $1 assessment from each member in case of a death. At the last meeting of the association it was voted to ask for incorporation under the Massachusetts laws, and to admit all railroad men to membership.

A certificate representing $1000 of the special deposit of the Portsmouth Trust & Guarantee Co., held as collateral by the First National bank, was sold by auction at noon on Saturday at the rooms of the bank. Only two bids were made; the first, $50, was by Col. J. Horace Kent, and the second, $100, by Hon. Calvin Page, to whom the certificate was knocked down.

Mr. Josiah S. Haley, of New York city, a Portsmouth boy and formerly a typo, has taken out letters patent upon an improved means for regulating the temperature of beer; the object of the invention being to provide such an apparatus as will do away with a great deal of the labor and expense of cooling liquids stored in casks and other large vessels.

Miss Laura H. Pickering, of Newington, and Miss Helen G. Webber of Hampton Falls, are among the graduates of the Massachusetts state normal school at Salem.

In the senate of Maine, Tapley, of York county, is on the following committees: Chairman of the judiciary, a member of the committee on engrossing bills, and on claims; Goodwin, of York county, is on bills on their second reading, manufactures, state prison, and mines and mining; Smith of York county is on federal relations, mercantile affairs, insurance, and interior waters. In the house, Junkins of York is on legal affairs, engrossing bills, and state prison; Frisbee, of Kittery Point, is on fisheries and game, and reform school; Cole, of Eliot, is on counties.

The York county bar has chosen Hon. John M. Goodwin of Biddeford president for the ensuing year. The bar entertained Judge Foster of the supreme court at a banquet on Thursday last.

The Pepperell Manufacturing Co., of Biddeford, has declared a dividend of $30 a share, payable Feb. 2d, and the Laconia Co. $12 a share, payable on demand.

A Very High-Toned Affair.

The New York World says there was a very lively scene in the gentlemen's dressing room of Stewart Castle at Washington, D. C., on the night of Jan. 22d, upon the occasion of Mrs. Stewart throwing open her house for a general reception to the official and fashionable society of Washington.

A son of Congressman Holman struck Senor Don Carles De Castra, secretary of the Venezuelan legation, in the mouth, and knocked him down. Friends of both parties interfered to prevent a general fight, and in the struggle several blows were exchanged between other excited young men. Young Holman was gotten out of the house, and the row hushed up without it becoming generally known. It appears that a number of the young men patronized the punch bowl too freely and were in a very excitable condition at the time of young Holman's assault, and so added to the excitement instead of quelling it when the assault began. The cause of the assault of young Holman was his attempt to resent an impertinence addressed to a young lady friend of his who was at the Stewart ball.

Holman was so furious in his desire to revenge the affront that he rushed off with an imperfect description of the guilty diplomatic fledging. He thought De Castro was the man, though as it subsequently turned out it was shown that De Castro was not in any way to blame and did not even so much as know the young lady. He was simply mistaken for another. Before any explanation could be made, he was knocked out by the infuriated Hoosier. Young Holman was caught by Charlie Poore, of Syracuse, N. Y., son of Admiral Poore, and remonstrated with, and Holman instantly turned upon him with threats. Then a burly California friend interfered and said that Mrs. Stewart's house should not be made the scene of a disgraceful brawl. By this time the room was crowded.

Before young Holman could be pacified several blows were passed between members of the hot-headed crowd. A young society man by the name of Guyhon was knocked out, but the burly Californian, a stronger man, played policeman so effectually as to put an end to the shindy.

It was said on the 22d that young Holman only regretted that he hit the wrong man, and had apologized to De Castro; that the latter declined any apology, and would demand personal satisfaction. Meanwhile young Holman was looking for the real offender, and at the same time was said to be not unwilling to fight a duel if necessary. The incident is one of the greatest social sensations of the season in Washington.

The liberty bell left Philadelphia on Friday by rail for New Orleans, where it will arrive Monday. On the top of the frame that enclosed it was the inscription "1886. Proclaim Liberty," while on each side of the flat car were two clasped hands, with the names of the two cities, Philadelphia and New Orleans, on either side.

Good Talk.

The inauguration of Governor Scales of North Carolina at Raleigh last week was attended with unusual military and civic display. In his address the governor dwelt at length on the necessity of more schools, better teachers, and longer terms. He said that the federal government had emancipated the slaves and should aid in their education, and that the Blair bill was constitutional and would give needed relief, and should be passed. He said that no reactionary measures touching the negro population would meet with his approval, and that progress in every department would be the aim of the administration.

Rear Admiral Jouett, commanding the North Atlantic squadron, recommends that Congress make an appropriation of $4,000 for the incidental expenses of the vessels of the squadron while in attendance upon the World's Exposition at New Orleans. It is Admiral Jouett's intention to pay suitable attention to any foreign representatives who may be attending the exposition, and to any other officials or distinguished persons, and to contribute in every possible way to the success of the exposition. The admiral's letter and accompanying estimate for the $4,000 reached the house of representatives by transmission through the secretary of the navy and the secretary of the treasury.

Secretary Chandler of the navy has received a communication from an American resident at Nice, France, saying that the officers of the United States steamer Lancaster are holding high carnival at that place, and have roundly abused the secretary for having ordered the vessel to the Congo, which action, they publicly assert, was taken to spite the ladies of their families, who, the writer says, are holding daily receptions on the vessel, in open defiance of the rules of the service. The secretary has written to Rear Admiral English, commanding the Lancaster, for information on the subject.

—"How did you manage to raise money to go to the opera last week?" asked Brown of Jones, who is very deaf. "Pawned my ear trumpet." "I don't see how you enjoyed the opera without your ear trumpet." "I took my opera glass."

If it were possible to get the testimony of the multitude who have used HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA for debility, languor, lassitude, and that general feeling of stupidity, weariness and exhaustion which every one feels during this season, we should be able to present to our readers such an overwhelming mass of commendatory messages, that the few who have not tried it would do so at once. It is a positive fact, and has been so effectually demonstrated that no one to-day denies it, that Hood's Sarsaparilla contains more real medicinal value than any article before the people.

What a Man Did with Kidney Complaint

DRACUT, MASS.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Dear Sirs—I have suffered from kidney complaint and biliousness for fifteen years. Have tried everything and never got any good. Last January, before I commenced taking HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA, everything I ate bloated me all up, pain in my chest and arms, headache and dizzy. I could not get up without feeling weary and all fagged out. Many mornings I was obliged to lie down on the lounge. To do any work seemed almost impossible. Have taken two bottles. The backache, dizziness, pain in my chest and arms, and that feeling of intense weariness are all gone. I can eat anything and it does not press me at all. Feel just like work; in fact, like a new man. Can heartily recommend HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA, and hope all who desire to know anything about it will come to me and ask what I think of it. Very truly yours,

JONATHAN J. COBURN.

LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE.

A Regular Monthly of General Literature.

ON THIS SIDE,

A New Serial Story,

By F. C. BAYLOR,

IS COMMENCED IN THIS NUMBER.

Several chapters of MARY AGNES TINCKER'S charming story, As a Man Thinketh, also appear, together with other fresh topics, Poems, and Articles of Into est in Current Topics.

PROSPECTUS FOR 1885.

Among the chief periodicals of the country, LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE has acquired the distinctive reputation of being "eminently readable."

Arrangements have been made for many contributions of special interest during the coming year. Among these particular attention is invited to a serial story entitled "ON THIS SIDE," by F. C. Baylor, author of "The Perfect Treasure" (commenced in the January number) in which the experiences of an English baronet and his friends during a tour through the United States are related with a mirth-provoking humor, a knowledge and appreciation of national characteristics, and a perfect fairness of tone and freedom from caricature that cannot fail to secure critical approval and wide popularity. Miss Tincker's beautiful novel, "Aurora," will be completed in the summer, and will be followed by several stories in two or more parts, including "The Lad's Lawyer's First Client," by the author of "A Laodicean," by Sarah Orne Jewett.

Sketches of Italian Life, by Mrs. Launt Thompson, an account of the Pioneers of Tennessee, by "Edmund Kirke," a narrative of the experiences of a Steerage Passenger to and from Liverpool, by Thomas Wharton, an article on Queen Anne, or Free Classic Architecture, by George C. Mason, Jr., and a Comedy for private theatricals, by James Payn, will be published in early numbers, together with the usual variety of short stories and articles of general interest by popular writers.

LIVES OF PAIN

RHEUMATISM and NEURALGIA have long enough run riot in the human system.

They have tormented the human family and defied the medical faculty; from time out of memory they have corrupted the blood, demoralized the joints, vexed the nerves, agonized the muscles and racked the brain with wearying pain.

"ATHLOPHOROS" is the enemy of Rheumatism and Neuralgia, repairs their damages, renews the blood, eases the joints, calms the nerves, soothes the muscles, gives rest and peace to the troubled brain, and secures delightful sleep.

"ATHLOPHOROS" is a new remedy, but it has been abundantly tried. From far and near come testimonials from well-known persons who had long been sufferers. It has turned their disease out. It has cured them. That is all,—and that is enough.

"ATHLOPHOROS" can do for you what it has done for those sufferers. It can drive out your Rheumatism and Neuralgia, and will do so if you give it a fair trial.

"ATHLOPHOROS" has by this time had such a good trial all over the country that its true work is known, and its true character proved.

"ATHLOPHOROS" means "Prize-Bearer;" "Victor;" "Conqueror." It carries off the prize as VICTOR over the attacks of these terrible maladies, and Conqueror of the fruitful agonies their victims have endured. Not a mere temporary relief, but a permanent, enduring, and triumphant cure.

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.

Some heathen are not as much of the heathen as we think; read a Mahometan proverb, "God has bestowed the good things of this world to relieve our necessities, not to reward our virtues; these will be rewarded in another world." We know of no greater necessity to be relieved, than a stubborn cold, and we know of no better relief than Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

It doesn't follow that a patient will die because the doctors have "given him up," or that he will recover because they promise to "pull him through." Settled Consumption Cured.

Several years ago a severe cold settled on my lungs. The most popular physician that ever practiced here attended me for a long time but to no avail. After a consultation he said I had settled consumption and gave me up. I was advised to try Dr Seth Arnold's Cough Killer, and to my own and friends' astonishment, it cured me, and I am now a well, hearty man.—Thomas D. Paine, Jeweler, Woonsocket, R. I.

To Restore Faded Photographs.

To accomplish this, according to the British Journal of Photography, than which there can be no better authority on such a subject, one has only to immerse the yellow print in a dilute solution of bichloride of mercury until all the yellowness disappears. It is then well washed in water to remove the mercurial salt. If the print be a mounted one, it is by no means necessary to unmount it previously to treatment. All that is required in this case is to keep it in intimate contact for a time with blotting paper charged with the bichlorate; indeed, this is the plan originally suggested by Mr. Barnes. By the bichloride treatment no lost detail is actually restored, as some have imagined. It is simply that the sickly yellow color, which, as it were, buried the delicate halftints, of what remains of them, is removed, and thus renders the picture bright and clear. Pictures which have been treated with the mercury always possess a much warmer tone than they did originally; as the purple or the black tones give way to a reddish brown or reddish purple, more or less bright, according, probably, as gold or sulphur had been the principal toning agent. Here a question very naturally arises with regard to the future performance of pictures which have been thus "restored," seeing that negatives intensified with mercury, or transparencies toned by it, are so prone to change. In answer to this, we may mention that they appear to be permanent; at least that is our experience with some that have been done for many years. There appears to be no further loss of detail, and the white remains the purer; indeed, since undergoing the treatment with mercury, no alteration is yet perceptible

Representatives of the different Presidents' families are living in Washington. Annie Tuttle, a domestic employed by Mrs. E. W. Harrington on Hanover street, Manchester, was terribly burned Jan. 20th by her clothing taking fire from a stove. Every day adds to the great amount of evidence as to the curative powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Letters are continually being received from all sections of the country, telling of benefits derived from this great medicine. It is unequalled for general debility, and as a blood purifier, expelling every trace of scrofula or other impurity. Now is the time to take it. Made by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass. A THRILLING STORY.

As Told by a Merchant in Troy, N. Y.—A Surgical Operation Avoided—How a Father, Wife and Daughter Escaped an Awful Doom.

Of the hundreds of accounts of remarkable cures wrought by DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, none have appeared so purely astonishing as the following. The persons in interest are among the most highly respected in the city of Troy, and the story as told by the father will prove interesting to all our readers.—Ed.

TROY, N. Y.

Dr. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:

DEAR SIR: My daughter was afflicted with a severe growth of Fungus. To remove it we had resorted to almost every remedy and consulted the most prominent surgeons and physicians. Dr. ——, of Troy, said that a surgical operation would be necessary, but fearing fatal results I hesitated. Some of the physicians claimed that it was caused by one thing and some by another. The Fungus was prominent and disfigured her looks. Having heard of Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY working so thoroughly on the blood I determined to try it, to see if this medicine could do what doctors had failed to do and surgeons had hardly dared to undertake. I can say in truth that the result of this trial was the complete cure of my daughter of this dreadful malady. Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY alone effected it. We used nothing else, for other things had completely failed. My daughter today enjoys vigorous health and to Favorite Remedy alone is the credit due. My wife also was very poor in health, due to some liver difficulty with which she had suffered a long time until she became very much reduced in flesh. A trial of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy has resulted in the complete restoration of her health, which she had not enjoyed for years. She had gained in flesh and strength, and thus secured perfect health, and this is DUE ENTIRELY TO DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY. As for myself, being engaged in the grocery and commission business, which makes it necessary for me to test the quality of different articles, like butter, etc., my sense of taste and my stomach were seriously injured. Everything seemed to nauseate me, and fearful of dyspepsia in its most severe form, I tried DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY. The first bottle afforded immediate relief, and from that day to this I can say that Favorite Remedy has restored me to perfect health. These are facts which I claim prove that Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is the best medicine in the world for those afflicted with the above difficulties. If any one in the city of Troy doubts the truth of these statements let him come to me and I will prove them. I have recommended Favorite Remedy to hundreds and with the same good results.

The Face.

It is a mistake to believe that a good complexion depends upon the use of cosmetics. It really depends upon perfect digestion and the purity of the blood. If persons with poor complexions will only take Wetherell's Sarsaparilla, which is the best medicine ever devised for imperfect digestion and a purifier of the blood, they are sure to digest well, and in consequence have clear, healthy complexions. Sold by all druggists. One dollar per bottle.

Price 50 cents. See advt.

The number of bears killed the past year in Maine, according to the official returns to the state treasurer, was 549. By counties they were as follows: Aroostook, 138; Franklin, eighteen; Hancock, ten; Oxford, twenty-five; Penobscot, 166; Piscataquis, eighty-eight; Somerset, eighteen; Washington, eighty-six. The amount paid in bounties was $2,745. The town of Greenville, in Piscataquis county, bears the palm in bear-killing, the number returned being sixty.

You Can Have It.

"My dear, what would I give to have your hair?" is often said by middle-aged ladies to young ones. Madam, you may have just such hair. Parker's Hair Balsam will give it to you. It will stop your hair from falling off, restore the original color and make it long, thick, soft and glossy. You need not stand helplessly envying the girls. The balsam is not oily, not a dye, but is an elegant dressing, and is especially recommended for its cleanliness and purity.

AN ECCENTRIC JUDGE.

Anecdotes of a Western Judge of a Conscientious Turn of Mind.

The following stories are related of a judge of one of the Circuits in Western Michigan. The Judge was of a conscientious turn of mind, honest and upright, a lawyer of ability, but somewhat given to eccentricities:

A man of questionable reputation was on trial once before him on a criminal charge. The attorney for the defendant was a gentleman of reputation, subsequently chosen Attorney-General of the State. Every effort that he made in the way of objections, and they were frequent, was ruled against by the court, all of which caused feeling.

Finally the Judge became impatient on being reminded that the defendant was entitled to a fair standing in court, and said to the counsel for the defense:

"The two of you put together have no standing in this court; you ain't no better than he is, and he ought to be sent up for life!"

On another occasion an important law question was being argued, several attorneys being engaged on each side. One of them was making his argument. He had read quite a number of authorities in support of his position and was insisting that the proposition he contended for was the law. The Judge told him in the midst of his argument he was wrong.

"But that is simply your Honor's opinion," said the attorney.

The reply was: "Yes, sir, it is only my opinion, 'tis true. I don't care for the opinions of the Supreme Court of Vermont or Pennsylvania, or any other court; my opinion controls this court, and governs your case, and I predict you're goin' to get beat so bad you won't know where you are."

And the Judge was right about it, as the sequel proved.

Another time the court was sitting in chancery for the trial of a divorce case. The proofs had all been taken and a solicitor for the complainant had been arguing the cause for two or three hours. The Judge was becoming uneasy. All at once he broke out in this way: "Now, Clarke, look here; you've been talking for four or five hours and not said a thing about the case. I don't propose to fool away my time listening to slush. If you don't change your tune pretty soon, I am going home; that's all there's about it.

The attorney for the defense—"I am conducting my side of this case, and propose to present it in a manner that suits me, and you have got to sit here and listen to it.

Judge—"No, sir, there is no law compelling a man to sit still and be bored to death; you must stick to the case or I won't stay here. Proceed, sir, with your speech!"

As the argument proceeded, the Judge kept getting more impatient and at last turned to the clerk and shouted:

"Mr. Clerk, enter up in the journal of this court that A. B. is a fool, and adjourn court until to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock."

The clerk made the entry, and an inspection of the journal will show it there to-day.

A case was being tried before the Judge without a jury, with an able lawyer on either side. The plaintiff was Mor t, and the defendant a well-to-do colored man. The suit was for breach of contract and there seemed to be much difficulty in ascertaining what the contract was. While Morfit was upon the stand, the defendant's attorney objected to nearly every question. The Judge overruled each objection with the remark, that as there was no jury, the reception of the testimony could do no harm. The objections continued, and finally the Judge turned to the attorney and said:

"See here, Henry, I am going to overrule all your objections as fast as you make 'em. I am going to hear the whole of this case. There's no jury here, so no harm can be done, and old Morfit's got to swear a good deal stronger'n he has yet or he'll get 'busted' all to pieces."

The trial proceeded, and when the defendant took the stand, the same course of objections continuing, the Judge informed counsel he would put the questions himself.

Judge—"Now, my good man, just tell me about your trouble with Morfit.

Defendant—"Yas, sah; you see, Judge, one nigh tas' May, Mr. Morfit an' I was down by de co'n dar and Morfit says to me—no I says to Mr. Morfit; no—lemme see——"

Judge—"Come, come, get to the point and tell me what he said."

The defendant proceeded again as before, but each time he stopped and seemingly could get no farther. After several fruitless trials by the court and attorneys the Judge said to him:

"Well, I think you had better go and sit down where you won't be in the way. You don't know half as much about the case as old Morfit does, and he doesn't know enough to wha it."

It is needless to add that judgment was for defendant, and for costs.

Improvement in Torpedoes.

Hitherto the difficulty with the torpedo as an instrument of offense on shipboard has been to launch it properly from the beam when the vessel is going at a high rate of speed. It used to be impelled along a guide-bar, to which it was attached by a T-piece, until it was so far from the side of the ship as not to be affected by her way. But the pressure of the water caused the guide to vibrate from side to side, so as to enter jam the torpedo effectually or injure its tail at the moment of leaving the ways. A strong and rigid gun-metal shield has now been added to the torpedo equipment of the British warship Polyphemus for the purpose of projecting from the side and taking the pressure of water from the guides. Unless an expedient is devised which will insure a safe and certain dispatch of a torpedo from a ship sailing very fast through the water there will be little use in supplying the Polyphemus, which has been built for speed, with such a weapon.—N. Y. Mail and Express.

Advantages of Limited Museums.

The value of every collection intended for scientific purposes and public use—books, natural science objects, ethnographical specimens, it matters not what—does not depend upon quantity or variety, but the completeness of its classes or their subdivisions. A reference library for instance, that contained every publication of consequence relating to the Mississippi Valley, would be preferable to one more numerously supplied with books on American history, but wanting many in every department; or an archæological cabinet able to show all that can be shown of the flint implements of the United States, but little else besides, is of a higher order than one in which there are more and varied specimens, but every class incomplete. What thoroughness is to the intellect, completeness is to a museum; one, an adequate knowledge of whatever the mind professes specially to occupy itself with, its parts and its relations; the other, the possession of all the types, sorts and varieties in fulness, or books that go to make up one or more classes. If this view is correct, its practical acceptance may be insisted upon; for, if incorporated into a museum undertaking not as a theory but what should be realized, it would, by keeping before it a definite and fixed aim, steady and direct efforts into proper channels of activity, and check hap-hazard collecting—Oscar W. Collet, in Popular Science Monthly for Jan.

A Dynamiter Out West.

On Friday a man whose name proves to be Otto Funk was arrested for stealing several hundred books from the public library in Chicago, and among the books were found twelve packages of dynamite and an infernal machine. Funk says he was born in Dantzig, Germany, and is twenty-seven years old. He is quite attractive in appearance and speaks with a German accent. He said in reply to questions: "I made the infernal machine two years ago. I was in love then. I wished to die. When it was completed I felt better and did not wish to die. Then I put it away. When I became despondent I would set the trigger and prepare to leave. Then I would change my mind and put the trivial affair off for another day. I have no connection with socialism or nihilism," he continued. "I am a pessimist, however. The box could not have been exploded by being jarred. In order to explode the dynamite it was necessary to fire the pistol. I intended to set it off many times. Fate always deterred me." Funk says the dynamite was made by himself. It was decayed wood carefully dried and pulverized, and then saturated with nitro-glycerine. The Chicago Times says: "The police have found that Funk is a socialist and has made incendiary speeches at several socialistic meetings. His proclivities in the direction indicated are considered officially to account for the presence of the powerful explosives in the packages containing the stolen property."

Miss Florence P. Whidden, daughter of Langdon Whidden, Esq., of this city, assisted by Miss Clara Smart of Boston, gave a delightful piano concert at the residence of her teacher, Prof. John Orth, of Boston, on Tuesday evening, Jan. 20th. Miss Whidden's rendering of some of the most difficult compositions for the piano were enthusiastically applauded by the select audience of musical celebrities present. Miss Whidden is one of Prof. Orth's most advanced pupils, and he entertains high hopes for her musical career as an artiste.

Field, manager of the Boston Museum, with Sol Smith Russell as "the member from Cranberry Centre," can now be secured at Mr. M. Goodrich's bookstore. All reserved seats fifty cents each.

A seaman giving the name of William Seeks, belonging to the U. S. S. Marion, on Sunday evening stumbled over the steps of the house occupied by Mrs. A. F. Nowell, on Pleasant street, and hurt one of his knees so badly by falling on the sidewalk that it was thought his leg was broken. Officers Peverly and Hoyt, with a team, took the man to the station house, where he was attended by City Physician Sherburne, who found the leg badly sprained, but not broken. The seaman was kindly cared for by the police during the night, and went on board his ship Monday morning.

The store No. 14 Market street, for years past occupied as a millinery store, will be re-opened to-day in the same line of business by Mrs. J. M. Tebbetts, who will for sixty days offer special bargains in trimmed and untrimmed hats and bonnets, fancy feathers, ribbons, etc., the object being to clear out the stock in that store and at No. 3 Market street, preparatory to laying in the spring goods.

In Boston, Saturday, at the brokers' board, Boston & Maine railroad stock sold at 171, and Eastern railroad at 44 1-4 and 44 1-2. At auction, Boston & Maine brought 171 1-4 to 171 3-4; Eastern in New Hampshire, 91; Portsmouth, Great Falls & Conway, 38 3-4; Concord, 103 and 102 3-4; Portland, Saco & Portsmouth, 114 1-2, 114 7-8 and 115 1-4; Portsmouth, Gt. Falls & Conway 4 1-2 bonds, 93 3-4; $9000 of Eastern railroad 6s of 1906, 117 3-8 and 117 1-2.

The first cutting of ice for use at the Hotel Wentworth next summer was made last week from the pond on the Woods' farm, so called, on the Wentworth house road; the ice is very clear, and about fourteen inches thick.

Says the Lowell Times: "The Acme Opera & Burlesque Comedy company opened last evening to big business and gave satisfaction; it is composed of young and shapely lasses who gambol around in bright and tasteful costumes, and so cannot help pleasing by their very appearance. The programme opened with a farce called Sarah's Young Man, which was fairly well performed. Mr. Geo. D. McIville made a hit in a clever balancing act, and the Crane sisters were good in musical selections, the cornet solo being unusually good. A meritorious burlesque entitled 'The Gold Fiend' occupied the remainder of the evening, which was better rendered than by some more pretentious companies that have previously visited our city in burlesque opera." The same company fills out a three days' engagement at Franklin theatre, the first performance having been given last evening to a highly-gratified audience.

The Eldredge Brewing Co. finished cutting the first crop of ice from their pond on Sunday afternoon, having housed about one thousand tons; the ice is of fine quality, clear, hard and blue, and the cakes average a trifle over twelve inches in thickness.

Last Friday morning a newly-born infant was found by the side of the road at Epping, near the railroad station, and later in the day the mother was arrested; her name is Rose Hartford, and her husband has been in state prison two years. She was held in $300 for the supreme court.

The pictures of the police force, nine in number, namely: Marshal, two assistant marshals and six regular officers, taken a week or two ago, were sent into the station from the photograph saloon last week, enclosed in a large and handsome frame. The pictures are taken singly, of cabinet size, and are fine likenesses as well as handsome specimens of the photographer's art. The marshal, whose picture is in the centre of the constellation, wears a heavy white beard, but shaves his upper lip; while of the eight officers whose portraits surround his, every one sports a heavy moustache. As they are all good looking men (this isn't "taffy" at all, but merely the statement of a fact) the framed group makes a handsome picture.

If it were possible to get the testimony of the multitude who have used HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA for debility, languor, lassitude, and that general feeling of stupidity, weariness and exhaustion which every one feels during this season, we should be able to present to our readers such an overwhelming mass of commendatory messages, that the few who have not tried it would do so at once. It is a positive fact, and can been so effectually demonstrated that no one to-day denies it, that Hood's Sarsaparilla contains more real medicinal value than any article before the people.

What a Man Did with Kidney Complaint

DRACUT, MASS.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.:

Dear Sirs—I have suffered from kidney complaint and biliousness for fifteen years. Have tried everything and never got any good. Last January before I commenced taking HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA, everything I ate bloated me all up, pain in my chest and arms, headache and dizzy. I could not get up without feeling weary and all fagged out. Many mornings I was obliged to lie down on the lounge. To do any work seemed almost impossible. Have taken two bottles. The backache, dizziness, pain in my chest and arms, and that feeling of intense weariness are all gone. I can eat anything and it does not press me at all. Feel just like work; in fact, like a new man. Can heartily recommend HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA, and hope all who desire to know anything about it will come to me to ask what I think of it. Very truly yours,

JONATHAN J. COBURN.

POLICE COURT -- BATCHELDER J.

MONDAY, Jan. 26th.

Thomas C. Hoyt—he was Franklin C. Hoyt the last time he was before the court for drunkenness, and on several previous occasions—was up on the old charge; there was no chance to dispute his guilt, so he was fined $8, with $6.90 costs, which he will board out in jail.

Dennis Harrington, who was complained of Saturday night by his wife, Margaret Harrington, for assaulting her, and had been locked up over Sunday, was brought into court, but Margaret not appearing he was discharged.

THE S. O. V. BALL.

The military and civic ball to be given by Henry L. Richards Camp, No. 12, Sons of Veterans, about Feb. 17th, will without doubt be one of the most successful events of the kind given in this city for years. Invitations will be sent to every camp in the state, and to every post of the G. A. R.; also to the military organizations, and to the city government and citizens of Portsmouth. The members of the camp invite all persons interested in military affairs to help them make this ball a success in every particular.

The camp was formed about one year ago, with thirty charter members, and has steadily increased in numbers; the charter was presented by Comdr. M. M. Collis of Storer Post, G. A. R., in behalf of the post; and with a small amount of money in the treasury the camp was organized, with Horace P. Kent as captain, Arthur L. Hersey as 1st lieutenant, and Michael Crowley as 2d lieutenant. The camp appeared in public for the first time on Memorial day, 1884, in a neat uniform, and though their ranks were not as well filled as had been hoped for, the parade showed to the people of Portsmouth that there was such an organization in the city. Previous to the Memorial day parade Capt. Kent resigned, and Lieut. Michael Crowley was elected to fill the vacancy; and during his term of office has done all in his power to put the camp in a flourishing condition, receiving for his efficient services the thanks of all the members.

The camp has given a number of assemblies this winter, which have been largely attended; and for the purpose of increasing the fund in their treasury they have decided to give this grand ball, which we hope will be successful beyond their most sanguine anticipations.

The last assembly of the Sons of Veterans before the grand ball will be given in Congress hall this evening.

Christianity and Reason.

There was quite a full audience at Christ Church Sunday evening to listen to Rev. Mr. Hovey's lecture upon "The Christian church looked at in the light of reason." The text for the discourse was Proverbs IX. 1: "Wisdom hath builded her house, she hath hewn out her seven pillars." The speaker said that most people in Christian lands are prejudiced in favor of christianity, but he asked his hearers for the time to divest themselves of this prejudice, and try to look at christianity as a new matter, an institution to be judged by reason alone upon its merits, in view of what it is and what it has done. He said the mystical person set forth in the book of Proverbs under the name of "Wisdom," was generally regarded as Christ and his gospel, or christianity. He then showed that the great vitality of christianity, its spread over the world in spite of fiercest opposition, its onward progress through more than 18 centuries; its response to the innate longing of humanity for a life beyond the grave; the adaptability of its teachings to make the life that now is most happy and valuable to its possessors; the unselfish benevolence of christianity in ameliorating the condition of men and the relief of the suffering; the great preponderance of the wisest and best men of the ages who have embraced its teachings; all these may be regarded as the pillars on which firmly rests the house which wisdom hath builded—christianity. As at its advent in the world the wise men came to Jesus, so in all the centuries since, wise men have come to him. So, to-day, they are wise who come to Jesus, accepting his teachings and obeying them in their lives.

The lecture was designed as an antidote to the infidel and atheistic harangue of Ingersoll, recently delivered in this city, and though he was not mentioned by name, and only two or three times pointedly alluded to, it was an eloquent and powerful argument against the folly and egotism of the man who, for a fee comes before an audience to ridicule and blaspheme that which has done so much for humanity, and in which so very large a proportion of the wise and good and great of this world have believed and trusted. He said the spectacle of a man thus using his powers of elocution was one at which angels might well weep, or the heavens shed tears of rain and sleet, as on the evening when such a performance took place in our city.—Times.

SECRETARY OF THE NAVY.

Grover Cleveland has offered the secretaryship of the navy to Frank Jones of Portsmouth, N. H. The position was formally tendered him about two weeks ago, and Mr. Jones thought seriously of accepting the honor. He is a wealthy brewer, and counts his money by the thousands, and of course could afford to accept the position so far as pecuniary matters are concerd; but it is understood that domestic questions will affect his decision. Mrs. Jones is a quiet lady, who objects to living in the whirl and excitement of Washington society. She prefers the enjoyment of her own quiet, pleasant home in Portsmouth, where she is surrounded by everything that can add to her happiness, and it is understood that she has persuaded her husband to decline the honor.

We take the above from the New York Tribune of Sunday.

While it would be a good thing for the country to have a man of Mr. Jones' vigor at the head of the navy department, it would certainly be a great personal sacrifice, as he would be compelled to give his valuable time to the country instead of devoting it to his manifold personal interests.

Then too, Mr. Jones would not like to be handicapped, as is Mr. Chandler today, by a few short-sighted politicians in Congress, who imagine that they can make a little capital by delaying the customary appropriations. It is owing to such men as these that the pay of naval officers due on the 1st inst. is not yet forth-coming. Every officer (and with those having families especially, is the inconvenience the greater) feels the annoyance of this delay, which causes bills to remain unpaid while an overflowing treasury could supply all needed sums if some small democratic politicians could only be made to perceive that the men who withhold supplies from the army and navy, even in time of peace, are disloyal to their country, and violate their oaths of office as representatives.

Imagine a man of the breadth of ideas of Frank Jones chafing at his desk in the navy department while some such man as Holman or Randall was endeavoring to become reconciled to the payment of the honest dues of the nation! No; Mr. Jones carries too many guns to be shelved in such a place as that. We trust however that the president-elect may succeed in finding a man possessing in some degree the salient points of character in which our townsman abounds. Some such man is needed, if we are to have a navy,—or what navy we now possess, properly administered.

MATTERS IN YORK.

YORK CORNER, ME., Jan. 26th.

On Thursday morning last, while Mr. Stanley Moulton of this place was on his way from Portsmouth to York, he had both of his ears frozen as solid as the north pole. The weather that day was about enough to pull the thermometers off their hanging places.

The ice-crop is now being harvested, and is of good quality, though Mr. William Furbish says codsiderable of the ice is damaged by weevils in some ponds.

The bottle of beans on which twenty-five guesses have been made at G. F. Plaisted's store, (the nearest guess to win a barrel of flour) was counted last Friday evening. There were 956 beans. Charles H. Young's guess was 952, and George Roberts' 960; so they divide the flour. The guesses ranged from 760 to 1350!

An envelope was mailed at the post-office here a few days ago directed to a man at Kittery Point, and on the margin was written: "Annual Dunning Letter No. 4—semi-annual No. 8—quarterly No. 16—monthly No. 48," and "to be continued;" and from what we know of the parties it is liable to be continued ad infinitum.

Mr. Samuel A. Preble, who has been engaged in clerking for Mr. Charles H. Junkins, has recently engaged with Mr. Willis J. Moulton at the village. Sam is very much liked wherever he goes. P.

A number of the many friends of John M. Clark, Esq., celebrated his fiftieth birthday on the evening of Jan. 23d, at his residence on Winter street. During the evening Miss Clara A. Lynn presented Mr. and Mrs. Clark a very handsome parlor set, a gift from her absent brother, Albert C. Lynn of Boston. This presentation was followed by Mr. S. M. Joy with a greenback offering from New Hampshire Lodge of Odd Fellows, of which organization Mr. Clark is a worthy member. The Daughters of Rebekah, represented by Mrs. Mary A. Blaisdell, remembered Mr. and Mrs Clark by a generous token in cash, and Mrs. J. S. James, of the Junietta Lodge of Raymond, contributed a most delicious birthday cake, she being present on occasion. There were also friends from Hampton, among whom we noticed Miss Ardelle Whittier, daughter of Mr. Otis Whittier, the genial proprietor of the Union house. After partaking of a bountiful repast the party dispersed at a late hour, leaving with the host and hostess their good wishes, and hopes that they may live to enjoy many more such pleasant occasions.

On the night of Aug. 27th, last year, the Sea Cottage at York beach was entered by a thief who stole from the room of Ed. Manville, of Great Barrington, Mass, a gold watch and chain, and a pocket book containing $50 in cash and some valuable papers; and from G. A. Buckington, of Newark, Ohio, a gold watch and chain, and a wallet containing $30 in money, passes over several western railroads, and papers of value only to the owner. The same night the Marshall house at York harbor was entered, probably by the same thief, and several articles stolen. A few days since a carpenter who was repairing a house on Green street in Dover, N. H., damaged by fire a year ago, found in the cellar an old boot in which was a diary and two pocket books, the latter proving to be those stolen from Messrs. Manville and Buckington, and containing most of the articles that were in them when they were stolen, except the money. It is supposed the robberies were committed by some Dover thief.

There was a very good audience at Franklin theatre on Monday evening. The balancing of "Silvo" was the best we have seen; little Mabel Crane played the cornet like an old band-master, and there was a good deal of fun all through the performance. The show is a good one; go there this evening.

A FIRST-CLASS FAMILY MAGAZINE.

LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE.

A Regular Monthly of General Literature.

ON THIS SIDE,

A New Serial Story,

By F. C. BAYLOR,

IS COMMENCED IN THIS NUMBER.

Several chapters of MARY AGNES TINCKER'S charming story, Aurora, and a vendetta, also appear, together with other short stories, Poems, and Articles of Interest on Current Topics.

PROSPECTUS FOR 1885.

Among the chief periodicals of the country, LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE has acquired the distinctive reputation of being "eminently readable."

Arrangements have been made for many contributions of special interest during the coming year. Among these particular attention is invited to a serial story entitled "ON THIS SIDE," by F. C. Baylor, author of "The Perfect Treasure" (commenced in the January number) in which the experiences of an English baronet and his friends during a tour through the United States are related with a mirth-provoking humor, a knowledge and appreciation of national characteristics, and a perfect fairness of tone and freedom from caricature that cannot fail to secure critical approval and wide popularity. Miss Tincker's beautiful novel, "Aurora," will be completed in the summer, and will be followed by several stories in two or more parts, including "The Last Lawyer's First Client," by the author of "A Lazier Day's Work."

Sketches of Italian Life, by Mrs. Launt Thompson, an account of the Pioneers of Tennessee, by "Edmund Kirke," a narrative of the experiences of a Steerage Passenger to and from Liverpool, by Thomas Wharton, an article on Queen Anne, or Free Classic Architecture, by George C. Mason, Jr., and a Comedy for private theatricals, by James Payn, will be also included in early numbers, together with the usual variety of short stories and articles of general interest by popular writers.

LIVES OF PAIN

RHEUMATISM and NEURALGIA have long enough run riot in the human system.

They have tormented the human family and defied the medical faculty: from time out of memory they have corrupted the blood, demoralized the joints, rented the nerves, agonized the muscles and racked the brain with wearying pain.

"ATHLOPHOROS" is the enemy of Rheumatism and Neuralgia, repairs their damages, renews the blood, eases the joints, calms the nerves, soothes the muscles, gives rest and peace to the troubled brain, and ensures delightful sleep.

"ATHLOPHOROS" is a new remedy, but it has been abundantly tried. From far and near come testimonials from well-known persons who had long been sufferers. It has turned their diseases out. It has cured them. That is all,—and that is enough.

"ATHLOPHOROS" can do for you what it has done for those sufferers. It can drive out your Rheumatism and Neuralgia, and will do so if you give it a fair trial.

"ATHLOPHOROS" has by this time had such a good trial all over the country that its true work is known, and its true character proved.

"ATHLOPHOROS" means "Prize-Bearer;" "Victor;" "Conqueror." It carries off the prize as Victor over the attacks of these terrible maladies, and Conquerors of the frightful agonies their victims have endured. Not a mere temporary relief, but a permanent, enduring, and triumphant cure.

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not let yourself be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.
